MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 2, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES

The Labor Day feature of the Manchester Yacht club will be the final race in the One Design Class between the "Knat," owned by Oliver Ames of Pride's Crossing, and the "Lamb," owned by Francis W. Fabyan of West Manchester. The race will start at 10 a. m., and the trophy is the Iris cup offered by Francis M. Whitehouse, who has returned from his cruise to New London in his yacht, "Iris." The harbor illumination will be omitted this year. Mr. Whitehouse, donor of the Iris cup, is a brother-in-law of Allison Armour and George Armour, who are, and have been sojourning on the North Shore, the former in his fine yacht, "Utowana," and the latter at the Whitehouse estate, as Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse have spent most of the summer cruising in the "Iris." The "Utowana" has been the center of much entertaining since her arrival here, there having been dinners on board for Baron de Rosen, the J. Harrington Walkers, the Boylston Beals and others. The Allison Armours left Tuesday of this week for Europe for a year's sojourn on the Mediterranean. The "Utowana" will also go there, and be used for cruising in those waters.

Afternoon tea at Green Gables, Magnolia, appears to be very popular with the summer colony along the North Shore. The porches are crowded each afternoon from 4 to 6.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Densmore left Manchester this morning after a very pleasant visit of two weeks with the latter's brother, Frederick Foster Carey and family at Smith's Point. The Densmores have a very pretty summer home at Tuxedo Park, where the Careys also spend their early summer and early autumn. During the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Densmore on the North Shore, Mr. and Mrs. Carey gave several informal functions in honor of their guests.

The Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge returned from Lenox last Saturday, after a ten days' absence. Mrs. L. M. Sargent has also returned to Coolidge's Point, after an absence of a fortnight.

—x—

Carleton Smith and family concluded their stay at the Dr. Brown cottage, Manchester, Tuesday of this week, and returned to their home in Buffalo.

—x—

M. C. McGill and family will depart from the Kimball cottage, Masconomo street, Manchester, Sept. 15, and the L. B. Harrisons leave Manchester for Cincinnati, Sept. 14.

—x—

An attractive new sign has been placed on the shop of the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed Children at 13 Beach street, Manchester. The shop, under the personal supervision of Francis J. Cotting of Pride's Crossing, president, has met with decided success. North Shore people have given it liberal patronage this season and it will probably become a permanent thing.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer of Boston and Lancaster, who has been the tenant of the beautiful Eben Jordan estate at West Manchester, is concluding her sojourn there about Sept. 7, and will go to her Lancaster estate to remain until late fall, when she removes to her Boston residence. During the second week of September the Thayer horses will be shown on the Horse Show day of the Clinton Fair. Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer, jr., her daughter-in-law, who has been in Manchester as the guest of her mother, Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks, was also entertained by Mrs. Thayer during her stay on the North Shore, which was concluded Thursday of last week. Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer is an aunt of Countess Moltke, wife of the Danish ambassador.

Miss Thornton of the Oceanside entertained a large party at Green Gables, Magnolia, on Wednesday of this week. It was one of the prettiest luncheons of the season.

—x—

Wm. A. Douglass of Buffalo, N. Y., who has been spending the season with his wife and son at Green Gables, Magnolia, started for Buffalo on Monday in his new Pierce Arrow car.

—x—

Henry Bull of Buffalo will spend September at the Brownland cottages, Manchester. Oswald Pfaelzer, who has been stopping at Brownland, is at Bar Harbor for a few weeks.

—x—

Alderman "Gus" Loring of Pride's Crossing and Stanton Burnham, brother of Roger Burnham, have returned from their cruise to Nova Scotia, on Mr. Loring's yacht, the "Spitfire." The third member of the party, T. Jefferson Newbold, left them at Bar Harbor, where they put in for several days. They also stopped at Rogue Island to visit the Gardners, and at Ironbound Island to see the Dwight Blaneys.

—x—

Mrs. W. Scott Fitz and daughter, Mrs. Holmes, are closing their residence, "The Narrows," off Masconomo street, Manchester, early next week, and will go to their mountain estate in Jackson, N. H., for their annual sojourn.

—x—

Chas. E. Hodges of the house committee of the Manchester Yacht club and his son, Chas. E., jr., returned last Friday from a cruise to the South Shore on the Hodges' yacht, the "Asteria." Their run in an hour and a half from Hull to West Manchester is considered an unusual record.

—x—

Miss Fannie Faulkner entertained at tea last Saturday afternoon. There were many guests from the cottages round and about Magnolia.

—x—

Mrs. S. Parker Bremer and H. S. Grew were the winners of the Denegre cups in the tennis tournament at the Essex County club. In the final match they defeated Mrs. Coolidge and R. S. Codman, 6-0, 6-3.

SOCIETY NOTES

A very interesting gathering was held last Friday afternoon at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Bradley, Pride's Crossing, when President Taft was one of the speakers at a meeting in the interest of Hampton Institute of which Booker T. Washington is the head. Society was largely represented at the meeting and several thousand dollars was pledged toward the support of the school and its great work. Major Henry L. Higginson presided. Addresses telling of the work were given by Dr. H. B. Frissell and his assistant, I. A. Moulton. President Taft said in the course of his address:

"I am not a millionaire and I have never had the feelings of one, but sometimes one's imagination takes life and you wonder what you would do if you had an income of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000 a year and had the ordinary feelings of a man who wished to help his fellow-men. It seems to me that one would like about first to find those things to which he could be certain he might give his money and get a return of good to human kind, and in looking about I am very sure that he could not find a place in which he could for the benefit of human-kind invest his money with more certainty of returns than in Hampton institute.

I think it does not speak quite well for all the gentlemen who are contributing generously to various causes that the head of an institution like Hampton, which is the beginning of a great movement to solve the race question in this country, should be obliged to go about seeking $100,000 a year and take a burden on himself that nobody appreciates until he has had to get that money in this way. One hundred thousand dollars a year is the income on a certain number of millions, and Hampton ought to have had those millions long ago in order that the head of the institution—and it is the same with Tuskegee as with Hampton—may not waste his life in raising money, but may devote his attention to the good which he can do in carrying on such a school and making it more efficient.

"Education is the solution of the race question when it is directed toward giving the negro a self-respect and a belief in the dignity of labor, and in the necessity for his making himself a valuable member of the community in order that the white man may then give him what is his due. When a man is a valuable member of a community as a laborer, as a skilled laborer, and one who builds up the industries of the community, then he will build up the industries of the community, then he will get all the rights that are coming to him.

"I do not like to go into politics or to discuss the fact, but I do believe that the present situation in the South is one full of hope for the solution of the negro question, because politics is largely out of it, and now the southern white man, and the northern white man, and the southern negro are all uniting in this movement to teach the 10,000,000 negroes how to support themselves; how to support the community in which they live, and when their value in the community is demonstrated, as it is being demonstrated, the race question will have its solution.

"No-one can read the lectures that Booker Washington has delivered to his own people without realizing that he is one of the greatest men of this country, and that he dares tell them the truth in order that they may begin to build up their lives on a sure foundation."

Mr. and Mrs. Newell Bent of Southboro are at the Brownland cottages, Manchester, for a few weeks.

Gordon Abbott, who went to New York to see the Spanish yachtsmen off, has returned to West Manchester.

W. H. Beers and family who have spent several weeks at Browland cottages, Manchester, concluded their stay Thursday of this week and returned to New York.

—x—

J. Arthur Beebe, of Commonwealth ave., Boston, motored to Green Gables, Magnolia, with a party for luncheon on Tuesday of this week.

Myron W. Whitney, jr., the Boston baritone, will give a song recital this afternoon at the Beverly Farms residence of Mrs. Nathaniel S. Simpkins.

Some fourteen theatrical people from Boston enjoyed an outing on the Masconomo hotel grounds, Manchester, Sunday, through the courtesy of John B. Schoeffel.

The annual children's day at the Manchester Yacht club was observed Saturday, when a company of young people, many being accompanied by their elders, gathered at the clubhouse in the afternoon and enjoyed a very delightful entertainment, consisting of a lecture by Mrs. John Colby Abbott of Boston, who presented "La Grande Pandore," a name given Mrs. Abbott's original paper doll creation, which is lifesize and dressed in the fantastic costumes of past generations. Mrs. Abbott took for her subject Marie Antoinette, showing all the gorgeous costumes of the period of Louis XVI., including most wonderful head dresses 72 inches high, and other equally startling toilettes, and described in a most entertaining way as the lecturer proceeded. Mrs. Abbott closed with a delightful little poem, written by herself, telling of the tragic end of Marie Antoinette. The lecture was supplemented by a punch and judy show by a special artist in that line, which was much appreciated by the young folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Cook and Mrs. Cook's sister, Mrs. John S. Ferguson and Mr. Ferguson left the Oceanside Thursday after a very delightful season on the North Shore. They will motor to Narragansett Pier to remain a week or so, the Cooks going in their Roadster and Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson in their Packard. Mr. Ferguson is a member of the Union and other clubs in New York. His marriage to the then Miss Donna Beach, occurred at the Majestic in New York city last winter.

William Luke and son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins of Baltimore, left the Oceanside Wednesday, after a very pleasant season. Mr. Luke is at the head of a large paper mill, and he is at present having built for his employees a beautiful $50,000 club-house in the town of Luke, Md.

Phillip Souza, the composer, and his interesting family, who have been spending a month at the Oceanside, left Monday. They motored to Portland, and from there they were to go to Poland Springs and Bretton Woods before returning to New York. Mrs. J. M. Hood went along in her car with Souza and will return to New York the latter part of this month.

Mrs. Frank Hume and daughter, Miss Mabel Hume, who have been spending the summer at the Oceanside left Tuesday. They will stop at West Point, on their way home for a visit with Mrs. Hume's married daughter.

Among the most popular girls at the Oceanside this summer are Miss Julia Culbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Culbert of New York, and Miss Marian Jones of Philadelphia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones. They are very fond of boating, autoing and tennis. They are always very evident in everything going on at Magnolia.

Mr. and Mrs. William Perine, after a month at the Oceanside, are leaving next Monday for Poland Springs before going back to New York. They will remain there a fortnight.

George W. Barnes, jr., of Muskegon, Okla., left the Oceanside Tuesday. He has been spending a few days at the Readville races this week and from there he planned to go to Saratoga.

J. S. Bache of the firm of J. H. Bache Co., New York bankers, left the Oceanside Monday after a few days' visit with the J. J. Weils.

Horace Morehead, wife and child, Horace, jr., of Pittsburg left the Oceanside this week. They are stopping at the Red Lion Inn, Stockbridge, for a while before going home.

Miss Marjorie Dallett and Catherine Chandler, the latter from Cleveland, are two attractive young women at Magnolia, who are devoting much of their time this summer to horseback riding. They may be seen nearly every afternoon riding along the North Shore bridle paths.

Thomas D. Wood and his two attractive daughters, Ruth Gilpin and Eleanor Wood left the Oceanside Tuesday for their home at Bryn Mawr. The girls have been very active in the social life at the Oceanside this summer. They had many friends from among the girls who attend Bryn Mawr.

Joseph W. Welch and wife, who spent the early part of the season at the Oceanside, and then went to the Adirondacks, returned to Magnolia last week. They left Monday for New York.

Mrs. Robert Looner of Paris and New York is remaining at the Oceanside until the season closes. Her husband is sailing from Paris shortly, and is expected to join Mrs. Looner at Magnolia about September 14. Mrs. Looner has two little Japanese spaniels at the Oceanside with her this summer, which are always the center of much attention, especially among the younger folk at the hotel.

SOCIETY NOTES

It was an interesting moment for North Shore society when the Countess Thamara de Swirsky, clad only in a few wisps of gauze, tripped lightly over the greensward of the North Shore Grill tea gardens, Monday afternoon and footed it hither and yon for the benefit of the Sharon Sanitarium for Consumptives. Promptly at 3.30 o'clock the young pianist, John Densmore took his place at the piano. He run through a short introduction and suddenly the slender figure of the Countess appeared from behind the shrubbery at the far end of the garden. To Mr. Densmore's rendition of Gluck's "Orpheo," she danced a rhythmic Greek dance. At its end she retired behind the shrubbery, only to emerge a few moments later in another costume. Her second dance to the more sprightly music of Gluck's "Musette" was a continuous rush of swirling draperies. At the end of these dances, Miss Amy Grant, the reader, under whose direction the musicale was conducted, gave a masterly rendition of Von Hofmannsthal's text of "Eleketra" to the accompaniment of Richard Strauss' music. At the end of the reading Countess de Swirsky again appeared in two more dances. The first, Glazunoff's "Baccanal," the second Strauss' "Fleder-mauss." Two score or more of the North Shore's best known matrons served as patronesses, though the affair was not as largely attended as might have been expected. After the performance many remained for afternoon tea. Among those noticed at tables were Baron Schlippenbach, the Misses Clara and Amy Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Longfellow,

Mr. Justice and Mrs. Oliver Wendell Holmes, Mrs. Parkman Blake, Mrs. C. A. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrington Walker and party.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis M. Whitehouse entertained a number of friends on board the "Iris" Tuesday at lunch. There were covers for fourteen.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denegre plan to remain at West Manchester until early in November, when they probably will sail for Europe. Their daughter, Elaine Denegre, will remain in Boston to continue her boarding school education.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Dexter entertained a few friends at dinner at their Beverly Farms home, Wednesday evening. There were covers for twelve.

Henry Pratt McKean, who has spent much of the summer at Penlyn, Pa., directing work on his new estate, was to join his family at Pride's Crossing this week.

F. B. Frazier and family, who have been tenants of W. C. Loring's estate at Pride's Crossing, concluded their stay Wednesday morning of this week, and left on a special car for Kineo, Maine.

Judge and Mrs. W. C. Loring returned to Pride's Crossing Wednesday night of this week, having spent the summer at British Columbia and places of interest in that vicinity.

Mrs. George Lee has returned to Beverly Farms, after a week's visit at Dublin, N. H.

The Walter Wellmans of the East Gloucester colony motored to Atlantic this week for a shore stay before returning to Washington. Mr. Wellman will probably make a flight during the aeroplane meet at Atlantic. He is preparing for his flight from this continent to Europe.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames gave a dinner at their Pride's home Tuesday evening at which the President and Mrs. Taft were guests.

Gardiner B. Hubbard, who has entered the aviation meet at Atlantic, is a summer resident of Manchester. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hubbard, who are occupying the Spaulding cottage at West Manchester.

The display of Foreign Art objects at Mr. Shepherd's, in Magnolia, is unusual in its character and bears the evidence of long experience in the selection of the various lines shown. Mr. Shepherd has for more than 20 years studied the museums, art exhibits, expositions and private collections in Central Europe, with the constant endeavor to qualify himself in buying only those things that were genuine, and artistic, and many of the finest collections in laces, and the evidence of genuineness is apparent on every piece. The constant delight and satisfaction in owning and wearing an ornament of this kind is not to be had in the modern imitations. Mr. Shepherd will remain in Magnolia two weeks longer, then returning to his Boston store.

America have been enriched through purchase from his stock. There are many lines to choose from. Old Silver, Stuffs, Coverings, Candelabra, Religious Emblems, Old Jewels in immense variety and of the rarest quality. Old Pictures, Drawings, Water Colors, Egyptian relics, Old Fobs, Chains and Locketts, Rings and Neck-

SOCIETY NOTES

Green Gables, at Magnolia, which has had a very successful season, under the management of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union, will remain open later than last year and reservations are being made for 1911.

Charles Towne of New York, editor and poet, is the house guest of Mrs. F. K. Stearns on the Shore road, Magnolia. Mr. Stearns is expected about the middle of September. He is now in Paris.

Harold J. Parsons, the archeologist, who has been the guest of the Roger Noble Burnhams and others on the North Shore, sailed for Rome, Italy, last week. His mother, Mrs. Woodbury Parsons of Commonwealth ave., Boston, sails on October 1 with the Burnhams for Naples. Mrs. Marshall Johnston of Georgia and her party are sailing also for a winter in Italy.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Travers have returned to their Richmond home, after a second summer at Magnolia. Mr. Travers is treasurer of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Company.

Miss Tapley of Boston gave a luncheon last week at Green Gables, Magnolia. Covers were laid for fifteen.

An engagement of much North Shore interest, particularly to the Boston and Harvard contingent, is that of Miss Katherine Warren, second daughter of Mrs. Samuel Dennis Warren of Boston and Dedham, and John Elliott Thayer, jr., of Boston and Lancaster. Miss Warren's mother was Miss Bayard, daughter of the late Thomas F. Bayard, who was ambassador to Great Britain during the Cleveland administration. Mr. Thayer, who is a nephew of Bayard Thayer, is a cousin to the Countess Moltke (Cornelia Thayer).

IPSWICH.

Mrs. A. Lithgow Devens of Boston and Beverly Farms spent a few days late last week with the Bayard Tuckermans of New York and Ipswich.

The Misses C. F. and Mary Bates of Salem and Ipswich, who have a charming estate here, had a large house party of friends during Pageant week. They are highly esteemed in Ipswich for their interest in the town and their generosity and philanthropic deeds.

The Ipswich Pageant closed last Saturday afternoon and proved a great success from an artistic and financial standpoint and the series of colonial pictures shown were beautiful in their out-door setting. Prominent summer residents assumed roles, particularly the members of the Appleton family. Julia Appleton appeared in Scene I., as Lady of the Manor; Jimmy Appleton as a village child; Madeline Appleton appeared as First Squaw in Scene II., The Agawam Indians, and in Scene V., King Phillip's War; Randolph Appleton appeared as Major Whipple and Capt. Samuel Appleton's role was assumed by James Appleton. James W. Appleton appeared as the clerk in the town meeting and Miss Alice Appleton assumed the role of the bride and Francis Wood, a summer resident from Boston, served as the groom.

Miss Searle, daughter of C. P. Searle, was Mrs. Nathaniel Treadwell in the last scene of the Pageant, the Tea Party. The etchings and souvenirs sold at the Pageant were the work of another summer resident, Mrs. J. H. Wright of Boston.

The nuptials of Miss Madeline Appleton of New York and Ipswich and Vincent Kidder of Chicago will be quietly solemnized at the Ascension Memorial Episcopal church, Ipswich, on Tuesday of next week. As there is a large family connection quite a goodly company will be assembled to witness the union.

The Agawam hotel had a large registration during Pageant week and there was a representative list of people stopping there from the neighboring cities and towns and from distant points. Some of the arrivals were as follows: Chas H. Chase, Mrs. Josephine L. Sanborn and daughter, Haverhill; Mrs. Chas. D. Warren, Miss Helen D. Warren, Chicago; Mrs. Arthur S. Balney, Peabody; Mrs. W. R. Sherburne and family, Lexington; Dr. Sarah C. Spottiswoods of Orange, N. J., with Mrs. Savage and Miss Savage, of Newburyport; Alden P. White, Esq., and wife, Salem; Dr. C. M. Wharton and daughter, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Smith, Germantown; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rehder, Miss J. T. Runge, F. Herbst, Wilmington, N. C.; Mrs. L. C. Montgomery, Council Bluffs, Ia.; Mrs. Elizabeth K. Folsom, Miss L. W. Boswell, Miss H. B. Greemis, Exeter, N. H.; Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Cross, Mrs. and Miss Andrews, the Misses Lamphrey, Lawrence; Eva Fowler, Sherman, Tex.; Bertha Fowler, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Hall, Grand Rapids, Mich.

North Beverly—Hamilton.

Hon. William Phillips, first Secretary of the American Legation at London and his bride (nee Drayton) are guests of the former's mother, Mrs. John C. Phillips, at North Beverly. Since their return from England Mrs. Phillips has had a very pleasant visit from her father, who summers at Bar Harbor. Mrs. Phillips went to Bar Harbor last week for a short visit with her father. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips are sailing about the middle of September for London. They will visit in New York before their departure. Congressman Peters and bride (Martha Phillips) have also been members of the house party at Moraine Farm, after their honeymoon trip to the Canadian wilds.

Capt. Dudley P. Rogers of the Myopia polo team announces a polo match Saturday, Sept. 3d, at 3 p. m., at the Myopia field for the Myopia Cups, trial match, Myopia A vs. Myopia B. At 4.30 there will be a members' match. There will be Members' games Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays during September.

According to present plans President Taft and family will remain on the North Shore until the middle of October, when they will return to Washington. President Taft and members of his family including Mrs. Taft, Miss Helen and Mrs. Taft's sister, Mrs. Louis Moore, motored to Dublin, N. H., over the last week-end, and were guests of Secretary of Treasury and Mrs. MacVeagh. Dublin is one of New Hampshire's prettiest and most exclusive summer resorts. Gov. Quimby of New Hampshire was at Dublin over the week-end and paid his respects to the President, and on Sunday the President and Mrs. Taft, and Secretary and Mrs. MacVeagh, motored over to the residence of Col. George B. Leighton, where Gov. Quimby was visiting, and paid their respects to the Governor. The President and his party took a ride around Manadnock Pond, famous for its beautiful shore scenery.

John Wales of Brookline and Bull-rush Farm, North Beverly, son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wales, has returned from abroad where he has been since May. His parents went over to New York to meet him.

Miss Julia Meyer is house guest at the F. Vanderbilt estate at Paulsmith, in the Adirondacks, N. Y.

Sept. 15 will bring the season of the Oceanview Hotel, Pigeon Cove, to a very successful close. Mrs. E. W. Dunklee and two sons will go to Daytona, Florida, for the winter and will make the trip south from Baltimore by auto.

Dr. and Mrs. H. N. Hingsford of Hanover, N. H., are at Turk's Head Inn, also Mrs. W. E. Hoyt, family and governess of Williamstown, Mass., and Mrs. Douglass W. Olcott, family and governess, Albany, N. Y.

"THE OVERLOOK" AT ANNISQUAM

The musicale at Straitsmouth Inn given in aid of the Rockport hospital by the hotel guests netted $100. The guests who took part were Mrs. Shepherd, Miss Reid, Miss Ethel Chilson, Miss Kate M. Thomas, Miss Lucile M. Brown.

John Craig and Mary Young, his wife, well known members of the Boston theatrical profession, were at Straitsmouth Inn with a party of friends over the last week-end.

Mrs. W. E. Bailey, whose husband is a prominent railroad man, president of one of Chicago's railroad lines, is at the Ocean View, Pigeon Cove.

Walter Drake, a prominent iron manufacturer of Newark, N. J., has his family domiciled at the Ocean View, Pigeon Cove, for September.

Frank Bechtel, who is one of the leading peach raisers of Carpenter, Delaware, has transferred his interests to Pigeon Cove for September where his family are also.

East Gloucester

Campbell Gollan, the well-known actor, who has spent the summer at Rocky Neck, is appearing as the detective in "My Man," now playing at the Colonial Theatre, Boston. Mabel Taliaferro is in the leading role.

The tenants of the Hawthorne Inn houseboat are Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Randall of Brooklyn, N. Y.

BASS ROCKS.

Mrs. J. S. Gray and Mrs. Wetherill of Syracuse, guests at the Moorland, carried a number of the young people to Revere Monday afternoon of this week by autos.

Judge S. Tarkington of Indianapolis, father of Booth Tarkington, the author, has been the recent guest of his daughter, Mrs. Jameson, at the Moorland.

The Moorland tennis courts have been the mecca of tennis devotees and a large gallery of onlookers for the annual tennis tournament which closed Monday morning of this week. The cups were offered by the hotel management. There were men's doubles, the contestants being J. Ayling, J. Walworth; Evans, H. Ayer; H. G. Keyser, Carleton Ayer; J. Jameson, D. Jameson; J. Gunmore; D. Mott; Mr. Bremond E. Babb; R. Bemis, H. Robb. The finals in the men's doubles were won by J. Ayling of Syracuse and J. Walworth of Lawrence, 7-5, 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. The contestants in the ladies' doubles were M. C. Thomson, M. Wetherill; Gertrude Mott, D. Hill, F. Longstreth, R. Gray; M. C. Hall, A. Newlin; H. Wilkinson E. Grubb; N. Wilkinson, C. Conquest; K. Newhouse, Miss Lewis; N. Newhouse, D. Keyser. The finals were won by Gertrude Mott and D. Hill, 6-1, 6-2.

Miss Emily McGuckin of New York, gave a large bridge party at the golf club-house on Tuesday afternoon of this week.

A large party at the club-house for eighteen guests was given by Miss Sharp of Philadelphia, sister of Mrs. Wm. Campbell of the Quaker City, who has an attractive summer home on Beach ave., near the club.

Mrs. Humble, a Thorwald guest, was another bridge hostess at the club, having four tables, and Mrs. Nash, from the same hotel, had three tables.

The winner of the Moorland cup in the recent golf tournament was Fred Averill of Toledo, O. Last Friday, August 26, the men's handicap tournaments for club cups closed with Mr. Babb and Mr. Mott, Moorland guests, first and second winners of the first 16 players, and Mr. Denning and Mr. Develin of the cottage colony, first and second winners of the second sixteen players.

Mr. Warner, the well-known actor, who opened his season at Atlantic City recently, was to be joined by his family in New York this week. The Warners spent the season in the large Way cottage on Page street. It is reported that Mr. Warner acquired a building site here near the new golf links extension.

It is said that Miss Emily McGuckin has purchased a lot, too, in this new section being opened up at Bass Rocks.

The frame work of Arthur L. Spring's new cottage is raised. Edward Griffin of Gloucester is the contractor.

Wednesday morning at the New Ocean House there was a very delightful choralcello recital, John C. Manning, choralcellist and Miss Helen Louise Ames, soprano. Last Saturday, the last children's party of the season, was held. There was dancing, dainty favors and plenty of ice cream and cake. The hotel management will round out the formal season by a band concert tomorrow morning, the weekly ball in the evening and Sunday a grand concert with several assisting artists.

Among the arrivals at the New Ocean House this week were E. E. Wright and family of Memphis, Tenn. Mr. Wright is the son of Hon. Luke E. Wright, who was Secretary of War under President Roosevelt. Other arrivals were A. R. Deacon and family, St. Louis; the Misses Bessinger, Rochester, N. Y.; Mrs. Wm. Trull, Chicago; W. P. Field and family, Newark, N. J.; Mrs. J. Snowden Rhoads and daughter, Philadelphia. Auto parties to register included Mrs. Benj. Thaw, Wm. Thaw, Miss Brown, New York; Dr. F. A. Stillings and daughter, Concord, N. H.; Van Horn Ely and family party, New Brighton, Pa.

The new Ocean House concludes its 1910 season—one of the most successful in its history—on Sept. 15, and will transfer its winter interests to Port Antonia, Jamaica, where the new hotel Titchfield is under reconstruction and will open in December. Three other hotels, associated interests of the E. R. Grabow Co., are also located in Jamaica.

The Lincoln House will close its season Thursday next week, Sept. 8.

The estate of Steven Wardwell, which includes the valuable Lincoln House property, is pending settlement, which may mean for next season a spacious concrete hotel on the site of the Lincoln House to accommodate some 400 guests.

Among the many auto parties to stop at the Lincoln House lately were those of Daniel L. Brownell and family, Taunton; Mrs. E. B. Tilton and party, Leominster; Mrs. A. J. Farnsworth, Fitchburg; G. D. Mayo and family party, Laconia, N. H. Other late arrivals include E. D. Whitney and family, Brattleboro, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wiley, Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Le Croix, Lynn.

Several guests at the Preston, Beach Bluff, which closes the 15th, are seeking accommodations at the Bellevue, which will not close until October 1.

September guests at the Elms will include several who arrived early in the season and in addition Pitt Dillingham and family, Boston; Henry Brown, Marlboro; Mrs. E. Pirtecoll, Westmount, Quebec; Mrs. L. B. Ransom, Somerville. The Elms will continue its season till October 1.

Marblehead

The formal social season at the Eastern Yacht club has closed, but there will be considerable informal dining at the club all through September and particularly Labor Day, and the usual early autumn dinner parties will be on the social calendar also.

The Nanepashemet closes the middle of September. Last Friday evening the annual ball for the hotel orchestra's benefit was held. Bridge and the weekly burlesque baseball by the young people have been season-end events.

Tuesday evening of this week a bridge and plain whist party was given at the Clifton Heights casino for casino fund.

The Boylston will continue its season well into October. Among the recent arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Fearey, Canadaigua, N. Y.; Mrs. W. E. Rockwood and family, New York; Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Potter, Concord, N. H.

At the Rockmere the bridge whist for Children's Island and the ball game between the Rockmere nine and Preston nine, have been social events of interest the last week. Also the dinner party for the young friends of George W. Whightman of Brookline.

Miss Avery of Springfield, an Oceanside guest, gave a sailing party for twelve guests at the hotel on Tuesday afternoon of this week. The party went out to Half-Way Rock and had a delightful trip in the bracing sea air.

Miss Agnes Lyle of Mattapan will spend September at the Oceanside as will F. J. Temple of St. Louis and family. Mrs. R. F. Jackson of Yarmouth, N. S., and family are other September guests booked.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The cream of society was over to Pride's Crossing last Saturday afternoon for the private exhibition of Judge William H. Moore's show horses at his driving park. More than forty of the finest horses in the country were shown, all of those which Judge Moore showed at the international horse show at London this summer, as well as his blue ribbon winners at the Madison Square and other local shows. Judge Moore was assisted in exhibiting his thoroughbreds by Miss Eleanora Sears, who drove in the classes for pairs, and by Miss Faith Simpkins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Simpkins of Washington. Mrs. Bryce J. Allan drove in the classes for park fours and also for road teams. Miss Eleine Denegre, the young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Denegre of Manchester, drove in the class for ponies. As an exhibition of fine horseflesh, of course, it could not be surpassed by any private stable in the country, and as a social function it was the largest and most select of the smart set this season, at any out-of-door function of a private nature. It was a brilliant gathering that thronged the little slope overlooking the driving park, and the tents within the circles. To tell who was there would be to give a list of the best known families along the North Shore. After the exhibition tea was served on the beautiful lawn at Rockmarge. The Eighth Regiment band was in attendance.

ing special and the masters' cup—at the Myopia Hack, Hunter and Gymkhana Show on the polo field at Hamilton on Labor Day. The green hunters—for the Abbott cup—are considerable fewer, and while the other classes have filled reasonably, the principal interest seems to center on the Gymkhana, the exact conditions of which are as follows: Going to Jerusalem or Musical Stalls—Contestants to parade to music at a pace satisfactory to the judges. When music ceases each contestant seeks a stall. Those failing drop out of contest. Push Ball—Exhibition matches will be played by a ladies' team and a men's team. Each match will comprise two periods of four minutes each. In case of a tie an additional period will be played. Teams of three. Relay Obstacle Race (Ladies).—Teams to consist of three ladies each. Each member to ride successively over the course. No jumping. Contestants are not required to change mounts. Relay Obstacle Race (Men).—Teams to consist of three men and one pony each. Each member successively to ride pony over obstacle course. Jumping. The day opens at 10.30 a. m. with the classes for "junior" riders. The last class of the morning is called for noon, when the big field of hunters will face the special jumps. After this comes the intermission for lunch. The afternoon opens at 2.30 o'clock with the competition for the masters' cup, which will probably require three-quarters of an hour or more. Then comes the Gymkhana.

The unbroken succession of victories which our sonder boats have won so easily over the Spanish entries, emphasizes not only the high quality of American seamanship, which was fully demonstrated in the German waters last year, but more especially the quick influence of Yankee genius in constructing the new type of boat along perfect speed lines. It is but one indication of the national consciousness which has quickened competition and development in all lines of industry.—Boston Herald.

Some wise folk make it one of their summer's duties as well as pleasures to pick-up such articles as they may chance to find during their leisurely shopping tours with a view to avoiding the stress of "Christmas Shopping." The Magnolia branch of "The Indian Store," opposite the Colonnade, Magnolia, is a good place for such fore-handed people, as the goods are of the un-common sort and prices exactly the same as at "The Indian Store," 186 Boylston street, Boston.

MANCHESTER FAIR A BIG SUCCESS.

G. A. R., W. R. C. and S. of V. Unite in a Grand Fair, Terminating Tomorrow Evening.

It is a big success, financially and otherwise, and the citizens are, and have good reason to be, very proud of this event which will remain as one of the town's most enjoyable fairs in a number of years. Every one seems to think that it should be repeated next year, and although the work has been very hard and time was short, the committee from the three different orders put their shoulders to the wheel and the result has proven way beyond their fondest expectations.

The hall is decorated in a beautiful manner, booths being lined up all around the hall, the ladies in charge dressed very tastily and the smiling faces made every one happy and all present at each evening's attraction left the hall perfectly satisfied that they had received many times over the value for all the expenditure.

On Monday evening the entertainment was more in line of instruction on the different orders and the results attained in being a member of the same. The chairman of the evening presented the following department heads as the guests of the evening: G. A. R. Commander: J. Willard Brown, of Stoneham; W. R. C. Commander: Mrs. C. Haynes, of Salem and S. of V., Commander: G. A. Tucker of West Medford, who gave very interesting short talks, that of Commander Tucker in reference to the careful manner in which the committee in charge had made it their duty to see "that the infant of the party was carefully nursed" was well received.

Tuesday evening Miss Nellie Ferguson, (a little miss of about 12 years of age) gave an interesting series of dances in costume which were cordially received, consisted of the following: Highland Fling, Sword Dance, Sailor's Hornpipe, "Irish Washwoman" and "Columbia" which was received with great applause.

Wednesday afternoon was enjoyed by the younger folks and "Pixies," or Dancing Dolls, was the program of amusement. In the evening "Shadowgraphs" (or Pantomime) was given under the following title: "Villikine and his Dinah." Those taking part were: Gladys Hildreth, Brenda Cook and Elsie McCormick. Given with orchestra accompaniment. A series of patriotic tableaux followed consisting of Flag and Sword, Surrender, Fall of the Flag, and Protection of the Flag.

The committee in charge were: Mrs. Hersey, Mrs. Follett and Miss Cook.

Thursday evening was thoroughly enjoyed and tonight, will, in reality be the event of the whole week, when the whole evening will be given over to dancing.

Long's orchestra will furnish the music and has been one of the main features of the entertainment each evening, as dancing was included in each evening's entertainment after 9.30.

The different committees, and those in charge of the fair consisted of the following:

Officers and committee:

E. P. Stanley, chairman; J. H. Rivers, collector; A. S. Jewett, treasurer; Hannah Tappan, secretary. C. H. Stone, G. A. Jones, Mrs. A. E. Hersey, Mrs. Carrie Cook, Mrs. Geo. Younger, F. K. Swett, John Prest, E. W. Baker, Harry Swett, L. W. Floyd.

In charge of the booths and tables were:

Holder Tree: Mrs. Mary M. Lane.

Domestic table: Mrs. Sadie Follett, Mrs. Younger and Mrs. Willmonton.

Fancy: Mrs. Jones and Miss Morgan.

Cut Glass: Mrs. Hildreth and Mrs. Preston.

Indian: Gabriel Paul of Old Town, Maine.

Knife Board: Herman Swett.

Fish Pond: Mrs. Erickson.

Candies: Mrs. Floyd.

Cake table: Mrs. Dennis, Mrs. Salter and Mrs. Jones.

Soda: Mrs. Walen.

A general review of the fair as a whole and the benefit derived, both by those in charge and the participants, will be given in next week's issue of the Breeze. Look for it, as it will prove interesting.

The Power of a Noble Personality.

BY REV. LOUIS H. RUGE.

In Which Mr. Ruge Exalts True Manhood and Womanhood as the Highest Standard of Aristocracy.

A large congregation gathered at the Congregational church, Manchester, last Sunday morning, drawn there by the announcement that Prof. Carl Webster would render two solos on the 'cello. Prof. Webster was in unusually fine spirit in the interpretation of the "Ava Maria" by Schubert, and "Religioso" by Goltermann.

The subject of Mr. Ruge's sermon was one of unique interest and was presented in a manner that made a deep impression. Mr. Ruge selected as his text the words found in Ephesians 4: 13. "Till We all Come unto the perfect man, unto the measure of the Stature of the fulness of Christ."

A synopsis of the sermon follows. He began by saying:

The power of christianity is the power of a personality, a noble, divine personality.

Other religions have been founded in ethics, moral and spiritual truths. If christianity had nothing greater than these it would be classed as simply one religion among others. That which distinguishes christianity as distinct from other religions is the personality of a perfect man.

Christ confirmed and enlarged the ethical truths of His age. Whatever was of value in the making of manhood, from whatever source it came He accepted. But He did more, He did everything, He fulfilled the destiny of human creation—He embodied the perfect man.

Christianity is a religion, a philosophy, a culture that aims not only to make men better, it aims to make men perfect.

It is difficult to give a satisfactory definition of personality and the difficulty is increased in trying to define the ideal of a divine personality. We cannot analyze our preferences and ideals. We might say that in such a man there must be justice that insures the right; reasonableness that grants others consideration; generosity that disdains all meanness; courage that shows virility; modesty that makes no boasts; tenderness that feels for others; loyal friendship; filial devotion and affection; gentleness, cleanness, chasteness of thought, manner and speech; freedom from all coarseness. All these and more, and through it all an unconsciousness of nobility that, like a golden thread, gives life and beauty to the whole psychological fabric.

If we could analyze a flower's beauty and fragrance, a nightingale's song, a sunset, we might analyze a noble soul, and yet it cannot escape recognition any more than the others.

"The musk held hidden in the hand
Is soon to sense revealed;
A man's true nature can at no command
Of ours be e'er concealed.

For whatso'er one is within the the heart
Will he be everywhere;
No grace can mere environment impart,
No excellence impare.

The diamond in the mud doth still retain Its own intrinsic worth;
The common dust is heavenward
all in rain,
As dust it falls to earth."

There have ever been standards of nobility. I believe in every standard that raises the average of civilization, culture and class. It would be strange indeed if social standards showed no results. Class lines mark certain evolutionary stages in civilization. History, however, shows that true nobility is often woefully lacking in court circles. And the standards are not stable enough. The center of social gravity shifts continually. It may revolve around the King. It may be among the middle class, as when Drake and Raleigh were the rage during the reign of Elizabeth. The army has set the standard, the forum, the church, and even Wall street. And I do not see why there is not a certain power in wealth to improve a man.

But we need a fixed standard of nobility and perfection. And, after all, the true status of nobility is fixed. It is more fixed than the social cast of Boston or the Brahmin casts of India.

There is a subtle atmosphere about the social elect that is unmistakable. But "mark the perfect man." He is the most marked personality on earth. There is no mistaking, no questioning the exalted station and geneology of the perfect man and the perfect woman. Every time we see the hall-mark of this divine lineage we recognize it.

It is not in smooth address, not in perennial smiles and smirks, not in the mastery of court rules. Manhood was never made in social edicts. Nobility was never made in court decrees. It has nothing to do with wealth. There is no objection to birth culture, taste, polite manner, gracious speech, wealth. The lack of these things to be sincerely regretted, for the contrariwise are blemishes in personality. But external blemishes are not fatal where nobility is innate; but external forms of nobility without innate nobility is fatal. A flaw on the surface of a gem may by time and labor be polished away and the intrinsic value of the gem be brought forth; but a flaw in the heart of the stone is fatal, the more it is polished the seen there.

more fatally apparent is the flaw. True nobility is innate. Character is greater than birth, position or cast. The world is at last beginning to recognize men for what they are inherently. The divine democracy of America has taught the world this. Men everywhere today care little about the arbitrary lines of society and divide men into two classes—men that are true and men that are not true. In every cast circle even, this is the test, where every person, man or woman, is accepted almost unerringly for what he or she is.

Character nobility was Christ's standard of men. I can readily see how He could take such a soul and put it in the scale on one side and the world on the other side and say that a soul outweighed a world.

When we meet a truly noble man or woman we can easily adjust our standards to Christ's standard. When we meet them we also feel that the world is not insignificant, for the gem and the setting are proportionate. How can we say the world is wicked, when it produced a Jesus Christ? How can we say there

The water carnival at Hawthorne Inn last Saturday was very largely attended and brought many onlookers and contestants to witness the events. Hawthorne Inn won in the relay race, Miss Hill and Miss Elwell, first; Miss Overton and Miss Bushnell, second. Bass Rocks took the prizes for the boys' 50-yard swim with Evans first and Reed second. Nathaniel Ayer of Bass Rocks got second prize in the men's diving and Walter B. Hill, first. Harrison was first in the boys' fancy diving and Parker, second. The girls entered, too, in the 50-yard swim, Marion Dana getting the first prize and Miss Wilkinson, second; Sargent of Bass Rocks came first in the men's 50-yard swim and Wadsworth, second. The ladies winning in a like event were Miss Margaret Overton and Miss Kenney. In the 25-yard swim for girls, Miss Margaret MacGill was first and Miss Helen Jack of the Mailman House, second. The ladies tried the diving stunt also with Miss Agnes Cumnock, first; Miss Sarah MacGill, second, and Cecilie Wayland of Philadelphia, third. The junior girls tried diving, too, and the Misses Margaret MacGill, Lucie Hall and Miss Bushnell captured the honors while Baker and Parker were winners in the tub race. The distance race was won by C. Wadsworth and T. E. Garretson of Magnolia and Bass Rocks captured a second prize in canoe tilting, with Ayer and Rollins first. There were 25 handsome cups presented to the winners. Richard D. Allen, swimming master at the Inn, displayed his art also very cleverly.

MANCHESTER'S NEW AUTO FIRE TRUCK.

Handsome Piece of Modern Apparatus arrived Yesterday. Will Have Try-out Labor Day. Firemen Will Hold Field Day at Tuck's Point.

Manchester's handsome new auto fire truck, that most up-to-date piece of fire apparatus, reached town yesterday shortly after noon. It was shown at several fire stations along the way, including Salem and Beverly. As if to test its worth in speedily reaching a fire the truck was called out yesterday afternoon shortly after its arrival for what was supposed to be an incipient fire in the tailor shop next door to the Breeze office on Beach street. A mysterious smoke was detected and and rather than take chances a still alarm was telephoned to the fire station. Chief Hoare had the fire truck put in use, but it was found after reaching the scene of the supposed fire that the smoke in question came from the plumber's shop and had circled through the building to the tailor shop.

The new truck will be given a try-out Labor Day, when the firemen will celebrate its arrival by holding a field day at Tuck's Point. An alarm will be rung in from Box 43 at West Manchester at 10.30. After the test the firemen will gather at the picnic grounds for a general good time the rest of the day. Invitations have been extended to fire chiefs in the surrounding towns and cities.

Though we have given a partial description of the new truck in previous issues, it is proper that we give a more detailed description of the car now that it has arrived.

The car is especially constructed for the purpose, being in no respects a pleasure car. The motor is especially powerful, being a 60-horse-power water-cooled of the valve-in-the-head and detachable head type, which is the very latest development of motor construction, giving added power and increased accessibility to its parts over any other type of motor.

The ignition system is double, two sets of spark plugs, magneto and dry cells, and Connecticut Coil.

The oiling system is DeDion system, positive force feed to all bearings, giving absolute liberal lubrication at all speeds. It is absolutely cleanly, all that is seen of this oiling system from the seat is the sight feed on the dash board, showing at all times the oil pressure in the motor.

The clutch is very simple and the very easiest of engagements but very positive in action, being of the three-plate type with cork inserts on the engagement plate. Connecting rods, crank shaft, transmission gears and shafting all of chrome nickel steel of a tensile strength of 175,000 pounds to the square inch.

The drive is by shaft to transmission and driving gears on jack shaft and thence by double chain drive to the hubs of the rear wheels.

The transmission is one of the distinctive features of the car, being the same size and power as is put into five to seven-ton trucks, being superior in power, cost and quality to probably any other transmission in the world and surely of double the power of any pleasure car transmission known.

The frame, axles, wheel bearings and body are built substantially on the lines of the commercial cars, this type of construction being absolutely necessary on account of the tremendous road shocks consequent to carrying heavy loads at the high speed this car must make in going to fires, no pleasure car construction could possibly stand up under it. The frame is of 5-inch channel steel, weighing 9 pounds to the foot. The axles are 2-inch I beam forward and 2-inch square rear, nickel steel forgings. All road wheels and all the bearings in the transmission run on Timken roller bearings.

The wheels are extra heavy and are fitted with the largest tires known, namely, Fisk 40x6 inches dimensions, and fitted with Fisk Quick Demountable rims, admitting of changing a fully inflated tire inside of one minute.

The body and body equipment is in accordance with the best accepted types of combination hose and chemical cars with fittings as follows:

One 35-gallon chemical tank with all equipment, 250 inches chemical hose in basket for that purpose, one 20-foot extension ladder, one 12-foot roof ladder, two axes, two lanterns, one crowbar, one door opener, one plaster hook, two hand 3-gallon extinguishers. In the body is space for 1,000 feet of water hose if wished, or lesser amount of hose under seats, which can carry six men. There are two forward seats, one for the driver and a large seat on the rear of which is mounted a box to carry a life net. Under the side running board are two boxes for carrying various tools and parts. The car is equipped with gas searchlight on dash, two oil side and one oil tail lamp, Prest-o-lite gas tank. All gas lamps are lighted electrically. Other equipment is a Siren horn, locomotive bell, hand horn and bulb and in fact everything which makes a completely fitted automobile and combination hose and chemical wagon.

C. A. Lodge, jr., left yesterday for Amherst where he will resume his studies within a few weeks at the State College. He is a senior this year.

George S. Silva has just had his attractive bungalow off Summer street wired for electric lights. G. A. Knoerr had the contract for wiring and fixtures.

The 15th annual ball of the Essex County club employees, always the largest attended dancing party of the season, and in many respects the most important of the score or more parties held in the Manchester Town hall in the course of the summer, will be held next Thursday evening, Sept. 8. Stiles orchestra of Lynn will give a concert between 8.30 and 9.30 and dancing will continue until 2 a. m.

A motor boat came to grief on the rocks off Mrs. George D. Howe's estate, on Smith's Point, during Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. A party of nine men were returning from Gloucester, and were bound either for Salem or Marblehead, when the engine in the boat, which was about thirty feet long, "went bad." They drifted about and were finally blown and washed almost on to the rocks at Smith's Point. One of the party finally jumped overboard with rope and swam to the rocks. The boat was pulled in and the rest of the party landed as best they could. The anchor was thrown overboard and the boat was pushed off after all had landed. The men walked to the station and caught the 9.06 train for Salem, some of them hatless, without coats, and all of them wet outside as well as inside. Nobody seems to know who they were, other than that they bought tickets for Salem. The boat was a total loss.

THE POWER OF A NOBLE PERSONALITY.

is no justification for life if there were but one result? How can we say life is a failure if it took a million creatures, a million years, yes, a million worlds to make one man God-like? And they are not few. I have a sense that I have met some. And there are multiplying, until at last, before the throne of the Creator, they shall be beyond calculation.

A noble man or woman lend meaning to existence. They lend dignity to the commonplace. The purposeless drops away before the life and labor they inspire. They give us glimpses of higher ideals and make us long for better things. They tone up the fibres of the soul and set life to a rich harmony. Have you a musical instrument in your home touched only by unskilled hands? You do not know the glory of it until a master hand touches it. Often is the sensitive soul touched by rude and random touches making only discord, but when the master hand touches the soul we find that the harp within has a strange and wonderful music.

My memory soars and sings at the thought of the noble teachers I have had. Longings and aspirations came to me by association with them. Life had a higher and holier purpose after I heard them speak. Doubt, discouragement, despair melted away as miasmatic mists before their genial smiles. In their atmosphere there was a sense of enlargement, of visions augmented.

We find them now and then, everywhere, in every walk of life, these noble souls that bring to our surface hidden powers, that unlock secret springs of thought and feeling of which we never dreamed. They even unloose the tongue until we express ourselves in language clear, eloquent, passionate. Soul thoroughbreds I call them. Are you a physical thoroughbred, feeling a vibrant life coursing through you, while the muscles slip back and forth under the skin like strings of steel? Well and good. Are you an intellectual thoroughbred and feel that you can master minds? Well and good. Are you a social thoroughbred and feel that the prestige of generations of noble ancestors are yours? Well and good. But are you a spiritual thoroughbred?

I believe in the perfect man. The purpose of christianity is to make men perfect. It is unquestioned that Christ has helped men to recover their lost patrimony and shaped their characters anew.

One word to joint the way. There is a branch of astronomy called sidereal photography in which the plates are exposed for hours under the fixed stars, until they picture there the glory of the infinite heavens. So may the soul, exposed long to the fixed stars of truth catch the glory of the moral universe within.

To take a rough stone and shape it into some resplendent ideal as did Angelo is a great achievement. To take the odds and ends of feeble principalities and powers and shape them into a mighty nation as did that peer of statesman, Bismarck, is a great achievement. But for you to take your crude nature, the feeble forces of the mind and mould and make them into a true man, a true woman, is a greater achievement.

No time is too long, no discipline

"Every style for every man." Yours is awaiting you.

is too severe, as the price of the elimination of all that is ignoble and unmanly. In the forceful language of Ruskin, "the giving up of wrong things is not self-sacrifice, but self-culture."

And if you were a mere violet would anything but the sweetest fragrance satisfy you. And then, if an immortal soul can, anything but the noblest manhood or the noblest womanhood satisfy you?

The ball held in the Men's club-house Wednesday evening was a grand success, socially and financially. The attendance was large, about 500 in the assembly hall, and the presence of Father Dwyer, P. Hollis Street Theatre.

The Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, will begin its regular dramatic season on Monday night, Sept. 5th, when Henry B. Harris will present the talented little star, Elsie Ferguson, in a new four-act play by Paul Harness, entitled "A Matter of Money." Miss Ferguson last year established her claim to stellar honors by a charming portrayal of the little Queen in that dainty, mythical romance "Such a Little Queen," in which she appeared so successfully at the Tremont Theatre. This season Mr. Harris is putting her forward in a highly emotional role and in an entirely different type of character than she has heretofore been identified with.

ELSIE FERGUSON

The engagement is for two weeks with Wednesday and Saturday matinees. Attention is called to the fact that Miss Ferguson in "A Matter of Money" will not be seen in any other city in New England.

Aviators from all parts of the world, with their aeroplanes, monoplanes, triplanes and dirigibles, are to pit their skill against each other for thousands of dollars' worth of prizes. The skies about Boston will be alive with shooting bird-crafts, presenting a spectacle never before equaled in this country.

Realizing the importance of such an event—the fantastic mental picture of long ago, now come true—The Boston Journal has made extra preparation to report the progress of the aviators each day in a manner which will enable those people who cannot come to Boston to understand thoroughly just what is going on. A corps of aero experts will write daily for The Daily Journal and The Sunday Journal (the new Sunday that sells for one cent), and the thrilling situations will be chronicled with accuracy and vividness.

The horse events at Myopia on Labor Day will no doubt attract the usual large number from the Farms. The program there for this year is a decidedly attractive one.

Mrs. M. F. Fallon and son, John, have completed their pleasant two months' stay at the Farms, returning to their home in Worcester the early part of this week.

Died, last Friday, Aug. 26, at her late home, 185 Hart street, Celeste E., wife of Jesse and mother of Lida and Fred E. Pierce, at the age of 55 years, 8 months and 10 days. She had been in ill health for quite a while and for the past few months had been seriously ill, so much so that the end was not unexpected. Mrs. Pierce was a home-loving woman and her years of residence at the Farms had made her beloved by all who knew her. Her loss, especially among her neighbors, will be keenly felt and sincere condolence goes out to the members of her family. Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon, conducted by the pastor of the Farms Baptist church. Members of Preston W. R. Corps of which she was a member attended in a body, conducting their ritual services, singing "Jesus Lover of My Soul." Miss May D. Connolly also sang "Face to Face." Deceased was also a benefit member of the John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, which organization was represented by pall bearers, Messrs. Geo. F. Wood, W. B. Publicover, H. Irving Dyer, Chas. H. Hull, Elmer Standley and Howard E. Morgan. Interment was in the Farms cemetery.

A pet Boston terrier dog belonging to Edwin L. Pride last Friday was run over and killed by an automobile in front of the Pride house on Hale street. Edwin L. Pride this week has been taking his first vacation from his Boston office for a number of years. He is spending it mostly at the Farms and incidentally at West Beach.

A committee from Preston W. R. corps is making arrangements for a public dance to be conducted in Neighbor's hall about the middle of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Hawkins, who are on a vacation trip, spent the early part of this week in the vicinity of Portland, Me. On Wednesday they took the boat from that city going to New York. They are expected home on Tuesday next.

The Beverly schools, including that at the Farms, will open next Tuesday morning, Sept. 6. There will be a class of about twelve graduates from the Farms who will attend the Beverly High School for the first time.

John M. Publicover has been quite sick for the past week at his home on High street. He is, however, now reported to be improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Campbell have spent this week enjoying a trip in their automobile going to and visiting places of interest in Vermont.

At the meeting of the Beverly school committee held last Tuesday evening, out of a list of nearly fifty applicants Robert O. Small of Grafton, was elected as the new superintendent of schools to succeed Adelbert L. Safford. The new superintendent has been in Grafton for the past nine years where he has made a splendid record. He is married.

J. Henry Trow and family on Wednesday moved from the F. H. Pierce block in Central square to the Lovering house on Hale street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Collins.

The Beverly tax rate for this year has been given out by the board of Assessors and is very satisfactory to the taxpayers. It is to be $15.20, and is a decrease of 20 cents over last year.

Miss Margaret Downes of New York city has been spending her vacation at the Farms the past week. She is to remain here over Labor Day.

An automobilist Beverly bound lost his way about 2 a. m. Wednesday as he was homeward bent from Gloucester. At Lee's Crossing he left the highway and took to the railroad track, either by mistake, or to seek a short cut. At any rate, he proceeded about 200 feet up the track before deciding to stop. More than an hour afterward an automobile from a garage in Beverly came to the Farms and pulled the damaged auto from the tracks. Fortunately for the auto no freight trains happened along. The garage man was a heavy loser in the deal, for he smashed a shaft and only by the best of luck did he reach home without having to be towed.

Master Vivert Publicover, Howard E. Morgan, jr., and Arthur Poole have made the most of this, their last week's vacation, Master Publicover spending it at Somerville, visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Jordan; Master Morgan visiting at Roxbury, and taking in the ball games in Boston, while Master Poole has been at Ipswich.

Mayor Trowt, School Committee-man James B. Dow and Postmaster Wm. R. Brooks on Tuesday attended the outing and dinner of the Essex club held at the Corinthian Yacht club at Marblehead Neck.

Miss Margaret Riley, a Beverly young lady, and a graduate of the Salem Normal school, has been elected to fill one of the vacancies in the list of teachers at the Farms school.

Members of Preston W. R. Corps are planning to attend the outing of the W. R. C. Essex County association to be held at Tuck's Point, West Manchester, next Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Knowles of Jersey City, N. J., who are on a vacation trip in their automobile, have spent a part of this week at the Farms visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory P. Connolly and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Peirce have spent this week on an automobile trip through New Hampshire, visiting popular resorts. Their journey took them as far as Bretton Woods.

Next Thursday evening, Sept. 8, in Neighbor's hall, Clan Wallace 127, will hold its annual Scottish dance which to many is looked forward to as the event of the season. Besides the usual dancing program a novel and interesting feature is the men in kilts dancing to the music of the bagpipes. There is sure to be a large attendance.

The benefit dance for the Beverly Farms band is to be held in Neighbor's hall on Thursday evening, Sept. 13. They need funds to purchase uniforms to pay for instruction, and to meet other other necessary expenses of the organization.

The Boys' Fife and Drum corps, composed of 12 or 14 Farms boys, yesterday played at the final lesson at the Salem playgrounds, where Miss May D. Connolly has been the instructor again this year. There was a parade and inspection, besides an exhibition of the work. The boys made a decided hit and received much applause for their good work.

Letters remaining unclaimed at the Beverly Farms, Mass., Postoffice for week ending Aug. 31: Adams Express, Mr. Gilbert C. P. Bridges, Mr. C. L. Dana, Miss Mary B. Fraser, Miss Nellie Gagan, Miss M. Lacey, The Winslow Bros. Co., Mr. Fred Mitchell, Mr. Harold Preston (2), Mrs. Edw. F. Powers, Miss Helen F. Ryan, Mary R. Richardson, Mrs. Moses L. Stevens, Miss Florence Shepard.—William R. Brooks, P. M.

The dance of the Commercial club held in Neighbor's hall on Tuesday evening and that of the Swimming club held last evening were well attended. The good music and cool evenings help materially to make the events pleasant ones.

Three Drowned at Beverly Farms.

Three young men, waiters at the Misery Island Inn, met death early Tuesday morning by drowning and a fourth man was picked up from an overturned dory after fishermen in the vicinity had been aroused by the cries of the drowning men and had started for the rescue. The young men did not finish work until shortly before midnight. They left the casino to row to the Beverly Farms shore, borrowing a small tender belonging to George N. Towle. When some distance out from the shore two of the party started fooling, it is said, and all four were thrown into the water. It is said some of the men could swim, but the capsizing was so sudden that they could do nothing to save themselves. The cries for help were heard by Capt. Wallace Kenney of a fishing sloop. At first he thought it was the cries of men fooling, but they came with such clearness and tone that he made all haste to the scene and picked up one man and brought him ashore. A search was made for the other three, but they could not be found. The three men drowned were, Leonard Sanpere, 21, of Lawrence; Alexander Lossi, 20, and Arnold Surbez, 24, of New York.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

Eleanor Gordon and Theodore Friebus, who made one of the hits of their career at B. F. Keith's Theatre during the past week in Frank Ferguson's new comedy, "Sweet Widow Marie," have in rehearsal another comedy by the same author which it is said is equally bright if not better than that in which they are now appearing, and it will be given for the first time at B. F. Keith's Theatre Monday afternoon. The engagement of these popular players is for two weeks only, and so great has been their success that they will probably stay in vaudeville for the rest of the season.

Another strong feature for the week will be the first appearance here of Bothwell Browne, said to be one of the greatest impersonators that has appeared in years. He is a westerner, well known in San Francisco, where he made his first great hit and came East only a few months ago, with a splendid production.

GREAT MECHANICS FAIR

All New England now quite generally knows that there is to be an "Old Time Mechanics Fair" at the Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue, Boston, during the entire month of October beginning Monday, Oct. 3, and ending Saturday night, Oct. 29, and continuing every day, except Sundays, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night. All of the attractions in this immense building will be free to all who pass the turnstiles and they will be of a really extraordinary character.

In the first place, there will be more than 200 practical working exhibits of processes of manufacturing many kinds of useful and ornamental articles, shoes and other articles of wear, cut glass and other things for the household; appliances of utility for the home and business office and the closet of the student; great automobile exhibit with the first showing of 1911 models; and about everything of which one can conceive as appropriate to a genuine mechanics fair, only more of them and of higher quality than ever before shown in Boston.

CHILDREN ARE THE VICTIMS.Campaign on to Teach Protection Against Dangers of Muscat Vulgaris.

There is no reason why the general public should not know as much of the general principle of the threat to human health and human life contained in that sentence as those men who, with the fortuitous instinct that impels them to devote their lives to study, research and experiment, have come to know the danger there lies in the existence of the ordinary, common, every-summer-day house fly.

"Muscat vulgaris," the scientists call it, and by that name it may be looked upon with a little more respect than by its ordinary one. But no matter its name, the house fly should be fought with intelligence and persistency until this deadliest of insects shall have been eliminated from the natural economy.

Fly Carries White Plague.

Tuberculosis of the lungs is transmitted in an enormous percentage by the house fly. Knowledge of this fact sometimes causes those who made the subject a study to question the wisdom of the rigid rules now obtaining almost throughout civilization against expectoration in public, and especially upon sidewalks.

The bacilli of consumption, in themselves, will not live in a dry state and in the sunlight for more than one and one-half hours. So long, however, as they are kept damp, by the moisture of the sputum or that of the damp street or moisture from any source they can withstand the sunlight for a much longer time and retain all their virulence and destructiveness. Of course, while they are damp they are less liable to be blown around, but if the sputum be dried by the sun and they are not blown into other moisture or out of the range of the rays of the sun, they are soon dead.

It is while they are in moisture that they are taken up by the fly, eaten, but never digested or even injured by the passage through the body of the fly. Numberless experiments by such distinguished entomologists as Dr. Henry Skinner of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Scientist; Dr. D. S. Jackson of New York, and Dr. Howard of the United States Bureau of Agriculture, have proved this fact indubitably.

Fights Fly Strenuously.

The New Autumn Suits

As usual the Webber Store is first to display the new styles for Fall and Winter and we invite you to come and view the New Suits, Coats and Waists. NORTH SHORE'S LEADING STYLE SHOP the propagation of the fly at this juncture, it may be stated that it is now too late to stop their multiplication effectually this summer. But this fact makes the necessity for precaution against the ravages of the fly all the stronger remembering that it is the propensity of the fly to feed upon putrescence and to carry the bacilli with them to be deposited upon the nearest article of human food possible, milk or other white food preferably. So then:

Screen your houses next summer as nearly perfectly as possible.

Keep the flies away from all forms of food, especially milk.

Use every means possible to kill the flies. Fly paper, fly traps, "Fly-Go," etc., anything and everything that will kill them.

Sterilize everything possible that has been exposed to flies. Boiling water is the greatest of all germicides. Surgeons now boil the instruments with which they operate on the human flesh instead of using carbolic acid, corrosive sublimate (mercury) or other chemical germicides.

Wash your kettles, pans, pots, dishes and cutlery in boiling water if for only a moment, and then use water at a lower temperature if you desire.

Keep flies away from children—not because they might awaken the baby, but because they may inoculate it with deadly bacilli.

Destroy all forms of refuse, whether from the table or from the chamber. If you cannot destroy it utterly, at least scald it with boiling water—mere hot water will not do.

Most important of all: Do not imagine that all this talk about house flies is an ordinary fad to be dismissed from the mind as most other fads are when, after the moment, they cease to interest.

Fly Deadly Enemy of Man.

No one knows why a dried kernel of grain planted in the earth will bring life and more grain, but it will. Content yourself with the knowledge that there are men who know how and why the house fly carries disease, and is in reality the deadliest, most destructive and most devastating enemy of mankind, instead of being a harmless insect that may be idly brushed away by the hand, because all you know about it is the trifling annoyance it causes you.

There is no room in a daily newspaper to relate the proofs of these general statements. There is room, however, to give this general warning, and it is done in the hope that every household into which The North Shore Breeze enters will join the army that is being enlisted throughout the civilized world to eradicate this insect that is at once a nuisance, a plague and a pestilence.

At another and more opportune time this paper will show how this greater source of fatal diseases may be eradicated and the diseases it transmits may be made as rare and as infrequent as yellow fever, small-pox and other forms of illness once as common as they are now.

Meanwhile, kill the flies. If you can't kill them, keep them away from your food. And keep them away from the baby.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Small Moore and their two beautiful children—a boy and a girl—have come on from their country estate at Lake Forest, Ill., to remain a couple of months—September with Mr. Moore's parents, Judge and Mrs. Wm. H. Moore, at Rockmarge, Pride's Crossing, and October with Mrs. Moore's people, the John McKinleys, at the Stevens cottage, Smith's Point, Manchester. Mr. and Mrs. Moore are among those who have come to know the Indian summer on the North Shore is in many respects the most beautiful part of the year. The McGinleys' by the way, are to prolong their stay into November and they will continue to entertain, as they have all summer, many house guests. They are one of the many charming Pittsburg families who are greatly devoted to the North Shore. Miss Marion McGinley has been entertaining Miss Constance Barr of Pittsburg.

Robert S. Bradley and his daughter, Miss Leslie Bradley of the Pride's Crossing colony, sailed from New York last Saturday on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria for a short European trip.

—x—

Joseph Leiter departed from Beverly, Wednesday, for New York, making the trip in the yacht. Chantieler.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. P. Duckelow of Boston and Manchester gave a dinner of ten covers, Monday evening of this week complimentary to Mrs. Duckelow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Wick of Cleveland, who spent the past few weeks with them and who departed for their Ohio home Wednesday of this week.

—x—

Mrs. Jere Abbott of Boston and West Manchester returned last week from a month's sojourn at North-east Harbor.

—x—

Miss Dorothy Jordan was at the aviation meet on Wednesday of this week and was the first person to congratulate Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator and sportsman, after his spectacular and successful flight to Boston light for the $10,000 prize offered by Gen. Chas. H. Taylor of the Boston Globe. Miss Jordan was a member of Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw's party who occupied an automobile in the parking space

—x—

Baroness De Rosen and the young Baroness Elizabeth De Rosen went up from Manchester for the aviation meet at Atlantic on Tuesday of this week.

—x—

Wm. S. Kuhn and family of Pittsburg, who have occupied the Chas. Head estate, Manchester, this season, were to conclude their stay this week, some of the household servants leaving in advance early in the week.

—x—

The Countess Tamara de Swirsky, who recently appeared in the Italian gardens of the Grill club, Magnolia, opens a week's vaudeville performance at the Victoria Theatre, New York, Monday, Sept. 12.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott are expecting Mrs. Abbott's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Tiffany of Baltimore for a visit at their West Manchester home, next Monday. Tomorrow Mrs. Abbott is to entertain at Tuck's Point the ladies connected with the office force of the Old Colony Trust Co., of which Mr. Abbott is a leading official. A band will be in attendance. A few weeks ago Mr. Coolidge, Jr., entertained the men connected with the office at his estate at Coolidge's Point. Last Friday Mr. and Mrs. Abbott tendered their employees a picnic at Tuck's Point to which the latter were privileged to invite their friends, and a company of forty-eight assembled to enjoy the most pleasurable festivities.

Gardiner M. Lane and family, of Boston, who have spent most of the summer in Maine, have returned to their Manchester estate, their summer tenant, H. Mortimer Brooks and family, of New York, having concluded their stay and gone to Newport.

—x—

The Norton Wigglesworth family of Boston are concluding their stay in Manchester the last of the month.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gibson gave a luncheon Labor Day at their Beverly Farms residence, afterward taking their guests to the Myopia club horse show. The guests included Miss Louise Cromwell, Miss Isabel May, Miss Carrie Munn of Washington, and Miss Edith Wayne of Philadelphia, Samuel Elliott, Craig Culberson, William Blair and Howard Gillette of Chicago.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. George Agassiz, who have spent the summer at the F. R. Tibbitts cottage, West Manchester, were to have concluded their stay today, though the servants will remain until next week. Mr. and Mrs. Agassiz, who have spent much time cruising on their yacht this summer, were to start on another cruise today. Mr. and Mrs. Tibbitts will probably spend the fall and winter, as usual, at their cottage.

C. Howard Clark, jr., and family are concluding their stay on the North Shore on the 24th of this month, after another delightful summer at West Manchester. They will go to their country estate at St. David's, Pa., for the autumn. The Clarks have entertained considerable this summer as usual on their large yacht Savarona, as well as on their speedy motor boat Hupa.

Donna Maria Anna Strozzi of Florence, Italy, returned to Manchester Wednesday for another visit with Marquis Montagliari and wife, of the Italian legation. The legation, by the way, will close its sojourn in Manchester early in October, and will return to Washington. The Marquis expects to be removed to a new post of duty, so will be in Washington only a few weeks this autumn. He and the Marquesa have been very active in the social life of the North Shore this summer as well as in seasons past and they will be much missed here another season.

SOCIETY NOTES

Tuesday noon at the Ascension Memorial church, Ipswich, the marriage of Miss Madeline Appleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph M. Appleton of "Waldingfield," Ipswich, and Alfred Vincent Kidder of Cambridge, was solemnized. It was a family wedding, and therefore the number of guests was comparatively small, though the matrimonial alliances of the Appletons are numerous. The reception was held at the bride's home. A number of people from the North Shore towns went to Ipswich for the event. Rev. Wm. G. Thayer of St. Mark's School, Southboro, and Rev. Reginald Pearce of Ipswich were the officiating clergymen. Wm. Eustis Russell of Cambridge was the best man. Miss Julia Appleton, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon, trimmed with old duchess lace, and a tulle veil. The maid of honor wore blue chiffon, with hat to match. The bouquet was composed of white roses, and the maid of honor's of pink roses. The ushers were Alexander G. Grant, Patrick Grant, 2d, and F. H. Bull, George G. Ball, all of Boston; C. Wiggins of Pomfret, Conn.; Gordon Ware of Framingham, Bartol Parker of Lancaster, Kenneth Howes of Chestnut Hill and Charles L. Appleton of New York.

Mrs. Maynard Ladd of Boston and Smith's Point, Manchester, has been visiting relatives in Newport for a week.

—x—

Dr. and Mrs. George A. Webber of Boston, who did not open "The Ledge," their Smith's Point estate at Manchester this season, have spent the summer at Poland Springs, Me., and in the White Mountains. This is their first season's absence from Manchester for twenty-three years.

Miss Gladys Kerens, daughter of Richard C. Kerens, of St. Louis, American ambassador to Austria-Hungary, was married in London last Saturday noon (Sept. 3) to George Hamilton Colket of Philadelphia, a relative of Mrs. Harrison K. Caner of Manchester and Philadelphia. The ceremony was performed at the Church of St. John the Evangelist at Herons, a Sussex village. Diplomats and prominent members of the American colony were present. Mr. and Mrs. Colket will spend their honeymoon on the continent.

The hayrack party and picnic at Chebacco Lake last Saturday afternoon tendered the little friends of the children of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter of Beverly Farms gave great pleasure to some thirty children, who made the journey to the lake with a portion of their nurses by hayrack, while Dr. and Mrs. Porter in automobiles, brought the picnic goodies to which great justice was done. Among the children who attended were little Natalie Hammond of West Gloucester, the children of Mr. and Mrs. George Scott Winslow, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard C. Weld, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hostetter, Robert Gould Shaw, 2d, Dr. and Mrs. James M. Jackson, the Cabot children all from Beverly Farms, while from Magnolia were the Kennard children. The day was very delightful and the young people were greatly indebted to Dr. and Mrs. Porter for so much pleasure, the hayrack ride making it a particularly memorable day, for that feature always represents great fun for the children.

The last golf event of importance this season at the Essex County club will be the intercollegiate championship the week of Sept. 19-24.

—x—

Lloyd W. Bowers, Solicitor-General of the United States, who, with Mrs. Bowers, has been spending the summer at Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester, has been ill some weeks at Hotel Touraine, Boston, where he was stricken with a severe attack of tonsillitis and bronchitis. Dr. Frederick Coggeshall of Commonwealth avenue, Boston, is in attendance and hopes to have him on the road to recovery in another week. Pres. Taft, when told of his illness, expressed great concern as Hon. Mr. Bowers is a possible appointee to the Supreme bench of the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Densmore of Tuxedo Park and New York, who left Manchester last Friday to motor back to Tuxedo Park, after a very pleasant visit with the Mrs. Densmore's brother, Frederick F. Carey and family, left their children behind for another week, and they left today for New York with their nurse.

—x—

Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia and Miss Bradley made her debut in that city under her sister's auspices. Mr. Thaw is a Yale man and only son of Wm. Thaw, jr., and a grandson of the late Wm. Thaw of Pittsburg. No date has been set for the wedding.

Private Reservation

FOR SHOOTING, FISHING, AND GAME

The owner of a very fine piece of property of 400 acres on the Renous River, New Brunswick, has decided to either sell or lease for a term of years. Location in the heart of the New Brunswick woods, with game of all kinds abounding. A beautiful brook, alive with trout, runs through the land. Good lumber property.

An exceptionally fine opportunity for some North Shore gentlemen to obtain Private Reservation at moderate price. Owner is willing to lease for term of 30 years at end of which time property will revert to lessee.

Handsome New Auto Fire Truck of 1910 make, and the old "Torrent" hand engine, built in 1832.

The addition of the handsome new auto fire truck to Manchester's fire fighting apparatus, a full description of which was given in our last issue, was duly celebrated last Monday—Labor Day—by the Manchester firemen and their friends, and a number of out-of-town firemen who had been invited to participate in the festivities of the day.

At 10.30 in the morning an alarm was sent in from Box 52, at West Manchester, for the purpose of giving the truck a "try-out." The truck started from the engine house in record time and one minute after the bell first sounded the auto was leaving the house on School street. In double quick time it had covered the mile or more between the station and the hydrant at Jersey Lane, and the hose was attached and a stream of water was spurting from the nozzle in a fraction over four minutes.

Returning to the engine house some of the visiting fire chiefs boarded the truck for a run to the Manchester-Gloucester line, in Magnolia village and a hose was attached to the hydrant opposite the Willow cottage and a stream of water was turned on in a little over seven minutes. The run from Manchester to Magnolia is something more than three miles.

Meanwhile the firemen were gathering at Tuck's Point for an outing. A lively ball game was played between the firemen and their guests and visitors, the game ending in a victory for the firemen with a score of 28½ to 11, the half a run being made by Asst. Chief Sinicks who had proceeded only half way around the bases when put out.

Quoit pitching and other games were participated in during the day.

At one o'clock the party sat down to one of "Chef" Howe's delicious fish and clam chowders, with side dishes of crackers and cheese, coffee, watermelon, tonics, etc. At 5 o'clock a lunch of broiled lobster, steamed clams, crackers and coffee was served.

The committee in charge was composed of Curtis B. Stanley, L. Nelson Cook and Granville Crombie.

We present this week a picture of Manchester's new auto truck and also a picture of the "Torrent," Manchester's first fire fighting apparatus, built in this town in 1832, and kept in active service for 53 years. It may still be seen at the Engine house. The picture of the auto truck is really that of the new truck owned by the town of Brookline, which is almost identically the same as Manchester's.

Among the guests at the try-out Monday were Thomas Proctor of Essex, Chief Engineer Crow of Gloucester and firemen from Rockport, Gloucester, Beverly Farms, Ipswich and Boston.

Burglary Insurance.

The continued number of burglaries at North-Shore homes is arousing people in all parts of the North Shore. Samuel H. Stone, the well-known insurance man of 164 Cabot street, Beverly, calls the attention of people to the fact that he handles burglary insurance, which insurance covers the value of the property stolen and damage by burglary.

Excellent Work Done in Suppression of Moths.

Committee of North Shore Residents Compile Report, Showing what was done with Money Subscribed.

As the season for effective work against the gypsy and brown-tail moth caterpillar is ended, the summer residents' committee for the preservation of the forests along the North Shore has compiled a report to the North Shore people on the condition of the woods this year.

As summarized by Colonel William D. Sohier, for the committee, the work accomplished is this: About 1,000 acres of woodland were cleared and sprayed in 1908, about 2,100 acres in 1909 and a little more than 3,000 acres in 1910; but the cost of the work was $60,000 the first year, the same in the second year, but only $57,000 in the third year—the acreage covered in 1910 being about three times that cared for in 1908, and the total expenditure somewhat smaller.

The conditions are growing better each year. There are fewer moths and fewer trees are defoliated. The introduction of better spraying machines is found to be a great saving.

"This year, as in former years," says the report, "the Governor of the Commonwealth was appealed to for help. It was agreed by Governor Draper that the state gypsy moth department should take charge of the work, and that for the first money necessary the state, the city of Beverly and the town of Manchester and your committee should share the expense, each paying one-third. Your committee therefore saw the officials of the city of Beverly and secured the sum of $5,000; Manchester, at a town meeting, appropriated $7,500; state contributed $12,500; committee contributed $12,500; making a total amount available for the work of $37,500. The balance of the expense was shared by the commonwealth and your committees. Had it not been for the generous and hearty co-operation of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, it would have been impossible to preserve the roads on the North Shore.

"Early in the season it was arranged with the United States authorities, through Dexter M. Rogers, who was in charge of the work in our district, that they would, from their available funds, clear out and care for the woods 100 feet wide on each side of some of the main roads, in addition to roads which they have cared for in former years. The United States authorities, therefore, cleared up and cresoted the nests upon the sides of twenty-five miles of wood roads, or about 600 acres, spending approximately $14,500 in connection with this work. They refused, however, to take care of the woods upon the sides of the wood roads from which automobiles were excluded, on the ground that because of the exclusion of automobiles there was less danger of the gypsy moth caterpillars being carried long distances. They did, however, take care of the New Manchester Water works road through to Chebacco, and Hesperus avenue in Magnolia, because automobiles were allowed to use these roads.

"Your committee, therefore had to take care of the roadsides on twenty-eight miles of wood road which are maintained by private subscription. The same committee that served last year, Major Henry L. Higginson, Gardiner M. Lane and George Wigglesworth, solicited and secured subscriptions amounting to over $10,000 from the summer residents in Manchester. Your Beverly committee secured something over $15,000 from the summer residents in Beverly and also obtained $2,500 from the city of Gloucester, $2,500 from the state, as well as something over $2,500 which was subscribed by residents in that neighborhood. This enabled the committee to care for some of the woods near the water from Magnolia Point to Gloucester.

"Many thousand parasites have been planted in the back woods, where it is not likely that they will be interfered with by the spraying next year. But it will be several years before they develop enough to secure the balance of nature. Another encouraging feature which the committee noted was the work of the wilt disease, which destroyed many caterpillars."

Road Work.

On road work the committee says: "To all riders, drivers, pedestrians and bicyclists, the beautiful wood roads are one of the chief attractions of the North Shore. There are twenty-eight miles of these roads, which were built and are maintained yearly by subscription, at a cost of from $50 to $75 per mile annually. The new wood road, Laurel Lane, leading from the Manchester-Essex wood road to Forest Lane, has been completed and is in good condition.

"The city of Beverly has appropriated $1,000 yearly, which has been expended under the direction of your committee in the repair and improvement of several of the roads near the shore, namely, Common Lane, Greenwood, avenue, Thissel street, Boyle street, Standley street, East Lothrop street, Lake Shore avenue, Corning street and Brimbal avenue, making about ten miles of road which the committee has had repaired, the work near Pride's Crossing being done by Connolly Brothers, under the immediate direction of Thomas D. Connolly, and that near Beverly Cove by John A. Gaffey.

"We owe the thanks of the committee to these gentlemen for their efficient work.

"Corning street and Brimbal avenue have been oiled by a few people at Beverly Cove. In addition to this, the road from Beverly Farms to the Myopia Hunt club has been repaired and oiled each year, the money being raised this year by Nathaniel Simpkins. The deficit, which has usually been between $1,000 and $1,200, has been made up and paid yearly by William H. Moore and H. C. Frick.

"These roads have been repaired in the spring and have lately been oiled under the direction of Thomas D. Connolly, who has given his personal attention to the work.

"Your committee secured from the town of Wenham the sum of $100 toward the repair of the roads in the spring."

The Contributors.

The Beverly contributors for the moth work are: Henry C. Frick, $2,000; William H. Moore, $1,000; W. S. & J. T. Spaulding, $750; Oliver Ames, $500; *Mrs. R. D. Evans, $500; William Endicott, $500; Mrs. Charles

MYOPIA HORSE SHOW BIG SUCCESS.

Annual Event Well Attended and Much Interest Shown Despite Inclement Weather.

The annual gymkhana, hack and hunter show of the Myopia Hunt club at Hamilton Labor Day proved a big drawing card for North Shore people, despite the inclement tendencies of the weather. The attendance, of course, was not as large as it would have been had the day been fair. The rain held off accommodatingly and the footing was just right for the jumpers. The gymkhana events and the jumping classes divided honors for popularity.

The gymkhana events provided the fun of the day, as might have been expected, but the jumping attracted the greatest attention, for it was of the highest class with big fields competing. This was especially the case in the special jumping classes, in which there were thirty-eight entries. The first jump was a four-foot stone wall, the second, sheep hurdles four and a half feet in height, the third a four-foot fence of solid planking and the last an improvised "Liverpool." In this the guard rail was set five feet away from a four-foot jump, the space between being filled with brush.

On the first time over the course twelve of the entries made practically perfect performances and the judges were compelled to send them over once more. A bar was added to the "Liverpool" jump, making it four feet, six inches in height. On this second performance the judges made their awards, the blue ribbon going to S. P. Mandell, 2d's, chestnut gelding First Mate.

The gymkhana events included "going to Jerusalem," two push ball games—one for women and one for men—and two obstacle races.

The judges of hunters were Captain Charles F. G. Sowerby, attaché of the British legation; Thomas G. Frothingham and F. Ambrose Clarke. Judging the saddle classes were H. P. McKean and Gerard Bement. F. B. Fay refereed and Dr. Souther timed the gymkhana events. The general committee in charge of the day was composed of Dudley P. Rogers, Gerard Bement, George S. Mandell, W. D. Denegre and William H. Seabury.

Following is the summary of the awards:

Class One. Jumpers for Junior Riders (14 entries)—Won by George S. Mandell's br.g. Mahogany, T. P. Mandell's ch.m. Apple Blossom second, J. H. Proctor's big Porpoise third and Miss Alice Thorndike's sk.g. Jack Rabbit fourth.

Class Two. Saddle Horses for Junior Riders (7 entries)—Won by Miss Dorothy Jordan's gr.g. Greyling, T. P. Mandell's ch.m. Apple Blossom second, D. M. Hostetter's b.g. Mansfield third and Miss Alice Thorndike's sk.g. Jack Rabbit fourth.

Class Three. The Abbott Cup for Green Hunters (11 entries)—Won by R. L. Whitman's gr.g. White Rock, G. S. Mandell's b.g. Shipmate second, H. Tweed's b.g. Ironsides third and L. D. Ahl's b.g. Hopewell II fourth.

Class Four. Saddle Horses (16 entries, shown in two sections), Class A—Won by Miss Mason's bl.g. Radiant, Miss Elaine Denegre's b.m. Elsa second, Miss Elise Ames' b.m. Laelia third and G. S. Mandell's b.m. Merry-legs fourth. Class B—Won by S. P. Mandell, 2d's, ch.g. First Mate, E. L. Dresel's b.g. Asa Jewell second, S. P. Mandell, 2d's, b.m. Colette third and Miss Mary Curtis's b.g. Typhoon fourth.

Class Five. For Jumpers (38 entries)—Won by S. P. Mandell, 2d's, ch.g. First Mate, George von L. Meyer's Colone second, N. W. Rice, 2d's, ch.g. Buckthorn third and George S. Mandell's b.g. Coleraine fourth.

BIG NORTH SHORE POULTRY CO. INCORPORATED

To Cater to Needs of North Shore People, Furnishing Broilers, Chickens, Eggs, and Other Poultry Products.

The North Shore Poultry Co. is the latest concern to organize for commercial business along the North Shore, and as far as we know it is the only concern incorporated to cater to the ever increasing demand for poultry products along the North Shore. The company has been incorporated within the last week or two and its officers are Winslow F. Story, president; F. S. Lycett, vice-president, and Clifford B. Story, secretary and treasurer all of Magnolia. The office of the company will be at 124 Magnolia avenue, Magnolia, for the time being.

The company has secured twenty acres of land on the state highway, between Magnolia and Gloucester, and will at once enter into the business of raising chickens and other poultry products on a large scale. The land has a frontage of 2,000 feet on the highway, is for the most part on high land, with a beautiful brook running through it and is admirably adapted for this purpose.

We understand the new concern has secured an option on the Magnolia Poultry Farm, and may later purchase it; in fact, the company is really the outgrowth of this latter business, which has grown and developed beyond proportions since its inception five or six years ago by the men who are at the head of the new company.

There is probably no better market for broilers, chickens, fresh eggs, etc., in any other locality of the size in the country, during five or six months of the year, than right here on the North Shore, between Bass Rocks and Beverly, and after doing business on a small scale for nearly six years the movers in the concern are satisfied of the need of going into it on a larger scale.

It is the intention of the new concern to install a 6,000-egg Hall incubator and they will take care of the great demand for day-old chicks, conducting this end of the business on a sort of public hatchery style. Eventually they plan to carry 5,000 layers and 25,000 chicks yearly.

They will have agencies in all the North Shore towns and will warrant strictly fresh poultry products of all kinds.

Class Six. The Masters' Challenge Cup (30 entries)—Won by S. P. Mandell, 2d's, ch.g. First Mate, G. S. Mandell's br.g. Locust Leaf second, S. P. Mandell 2d's, b.m. Colette third, Mrs. F. J. Alley's b.m. Pocohantas fourth.

Going to Jerusalem—Pace satisfactory to the judges. When music ceases each contestant seeks stall. Those failing to obtain one, drop out. (Twenty-four competitors) sixteen stalls, eight eliminated in first trial—Won by Harry McKean, Catherine Tweed second.

Push Ball, Women's Teams—Won by team 1 (Miss Edith Deacon, Miss Alice Thorndike and Miss Mary Curtis), defeating team 2 (Miss Catherine Tweed, Miss Olivia Thorndike and Miss Faith Simpkins).

Push Ball, Men's Teams—Won by the Reds (F. R. Appleton, jr., Quincy A. Shaw, 2d, and F. S. von Stade), defeating the Blues (Charles Appleton, D. P. Rogers and Harry Tweed).

Relay Obstacle Race (women). Teams of three women—Won by Miss Mary Curtis, Miss Faith Simpkins and Miss Emma Mandell.

Relay Obstacle Race (men). Teams of three men and one pony each—Won by James Appleton, Charles Appleton and Frank Appleton.

AT THE HOTELS.

Miss Marie Dallett of Philadelphia, one of the most attractive young women at the Oceanside, is leaving Magnolia Saturday for her home in Philadelphia, where she will probably make her debut this winter. The other members of the family left the Oceanside early in the week, but Miss Dallett remained over with the Bagnells at their cottage.

Miss Elizabeth Sherman Clark has just left Magnolia, after a visit with friends at the Oceanside. Miss Clark has been for two years a member of the Metropolitan Opera Company, but during the coming season will be heard in concerts under the management of M. H. Hanson, where her mezzo-soprano voice will be heard to the fullest advantage. Miss Clark sang once during her stay here for a very few of her intimate friends.

Judge and Mrs. W. S. Overton of Brooklyn, and their son, W. S. Overton, jr., and wife of Washington, who have been stopping at the Oceanside, left last Sunday and motored as far as Concord where they stopped over night at the historic old Wright's Tavern. They have gone to the Berkshires for a short stay before going home. The Overtons are very fond of Magnolia and always plan to spend a good share of the season here. The Judge is a very interesting old gentleman.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Chamberlain and S. H. Chamberlain, jr., of Endicott, N. Y.; stopped at the Oceanside, Thursday for lunch. They were motoring.

Among arrivals at the Oceanside for a fortnight or so are James L. and Louise G. Pease and Ella M. Gaylord. They were here last season for the closing weeks of September, too.

Mrs. Post Wheeler, the author, of St. Petersburg, Russia, was at the Oceanside this week for a season-end visit. Mrs. Wheeler writes under the nom de plume of Amelia Reeves, and some of her works have had wide circulation, one of the latest being Satan Sanderson. She goes to Ocean Grove, N. J.; after leaving Magnolia.

Registered at the Oceanside, Magnolia, this week have been: Mrs. Post Wheeler, St. Petersburg, Russia; H. A. Adams, Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Weir, J. Ellis Hoffman, New York city; Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Hoster, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Waite, Columbus, O.;

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Burr, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Sheldon, Mrs. Harriet Williams, Mr. and Mrs. David J. Gould, Mrs. Alonzo Hicks, Otis F. Wood, New York; Miss A. L. President and Mrs. Taft, Miss Helen Taft and Charlie Taft and their guests, Miss Katherine Terry, New York, and John Hayes Hammond, Gloucester, Capt. Archibald Butt, the President's military aide, made up a party in the auto parking space at Thursday's aviation meet. The President received an ovation after his unexpected presence was discovered and he also congratulated Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston on his daring on his return with Grahame-White on one of his flights. Mr. White invited Mrs. Taft to fly, but she naturally declined. Charlie Taft was eager to go, but his parents would not consent to his so doing.

Charles J. Morse of Boston and Pau, France, is leaving Pride's Crossing next Monday and will go to France for the coming months as is his custom.

The H. Mortimer Brookses left Manchester this week for their estate at Newport, where they will spend the balance of the season before returning to New York. They have spent a very pleasant six weeks on the North Shore, occupying the G. M. Lane villa at Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Treat Paine and chauffeur have returned from an auto trip to Cape Cod as far as Provinceton. They also registered at Aberdeen Hall, Hyannis, for a few days. Mr. Paine drove his car much of the time for experience while on the trip. Mrs. Paine's father, Mr. Mattingly of Washington, concluded his visit with the family Thursday of this week. Master Robert Treat Paine has returned from his long sojourn in Maine at one of the summer camps for boys and will attend the Southboro private school during the coming school year.

There will be a special race for the Manchester One Design boats on Saturday, Sept. 10, under the auspices of the Manchester Yacht club.

Mrs. Albert W. Nickerson and daughter, Ruth Nickerson, of Dedham, are at the Leach cottage, Central street, Manchester, for a two weeks' stay.

Though departures have necessarily been many, the September registrations here have been good, and there are still several standard attractions for pleasure, the Sunday night concerts at the Hawthorne Inn casino, and the numerous tea and bridge parties at the Willowfield and Eastern Point Golf club houses. The vocal soloist the past two Sunday evenings at the casino was Mrs. Mildred Story-Ellis of Essex, who assisted the orchestra with much success. Some September arrivals at the Hawthorne Inn include: Mrs. B. D. Barker, Boston; Col. Isaac L. Goff and son, Providence; Mrs. M. L. Kanter, and son, Detroit; V. R. Emmons and family, New York city; Mrs. W. G. McRee, jr., St. Louis; Mrs. John Fremont Shaffer and daughter, Pittsburg.

Rev. Ulysses E. B. Pierce, wife and daughter of Washington, D. C., are at the Delphine.

The Harbor View is among the hotels which extend its season to December first and the numerous arrivals have included for September a party from Adelaide, Australia; Mrs. and Miss Ayers, Mrs. H. W. Lloyd and children and Miss Kroomer. Other arrivals have been Mrs. A. B. Thayer, Miss Mary Sturgis, Chicago; Misses Mary E. Watts, Agnes Watts, New York city; A. R. Green and wife, Boston.

William Weiss and family of Bethlehem, Pa., who have an attractive estate on Mt. Pleasant avenue, have decided to make Gloucester their permanent home and will remain here all winter this year. Next season they plan to start on a two years' trip abroad. This season they have entertained extensively and recently returned from an auto trip through the White Mountains. Mrs. Weiss, her son and his cousin are all artistically inclined, and devote much time to painting. Mr. Weiss is owner of the valuable Lehigh Valley coal lands, which gives him an independent fortune and makes him a valuable citizen of Gloucester to which the family are most partial.

Miss Roberts of Baltimore has purchased the small Stockbridge cottage on East Main street, facing Rocky Neck Cove, and contemplates making many improvements. She is a friend of the Misses Lathrop of Flushing, L. I., who has such an attractive estate at Rocky Neck developed from the Oaks and Bates properties.

BASS ROCKS

An early autumn wedding for Bass Rocks was that of Wednesday, Sept. 7, when Miss Katherine Rotan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rotan of Waco, Tex., and Cecil Kent Drinker of Philadelphia was quietly solemnized at the Rotan summer residence at Grapevine Cove by Rev. John McGaw Foster of Boston and Bass Rocks. The wedding was a quiet one, owing to the recent bereavement in the Drinker family, the death of

Wm. Biddle of Philadelphia. The Rotan summer home was prettily decorated for the occasion with flowers from the Bass Rocks moors, golden rod and lavender asters. The bride was attended by Miss Mabel Ashley of New York as maid of honor and her other attendants were her niece, Frederika Peterson, and the bridal procession was led by her little niece and nephew, aged five and six years, Virgilia Peterson and Thorndike Dudley Howe, jr., bearing flowers. The color scheme of yellow and lavender was carried out in the gowns of the bridesmaids, who carried lavender sweet peas. Mr. Drinker's best man was Henry S. Drinker of Philadelphia. Mr. Drinker, the bridegroom, is a son of Dr. Henry S. Drinker, President of Lehigh University, and a nephew of the famous portrait painter, Miss Cecilia Beaux of Philadelphia and Eastern Point, East Gloucester, and all the members of his family were on to witness the ceremony as was those of the bride, who is a sister of Mrs. Winthrop Sargent, jr., of Haverford, Pa., whose wedding at Grapevine Cove in July was a large and fashionable function. Mrs. Drinker was a member and president of the 1910 class of Bryn Mawr college and has been prominent in the social life of Bass Rocks for several seasons. George Rotan, Bass Rocks gold champion, who recently distinguished himself on the Essex County club's golf course, is an only brother.

Mrs. Chas. Scott, jr., and maid, the Misses Alice and Letitia Scott of Overbrook, Pa., prominent members of the cottage colony, who have been absent this season, have been at Hotel Moorland for a week and had as their guest, Miss Linde Baker of Bala, Pa. The Scott estate on Souther road is occupied by Frederick Flood and family of Boston this season.

MARBLEHEAD

Tomorrow, Sept. 10, at high noon, the summer residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Gibbs of Brookline at Devereaux Rocks will be the scene of a wedding, the contracting parties being their daughter, Miss Gladys Bulfinch Gibbs, and Gardiner Frank Greene. A special train will leave the North Union station for Devereaux at 11.40 o'clock and return at 2.40 p. m. The future home of the prospective bride and groom will be Riverbank Court, Boston, where they will be at home after January 1.

Quite the longest season here is that of the New Fountain Inn, which will be kept open until November first.

Departures from Marblehead Neck cottage colony this week included Gen. and Mrs. Elbert Wheeler of Nashua and Boston, the H. A. Norton, A. D. Little and F. M. Ayers families.

H. P. Benson's new cement villa is now being occupied by the family, annual summer residents of the Neck.

Miss Eunice Avery of Springfield, a popular Ocean-side guest this season, was tendered a farewell dinner party by seven of her new made friends at the hotel, who had attractive decorations of flowers and original sketches by Frank Mayo of Jamaica Plain as place cards. Bridge and music followed the dinner. Among the new arrivals for September are the Misses Maria A. McKim and Grace E. Rockwell of Gardiner; Miss Clark, Mrs. N. L. Hood, Wellesley.

Mrs. Mary McIntire of Washington, D. C., is the guest of friends at the Nanepashemet. Others registered are Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Mason, Miss Mason, Philadelphia; Bronson Alcott Pratt of Concord; Mrs. E. F. Partridge, Miss H. H. Partridge, Miss L. P. Lehman, Edwin P. Lehman, Redlands, Cal. The Nanepashemet will close about Sept. 20.

Prof. Harold B. Litchman has concluded his summer's stay in Marblehead and returned to Tuscaloosa, Ala.

A. H. Marks of Akron, O., who recently acquired a summer home on Peach's Point, has hauled out his speedy forty-five foot cruising launch, Florence II., for the winter. The boat holds the best record here for speed.

The recent Colonial tea held at the historic Lee mansion attracted many summer visitors, who beheld the mansion people with matrons and maids costumed to depict the colonial period, and the feature made a very picturesque ensemble.

Among the recent arrivals at the Rockmere are Mrs. L. W. Thatcher of Peabody, who has as guest, Mrs. J. P. Baxter, wife of Hon. J. P. Baxter of Portland, ex-mayor of that city. Among the numerous auto parties who have stopped there were those of Grinford Smith, South Windham, Conn.; Mrs. Wm. Keyser, jr., Baltimore; Mitchell Ward, Manchester, N. H.

The masquerade ball at The Crowningshield, Clifton, last Saturday evening was a great success and was enjoyed by many friends of the guests from Marblehead and Swampscott.

Arrivals at the New Fountain Inn are Miss Alice F. Aertsen, Germantown, Pa.; Miss Mary Lee Adams, Pittsfield; Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Kendall, Dayton, O.; Miss Camille Edwards, Memphis, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Mandell, Manchester, N. H.; Mrs. Henry H. Brown, Miss Annie E. Briggs, Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. John T. Sloan, New Haven, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Wright and daughter, New York city.

SWAMPSCOTT

The waning season at the Preston will terminate on Sept. 15, after a very successful operation. The aviation meet in Boston has been an interesting attraction for many guests from the hotel and on Tuesday of this week a party composed of Mrs. L. A. Cress and Mrs. W. L. Gray of Boston, Mrs. A. A. Parker, Chicago, and Miss Kuhneno, Davenport, Ia., were in attendance.

Tuesday evening of this week the vaudeville entertainment at the Clifton casino was an attraction for the summer residents of Beach Bluff and Clifton. The entertainers were Chick Fox, the Irish comedian, from Boston; W. S. Sandeman, Scotch comedian; Mrs. Val Parkerly, pianist, and the four colored troubadours from the Cliff club, Marblehead. All the artists were cordially received. The orchestra is still in attendance at the hotel and the daily concerts and informal dancing each evening, with the regular Saturday evening dance is still on the social program of the hotel. September arrivals at the Preston include many auto parties for a few days' stay, Mrs. Chas T. Gordon, New York; Mrs. C. M. Hathaway, with Mr. and Mrs. H. I. Mabbett as guests, all of Plymouth; Mr. and Mrs. J. S. W. Holton, Philadelphia; Mrs. Edward J. Brown, Miss Miller, New York city. Other guests for longer stays are Mrs. C. B. Greeley, St. Louis; E. G. Stevenson, Detroit; Dr. and Mrs. George W. Gay, Chestnut Hill; Misses C. M. Schmidt, Miss E. W. McArthur, Mt. Clemens, Mich.; Benj. P. Horton and wife, Chicago.

Miss Stevens of Lowell, owner of the Hotel Bellevue property, was at the hotel Tuesday in conference with Mrs. Olcott, manager this season, to arrange for the continuance of the hotel's season during the fall and winter, which if carried out would give Beach Bluff an all-the-year-round hotel.

The Slaughter family, prominent and wealthy residents of Evanston, Ill., who spent several weeks at the Bellevue, have departed, traveling to Albany, N. Y., by auto through the Berkshire County and Brattleboro route. They were to ship their touring car to Chicago from Albany. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. MacDonald of Chicago were among the Bellevue guests who attended the aviation meet in Boston. An informal dance, games and refreshments have been on the social calendar of the Bellevue for the entertainment of the young people there.

The Bufford family of Boston, who have been at the Preston, are to remove to the Bellevue. They will winter at The Puritan, Boston.

Marblehead

Some new arrivals at The Boylston, which concludes its season about Oct. 1, include James R. Murray, Baltimore; Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Rice, Malden; C. W. Lewis, New York city; Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Sheldon, Newton.

East Gloucester

Mrs. S. E. Raymond of Cleveland and "The Ramparts," the Rouse mansion at Eastern Point, presented the cup which was the prize for the special race tried Labor Day afternoon off the Gloucester Yacht clubhouse, Rocky Neck.

The Rockaway, Rocky Neck, was the scene of a merry hurdy-gurdy party last Friday evening. The refreshments served were the compliments of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Jenkins of Richmond, Va., in honor of the birthday of her daughter, Miss Louise Pexton Jenkins.

How About Your Telephone, Has It Been Connected at Your Town House Yet?

North Shore people are beginning to consider returning to town and one very pertinent question that we might ask by way of a timely suggestion is, "have you given your order to have your town telephone connected?" Very trivial matter, indeed! But not so trivial, after all, if you have to live several days without the use of your 'phone after returning to the city. One of the easiest ways in the world to overcome this inconvenience is to have the matter attended to now—while you are yet on the Shore. Simply telephone to Central at Manchester, Beverly Farms, or whatever part of the North Shore you happen to be and tell the operator that you want your service here discontinued about such and such a date and that you want your town telephone connected and ready for use by such and such a date. What is there more simple? When you return to town your 'phone will be installed. Everything will be connected ready for use without the least inconvenience to you. Take the suggestion of the Breeze and attend to the matter to-day.

Incidentally we might say that orders for new connections or for telephone removals or for changes in service must be received before Saturday, Sept. 10, in order to have listing appear in the fall issue of the telephone directory.

Everybody Satisfied.

The management of the fair given by the G. A. R., W. R. C. and S. of V., held last week and briefly commented on in the Breeze of Sept. 2, have every reason to be well pleased with their work.

As a financial success it speaks well for those in charge. In the neighborhood of $1,000 being raised for the relief fund. The good it done the different societies in bringing the citizens of this and other towns into closer contact with them, cannot be estimated into dollars and cents. It means that the people are beginning to realize the good work done by the different bodies of these orders and the causes they represent.

Soon there will be none of the noble veterans of the G. A. R. left and it is the least we can do is to pay homage to them while they are with us. They have ever been willing to do their part in upholding "Old Glory" and the attendance at the fair last week showed the "vets," they hold a warm spot in the hearts of Manchesterites and in the surrounding towns.

The dance last Friday evening was a grand success and the large attendance must have given the fund "quite a boost."

The auction sale on Saturday evening was the windup of the fair and the witty remarks, given by the auctioneer, was much appreciated.

The following presents were given away to the subscribers of the fund:

Seeds in squash, for mileage book, Austin Christian.

Willow rocker, seeds in watermelon, tie between Grace Bigwood and Marjorie Sargeant.

Pillow No. 3, tapioca in bottle, A. J. Orr.

MAKING OF A NEWSPAPER.

Will Be One of the Big Practical Exhibits at the October Great Mechanics Exposition.

The average reader of the daily newspaper, it is safe to assert, knows very little of the processes by which this wonderful production of the present century is made ready for the eyes of the public day after day and many times daily. The various steps toward the consummation should be generally known. Such a knowledge, indeed, is quite a liberal education in itself and indirectly exerts a powerful influence for good, not only upon the favorite journal, but upon society as well. Possessed of this information the reader knows of the trials, the tribulations, the anxieties, the expense, the enterprise, the celerity, the fascinations of the work and it certainly will act unconsciously in the formation of opinions and in the setting of values on news and editorial decisions. All this will be clearly demonstrated at the great Mechanics Exposition to be held the entire month of October in the Mechanics Building on Huntington avenue, Boston. The exposition will be open every day excepting Sundays, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night, and during these hours a little daily newspaper will be published.

FOR SEPTEMBER.

(Copyright 1910 by C. H. Rieth.)

Now softened suns a mellow luster shed,
The laden orchards glow with tempting red;
On hazel boughs the clusters hang embrowned,
And with the hunting horn the fields resound.

—Old September Poem.

Well we should say so, and the mellow horn of Mr. Morgan will awake the morn, bidding us garner for the bins and crips in which we labor for his royal nibs. The summer ended and the blower on, the respite over and the money gone, and Rockefeller as we drill along, bowing and hoping we are well and strong.

The seaside sojourner will quit the shore, and the summer girl will line up three or four conquests in puppy love she has around, and choose the one that is to go undrowned. The which selection from the litter born of summer madness she will then suborn with things sufficient to unlock its eyes, and hurry homeward with the gasping prize.

The busted tourist will return from France with hotel stickers stuck upon his pants, and tarred and postcarded by his friends, will reap the penalty of what he sends. They'll waltz him up and down upon a rail, and alternately turn him head and tail, or howsoever they may best enjoy the views in Venice or the site of Troy.

The festive calf will blithely sniff and snort, and deftly tip up where the hair is short, and in the quiet even afterglow the quail will pipe his dulcet piccolo. The bold insurgent will insure the more, and fill the planet with his dreadful roar, and each one betting he will not be last, the autumn candidates will gallop past.

The new progressive and the Democrat, the uninsurging that are standing pat, and in the midst of them, unfaint of heart, our Mr. Bryan on the water cart. A maze of issues, and a mass of men, and lo, a gallus busting now and then, and not especially alarmed by it, the trusts desisting till the swarm has lit.

The man from Elba trying to come back,
And the poor consumer in his cul-de-sac
Unknowing if the quaking earth portends
Death or the near approach, perhaps, of friends.

But howsoever and be it as may, the dread mosquito will have had its day, and joining Satan in its spectral growth, have made it real hell there for them both. The while the earthly remnant of it swings upon the window screen, and dying clings to that post which, though wanting moral fire, it still holds with its face against the wire.

The sad first day of school will come to pass,
And the barefoot boy will hide out in the grass,
And by the time we've caught these malcontents,
The Crippen chase will look like thirty cents.

Milady Fashion in her hobble skirt will stride the pavement with the men alert to set her right side up again in case she should in time turn turtle any place. It does beat thunder what the women wear, and how they stick on other people's hair, constrict their middles and constrain their toes and what importance they attach to clothes. But bless us, are they after all to blame, or had they been in these things quite the same if Mother Eve's first thought, as we suppose, had not been necessarily of clothes? Was it to be expected in her case that with a man somewhere upon the place she ever thought of any thing at all but gowns, slipovers, or perhaps a shawl?

But anyhow, the crawfish will have holed,
And the pumpkin shown the faintest trace of gold.
The sassafras will don a redder dress,
And the gods will crowd around the cider press.

Or prohibition or whatever will, here is a fountain that shall serve us still, a place of resting and a steal away out of the desert and the heat of day. A place of quiet and the shade of palms, of irrigation and the soothing balms that no reformer till the poles embrace shall ever capture for a bathing place.

The hosts of labor will parade the street, which will remind us of a happy feat in arbitration from the olden days when Julius Caesar was a sort of craze. It is related of that ancient time that sweet September in the Roman clime was hot as blazes, and the union file could only march about half a mile.

It wasn't anything at all, they say, to watch the mighty pageant get away, the music playing and the flags displayed, and see it suddenly duck for the shade. The gasping drummer with his sounding drum, the bronzed mechanics who perhaps had come a dozen squares, and in the frantic rout, age and apprentice with its tongue stuck out.

The faint impression the procession made on Roman capital for long dismayed the union leaders, when the serried ranks at times not even passed the Roman banks. And so it was when mighty Caesar came, and having found the populace aflame, he shoved September from the seventh place along to ninth, which has remained the case. He merely interchanged it with July, but when he asked them how was that for high, they fairly inundated him with smiles, and have since been doing about twenty miles.

The autumn equinox will come around,
And Roosevelt, by that time eastward bound,
Will aid it in the making of such storms
As they may find necessary to a few reforms.

And then the sun will turn still softer yet,
And the bold October, having duly set
His planes, and carefully put on his brake,
Will see what sort of landing he can make.

The Manchester Launch club is to hold its annual outing Saturday, Sept. 17. There will be a fish race at 3 o'clock, for which Commodore A. C. Needham has offered a hand-cup. A clambake will follow the race, at 5 o'clock at Tuck's Point.

Several Manchester families have received invitations for the wedding soon to be solemnized in Rockport, of Charles Francis Boardman, the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Boardman, former Manchester people, and Miss Lottie Lena Bean of Rockport. Mrs. Boardman was Miss Dow of Manchester.

Miss Elsie Dow, while operating her father's car on Winton avenue, Gloucester, last Sunday afternoon, collided with two autos, one owned and operated by Frank Coombs of Boston and the other owned by W. H. Dodge of Cambridge. The occupants of all cars escaped injury, though Miss Dow's car and a small Maxwell were more or less damaged.

George Evans, foreman of the water department, and Mrs. Evans attended the very pretty wedding at St. James' church, Boston, on Wednesday, of Miss Lulu Eugenie Sullivan and Thomas Francis Teehan, a clerk in the Boston postoffice. The wedding was followed by a reception at Memorial hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with masses of white asters and pink Killarney roses and ferns. The young couple will spend their honeymoon in the White Mountains.

The fifteenth annual concert and ball of the Essex County club employees was held Thursday evening in the Manchester Town hall and was the largest and prettiest party of the season. Between 8 and 9 Stiles Eighth Regiment orchestra of Lynn furnished an excellent concert program consisting of: March; selection, "Faust"; intermezzo, "Silver Bell"; cornet solo; medley, Airs of the day; finale, Popular number. Dancing followed. There were twenty dances on the order. As usual a very pretty souvenir program was provided. The hall was tastily decorated with colored lights and the stage was banked with flowers and ferns. The floor was in charge of Samuel H. Young and John W. Hopley was the chief of aids. The aids were: Allen G. McKinnon, Edward M. Kelliher, Edward L. Holland, Joseph Lloyd, Benjamin Levine, Enoch Crombie, Edward Lane, Thomas Farrell, Denis Mahoney, Francis G. Colby, John H. Boyle and Herbert J. Puttick. The officers were John Puttick, chairman, also secretary and treasurer; the reception committee, Otto E. Petrick, chairman, John W. Hopley and Patrick J. Kelliher; committee of arrangements, Patrick J. Kelliher, chairman, Otto E. Petrick and Samuel H. Young. The "boys" were all dressed in evening clothes and many of the young women were handsomely gowned. The young men each year sell most of their tickets to the members of the club who pass them on to their maids, chauffeurs, etc. The "boys" were very much pleased this year to have President Taft among their patrons. Capt. Butt one day bought some tickets while at the club for President Taft.

Charles C. Howe and family have been entertaining a number of friends at Conomo Point, Essex, where they are camping out.

The annual invitation dancing party of the girls at Brownland cottages was held Tuesday night in the Town hall, and the affair proved one of the prettiest and most enjoyable of the season. The arrangements were in charge of Miss May Fahey of Roxbury and Miss M. Frye of Boston. Vari-colored electric lights were strung about the hall and the stage was banked with hydrangeas, golden glow, ferns, etc., adding a pretty touch to the affair. It being an invitation party the floor was not too crowded. Dancing was kept up until 1 o'clock.

Miss C. A. Graham of Southboro is visiting friends in town for a week.

SENSATIONAL CAPTURE OF ALLEGED CROOK AT BEVERLY COVE ESTATE.

What is thought by the police to be an important "catch" was the arrest yesterday morning of a man who was thought to be on the point of burglarizing the summer cottage occupied by Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter at Beverly Cove.

Captured some time after midnight after a desperate struggle by Edward Coughlin, a private watchman, whom he almost blinded by throwing ammonia into his eyes, a man giving the name of George Watson, and claiming to belong in New York, is held by the Beverly police on suspicion of being the motor pirate who had been robbing the homes of North Shore residents.

Coughlin's struggle with Watson was sensational in the extreme. The former is employed as a night watchman by Mrs. L. Z. Leiter of Washington and New York, and about 12.30 Wednesday night, some time after the robbery at the residence of Thomas P. Beals, near by, saw a man going up the steps of the Leiter residence. Hailing the fellow, whom he suspected of being the burglar, Coughlin drew his revolver and ordered him to throw up his hands. The man raised one hand only and when Coughlin approached and placed his hand on the stranger's arm the latter suddenly drew forth a syringe and squirted a stream of ammonia into the watchman's face.

But for the fact that Coughlin happened to be wearing glasses he would probably have his eyesight permanently injured, if not destroyed. As it was, he was temporarily blinded and the man got away. Coughlin quickly recovered his sight, however, and made after his man, whom he captured after a short chase. The stranger put up a hard fight, but was overpowered by Coughlin, who called Mrs. Leiter's chauffeur to his assistance and took his prisoner to the police station.

There the man gave his name as George Watson of New York. He claimed to be a man of wealth, but failed to offer any explanation of his presence at the Leiter house after midnight. In his pockets were found, besides a flashlight, a gold watch and chain with compass charm, of Tiffany make, and a diamond ring in a red leather pocket-book.

Watson was arraigned in court yesterday on a charge of assault upon Coughlin, and the police have had him held for a week in order to look him up in an effort to connect him with the series of shore robberies recently.

Monday night of this week another bad "break" occurred in Manchester, this time at the E. D. Jordan estate, occupied by Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer. Entrance to the second floor was made in about the same manner and at the same time as other burglaries of this sort. Miss Susan Thayer entered her room to dress and as she passed by an alcove a man rushed out and dove through a screened window and from the roof jumped to the ground, a distance of twenty feet. He took some valuable jewelry along with him. Miss Thayer did not see him. Chief of Police Sullivan was communicated with and in less than five minutes he was at the house. The man had probably made his escape in a motor boat by that time. Chief Sullivan is of the opinion that the fellow caught in Beverly is one of the gang operating along the Shore.

J. P. Latons left the first of the week for a visit with his son in Worcester.

Born, Wednesday, Aug. 31, a son to Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wetterlow, Brook street.

Everett Allen is home from New York city for a visit with his father, Capt. John Allen and family.

Rev. Theodore L. Frost of the Baptist church is having his vacation and is at present at Cohasset for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanford are planning to leave Manchester next month for Dover, N. H., where Mr. Sanford has taken a farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thornton, who have been visiting Mrs. Thornton's sister, Miss Mary Augusta Baker, School street, concluded their visit Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollis L. Roberts are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a daughter in their family circle Tuesday of this week. Mrs. Roberts is at the Beverly hospital.

Miss Elizabeth Meldrum and Mrs. Alice Henry, her sister, arrived from Denver, Col., Labor Day, the latter for an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Meldrum. Miss Meldrum has been with her sister in Denver since last winter.

The last band concert of the season was held Wednesday evening and was very largely attended as usual. Scores of people came from out of town. It is the universal hope of all who have been attending these popular concerts this summer that the usual arrangement will be made for continuing the concerts next season.

O. T. Roberts and Samuel L. Wheaton were passengers on the Governor Cobb which came into collision with the City of Gloucester in Boston harbor during the heavy fog Tuesday morning. Mr. Roberts states that he did not see much of the panic which was reported in the daily papers, as everything was very quiet and orderly on the boats after the collision. No one was hurt on either boat. On the Prince George, bound for Yarmouth, N. S., was the housekeeper for J. P. Latons, who was starting on a vacation trip to Windsor, N. S. This ship was not in the collision. She avoided striking the other boats only by reversing her engines.

Manchester Men Visited Airship in The Velthra.

Thirty-eight of Manchester's best known citizens, largely business men of the town, had the privilege of seeing the airships at the meet in Atlantic, Wednesday of this week through the courtesy of Commodore S. Parker Bremer, who, following the custom of the last five or six years, gave his yacht over to a select list of Manchester's people for a day's outing before putting his yacht in winter quarters. Thirty-eight were fortunate enough to have the privilege of participating in the outing this year.

The party left the mooring off West Manchester at 9.55 and proceeded along the Beverly shore into Marblehead harbor. From there the trip was taken direct to Boston harbor. Two of the government ships were anchored off Squantum and scores of other smaller craft, motor boats and yachts of various sizes. Boats could not proceed beyond a certain line and it was here that the Velthra anchored about a mile from shore in plain view of the aviation field. It was a delightful day and the air was clear and warm. The sail along the coast was beautiful and everybody enjoyed it to the fullest. At 1.30 o'clock a fish chowder was served with lobster salad and other palatable viands. A minute or two after 2 o'clock the first airship was seen and from then until 4 o'clock, when the homeward trip was started, there was plenty to see. The trip was rather a treat for those who participated and one that will long be remembered, and everybody feels very grateful to Mr. Bremer for his continued courtesy in giving over his beautiful large yacht for such an outing. Those in the party were: Lyman W. Floyd, Jacob W. Lee, Isaac M. Marshall, Samuel L. Wheaton, Edward S. Knight, P. H. Boyle, Edwin P. Stanley, George E. Willmonton, Fred K. Swett, Dr. Robt. T. Glendenning, F. C. Rand, Fred J. Merrill, Charles Hooper, Frank H. Dennis, Oliver T. Roberts, Louis O. Lations, T. L. White, Geo. D. Haskell, Chas. T. Loomis, E. L. Edmunds, Walter R. Bell, D. T. Beaton, Leonard Andrews, Samuel S. Peabody, Frank H. Crombie, J. Alex. Lodge, Frank L. Decker, Dr. George W. Blaisdell, George Jones, Frank P. Knight, George S. Sinicks, Lewis B. Johnson of Denver, James Beaton, Gustave A. Knoerr, A. C. Needham, F. G. Cheever, Benj. Crombie and Wm. Lethbridge.

The Beverly police paid a visit to the Farms last night in search of liquor, going first to a boarding house at Pride's Crossing, and later to a fruit store on West street. At the former place, it is understood, they obtained something, but at the latter it is said they could find nothing to pay them for their trouble.

MAGNOLIA

There will be a social dance at the Men's club on Wednesday evening, Sept. 14, the proceeds of which will go towards lighting and heating the winter house during the winter months for the use of the people of Magnolia. Music will be furnished by Long's orchestra. Admission 50 cents for gentleman and lady, extra lady, 25 cents. All are invited. A good time is assured.

Mrs. Cecil Cross of St. John's N. B., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. John Kehoe on Summer street this week. Mrs. Cross was formerly Mrs. Dolly Parker.

Mrs. Fred Davis and son of Annisquam are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Symonds this week.

Mrs. John B. Knowlton left Thursday for a short visit with her brother, Clarence, at Greenbush.

A GOOD POSITION.

Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. R. and Wireless officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Cincinnati, O., or Philadelphia, Pa. *

SHUT THE SCREEN DOOR.

The popular impression is that the screen door which is so much in evidence from May to October is made and hung for the purpose of allowing a circulation of fresh air and, at the same time, keeping out the disease-germ laden fly. It goes without saying the sole purpose of the screen door is for every one to assist in keeping it closed.

The fly, seemingly imbued with the idea that his sole use in life is to carry things from his unclean haunts into the house and deposit it in the pantry or on the dining table, is industriously, assiduously and continuously, during his short life, on to his job. He seeks diligently how he may enter the house, and notwithstanding the constant preventive efforts of the housewife he accomplishes his purpose. He has several able assistants in the person of the grocer's clerk, the meat man, the ice man and the ubiquitous pedlar. None of these has yet learned that it is possible to talk through a screen from the outside, or to stay in the house when in and finish his always interesting conversation, but seems to consider himself called upon to stand in the doorway holding the screen wide open until he shall have finished his business, with two or three stories added. This is the fly's opportunity and he pours in, dozens of him, and gets in his deadly work. Indeed the man of the house isn't much better. He always has a parting bit of conversational advice, correction, reproof, etc., for the benefit of his wife and which evidently is most effective if given while he is standing in the entrance and holding the screen door to its outmost breadth of extension and, notwithstanding that he has been requested times without number to administer his wisdom either from within or without he persists in continuing to do it in his own way. After he has finally gone his wife turns her attention to killing the flies which he has let in, in the meantime wondering if she would not better kill him as the only means of preventing a repetition of the operation each time he leaves the house. The moral is, to be happy, and return the admiration and respect of the housewife, SHUT THE SCREEN DOOR.

Anxious to extend the good work which is being done, so as to include Magnolia and the Fresh Water Cove district, funds were raised, whereby much of the Magnolia woods that seemed doomed to destruction on account of the moth pest have been spared. In speaking of the work, the report says:

"The woods adjoining the shore from Magnolia to Gloucester were being rapidly destroyed and your committee therefore took up, with the city of Gloucester and the residents in that neighborhood, the question of caring for those woods, in addition to the territory already cared for in Beverly. The result was that the city of Gloucester subscribed $2,500, the state agreed to contribute and to superintend and direct the work, and the residents in that immediate neighborhood subscribed $2,535. Consequently 305 acres in that vicinity were cared for and sprayed."

To show the effectiveness of the work that has been done, Mussel Point, near the life saving station, is given as an illustration. Last year there was not a single leaf left on the trees and the ground was absolutely covered by crawling caterpillars. This work was taken on this year in connection with the Gloucester work, the forests were cleared up, the nests cresoted, and the territory sprayed, the result being that the trees were unharmed.

Following is a list of those who contributed toward the fund: John Hays Hammond, $500; Miss E. G. Houghton, $250; John T. Morse, jr., $200; Charles E. Phenix, $200; Miss Faulkner, $200; William H. Coolidge, $100; E. C. Richardson, $100; Mrs. L. F. Ayres, $100; W. R. Nelson, $100; Mrs. William McMillan, $100; George F. Willett, $100; J. Harrington Walker, $100; C. D. Turnbull, $100; Mrs. Mary Turnbull, $100; George A. Upton, $75; James S. Lee, $50; Mrs. J. T. Heard, $50; Miss Georgina Lowell, $50; R. B. Williams, $25; Anonymous, $25; Mrs. S. W. Covell, $10—a total of $2,535.

More than $1200 was spent on the improvement of Hesperus avenue. The committee feels that if $2,500 had been available the whole of this road could have been put in good condition for a width of 16 to 18 feet. As it is the committee has made a passable road a mile and one-quarter long.

The contributors to the subscription for this work were: Miss Elizabeth Houghton, $100; J. Hays Hammond, $100; George F. Willett, $100; George R. White, $100; Charles E. Phenix, $100; William H. Coolidge, $100; Mrs. J. Theo. Heard, $50; J. Warren Merrill, $33.33; L. Edith Hoopes, $33.34; Mrs. M. P. White, $33.33; Miss Georgina Lowell, $25; John H. Storer, $25—a total of $800.

Mrs. Fred Dunbar, who has been seriously ill at the Addison Gilbert Hospital for a number of weeks where she underwent a successful operation, has returned to the home of her parents much improved.

Rev. A. V. Bliss of Utica, N. Y., will be the organist at the Village church this evening and next Sunday both morning and evening. Mr. Bliss was a class-mate of Rev. F. J. Libby at Bowdoin college and was college organist for four years. He is spending a few weeks at the Hawthorne Inn at East Gloucester. The service Sunday evening will begin at 8 o'clock with musical service will commence at 8.15 o'clock.

A little daughter arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hurley at Coolidge Point on Friday of last week.

The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning at the Village church will be from John 20: "The Son of God Triumphs Over Death." This is the concluding number in the series from the Book of John.

Mrs. Frank Comeau was the guest of relatives in Waltham, the first of the week.

The public school opened on Tuesday with a large attendance. Miss Etta Harvey of Gloucester has charge of the grammar grades, and Miss Mattie J. Burke of this town the primary grades.

Misses Lizzie Brown, Marian Symonds, Edna Symonds, Susan Lyceet and Ruth A. Scott are attending the High school at Gloucester.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Butler are visiting friends in Methuen this week.

A very interesting program will be carried out at the Women's clubhouse next week. On Tuesday evening, a pig party; Thursday evening, whist. This party will end the season's whist tournament. The winner of the prize will be announced in next week's issue of the Breeze. Great interest has been shown during the season, many members not having missed one party since the tournament began on June 9. Friday afternoon, the last dancing class; Friday evening, an old-fashioned dance. "Come and meet your country cousin." The membership of the Women's club for this season is 250.

Miss Augusta Pride, daughter of the late Elisha Pride, age 60 years, 9 months, 11 days, very suddenly last Monday morning passed away at her home at 581 Hale street, Pride's Crossing. She was in her usual health and attending to her daily duties when the end came. Miss Pride had lived at Pride's Crossing all her life and had many friends. She assisted more or less her brother, Elisha S. Pride, at the postoffice. Besides a brother she leaves a mother and sister. Funeral services were conducted at her late home on Wednesday afternoon and interment was at the Farms cemetery.

School opened last Tuesday morning with a large attendance. There is a number of changes in the corps of teachers. Miss Day has been promoted to the second grade and the first grade is being taught by Miss Lowd, a new teacher. The other new instructors are Mrs. Holly in the sixth grade taking Miss Whitcomb's place and Miss Riley in the fourth grade taking Miss Ramsey's place.

Howard P. Williams is soon to take a vacation trip. He is going on one of the Merchants & Miners boats from Boston bound south.

Reserve Officer M. H. Whittenhagen, who has been substituting for Officer Williams at the Farms, on Tuesday, had rather an interesting time with a man by the name of Cain Lorden and in arresting him was quite badly used up, and since Tuesday the day patrolling of the Farms streets has been done by other officers. Lorden was having trouble with another boarder at Mrs. Mary Bailey's boarding house and Officer Whittenhagen while trying to make things quiet was attacked, being taken unawares by Lorden. The officer finally landed his man at the police station, but was obliged to be relieved from duty and secure medical attendance. In court at Salem Lorden was fined $5 for drunkenness and given two months for assault. On Tuesday evening, Night Officer Coakley also had rather a tough job on his hands while arresting James W. Nugent, who, however, is no relative to the popular Farms Livery stable keeper. After quite a scrap, Officer Coakley got the twisters on Nugent and locked him up. He was fined $5 for drunkenness and $15 for assault.

Preston W. R. corps, No. 93, will hold a public dance in Neighbor's hall on Thursday evening, Sept. 22.

That vacation time is practically over is quite noticeable at West Beach since last Tuesday from the fact that the usual large parties of Farms children who have made that popular place the spot of recreation and pleasure, are now missing.

Mrs. Daniel W. Preston, president of Preston W. R. C. is to be a delegate to the National Convention of the W. R. C. to be held at Atlantic City, N. J. Mrs. Preston will leave the Farms the latter part of next week to attend to her duties there.

John L. Eaton, a former and well-known resident of the Farms, but who has made his home at Salem the past few years, is now at the Salem hospital for stomach trouble and will probably be there two or three weeks. He would be pleased to have his Farms friends call on him.

The dance of Clan Wallace, No. 127, in Neighbor's hall last evening was considered by many to be the event of the season. A cool evening and good music helped to make the affair an enjoyable one. A novel and attractive feature was the Scottish costumes, the wearers of which danced to the music of the bagpipes.

The coming marriage of Miss Laura Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Cole of Pride's Crossing to Earl Prescott Gibson of Boston, has brought fourth a shower of congratulations from their many friends. Miss Cole has lived here all her life, and Mr. Gibson, formerly assistant postmaster at Pride's, but now of the Boston postoffice, has a host of well wishers over the happy event.

Mrs. Howard E. Morgan, Mrs. E. Fred Day and Mrs. Frank L. Woodberry last Wednesday afternoon went to Briar Neck, Gloucester, where they have been enjoying camp life in the cottage "Home Crest." Their husbands go down at night and back to the Farms in the morning at such times as their business permits.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

One of the strongest bills announced for B. F. Keith's Theatre in a long time is that of next week. Among the big features will be Elfie Fay, the comic opera star; "The Models of the Jardin de Paris," with Carl Henry; Lester Lonergan and Amy Ricard; Herzog's big troupe of trained horses; and many other features of equal importance.

It is some time since Elfie Fay has been seen in Boston, and she now appears with an entirely new repertoire of songs, but there is no doubt no matter what she sings, she will be unable to get away without singing "The Belle of the Avenue A." "The Models of the Jardin de Paris" is one of the biggest musical comedy features in vaudeville and the comedy element is particularly strong. Carl Henry, the principal comedian, is one of the funniest men now on the stage, and his phrase, "Now I'll tell you," invariably "gets" every town in which he appears. Herzog's Horses is one of the greatest troupes of circus animals that ever came to this country.

Our Weekly Letter From
:: :: :: Washington

Washington, Sept. 6.—Officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture are of the opinion that 1910 will hold the record among many years for the severity of the losses from forest fires. The summer fires followed a spring season believed to have been the worst, certainly in the Lake states, known for a long time. Nor is it wise to assume that the danger is over when the fierce conflagrations which have called forth in the Mountain states the efforts of three Federal Departments have been conquered. The forests will not be safe until the fall rains and snows have once more made a wet blanket of the dry forest floor. That the total losses of the year will run up to many millions of dollars is considered certain.

How such losses may be prevented is a matter of general public concern. To the National Forest timber burned must be added great amounts on state and private holdings, besides the immense damage done to town, farm, and other property. Railroads have suffered from the interruption of traffic as well as from direct losses. A bulletin by Forester Henry S. Graves discusses forest fires and the proper methods of preventing and fighting them, as follows:

"In some sections of the country forest fires have always been of such common occurrence that there is a popular notion that they cannot be prevented. The risk from fires can never be entirely eliminated, for in the forest there is always inflammable material which is very easily ignited. They may, however, be largely prevented, and under efficient organization their damage may be kept down to a very small amount. The problem is like that in cities, where fires can never be entirely eliminated, but where the risk of loss to property may be reduced almost to insignificance."

The importance of systematic provision for the early discovery of fires and for getting a properly equipped force of fire fighters quickly to the scene of an outbreak is insisted upon by Forester Graves. "A careful supervision or patrol during the dry season," he says, "is one of the most important measures in organized forest protection. One of the fundamental principles in fire protection is to detect and attack fires in their incipiency." After pointing out the value of lookouts, telephone or signal communication and various methods of patrol, the Forester tells how to fight fires, as follows:

"The principles of fighting forest fires are essentially the same as those recognized in fighting fires in cities. The following are of first importance: (1) Quick arrival at the fire; (2) an adequate force; (3) proper equipment; (4) a thorough organization of the fighting crew, and (5) skill in attacking and fighting fires. Quick access to fires is accomplished through the work of supervision and patrol in discovering fires before they have gained much headway, and by a well-developed system of communication through the forest by roads and trails.

"A small fire may be put out by one man, but in extensive forests several hours may pass before the fire can be reached. It is important to secure an adequate force of men and to get them to the fire quickly. In a well-organized system of patrol the guard who discovers a fire communicates quickly to other guards and to headquarters by telephone, signal, or other means, and indicates the number of men he needs.

"The efficiency of the fire-fighting crew depends very largely on their skill and experience, and particularly on the skill and experience of the man directing the work. It is not only a question of knowledge of how to assign each man where his work will be most effective, but there must be judgment exercised in determining the general method of attack. The character of the fire, the character of the forest, the condition of the atmosphere, the strength and direction of the wind, the rapidity with which the fire is running, and many other points have to be taken into consideration."

After describing how surface fires may be put out by beating, by throwing sand or loose earth, and by other methods, the account goes on:

"Sometimes the front of the fire is so fierce that it is impossible to meet the course of the fire. One method under such circumstances is to direct the course of the fire. The attack is made on the sides near the front, separating the forward portion of the fire from the main wings. A part of the crew attacks the forward part and others run down and extinguish the wings. The front of the fire, attacked from the sides, is forced gradually and constantly into a narrower path. Usually the front can be directed toward some cleared space, road, pond, stream, swamp, or fire line, when it will be checked enough to admit of a direct front attack. Sometimes by this plan the front may be rapidly narrowed by working from the sides, until it is at last entirely extinguished. The plan of giving direction to the course of the fire has often been successfully carried out when the fighting crew is too small for a direct attack.

"When fires gain such headway that it is impossible to stop them by direct attack, no matter how numerous and efficient the crew or complete the equipment for fighting, back firing becomes the only means of stopping the fire. It should, however, be used only when it is absolutely necessary. One of the commonest mistakes in fighting fires is to overestimate the rapidity of the fire and the difficulty of putting it out. A forest fire is always a frightening spectacle, particularly if it is sweeping in the direction of one's own property. Men often become excited and start back fires when it is entirely unnecessary. Back firing necessarily involves deliberately burning over property. When this belongs to another person and one's own forest seems in danger, there is a great temptation to sacrifice it.

"If it is found that a back fire is necessary, a favorable point is selected directly in front of the fire, from which to set the new fire. This must be a point where it is safe to start a back fire, such as a road, fire line, stream, or swamp. The leaves are ignited at points five feet to a rod apart for a distance not greater than the estimated width of the head of the fire. These small fires gradually meet and form a continuous line, eating back against the wind. A part of the crew is stationed across the road or other break from which the back fire is started and put out at once the small fires which may result from the sparks blown over from the back fire.

"The meeting of the two fires stops at once the head of the main fire. It is usually possible then to attack the wings with the ordinary methods of fighting. It is necessary to attack the wings at once, particularly if there is a strong wind, for otherwise each wing of the old fire would soon form an independent fire with a well-developed head. It is necessary, also, that a number of men be stationed where the original fire and the back fire meet in order to extinguish smoldering fires in tops, logs, and other debris."

"A fire is never out," the bulletin concluded, "until the last spark is extinguished. Often a log or snag will smolder unnoticed after the flames have apparently been conquered, only to break out afresh with a rising wind. After the fire-fighting crew has left the ground it is always well to assign at least one man to patrol the edges of the burned area until it is certain that the fire is entirely out. This may not be for several days."

IT'S ONE OF THE NATIONAL WARES

Advertised in the magazines that are read by the most people, distributed through the medium of the best class of furniture stores, made with many more "features" than the less known about kind; made in a manner, too, to please the exacting, yet sold for as little as any one made.

The Gunn Sectional Book-Case

The Patent Sliding Door insures against wearing out of spring hinges; the Flush Joints are so superior to unsightly metal bands; the fact that the doors come off without taking the case apart, all are advantages that no other one possesses. They are carried in stock here, too, causing never any delay. In Mahogany, Imitation Mahogany, Fumed Oak, Golden Oak, and in all sizes. It's one of the many good things that has gained a national reputation and that are found in this stock of desirable things.

OLD JEWELS

The Display of Foreign Art Objects at Mr. Shepherd's

is unusual in its character and bears the evidence of long experience in the selection of the various lines shown. Mr. Shepherd has for more than 20 years studied the museums, art exhibits, expositions and private collections in Central Europe, with the constant endeavor to qualify himself in buying only those things that were genuine, and artistic, and many of the finest collections in America have been enriched through purchase from his stock. There are many lines to choose from.

Old Silver Stuffs Coverings
Candelabra Religious Emblems
Old Jewels in immense variety

Old Pictures Water Colors Drawings Egyptian Relics
Old Fobs Chains and Locketts Rings Necklaces

The evidence of genuineness is apparent on every piece. The constant delight and satisfaction in owning and wearing an ornament of this kind is not to be had in the modern imitations.

Family Jewels and Heirlooms

You probably have some family jewelry handed down from past generations, dear to you because of the sentiment and associations connected with it, but which is not in condition to be worn.

If so, why not let us repair and renovate it? We can restore it to its original condition for you at moderate expense.

We have superior facilities for remodeling and repairing old jewelry and remounting precious and semi-precious stones which enables us to turn out special order work with a nicety of precision and exactness of detail that is unsurpassed.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES

President Taft will give a luncheon this evening at the Tedesco Country club, Swampscott, in honor of the aviators, who concluded their exhibitions in Boston this week. Earlier today Gen. Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe was to dine them at the Algonquin club, Boston.

—x—

John F. Wilkins of Washington will be among the last to move his family from Beverly Farms, as he plans to remain on the shore until Nov. 1.

—x—

The Larz Anderson boat, Roxana, which has been off the Beverly Cove shore for some time, has proceeded to New London, Conn., en route to southern waters.

—x—

John Hays Hammond, who has endowed the manual training department of the Gloucester High School, has offered to install a course for driving and repairing automobiles, an innovation in high schools. It is believed the school board will accept his offer.

—x—

Mrs. W. Scott Fitz's North Shore friends learn that she and her daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Holmes, are already taking long mountain drives near Jackson, N. H., as an autumn pleasure.

—x—

Baron de Rosen and family are remaining at Manchester until Oct. 1, possibly later. The embassy will not transfer its office to Washington until October.

—x—

Dr. and Mrs. L. M. Tiffany have concluded their stay at Magnolia, Mrs. Tiffany going to New York and Dr. Tiffany coming to West Manchester to visit his daughter, Mrs. Gordon Abbott, for a week.

—x—

Miss Susan Amory, sister of Mrs. Gordon Dexter of Boston and Beverly Farms, was due at Mrs. Dexter's Thursday of this week, after an extended sojourn in Europe.

—x—

Henry Clay Frick went over to New York Monday afternoon of this week accompanied by his guest, Mr. Greer.

—x—

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Dexter of Boston departed last Sunday from "Oberland," their Pride's estate, and are in Dublin, N. H.

—x—

Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean, accompanied by Boston friends, returned late last week from a short auto trip to Lake Sunapee, N. H.

SOCIETY NOTES

For the rest of September the drag hounds of the Myopia Hunt club will meet at 6.30 a. m. as follows: Friday, 16th, kennels; Tuesday, 20th, Woodbury's crossing; Friday, 23d, kennels; Tuesday, 27th, Hamilton meeting house; Friday, 30th, J. H. Proctor's. One horse runs. The pony drag will continue at 4.30 p. m. as follows: Saturday, 17th, A. P. Gardner's County road (tea by invitation of R. C. Robbins, Lone Tree Farm); Wednesday, 21st, fair grounds, Topsfield. Hunters will be shown at 3 p. m. The "field" is requested to enter. Post entries. Saturday, 24th, Ipswich trotting park; Wednesday, the 28th, Day farm, Danvers.

—x—

Robert Gould Shaw, 2d, will remove his family from Beverly Farms to Brookline, Sept. 23. Mr. Shaw is found on the Myopia Hunt club polo field many of these fine autumn days and often takes his attractive young sons along to witness his clever grasp of the sport.

—x—

Miss Evelyn Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Curtis of Beverly Farms, is another debutante of the coming winter.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames of Boston are concluding their stay at Pride's Crossing on Sept. 28. Mrs. Ames and Miss Ames will go to New York for a visit while the household servants prepare their North Easton estate for their arrival. They will be sincerely missed as early autumn entertainers, for their many friends have cause to remember them most kindly in that capacity, as they have given many delightful dinner parties during the season and had two more on their social program the past week. President Taft has been among the distinguished guests they entertained. Miss Ames will have her formal presentation to society the coming season.

Miss Effie Bagnell returned to Magnolia the first of this week after a visit at Rye Beach with Miss Thornberg, who was at Magnolia some weeks ago visiting the Bagnells. It is understood that the marriage of Miss Bagnell and William Culbertson, whose engagement was announced at Magnolia in early August, will be one of the early season events at St. Louis.

—x—

Mrs. Quincy A. Shaw, jr. (nee Pemberton), has returned from a trip to Bryn Mawr, Pa. Dr. Ralph Pemberton, who has been Mrs. Shaw's guest for an extended period, left Tuesday of this week for Hague N. Y., near Lake George.

SOCIETY NOTES

Nelson S. Bartlett and sons, George and Nelson S., jr., left Manchester Wednesday for a trip by motor to Poland Springs, which they planned to reach on that day. After a short stay there Mr. Bartlett, jr., was to join Mr. Reece, also of Manchester, for a fishing trip in Canada, and Mr. Bartlett, sr., and other son were to go on to the White Mountains.

George Gray Barnard, the Pennsylvania sculptor, who made the great figures for the Harrisburg Capitol, has been the subject of a flattering appreciation in a recent issue of Le Siecle, Paris. Mr. Barnard is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Eric Pape of Boston and Manchester.

The Bryn Mawr, Pa., Horse Show is to be held Sept. 28, 29, 30 and Oct. 1, at the Bryn Mawr Polo club and promises to be a record breaker, as the demand for boxes and seat reservations now testifies. There is much North Shore interest manifested since Clarence Moore of Washington and Pride's Crossing is to be a judge in the class of hunters and jumpers and Joseph E. Widener, a recent visitor to the North Shore in his fine yacht, Josephine, will judge heavy harness horses and ponies in harness. The prize list comprises 58 classes, the winners to receive some $2,665 in cash, fifty cups and valuable plate.

At the wedding at King's chapel, Boston, last Saturday of Miss Ethel Ranney of Bay State road and Malcolm Burrage Lang, Harvard '08, son of the late well-known musician, Benjamin Lang and Mrs. Lang of Brimmer street, Boston, the North Shore was represented by Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell, jr., (Juliet Higginson) of Pride's Crossing, Mr. Wendell, serving as an usher.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Britton and the Misses Britton, who took an active part in the social life of Hotel Oceanside this season, have arrived in Washington, after touring in their automobile.

Last Sunday President and Mrs. Taft lunched at the Nahant club as guests of Judge and Mrs. Robert Grant of Boston. The luncheon guests included Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Prof. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel E. Guild, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Wharton, Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence, Miss Clara Sears and Capt. Archibald Butt. An informal reception followed the lunch.

Mr. S. Fisher Corlies and Miss Margaret Corlies, who spent the summer in Europe, departing from their annual custom of coming to Magnolia, are due in Philadelphia in October.

J. P. Greer of New York, who has been frequently entertained this season by Henry Clay Frick and family, was a guest at "Eagle Rock" over the last week-end.

Mrs. John A. Caswell had as house guest for a few days last week, at her Beverly Farms estate, her aunt, Mrs. Fanny Horton, who was en route from New Boston, N. H., and Mrs. Phillis Robbins.

The weather was ideal on last Saturday for the complimentary outing and entertainment of fifty women employees of the Old Colony Trust Co., at Tuck's Point, West Manchester, tendered by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott, assisted by Mrs. T. Jefferson Coolidge, jr. The company arrived on the 12.40 noon train, and from Beverly by autos, and did great justice to the fine repast awaiting them. A band was in attendance to make the occasion more festive and sailing and motor boat parties were made up as an attraction during the afternoon. On their return from the water excursions, Mrs. Abbott served 5 o'clock tea.

C. E. Hodges and family returned to their town house in Brookline on Thursday of this week.

Chas. H. Tyler of Boston and Beverly Cove has returned from a two weeks' cruise and sojourn at Bar Harbor.

The Post family of New York, who have been summer tenants of the Dudley Pickman cottage at Beverly Cove, have concluded their stay on that section of the North Shore.

Miss Martha Silsbee of Boston and Prince street, Beverly, has returned from her summer's absence abroad and joined her mother at Beverly where they will remain until the last of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Madison Wood of Boston concluded their stay at Pride's Wednesday of this week and have settled at "Arden," their country estate in Andover for the autumn.

Mrs. G. L. Patten (Beatrice Ayer), a bride of the present year, who has been renewing her social interests on the North Shore through an extended sojourn with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Pride's Crossing, returned to her home in Fort Sheridan, Ill., Tuesday of this week.

Private Reservation

FOR SHOOTING, FISHING, AND GAME

The owner of a very fine piece of property of 400 acres on the Renous River, New Brunswick, has decided to either sell or lease for a term of years. Location in the heart of the New Brunswick woods, with game of all kinds abounding. A beautiful brook, alive with trout, runs through the land. Good lumber property.

An exceptionally fine opportunity for some North Shore gentlemen to obtain Private Reservation at moderate price. Owner is willing to lease for term of 30 years at end of which time property will revert to lessee.

For Particulars and terms see

Mr. Lodge at NORTH SHORE BREEZE office, Manchester

Telephones: 137, 132-2

(Plan of property may be seen at office)

SOCIETY NOTES

One of the very fine old Virginian families that come to Magnolia is that of Mrs. John Stewart, who usually plans to spend the entire season at the Oceanside. Mrs. Stewart and her two daughters will remain this year until the hotel closes. The sad news reached them Tuesday of the death of one of Mrs. Stewart's daughters, who died at her Richmond, Va., home under an operation. The family physician Dr. W. B. Loraine came to Magnolia the first of this week for a short stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Saltonstall of Readville, after a summer's stay at Cohasset, stopped a few days at Pride's, this week, with Mrs. Saltonstall's parents, Col. and Mrs. R. H. Stevenson, who have occupied the Saltonstall cottage this season. Mr. and Mrs. Saltonstall were en route to New Hampshire and the Rangeley Lakes, Me., on a three weeks' auto trip. Col. and Mrs. Stevenson are leaving for Boston about Oct. 15.

Wm. Stewart Spaulding and wife left Pride's early this week for a short trip to Gettysburg, Pa. They were expected back to "Sunset Rock," their Pride's estate today.

E. L. Davis and family of Worcester are leaving the Paine estate (Wheelwright cottage), Prides, early the coming week.

Miss Isabel Goodnough of Baltimore is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Herbert W. Mason of Boston and Manchester. Harold Mason, who has spent the summer with his brother and sister-in-law, had as his guest over the last week-end, his fiancée, Miss Julia Russel of Cambridge. Their wedding is being arranged for a date in October. Prof. Phillips Mason, a brother and their recent guest, is visiting Boston and vicinity with his young German friend before resuming his duties at Bryn Mawr college. On the conclusion of their stay in Manchester, Oct. 15, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mason will depart from almost a traditional custom of the Mason family of summering in Manchester and another season will find them at Ipswich, where Mr. Mason acquired a farm and where Oct. 1, work will be started on their new and pretentious summer home. Harold Mason may bring his bride-elect to Manchester another season, it is understood.

It is reported that the early departure of the C. P. Curtis family of Boston this week from the Longworth estate, Beverly, is due to the coming of the Longworth family there for an autumn sojourn.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jackson of Milton and Smith's Point, Manchester, are entertaining Boston relatives, this week and the young people of the family also have out-of-town friends as guests.

Dr. and Mrs. George H. Washburn of Boston and Manchester have been entertaining friends from Constantinople, Turkey, where Dr. Washburn's father was president of Roberts College for so many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Porter, jr., are concluding their European trip Oct. 8, and are due in Manchester then to remain until the 20th.

M. C. McGill and family have changed their original plans to depart from Manchester this week, the fine September weather having been inducive for prolonging their stay.

Mrs. L. B. Harrison and household removed Tuesday and Wednesday of this week to Cincinnati from the Cobb cottage, Masconomo street, Manchester.

James H. Proctor and family have returned to Beverly Cove, after their summer's absence in Europe.

Mrs. George S. Mandell was hostess of a dinner of seven covers on Tuesday evening of this week at her Hospital Point cottage, Beverly.

"Wood Rock," the Pride's Crossing estate of Herbert M. Sears, where he has acted as host for many delightful functions this season, was the scene of a very enjoyable dinner party on Tuesday evening of this week. Covers were placed for nine.

At the studio of Mrs. Russell Tyson, Manchester-by-the-Sea, Wednesday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock, a very fine program of music was given under the direction of Mrs. Farrington Smith. The artists participating were: Miss Bertha Wesselhoeft Swift, soprano; Horace Britt, 'cellist; Mrs. Smith, at the piano. Among the patronesses of the affair were Mrs. Stoughton Bell, Mrs. Raynal C. Bolling, Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, Mrs. Frederick F. Carey, Mrs. F. L. Higginson, jr., Mrs. Sidney Hutchinson, Mrs. Maynard Ladd, Mrs. John C. Phillips, Mrs. Francis G. Shaw and Mrs. Russell Tyson.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Raymond plan to spend most of the fall and winter at Manchester to keep in touch with operations on their new summer estate, off Beach street, work on which was started a week or two ago. The house is to be completed and ready for use by another season.

The French Amabassador and Mme. Jusserand have returned to Washington from their summer's sojourn in France. The chargé d'affairs, M. Portalis, and family are still in Manchester.

Mrs. and Mrs. Phillip Dexter of Boston and Beverly Farms are expecting to occupy their new summer home noon Forest street, Manchester, for a few weeks this autumn and are making arrangements to do so before leaving the North Shore for Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore (nee Hanna), a bride of last autmun, are concluding their stay at the Farms about Oct. 1 and will go to New York, their future home.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell Bent, who have been at Brownland cottages in Manchester since concluding their stay at the Oceanside, Magnolia, planned to leave the Shore this morning, to go to their country estate at Southboro. Mr. Bent was in personal charge of the W. C. Langley & Co. summer brokerage office at Magnolia this summer.

Tuesday Miss Helen Taft made one of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter's party who motored to the aviation meet. The other guests were Miss Marjorie Colton of Washington, Lieut. Rowcliffe of the U. S. S. Mayflower and Dr. Cary T. Grayson. Charlie Taft has been a constant attendant at the meet and Tuesday was with J. E. Harlow, who is legal advisor of Larz Anderson.

Major and Mrs. Henry L. Higginson's autumn location since leaving West Manchester is Vergennes, Vt., where they have a beautiful estate on Lake Champlain.

Preston Gibson returned from a business trip to New York Tuesday evening of this week. Mrs. Gibson gave a luncheon of twelve covers at her Beverly Farms cottage Tuesday afternoon. Their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Breese, have returned to New York.

George N. Towle is removing his family tomorrow from their Mystery Island cottage to their town house in Newton Centre.

The G. S. Curtis, jr.'s, are occupying the H. L. Higginson small cottage at West Manchester for the autumn. This is the cottage occupied by Dr. Franklin Balch and family the last summer. The Balchs left this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Fabyan of Boston and West Manchester have returned to West Manchester from Buzzards Bay, where they have spent much of the summer.

Robert Blake has been making an extended stay with his mother, Mrs. S. Parkman Blake of Boston and West Manchester. The Blakes will remain on the Shore until Oct. 15.

Miss Amie Clark has been entertaining her fiance from Philadelphia at the West Manchester summer home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard Clark, jr., of Philadelphia, who are leaving for their country estate at St. Davids, Penn., the last of the month. Miss Clark's wedding will be a society event of the coming season in Philadelphia. The Clarks have the refusal of the Boardman cottage for next season again.

Robert Taft concluded his visit with college friends in Chicago Thursday of this week. Messrs. Ewen and August Knight have been his hosts and as Yale chums they did much for his entertainment.

Mrs. Gordon Prince is entertaining her aunt, Mrs. Chickering, who is with her for an autumn visit, after a season in Bar Harbor. Gordon Prince, jr., had as guest over the last week-end, Mr. Cobb of Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan are not due from Europe until the middle of October, so that their West Manchester estate is closed for the season. Miss Dorothy Jordan, since her return from abroad, has been at her farm at Wenham Neck, where she has a most complete establishment and where her brother, Robert Jordan, has spent much of the summer.

George E. Noyes of Boston and West Manchester entertained a number of Boston friends recently by a motor boat trip to Newburyport. The start was made from the Manchester Yacht club.

Miss Amy Lowell came to the North Shore last Friday from her summer home in Dublin, N. H., for a visit of several days, with the G. H. Lymans at Beverly Farms.

W. D. Denegre was called from his Manchester home to New Orleans the latter part of last week by the serious illness of his mother, who passed away Tuesday of this week.

Last Friday evening Mrs. Bryce J. Allen gave a small dinner party at her Beverly Cove residence. The President and Mrs. Taft were included among the guests.

Mrs. and Mrs. Frederick Foster Carey of the Smith's Point, Manchester, colony, are due home from a two weeks' yachting cruise to Maine in the Carey yacht on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Stoughton Bell of Cambridge and Manchester, who accompanied them for a portion of the trip, have returned. Mrs. Carey and Mrs. Bell are sisters. The Careys are leaving Manchester early in October.

The Misses Sawyer of Boston concluded their stay at the Brownland cottages, Manchester, Thursday of this week.

Miss A. M. Swift is closing her North Shore store in the Smith building at Magnolia tomorrow evening, after another very successful season. She has been having a reduction in lamps, shades, mirrors and tables the last week and this sale will close on Saturday.

Work on laying out roads on the new Leiter estate, Beverly Farms, is in operation.

President and Mrs. Taft were guests of honor Thursday evening of this week at a dinner given by Mrs. James McMillan at "Eaglehead," Manchester. Those invited to meet President and Mrs. Taft were Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip McMillan, Mrs. Charles A. Munn, Miss Mabel Boardman and Capt. Butt.

Mrs. A. P. Peabody, after a very pleasant summer at Magnolia, has returned to her Boston home, 37 Commonwealth avenue.

Donna Maria Anna Strozzi of Florence, Italy, has concluded her visit with Marquis Montagliari of the Italian legation, and family, at Manchester and is in Newport.

Mrs. Henry S. Grew of Boston and Manchester, who has been in London as the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, jr., is sailing tomorrow, Sept. 17, on the Baltic for America and is due in Manchester, Sept. 27. Mr. and Mrs. Hall of Newton, relatives of the late Mr. Grew, have been at the Grew cottage on Masconomo street during Mrs. Grew's absence. They departed Thursday of this week.

Monday of this week Mrs. James Marsh Jackson of Boston and Beverly Farms gave a large luncheon.

Miss Dorothy Hancock of Austin, Tex., and Hamilton returns tomorrow from a two weeks' camping trip.

Mrs. Otis H. Luke and Miss Pauline Luke are at the Weirs, N. H., for a few weeks of camp life. Miss Anoretta Luke is visiting Miss Dorothy Melcher at her home in New Hampshire.

Mrs. Taft and Charlie Taft went over to New York Wednesday on a short shopping trip. They were to return to Beverly this afternoon.

Miss Gladys Munn is sailing from New York, next Tuesday, on the Mauretania to complete her education in Europe this winter.

Col. and Mrs. Henry May and family of Washington are concluding their Manchester stay at the Kimball cottage, Oct. 1.

Miss Christine Converse of Boston, is the guest of her mother, Mrs. R. G. Shaw, 2d, this week and has been among the interested spectators at the polo matches at the Myopia Hunt club.

Miss Elizabeth Caswell, little daughter of Mrs. John A. Caswell of "Round Plain Farm," Beverly Farms, has invited several of her little friends of the Farms colony to assist at a fair at her home on Sept. 27, in aid of the Floating Hospital. The little girls will dress as Red Cross nurses.

Patrons of the Grand Maison de Blanc will be interested to know that the concern is opening a new department in their New York store for infants' and children's dresses. The new line, which is just arriving from Paris, and before being shown at their New York store, will be shown at their Magnolia shop on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of the coming week. The store will close for the season on the 24th. The coming week will give North Shore people a splendid chance to do some shopping before the store closes for the season.

EAST GLOUCESTER

"The Apple Tree cottage" is the latest work of the late Elinor Macartney Lane, published. The Harpers have issued the book, which recalls the fact that Mrs. Lane is one of East Gloucester's summer residents of long standing, who have acquired literary fame. "Nancy Stair" and "Katrine" were other famous books of Mrs. Lane.

Blanche Dilloye, a prominent Philadelphia artist who summered at the Rockaway, has been placed on the jury of selection of the Philadelphia Art Academy, a distinct honor.

Rev. Ulysses G. B. Pierce, chaplain of the senate, and President Taft's Washington pastor, who has been registered at the Delphine, preached Sunday in the Beverly Unitarian church with President and Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen Taft in attendance.

Gen. G. C. Reid of Washington has sold to his son, G. Conrad Reid, one-half interest in his holdings on St. Louis avenue, Eastern Point.

Sept. 20 is the general closing dates for the hotels here with the exception of Hawthorne Inn, which will close Oct. 1, and the Harbor View, Rockaway and Pilgrim House still later. The Harbor View does not close until December 1.

Dr. Mary E. Tucker of St. Louis is at Merrill Hall and Dr. S. Mary Ives of Middletown, Conn., at the Mailman House.

Miss Margaret Bondfield, the English suffragette, and candidate (laborite) for the London County Council, who addressed the large number of North Shore society suffragettes at Hawthorne Inn casino last month, recently spoke on the Boston Common assisted by other prominent English and American suffragettes.

Bass Rocks

The Moorland will close Monday, Sept. 19, after a most successful season. Among the guests to register this month were Dr. Frederick Peterson and Mrs. Peterson (nee Rotan) and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Murray, Miss Margaret Murray and chauffeur of New York, who were here for the Drinker-Rotannuptials on the 7th at Grapevine Cove. Mrs. Jameson of Indianapolis, sister of Booth Tarkington, the author, has concluded her extended sojourn at the Moorland and gone to Lake George, N. Y., before going west.

Dr. C. E. Hewitt and wife of Springfield are at the hotel for an autumn visit, having come from Bethlehem, N. H.

Mrs. Henry C. Carter is enjoying a two weeks' sojourn in the Berkshires as the guest of her sister-in-law, Miss Carter of New York, who is spending the summer there. The Carter household will not be removed to New York (from Bass Rocks) until the middle of October.

CAPE ANN RESORTS

Maj. and Mrs. Luther S. Bent of Philadelphia and Annisquam have had a family house party composed of Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Bent (nee Brock), a bride of the past year, from Maryland, and their son, Stedman Bent, at their beautiful "Squam" summer home.

Mrs. Alice Coddington of Boston has returned to her "Squam" cottage, after a sojourn in the Pennsylvania mountains.

Prof. Frederick Smith and family have had Prof. and Mrs. David Muzzey of Yonkers, N. Y., as guests at their "Squam" cottage.

The Brynmere, Annisquam, closes Sept. 20, after a successful season.

Maj. H. W. Schull of the U. S. Army and Watertown Arsenal, and family, have been at the Overlook, Annisquam, for two weeks.

Dr. and Mrs. Farley of Lawrence have been among the early autumn guests at the Ocean View, Pigeon Cove.

Dr. J. E. Woodman and wife of New York; H. J. Eustace and wife of Lansing, Mich.; Mrs. W. H. Moses, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. W. W. Lynn, Duluth, Minn.; and many guests from greater Boston have been registered recently at Straitsmouth Inn.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Taft entertained a few North Shore people at an informal luncheon, at the Taft cottage, Beverly Cove. The guests were Baron Rosen, the Russian ambassador, Baroness Rosen, Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. von Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Higginson, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames, and Capt. A. W. Butt.

Major Walter S. Hale of the Rockport summer colony, on The Headlands, has returned from a trip to Denver, Col.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Seamans have returned to their Pigeon Cove estate, after a month's sojourn at Bretton Woods, N. H.

Bass Rocks

The Keyser and Webb families of Baltimore, who have had Moorland cottages this season, conclude their stay on the 19th also. Otherwise the cottagers will all remain until October 1 and later with the exception of Dr. Silas Ayer and family of Boston and the family of H. M. Plimpton of Norwood, who have already closed their summer homes for the season.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell entertained at their Manchester Cove residence Tuesday evening in honor of President and Mrs. Taft. There were sixteen covers, among the guests being Baron and Baroness Rosen, Miss Mabel Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting, Miss Eleanora Sears and T. Dennie Boardman.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Higginson, jr., who have spent their winters in London since their marriage several years ago, are not to return to England this winter, but will spend it in Boston, after leaving their cottage on Coolidge's Point.

There will be an interesting polo game at the Myopia Hunt club Saturday afternoon, at 2 o'clock for the "vintage of 1895 cups." Three matches will be played under exist-handicaps, each match to consist of four periods of 7 1-2 minutes each.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Forbes and two little children left last Friday, after a visit of a month or more with Mrs. Forbes' mother, Mrs. R. C. Winthrop, and the other members of the family at West Manchester. They have returned to their home in Dover.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerlach are leaving Magnolia the first of the coming week, after a very successful summer, this being their first attempt to have a shop on the North Shore. They have had a big sale of their exclusive Chinese and Japanese dresses, kimonos, etc., and it will be with regret that North Shore shoppers learn they will probably not return to Magnolia the next year, as Mr. Gerlach will spend most of the summer in China looking for new things. They will come here season after next, probably. The Gerlachs have a big store in Pasadena, where many North Shore people will visit them the coming winter.

The casino at Mystery Isles, off Beverly Farms, has been a very popular place recently for dinners. A short time ago, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Munn of Manchester, gave a large dinner dance for fifty and during the past few days dinners have been given by Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Hutchinson of Beverly Farms; Dr. C. A. Porter, Beverly Farms; Francis G. Shaw; Mrs. H. G. Curry, Magnolia; Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Rogers, Mystery Isles; Boylston A. Beal, Manchester. The officers from the U. S. S. Mayflower are enjoying the casino and tennis most every day.

The Mask of Calamities.

Rev. L. H. Ruge Treats the Subject of Human Suffering from the Standpoint of Cause and Effect.

We print below abstracts from a sermon preached at the Congregational church, Manchester, Sunday, Sept. 11, by Rev. L. H. Ruge, the pastor —Ed.

Rev. Mr. Ruge opened his subject by saying, "I have borrowed the phraseology of the title here from Emerson who says, 'Divine Providence sends its chiefest benefits under the mask of calamities.'

"Lowell even more beautifully chimes in with:

"All God's angels come to us disguised,
Sorrow and sickness, poverty and death,
One by one they lift their frowning masks,
And we behold the angel's face beneath."

"But let us go to St. Paul for our text: 'Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory.' II. Cor. IV., 17.

"What a sublime antithesis in this splendid text! What a magnificent reach there is to Paul's hope of ultimate things!

"It is a proposition to which we do not readily give assent, for 'no affliction for the present seemeth joyous but grievous.' That is because life has not reached the ultimate.

"Suffering in some form seems at present to be our fate. We balance between sorrow and joy, failure and success, life and death. That brooding old Persian poet expresses it graphically—

"And here, along this strip of herbage strown
This just divides the desert from the sown."

"The whole intricate problem of human suffering is set forth by Paul under the idea of cause and effect. He comforts us with the thought that the evolution of human events shall at last vindicate God's goodness and love.

"The word, 'worketh' contains both the gist and the redemption of Paul's philosophy. That which stands for heaven and immortal life and happiness is not a reward, a recompense for suffering, but the result. Affliction is the seed; immortal glory is the result. Life is like the strange process of the seed in the ground before it bursts forth into bloom and glory. That process might be called affliction for seed and bulb and root, the flower and fruit the weight of glory.

"Here is a youth training for some physical contest to achieve glory. Every night he lays down sore and afflicted in every part; but the glory of the conflict and conquest shall be the final result. Affliction and glory are here a part of the dispensation of cause and effect.

"Others train as bravely for some intellectual prize, a superintendent's berth or even the presidential chair.

"In every avenue of achievement no man amounts to very much until he suffers something. The toughest, strongest, bravest physique is that which has endured toil or hardship of some sort. The hardest race is that which shivers and freezes under ice and snow half the time.

"Great calamities like the Chicago fire, the fearful Boxer uprising in China, and the San Francisco earthquake are blessings in disguise.

"And like these things is the process of individual suffering. Like a frost that kills all the smiling flowers, like the icy blast that stills all the laughing streams, like the ruthless clutch that grips the singing throat of nature, like the white shroud that covers all the hills and fields comes affliction upon us, but it cannot touch the root and its vitality. The autumn blast may strip the tree of every leaf, but—

"Here above the blast, thro' icy strings,
The Heavenly Father's whisperings."

"See the process of cause and effect upon the sea-shore as the surf afflicts the pebbles and shells in its ceaseless dragging back and forth. How long do you suppose it took, and how many storms, to so polish the pebbles and tint the shells? Affliction, the stones and shells might call it, but what a process of purification and refinement.

"I don't know why, unless it is the purity and refinement I find there, but sufferers appeal to me. It seems to me I never know a man until I have seen him suffer. As I reverently lift the mask of suffering I see a light in the eye, a character in the face I never saw before, an inherent nobility brought forth only in this test of suffering.

"So the ancient King of Israel suffered, and he cried: 'All thy waves and thy billows are gone over me.' Oh, the tears! 'saltier than the estranging sea' that David shed, but he came from the process kinglier than ever.

"Cruel seems the grain of sand Forced within the sensate shell,
But a pearl is gendered there, and—
At, you know the parallel;
Round our soul, the water-swirl
Sings and sings, no pain, no pearl."

"Hear the parable of the flute. The flute complained bitterly in the hands of the artisan; 'once I was a piece of perfect, beautiful wood, but see how I have been bruised and marred with rifts and holes.' 'But,' said the maker, 'this marring means thy glory in the hands of the musician.'

"Hear the parable of the broken violin with a soul. It mourned at its misfortune and wondered how it could ever live and breathe melody again. But the musician, out of a tender regard for his beloved violin, fitted it carefully together and glued it. Then he adjusted the soulful strings and when he drew the bow across its sobbing breast, behold a far sweeter strain than ever before was heard.

"Sorrow and suffering will teach a soul to pray, to reach out after God, if anything ever does.

"You will never know communion with the Spirit of God until you have suffered something. You will never cling to the unseen Father's hand until the skies turn black as with the going out of the last star. You will never drink of the fountain of life until your old earthly cistern runs dry. You will never rest under the shadow of His wing until He has withered the gourd under which you lie dreaming.

SOCIETY NOTES

A wedding of interest to many North Shore people was that of Wednesday of this week at Northampton of Miss Lucy Leffingwell Cable, daughter of George W. Cable, the novelist, and Henry Wolf Bikle of Philadelphia, who is a legal advisor of the Pennsylvania railroad and a lecturer on law in the U. of P. The officiating clergymen were the groom's father, Rev. Dr. Phillip M. Bikle of Gettysburg, Pa., and Rev. W. H. Butler of Northampton. The bridesmaid was Dorothy Cable and the best man, Dr. Paul M. Bikle, brother of the groom. The maid of honor was Miss Oswald Chew of Philadelphia. The bride is a graduate of Smith College and has been pursuing literary work in Philadelphia and New York. The young people left in a private car for Lake Placid, N. Y., where their honeymoon will be spent. Mr. Cable and family are among the prominent literary people who have given the North Shore distinction by summer sojourns, the Pilgrim house, East Gloucester, having been their summer home in recent seasons.

Mrs. Amory Eliot of Boston and Manchester was hostess of a dinner party on Thursday evening.

The outing class of boys and girls of the North Shore colonies of Beverly which has met Wednesdays at the G. S. Mandell estate, Beverly, concluded its meetings for the season this week.

Mrs. Walter Alexander of New York is continuing her stay at the Wheaton cottage, Old Neck, Manchester, until October.

There was a bad auto mix-up at Beverly Farms last Saturday in which figured the automobiles of a member of the Russian embassy and Francis J. Cotting. Mr. Cotting was driving from his summer home at Pride's Crossing to Beverly Farms. As he neared the Dow greenhouse he saw a second car approaching and he slowed down as did the other car. As he did so, a third car driven by the Russian gentleman dashed around the curve at high speed, and the driver endeavored to pass between the others, but the space was too narrow and he collided with the car driven by Mr. Cotting. Mr. Cotting's car being the lighter and going at a slower rate was forced to the sidewalk, thence it fell over the fence guard at this point, then over an embankment of four or five feet burying Mr.

Cotting beneath it. The chauffeur jumped and escaped. Edward L. Kent, who was riding with Mr. Cotting, tumbled out and Mr. Cotting was pinned beneath the car, but in such a way as to escape injury. Mr. Kent was taken to the Beverly hospital, but it was found that no bones were broken.

Though the season is practically over at Magnolia the Oceanside still presents a pretty busy appearance. There were at the hotel the first of the week 275 people and yesterday this number had not diminished under the two hundred mark. It is evident by the number who have made known their intentions to remain until the house closes that fully 100 people will be at the hotel up to the closing day, Sept. 30, especially if the weather holds good. There will be many at the hotel next week in connection with the Intercollegiate Golf Tournament to be held at the Essex County club.

Dr. and Mrs. Alex. Laughlin, jr., and Spencer H. Knapp of Sewickley, Pa., were at the Oceanside this week, Monday to Wednesday. They are motoring.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Bill and Miss Jane E. Bill of Groton, Conn., who have been motoring stopped at the Oceanside Tuesday.

Among the old-time visitors to the Oceanside is S. V. Goodhue of Salem, a member of one of the Witch City's oldest families. He has been coming to Magnolia for years, sometimes several times a week, always making the trip over the road by carriage, and nearly always bringing some member of his family.

SOCIETY NOTES

S. H. Fessenden and family of Newton and Coolidge Point, Manchester, concluded their stay for the season this week.

Miss Miriam Mason, the young sister of Herbert W. Mason, who has spent the summer with her brother and sister-in-law in Manchester, departs the last week of this month for Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., where she attends a fashionable boarding school.

Mrs. Maynard Ladd leaves for the white Mountains tomorrow, where she will remain for a two weeks' rest from her active summer's work in modeling and sculpture study with Grafdy, the noted Philadelphia sculptor, who has a studio at Gloucester. Dr. Ladd will remove his household to Boston early in October.

E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia was a guest of his daughter, Mrs. Sidney E. Hutchinson of Beverly Farms, over the last week-end and was much interested in the proposed improvements and additions, which his son-in-law contemplates to his estate there. Having acquired the adjoining Boardman estate, occupied this summer by Robert G. Shaw, 2d, and family he plans to move the cottage thereon across the street, continue the terraces and big sea wall to its limitations and beautify the grounds. His land across the street, nearest the railroad track, is being prepared for a big poultry yard and will also afford further development of the land for flower gardens, etc. Mr. Hutchinson has been on a yachting cruise in his yacht "Weow," which he chartered for the season.

NOTICE TO VOTERS
REGISTRATION

Office of the Board of Registrars of Voters.
Manchester, Mass., Sept. 15, 1910.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session at the

SELECTMEN'S ROOM
TOWN HALL BUILDING
SATURDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 24
7.30 TO 8.30 P. M.

for the purpose of receiving evidence of the qualification of persons claiming a right to vote at the election to be held on

Nov. 8th, 1910

and of correcting the list of voters.

See that your name is on the Voting List of your town; if not there call at the office of the Board of Registrars on the days above mentioned, and be registered, or you cannot vote. Bring with you a certificate from the assessors or a tax bill or notice from the collector of taxes, showing that you have been assessed a poll tax as a resident of the town of Manchester.

All persons whose names are stricken from the voters' lists for any lawful reason, will, before they can again have their names placed upon said lists, be required to register their names at the time hereinbefore stated in like manner as new voters.

Naturalized citizens presenting themselves for registration must bring their naturalization papers with them.

If a qualified voter of this town whose name was on the voters' list last year, and who has been assessed for the current year, finds, after the close of registration, that his name is not placed on the voters' list of the current year, by reason of having been omitted by clerical error or mistake, he may upon personal application, have his name placed upon the voting list, or, if application be made on the day of election, he may have a certificate to vote.

By Order of the Board of Registrars of Voters.

JAMES H. RIVERS,
CHARLES DANFORTH, LYMAN W. FLOYD,
Board of Registrars.

ONE of our contemporaries says: "What's the matter with Magnolia? This question is asked from this angle: Since the erection of the Curry house some seven or eight years ago not one house of consequence has been built here. At East Gloucester some half dozen high-class houses have been erected each season during that time. Surely no other section of the shore has anything on Magnolia in the way of natural beauty and every factor that makes for popularity. Its combination of seashore and woodland, roadways, accessibility to the heart of the Essex County colony cannot be excelled and yet residence building lags. On the contrary the hotel interest increases in importance. What would Magnolia be without the Oceanside?"

From the above one would infer that Magnolia is sagging—that but for her hotel interests Magnolia would be a small factor in the North Shore. The writer sort of laments the fact that in the last seven or eight years "not one house of consequence has been built here." Good reason, there is not a piece of land at Magnolia today on the market. The whole shore front has gone into the hands of cottagers who are already here and who are so charmed by the beauties of the place that they have purchased every available inch of property. Magnolia territory is built upon more to the square foot than any other part of the North Shore. Good reason there should be more building at East Gloucester—there are twenty-five acres of available land there to twenty-five feet at Magnolia. Magnolia has not reached its zenith by any means—there will probably be many very fine estates built here within the next ten years—just as soon as some of the old-time cottagers are willing to part with some of the beautiful building sites adjoining their large estates so as to share the glory of the surroundings with others. One thing is sure—there is no property waiting around for a purchaser, except perhaps some standing back from the ocean and what many would look upon as "not so desirable." But after all, some of the finest estates along the North Shore are those standing back from the water. Many people like such estates better than those on the water's edge.

Don't leave cats! This ought to be an apropos suggestion, so many of our people are taking leave of their Shore homes. At one of the nearby resorts—Salem Willows—signs have been posted by the S. P. C. A. giving notice that persons who abandon cats are liable to a heavy fine, according to the new state law. The sign also gives notice that the S. P. C. A. will pay a reward for evidence leading to the conviction of any person who abandons cats.

The War on the Fly.

When you see a fly buzzing around these days kill him promptly. By doing so you will head off the production of 1,728,000 flies due to arrive by the first of May, 1911. We do not know positively that that number of flies will come from every single buzzer that is allowed to live through the balance of this season, but when we think of the July and August crop we are inclined to believe it. Some scientist who is interested in flies has been watching the little insect and has followed this matter of propagation to a conclusion and the figures printed above are the result of his investigation.

Time was when the fly was called the public scavenger and he was looked upon with considerable toleration, but that time is past. Now he is the greatest little villain in existence except the mosquito. Another scientist who is a good counter, and who has been studying the fly, says that a bowl of milk exposed to the flies for twenty-four hours will show that there are something like 700,000,000 more bacteria in the milk than there ought to be. Of course, the man, woman or child who drinks this milk will swallow the 700,000,000 bacteria besides the other little animals which go naturally with a bowl of milk which has received reasonable care. Then, when we think of all the places where the fly walks and consider the fact that he never wipes his feet unless it is on the pie and other food of mankind, it will be seen that we have a better chance of living if we can place the fly in the list of the dead. A few fly murders now will save the necessity for a wholesale slaughter next year. Down with the fly!

Mrs. Daniel Edgecomb left Tuesday for a visit to her home in Catalina, Newfoundland.

Miss Margaret Harrigan of Dedham has been visiting Mrs. Hannah Tappan part of this week.

Twelve members of the local Post, G. A. R., participated in the County parade at Swampscott last Saturday.

Mrs. William Lefavour and baby of Roxbury have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Doane, Friend street, this week.

The annual meeting of the Essex County Association W. R. C. was held at Lawrence Wednesday. A number from here attended.

Mrs. Howard Catheron of Needham has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Benjamin S. Bullock and family, School street, the past week.

The first meeting of the Manchester's Woman's club will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 4. Miss Katharine P. Loring will speak on "The Authors I Have Known." Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sinnicks, hostess. Members are requested to obtain tickets of the treasurer, Mrs. Eva H. Rand, before the first meeting.

The recent G. A. R. fair proved a grand success financially and bespeaks the hard work of the committee in charge as well as the benevolent spirit of the townspeople and of members of the summer colony in giving their support to this worthy work. In the neighborhood of $1,000 was raised for the relief fund.

Miss Lottie Butman and Benjamin Stanley were given a kitchen shower last Friday evening by a large circle of friends. The affair was a very enjoyable one for the large number who were present. It is understood that the marriage of the young people will occur the coming month.

Miss Grace M. Prest is enjoying a fortnight's vacation from her duties as bookkeeper at D. T. Beaton's.

The auto fire truck was out last Saturday afternoon on a distance test and general try-out, prior to its acceptance by the town. Selectmen Swett and Bell. Chief Hoare and a number of invited guests went on the trip, going to Gloucester, Essex, Hamilton and Beverly, covering in all a distance of more than fifty miles.

Mrs. Alfred E. Hersey has been spending a few days this week with friends in Maine.

Roland Knight will enter Exeter Academy, Exeter, N. H., the coming week to prepare for college.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hoare and daughter, Emma Hoare, have been on a very pleasant vacation trip to Montreal and Quebec the last two weeks.

There was a bad accident early Tuesday morning near the Cove school house, when a Pole, employed in town and living on Pine street, was run into by an auto belonging to Mrs. Hearn, a guest at the Ocean-side, Magnolia. Those who saw the accident say the fault was wholly the bicyclist's. The man was badly cut, but fortunately no bones were broken.

Last Friday afternoon Mme. Portalis, wife of the French chargé d'affairs, had a close call from being injured at the Sea street crossing in Manchester when her automobile plunged into the gates as a train was approaching the crossing. She was being driven down the steep hill from the direction of Brownland cottages and the chauffeur either did not see the gates or the auto was going so fast it could not be stopped. Whichever may be the case the car smashed through the first gate and would have been held on the track in the path of the on-coming train, had not the gatetender lifted the other gate in time to let the auto pass through. There is a hill on either side of the track and the crossing is considered a dangerous one and is usually avoided by autoists who know the conditions.

Exhibition of Agricultural Society Will Be Held Next Week.

The 90th annual exhibition of the old Essex Agricultural society will be held this year on the Treadwell farm, owned by the society, in Topsfield, and will continue two days instead of three as in former years. The dates are Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 20 and 21.

The fruits, vegetables, flowers and products of the garden will be on exhibition in a tent and not exposed in case of bad weather. Secretary Danforth reports the prospects excellent for a nice country fair, if the weather is right. He has received more entries of cattle and horses already than ever before at this time of the year, and also some of the best bred in the county have been entered. The whole of Topsfield is interested to make a success of the fair in their town, and the summer people, including the Rices, Proctors, Lawrences, Palmers and others will exhibit and can make a good show by itself of their own stock. Topsfield can be reached by train, and also makes a good ride by carriage or automobile.

The show will be devoid of circus or other sensational features, but some attractions will be offered. On Tuesday at 11 a. m. there will be the annual plowing match and trial of harrows. At 3 p. m. the Myopia club will give exhibitions of riding and hurdle jumping. Wednesday at 9.30 a. m. the annual meeting of the society will be held, and at 12.30 p. m. the Topsfield grange will furnish the annual dinner, at which prominent speakers will be presented. In the afternoon there will be a ball game between the Danvers and Middleton teams.

The society this year has deserted its permanent grounds in Peabody, and it is sort of an experiment holding the fair in Topsfield, in a less pretentious manner than formerly, but it is believed that the effort to rehabilitate the county will be a success, and the outlook for exhibits certainly indicates that result.

B. S. Bullock of Bullock's Bakery is the latest convert to the automobile in Manchester. He is out this week with a new Buick runabout.

The Manchester expressmen held their annual dance at the Town hall Wednesday night and the affair was very largely attended. The dance was under the management of Curtis B. Stanley.

Elias Haraden, the oldest inhabitant of Lanesville, passed away the latter part of last week at the age of 94 years, 3 months, 19 days. He was the father of Edward and Albert Haraden of this town.

The Boston & Maine Railroad is to install a bell alarm at the Sea street crossing in compliance with a request by the board of selectmen. It is the intention to do away with the whistling in approaching this crossing.

The selectmen have awarded the contract for building the concrete wall at West Manchester station to Morley, Flatley & Co., whose bid was $1,750. The other bidders were Connolly Bros., $1,785, and George S. Sinnicks, $2,250.

F. B. Colby, who has been chef at the Essex County club for the last five years, concluded his work and left this morning for his home in Boston. Mr. Colby is chef at the Hotel Empire in the Back Bay during the winter season.

The reunion of the parishioners of the Sacred Heart church in the Town hall last evening was a grand success. Seldom, if ever, has such a crowd been packed into the building. The evening proved a most enjoyable one for the 500 or more who attended, the crowd being made up largely of the girls and men employed along the shore. Father Sullivan has worked hard to make the affair a success and he had reason to be proud last night. A very interesting entertainment was given, including a solo by Thomas Coughlin of Boston; selections by Chane's orchestra of Magnolia, which later furnished music for the dance; reading by Patrick H. Boyle, reading by Phelix O'Neil; song, Prof. Wright; song, "Wearing of the Green," Father Sullivan, and as a most fitting climax the "Irish Breakdown" in which several of the young ladies along the shore took part. Dancing continued from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Baker-Bigwood.

A very pretty and largely attended wedding took place Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bigwood, 25 Heard street, Chelsea, when their daughter, Grace Elizabeth was married to Thomas A. Baker of Manchester by the Rev. Francis W. Bakeman of the First Baptist church.

Edward W. Baker, a brother of the groom, was best man, and Miss Charlotte Barnes, a close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. The bride was gowned in pink satin and carried a large bouquet of brides roses. Miss Barnes was handsomely attired in white. Little Grace Macdonald of Chelsea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Macdonald, and another little girl, acted as flower girls.

The several rooms of the house were very prettily decorated and the young people were married amid a profusion of flowers. Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held during which an orchestra, screened by palms and ferns, rendered several selections. A number of relatives and close friends from Manchester attended the wedding. After a brief tour the couple will come to Manchester and they will later leave for St. Augustine, Fla., where Mr. Baker has been employed for a number of winters. They intend to make their home in Manchester. The Breeze joins with many friends in extending congratulations.

Miss Grace Collins of New York is visiting friends at Manchester.

Miss Elsie Bahruth of New York was tendered a delightful birthday party Monday evening in honor of her 20th birthday, there being twenty other young ladies present to help her observe the occasion. The party was given at her home on Sea street.

Miss Mabel Goldsmith is vacationizing at the White Mountains.

Miss Lulu Johnson, assistant postmaster, is having a fortnight's vacation from her duties.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Men's clubhouse association was held in the club-house last evening at 8.30 o'clock. The treasurer reported a balance of $291 in the treasury and subscriptions due amounting to $589. $2,500 has been raised during the present season, reducing the debt to the amount of the mortgage which is $16,000. The entire cost of the property to date is somewhat over $31,000. The property is owned by the subscribers, a share being issued for every $25 subscribed; 578 shares have been issued to date. The property is insured for $25,000 of which $3,000 is on the furnishings. The annual budget indicates a surplus of $250 to be expended on the reduction of the debt. This is after paying the interest of $800 on the mortgage, insurance and all running expenses with an allowance of $150 for repairs. The club-house is therefore on a secure footing for the future. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Treasurer, Frederick J. Libby; clerk, William L. Wilkins, and as additional directors, George A. Upton, Wm. E. MacDonald, Chas. E. Phenix, Henry W. Brown and Oscar P. Story.

The subject of the sermon at the village church next Sunday morning will be "Inspiration and Revelation." "The Pilgrim's Progress," part second, is being given on Friday evenings at the Village church and will be completed next week. The service begins now at 8.15 o'clock as does the Sunday evening service.

Theodore D. Martin, manager of the Men's club, will return to his studies at Hamilton College early next week. Clarence Day, who has assisted in the restaurant, will return on Saturday of this week.

All enjoyed greatly the playing of Rev. A. V. Bliss last Sunday at the Village church. Among the numbers that he played in the evening at the preliminary recital was Wagner's "Evening Star."

The season at the Men's club, which will close October 1, has been the most successful since its establishment. The membership for the season is 221. From the middle of July until well along in September every room in the house has been occupied and numerous applicants were turned away. The restaurant has been taxed to its capacity throughout the season and has successfully met the much felt need of a middle class boarding establishment in Magnolia. The bowling alleys, pool tables, tennis court and other facilities for amusement have been in constant use. The weekly dances held throughout the season have been largely attended and many expressions of appreciation are heard on all sides for the manner in which the club-house is fulfilling purpose for which it was intended. The success of the club is due largely to its very efficient management this season. Fred R. Dunbar, assistant manager, will be in charge at the club for the remainder of the season. The high score cup in bowling was won last week by Frank Treadwell with a score of 297. For the remainder of the season there will be dances on Wednesday and Saturday evenings from 8.30 until 10.30 o'clock.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Harry L. Hannaford in the loss of his aunt, who passed away at her home in Marshfield, Vt., the last of the week.

BOSTON MECHANICS FAIR.Art Loan Exhibit of Paintings and Sculpture to Be One of the Big Features.

The great Mechanics Building on Huntington Avenue, Boston, is rapidly taking on the appearance of a veritable beehive because of the activity of all concerned in the management, painters, decorators, booth builders, electricians, exhibitors and scores of others. The outlook is for the greatest exposition of its kind ever held in Boston and for one of the greatest held within doors in America or in the world. It will be an old-time Mechanics Fair in every sense of the word, not a food fair, but an immense assembly of practical working interest and utility. One big feature will be an Art Loan exhibit of paintings and statuary, of the finest and most valuable character, a vast gallery of costly works of art cheerfully loaned by owners solely because of their public spirit. This department of the exposition alone will well repay many hours of study.

This great Mechanics Exposition will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., every day from Monday, Oct. 3 to Saturday, Oct. 29, inclusive.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

The first opportunity to see a real airship at close range will be afforded at B. F. Keith's Theatre next week. Up to this time the thousands who have seen the flights at the Harvard Aero Meet have not had an opportunity to come in close contact with either the aviators who have become famous, or the machines. Mr. Keith has arranged to have one of the great racers placed on the stage and shown in full operation, while an aviator who has become world famous will tell some of his experiences. After this the audiences will be invited to come upon the stage and get a close view of this wonderful machine. This will only be one remarkable feature in a bill of novelties. Something equally wonderful will be shown in the mammoth production called "Sheehan's Enchantment." In this living figures in beautiful groupings are shown and these dissolve in full view of the audience, other groupings appearing in their places.

debut in New York two months ago was so successful, will make his first appearance in Boston at the Hollis Street Theatre on Sept. 19, in "Love Among the Lions." For the past ten years Mr. Matthews has shared with Gerald du Maurier, in London, the whole field of light comedy, and he brings with him a method of natural acting quite unlike any seen in this country. He is a subtle artist; a kind of early Charles Hawtrey, who prefers to suggest rather than overdo. Indeed, his is a rare faculty of investing a farcical, humorous situation, with a human quality that gives its comedy a lasting impression.

His vehicle, "Love Among the Lions," is particularly suited to him. It is a romantic comedy dramatized by Winchell Smith, author of "The Fortune Hunter," from the well-known novel of the same name written by Frank Anstey, the best known humorist of London Punch. Mr. Matthews takes the part of young Theodore Sanders who is engaged to Lorana de Castro, an impetuous young lady who demands that the wedding ceremony take place in a cage of lions.

EDITORS VISIT STATE FARM AT BRIDGEWATER.

Very Interesting Day's Outing. Bridgewater Said to Be Best Kept Institution in the State.

The members of the Massachusetts Press Association paid a visit to the state farm at Bridgewater, Monday, following out the suggestion of Gov. Draper some months ago. Some thirty-eight members were in the party which left the South station, Boston, at 10.35 under special arrangement with the New York, New Haven and Hartford R. R..

A splendid lunch was served at the home of Capt. H. M. Blackstone, after which the visitors were shown through the various departments of the institution.

Editors Marshall of the Manchester Cricket and Lodge of The Breezes were the only Essex County members present.

The Bridgewater State Farm was established in 1853 and originally consisted of 150 acres. It now includes 1,184 acres and with buildings is valued at $1,032,320.

The number of inmates on Sept. 7 was 2,459, including about 700 criminal insane and 300 state paupers, as it is also the State Almshouse for Southern Massachusetts. Of the 4,680 persons committed there for the last official year, 3,999 came under sentence from the local police courts; 3,583 were males, and 1,504 came from Boston. Drunkenness is by far the principal cause of commitment (3,417), with vagrancy (359) next in importance. While the State Farm is usually the last resort of the police judge, when other appeals to manhood have been tried and failed, and the superintendent of the farm, Mr. Hollis M. Blackstone, says in his report, "They are a broken cog in our machinery and sometimes a real menace, but more often a mere physical stumbling block," he still has faith and continues with these words: "He is still a man, a brother, deserving still an opportunity to try, try again; and after a few months of orderly living, regular sleep and good conduct, co-operating in responsive spirit with his supervision, he has earned the indulgence of renewed confidence to try again." The superintendent believes the Farm to be a real step in progress of true penology and declares that "a vast majority are willing, tactable men, intending to do well—not ill."

While the men are given indeterminate sentences of one year for drunkenness and two years for other offences, a parole system is authorized by law by which those under one year sentence are released at the end of three months, and two year prisoners at the end of nine months. This parole is on condition that the person does not thereafter return to his former habits of dissipation or vagrancy. If he violates his parole he is returned to the Farm for the rest of the original sentence less 30 days deduction for good behavior. While under parole the men are in charge of a corps of volunteer probation officers to whom the man must report within 24 hours after arriving home. These probation officers (an original idea of our State Board of Charity) have been of great service in assisting the men. From 15 to 20 per cent. of the men are returned for violation of their parole. Since this system was established in 1898 the commitments for tramping and vagrancy have dropped from 33 per cent. to 10 per cent.

The farm is cultivated solely in the interest of its own inmates, none of the products being sold. The principal crops are hay, vegetables, milk, eggs and pork. The value of these matured and stored last year was $35,673, no estimate being placed on the garden truck raised. The principal items last year were 500 tons hay, 11,140 bushels potatoes, 47,873 head of cabbage and 8,887 bunches of celery. There are no loafers at the Farm, some 300 being engaged in reclaiming wild land and there are chair, tailor and shoe shops and the regular farm work. While at work the men are under supervision, but do not have a "shot-gun" guard. About 25 or 30 escape each year.

On Sundays religious services, both Catholic and Protestant, are held.

The cost of maintenance in 1909 was $308,999.40 making a per capita expense of $2.56 weekly.

The present farm is a monument to its very efficient superintendent, Mr. Blackstone, who was appointed in 1883. Within 48 hours of taking office the farm buildings were burned to the ground, and he has planned and carried out all the work of the present valuable plant with signal administrative ability.

"Afflictions are light as the seed is light compared to the harvest. 'Light affliction' and a 'weight of glory.'

"Does the man that has made his million bewail the time when he struggled to save his first thousand? Does the artist whose name is of international fame refer to his early efforts and struggle as grievous? Does the man who attains some eminent height bewail the former roughness of the ascent? Those afflictions were light compared to the results gained.

"We think it hard to bear misfortunes and easy to bear prosperity and glory, but the reverse is the case.

"A man has to be fitted for riches and glory as much as for anything else. It takes a strong man to successfully and worthily carry a great weight of wealth. It takes a truly great character to carry the weight of responsibilities and honors of even this little world of ours. How men break and crumble under a weight of wealth and honor. Lots of them go staggering under the weight, a sorry lot. And there is no pleasanter sight than to see those that can wear earth's glory graciously and easily.

"And if there is a larger realm for the soul beyond this life it will not be so easy to carry off its honors. Unfitted for the glories of earth, but how much more unfitted for the glories of heaven?

"The Greek word, 'Baros,' means heavy, massive, hard to bear. Only severe training, and one fitted for the life beyond, shall we be able to wear its weight of responsibilities and honors. As God fits us to endure affliction here He also fits us to wear the weight of glory in the life to come."

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Drislane, who have for several years past been in charge of the H. C. Pierce "Rock Cove" estate, have concluded their services there and have moved to Boston.

The crew of the Mayflower are giving a complimentary hop tonight at Neighbors' hall in return for the good time given the boys Tuesday night at the benefit dance for the brass band when twenty-eight of them were present. Nearly everybody among the young people of Beverly Farms will be invited. It is expected the Mayflower will sail away from the North Shore the coming week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Hatch of Bangor, Me., have spent the past week at the Farms visiting friends. They are to remain here another week.

George Murray has accepted a position at the Spaulding gardens on Greenwood avenue, his duties there being mostly of a clerical nature.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Preston W. R. Corps, 93, was well represented at Lawrence at the Essex County W. R. C. Association gathering, Wednesday.

Howard P. Williams left Monday on one of the Merchants and Miners boats for a vacation trip. He will visit Norfolk, Newport News, Va., Baltimore and Washington.

About the largest gathering of this season at a dance was that on Tuesday evening last in Neighbors' hall. It was a benefit dance given for the funds to be used for the maintenance of the new Beverly Farms Brass Band. Besides a success financially, a good time was had by those present. Among the dancers were 28 members of the crew from the Mayflower.

Thomas Fay of Roxbury yesterday returned home, after a vacation spent at the Farms visiting Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Morgan on West street.

Alexander Carr left yesterday on his trip to Spokane, Wash., where he goes to look over the situation with a view of settling there permanently.

Miss Ethel B., daughter of Mrs. Fannie M. Woodbury of Prospect street, a popular young lady of Beverly, was united in marriage last Saturday evening to Councilman James R. L. Wiseman of Beverly Farms by the Rev. J. H. Downey. The couple were attended by Miss Annie Wiseman as bridesmaid and George Wiseman as best men. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride at which only immediate members of the family were present. The couple are now on a trip to the Provinces.

At the meeting of the aldermen Tuesday evening, Forester H. Pierce was drawn for a juror for the October term of the Superior Court to be held at Newburyport.

Miss Lida, daughter of Jesse Pierce of Hart street, last Saturday was united in marriage to Israel Barnes of Cohasset. The couple, after a few days' visit at Cohasset, returned to the Farms and have taken up their residence at the bride's home on Hart street.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gainley of Vine street, are being congratulated over the arrival of a daughter which came to them the latter part of last week.

John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will hold their semi-monthly meeting in Marshall's hall this evening, which will be an interesting one for the members. There will be three new members initiated and there will also be an election of officers for the ensuing year.

Charles Keefe is to be the garden er and caretaker of Louis A. Shaw's new estate at Preston Place, which includes the farm properties formerly owned by E. K. Morrill and Addison Davis. Mr. Keefe's family are to occupy the cottage, formerly the home of the Addison Davis family.

The Democratic caucus will be held at the Farms on Monday, evening, Sept. 27, and the Republican caucus is to be held on Sept. 28. The Republicans will meet in G. A. R. hall commencing at 5 o'clock p. m., and close at 8. The contest for representative is quite an interesting one. Besides Rep. Parker S. Davis who seeks renomination, Herman Macdonald of the Farms and Councilman Saltonstall are seeking the nomination and former Mayor S. Harvey Dow may also be in the field. There are two places to be filled.

Preston W. R. Corps will hold a public dance in Neighbor's hall next Thursday evening, Sept. 22. The affair is being conducted to secure funds which these estimable ladies are obliged to secure to meet expenses for worthy objects in carrying on their work. Long's orchestra will furnish the music.

Harry Howell has accepted the position of night gatetender at the Farms depot crossing, West street.

Joseph Rourke of Haskell street, this week commenced a college course at the S. Johns College, Danvers.

The bodies of the three men who were drowned at Mystery Island just before 1 o'clock the morning of Aug. 30 have all been recovered. Two of the bodies were found on Saturday of last week and Sunday noon a third body was found floating near the island. All were brought to Salem and were taken in charge by the Salem officials. The three were buried side by side Wednesday.

The committee in charge of the benefit dance held last Tuesday evening in Neighbors' hall in behalf of the Beverly Farms brass band are very grateful for the financial assistance and desire to thank all those who aided towards making the affair a success. The amount received will be sufficient to give the band temporary relief.

Ira B. Case has closed his drug store at Pride's.

Mrs. Edward F. McCarthy and daughter, Helen, of Portsmouth, N. H., have been among the visitors at the Farms this week.

A party of Farms young men have organized an orchestra. They are holding weekly rehearsals and making good progress.

The building committee of the Baptist church next week are to commence making some improvements including painting upon the residence of Rev. Clarence S. Pond.

An additional teacher has been supplied at the Farms school, the grades being divided to facilitate the work. Mrs. Lawrence A. Ford of Beverly is filling the position.

Joseph Haskell, a former Farms resident, has this week sent a number of his friends here Messrs. Hornblower and Weeks' complimentary "Dictionary and Financial Glossary," a neat leather bound volume that is much appreciated by the receivers. Mr. Haskell is the manager in the Boston office of the above firm.

A new member, making eight in all, is to be added to the ward 6 Republican city committee. The position will be taken by whoever is elected at the Republican caucus on Sept. 28. A candidate must, however, file, within a day or two with the secretary of the city committee, his application to have his name placed upon the caucus ballot. Such application must be signed by five Republicans. Blanks can be had from members of the committee.

The Ladies' Sodality are to give a public dance and entertainment in Neighbors' hall, Wednesday evening, Oct 5.

John Grivas, the fruit dealer, feels that a great injustice has been done him by the authorities in visiting his place last week in search of liquor. He claims that somebody is using him wrongly in starting any story which may have resulted in the police visiting his place of business.

The painting firm of H. M. & R. E. Hodgkins have leased the store and other quarters from the new owners of the John Burchstead estate, corner High and Hale streets, and are moving into same. For a long time the concern has occupied portions of the Hardy & Day buildings just across on High street.

Miss Beatrice Allen left yesterday to resume her position as instructor in manual training in the public schools at Springfield.

Fred R. Davis of Cleveland, O., who has been on a vacation trip east has spent a part of this week with Farms friends.

A pretty home wedding occurred last evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Cole, Pride's Crossing, when their daughter, Laura Frances, was united in marriage to Earl Prescott Gibson of Boston. The ceremony was performed by the pastor of the Farms Baptist church, after which a reception was held. The popularity of the young people was attested by the large variety of beautiful wedding gifts. After a short wedding trip they will return to Pride's Crossing, where they will make their home for the present. The Breeze joins with their host of friends in extending hearty congratulations.

You Know The Prophecy About The Man Who Does Things Well, how, though he buries his workshop in the forest, the people will wear a beaten path to his door?

We could not but feel there was a certain application to that prophecy here when two of our two-horse trucks started on trips afar off on Tuesday morning.
One to the heart of the City of Boston, with goods chosen by one who's made architecture a life study, who had been wandering about seeking out pieces that had "feeling," that seemed to bespeak directly their aim and their purpose. That, belonging to a certain school, had, in every line, remained steadfast to it.
Goods made with the thought that they would become steadfast friends. He selected these goods here, after having been attracted by our windows, and dropping into the store, casually, was dumfounded at our selection, and pleased beyond measure at the prices we asked, and said for a fact he felt he had struck a "snap."

The other truck went to Gloucester, with a lot of pretty things selected by a couple that did not really know what they needed—but, coming up here at the suggestion of a friend, threw the burden onto us to make them a pretty home. You may rest assured they have it, such acts of confidence we never betray, and having the field that this stock offers for selecting, enables us to do—no matter what one's taste demands.

Each moment adds beauty now to every line that we carry, and we earnestly are anxious for the opportunity to serve you.

Everything for the home, from the Cellar to Attic.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. W. Harry Brown of Pittsburg and Beverly Cove is entertaining her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle of California. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were among the guests at the luncheon of which Mrs. F. T. Bradbury of Boston and Smith's Point, Manchester, was hostess on Friday last. Mr. Brown is one of the big masters of industry in Pittsburg, Brownsville, Pa., being the centre of his great coal and coke interests. The Brown family are concluding their stay on the North Shore the middle of next month.

The National Horse Show will be held in Madison Square Garden, New York City, the week of November 16.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Stover and their daughter, Mrs. Stott and children of Lowell, are concluding their stay at their cottage on Blossom Lane, Manchester, the last of the month.

—x—

Prof. Robert De Courcy Ward of Harvard University, has returned from his South American trip and has been passing a few days with his family, who have been with Mrs. Ward's mother at "Overledge," Manchester-by-the-Sea, for the summer.

—x—

Walter D. Denegre of "Villa Crest," West Manchester, has just returned from the South, where he was called because of the death at New Orleans of his mother, the widow of James D. Denegre. She was ninety-two years of age. Her death marks the passing of one of the grand dames of New Orleans and the oldest representative of a family conspicuous in life of that city for many years. Mrs. Denegre was a noted beauty in her youth and womanhood. She married in 1837 James D. Denegre, who for fifteen years prior to his death in 1865, was president of the Citizens' Bank, which his great ability made the most noted bank of the South at that time. Shortly after the occupation of New Orleans by the Federal Army, Mr. Denegre was exiled by order of General Banks, and settled in Belgium. His death left his widow the head of a family of thirteen children, the eldest of whom was twenty-six. Returning to New Orleans at the close of the war, Mrs. Denegre devoted her efforts to the care and education of her children, her life being a signal example of that dignity, ability and character, which in so many instances has marked the heads of the old families of the South. Of the thirteen children, ten survive, as do also thirteen grandchildren and twenty-five great grandchildren.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter are leaving the North Shore shortly for the Virginian Hot Springs where they will spend three weeks, before going to Washington where they will spend most of the winter, with the exception of a short European trip before spring, perhaps. Mrs. L. Z. Leiter is to remain on the Shore until well along in October, attending to the furnishing of her new summer home at Beverly Farms. She will not live in it this autumn, but she plans to leave it in such a way that it will be ready for occupancy next spring when she comes from Washington for the summer.

The Misses Paine closed their cottage at Pride's Crossing this week and returned to their Boston residence on Brimmer street.

—x—

Mrs. James Howe is due tomorrow as the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. George D. Howe of Boston and Smith's Point, Manchester, after a summer's sojourn abroad. Mrs. Howe does not close The Cliffs, her Manchester estate, until the middle of October.

—x—

The charge d'affaires of the French embassy, M. Portalis and wife returned Monday of this week to Manchester from a several days' trip to Canada.

—x—

Robert C. Winthrop, jr., who has been spending a portion of the summer at the family estate at West Manchester, is sailing for Europe, September 28.

—x—

Secretary of the Navy Meyer entertained the President at luncheon last Saturday and last Sunday evening, President and Mrs. Taft were dinner guests of Justice and Mrs. O. W. Holmes at Beverly Farms. The guests present were Judge and Mrs. W. C. Loring of Prides Crossing, Miss Joanna Davidge of New York and East Gloucester, and Capt. Butt. Justice and Mrs. Holmes are leaving for Washington Sept 28.

Mrs. John S. Carter, who has been passing the summer with her mother, Mrs. Francis A. Lane at her cottage, Overledge, Manchester-by-the-Sea, has returned to her home in St. Louis.

—x—

About 50 huntsmen, members of the Myopia Hunt club, went out for a short run with the hunters last Saturday. The run was from the summer home of Cong. A. P. Gardner at Hamilton over the hills and through farm-yards to the summer home of R. C. Robbins. The party were the guests of R. C. Robbins at breakfast.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Dr. Percival Lombard is due at his Beverly Cove cottage this week from a two weeks' western trip. Mrs. Lombard has been entertaining a house party of relatives and friends.

Col. Gaston of Boston has been the guest of A. Shuman of Boston, at "Hetmere," his beautiful Beverly estate. Last Friday evening there was a very enjoyable family dinner party at "Hetmere," the participants being Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Ratshesky, Boston, and Swampscott; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Shuman, Boston and Marblehead; Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Steinert, Boston and Beverly Cove.

Mrs. Bryce J. Allen of Beverly, who has taken a leading role as a North Shore hostess this season, gave a dinner party last Sunday evening and will entertain in like fashion next Sunday evening. Mrs. Allen will act as chaperone for her niece, Miss Lily Sears, who will have her formal debut in society Dec. 8, in Boston.

Mrs. Guy Norman of Beverly had on her social calendar this week a luncheon on Monday and she has a dinner party scheduled for next Sunday.

Amory A. Lawrence is expected home from his European trip early next month. Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lawrence, who are at the Lawrence estate during his absence, have Mrs. Atherton of Boston, Mrs. Lawrence's mother, as their guest.

Mrs. Oliver Ames was hostess of a dinner party at her Pride's Crossing estate last Saturday evening.

The final race of the season of the Manchester Yacht club was sailed last Saturday afternoon between the boats of the One Design Class, which was made necessary by calling off the race of Labor Day when the boats did not finish within the time limit. There were only four starters and the conditions were anything but satisfactory, there being a heavy sea running and the wind extremely light and fluky. The Gnat, owned by Richard Ames, finished five seconds ahead of the Lamb, owned by Miss Edith Fabyan. The Asteria, owned by C. E. Hodges, Jr., and the Terrapin, owned by Robert Storer withdrew. The race decided the series, giving the Iris cup, offered by Francis M. Whitehouse, to the Lamb, which has been most skillfully handled all the season by Miss Edith Fabyan, daughter of Francis W. Fabyan.

With the closing of the North Shore Grill club and the Green Gables tea-room on Monday of this week, the Aborn hotel on Sept. 16, and the Hesperus hotel, last week also, one realizes that Magnolia's summer activities are indeed on the wane, with the exception of the Oceanside, which will remain open until October first. This induces many cottagers also to extend their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland have returned to West Manchester from a week's auto trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Cotting of Boston and West Manchester have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cunningham. Their son, Charles E., Jr., is resuming his studies at Harvard, Sept 28. He has been entertaining Herbert Jacques and Mr. Balch of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Tibbetts of Boston have arrived at their West Manchester estate on Harbor street for the autumn and winter.

Henry S. Grew, 2nd, is removing his household from West Manchester to Boston on October 3.

Mrs. E. B. Everett of Boston is closing her cottage on the picturesque Old Fort point near the West Manchester depot on October 10.

Yacht Chanticleer owned by E. C. Fitch of Boston and Manchester and chartered this season by Joseph Leiter, went out of commission Monday of this week after a two weeks' cruise to Long Island Sound, New London, New Bedford, and other points. Mr. Leiter was accompanied by his wife and a few friends. There has been much entertaining on board during the summer.

The fine weather induced C. E. Hodges and family to remain a few days longer at West Manchester than they originally planned, so that they did not depart for Brookline until Monday of this week.

Childs Frick is expected from his summer sojourn in British Columbia and vicinity the last of this month. Miss Helen Frick was much interested in the reunion of the girls at her vacation farm at Wenham Saturday. All the young women who have enjoyed its privileges during the summer met that day for a reunion party and Miss Frick had special plans made for their entertainment.

Mrs. Henry P. King and son returned to Pride's last Friday after a sojourn in Kineo, Maine.

Miss Juliet Higginson of Pride's has transferred her interests to Dover, Mass., where she has a fine farm and where she will make an extended autumn sojourn.

Private Reservation

FOR SHOOTING, FISHING, AND GAME

The owner of a very fine piece of property of 400 acres on the Renous River, New Brunswick, has decided to either sell or lease for a term of years. Location in the heart of the New Brunswick woods, with game of all kinds abounding. A beautiful brook, alive with trout, runs through the land. Good lumber property.

An exceptionally fine opportunity for some North Shore gentlemen to obtain Private Reservation at moderate price. Owner is willing to lease for term of 30 years at end of which time property will revert to lessee.

The Atlantic Seashore Development.

The Maine Coast.

Land of the good Samoset whom historians, novelists and poets delight to honor—land of riven rocks piled in lofty grandeur, cove-carved and deep-basined bays—land of kaleidoscopic views and dissolving vistas at morn and eventide—land famed for centuries as the world's marine parkway—the Maine coast.

The fame of this unparalleled seashore is spreading world-wide and increasing numbers each year vie in glowing prophecies of the eventual glory of the gardens and estates that will crown these shores.

One of the most fascinating things about it is its ilimitable variety of charm. A miniature island, a flinty ledge, a rugged ridge crowned with firs, a fertile slope edged by deep blue coves, a stretch of golden sand, a woodland camp site, a popular beach, a lure where streams mingle their laughter with the sport of the sea—what infinite charm stretched for 3,000 miles through the edge of the limitless sea.

From New Hampshire to the Provinces the panoramic glory ever unfolds in a seashore grandeur this old earth duplicated nowhere.

A short spin into the interior carries one into the midst of scenes bewildering, with mountain peaks, lakes, forests and rivers unsurpassed. One day thrilled with the sport of deep-sea fishing, the next day climbing the heights where lofty mountains lift their white brows to the sky.

And this American coastline is the largest, grandest and likewise the only coastwise left on the Atlantic for the millionaires to carry out the English idea of great landed gentlemen's estates.

The tide of investment in these lands has set in and from Portland to Bar Harbor choice headlands and islands have disappeared from the market. Wealthy men are associating themselves all along the coast and are buying up great tracts inland to preserve the natural grandeur of the background that nature has piled up in scenes sometimes magnified in the crystal atmosphere in views never to be forgotten.

Whittier, catching the glory of the setting sun with its mellowed tints blending with the silver of the moon, is simply baffled in the lines—

"The glory of the sunset heavens.
On land and water lay."

But surely an angel might pause in putting its glory into forms of speech and song.

Ah, the rest and the gift of forgetfulness here on land and sea! No screeching whistles, no clang and clatter to beat the fagged brain and jar the worn nerves, no vexatious cares, no strenuous life; all sunk in the solemn silence of the eternal hills and the unfathomed blue of sea and sky.

On no sea coast are there such cliffs and rocks, shattered in pre-historic times, veritable grim sentinels looking out to sea eternally on guard. The lure of these rocky heads, surf-pounded and forest-crowned above the turquoise waters cannot be told. Some of them jut out so far as to be practically surrounded by water. Ridges of these rugged promontories, reefs and islands fringe the coast line and make ideal fishing haunts among the ledges.

Here are hundreds of sea-isle gems that Longfellow immortalized in the lines—

"Islands that were the Hesperides
Of all my boyish dreams."—

each one an ideal domain, a miniature kingdom, inhabited by some anchoritic family or congenial community, stretching away into magnificent views beyond the skyline of endless islands caressed by the murmuring labyrinth of tides.

It is the very revelling place of that old boisterous reveller, Neptune. Here the sea beats with tireless but impotent rage, battering away in its futile attempt to break down the huge barriers of the land.

There is infinite choice, from the excitement of the open sea with its sheen of far-shimmering waters to the land-locked glassy bay with only the lazy flapping of a sail to break the drowsy spell where one may idly drift and angle to the heart's content.

In other haunts the emerald bays are flecked with a thousand sails, staunch motor boats and elegant yachts, all gay with fluttering flags and bright attire, a constant moving picture through the intricacies of islands and bays; but over it all and forever only the sound of the restless sea.

The charm of this coast and climate grows. People begin to appreciate the fact that May and June are even superior to July and August. And the spell of the autumn stretches the season to six months and more.

Ever-growing multitudes lay in a supply of sea air in every crevice of the lungs and store up a brimming cup of memories to quaff at fireside and club until their return the following year.

New Hampshire, with its Hampton and Rye, beaches now famous, must not be overlooked because it barely touches the sea. Isle of Shoals, an hour's sail from Portsmouth, has figured in many a fascinating tale and much of the old traditional mystery surrounds them still. They have become known abroad and have been extolled by world-wide gifted pens.

Many are the favorite resorts further on, such as York Beach and Kennebunk, with the Kennebunk River, a resort for canoeists and noted for picturesque river carnivals.

Old Orchard has long been known as Maine's Atlantic City with its cosmopolitan crowds, its popular amusements, casino and summer theatres. Its growth is extending on all sides and a syndicate is buying everything in sight.

Popham of historic fame, Spurr Island of elegant homes and refinement, Camden of varied attraction in seashore and mountain scenery famed for its beautiful roads that wind round lakes and up the slopes, each vista unfolding larger and more entrancing visions, are ever growing in favor; and Castine of former military fame, and numberless others of hardly less charm are rapidly forging links in a chain of summer colonies and resorts that will soon embrace the stupendous marine playground to Mt. Desert and Bar Harbor.

The great Island with its mountains and hills rising out of the sea, its sloping lawns is the climax of the coast. No old-world seas and resorts can compare in freshness and glory with the scenery of Frenchman's Bay and Mt. Desert. At Bar Harbor an ever-increasing number of millionaires of corporate notoriety, foreign diplomats, soldiers of fortune, and others of the "smart set" resort. If Old Orchard duplicates Atlantic City, Bar Harbor duplicates Newport's hysterical set.

But a description of the Maine coast would not be complete without a word extolling its metropolis: Portland, founded in 1632—battered in the Revolution by the British fleet—the home of many notables in American history—noted for some of the oddest and quaintest setting in the new world—of literary fame and blue blood—of Bramhall Hill boulevard, of beautiful parks, of elegant old mansions, of views at sea and inland to the White Mountains, eighty miles away—of unparalleled harbor, of bay famed for centuries in Europe and America and archipelago of rare natural grandeur. Portland is the center of seashore recreation with every imaginable pleasure and luxury added. It is the center of three great railroad systems and the port of luxurious coast-wise steamers. It is a city rapidly growing in prominence and wealth, from which are radiating numberless projects and influences for the enhancement of Maine values; a city of which Maine people may well be proud.

Men of millions have their eyes on land as the most staple security, and especially on seacoast territory so rapidly increasing in value as our interior population makes its constantly growing demands upon it. And these men of millions are buying in princely fashion of gilt-edged sea and sun-kissed lands along the Atlantic. In some cases men are buying square miles of territory including farms, villages, stores and even churches in much the same fashion as the lords of the land abroad.

Even those familiar with the movement along the seashore are amazed at the steady and rapid increase in waterfront values. And Maine is practically the only state bordering the Atlantic where there is still room enough for the great landed estates and hunting preserves demanded today by the multi-millionaires of America. When landscape gardeners, tree experts, architects, builders and engineering skill gets to work in earnest on that grand stretch of coast the world will stand and marvel at the result.

Editor's Note.—This is the last in the series of articles on the "Atlantic Seashore Development" from the pen of the Rev. Louis H. Rugé. Every one who knows Mr. Rugé knows that he is an enthusiast on the Atlantic seashore. He is familiar with it and has made a study of the situation he describes which has been verified by residents in places described. As he said in an early article on the development of the "North Shore" here, it is a detail of the comprehensive movement everywhere of unnumbered millions spent in seashore development in the last thirty years. The movement by millionaires to make their country estates their real home with a house in the city perhaps, after the manner of the English gentleman, is a movement well under way with indications that the European landed estates will be eventually eclipsed by Americans.

We suggest to those that keep files of the Breeze that they give the articles a second reading to get a comprehensive idea of their significance. They are well worth reading again for their choice phraseology and descriptive beauty aside from a study of seashore land investment. Mr. Rugé will be glad to answer any inquiries if accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope.

SOCIETY NOTES

The Misses Katherine P. and Louisa P. Loring are remaining practically all winter at "Burnside," their beautiful Pride's estate, where such distinguished guests as Pres. Taft and Ambassador and Mrs. James Bryce of England have been entertained this season. The magnificent natural forest avenue, which approaches the estate, is one of the grandest sections of primeval forest retained on the shore and creates most enthusiastic interest when visited.

Col. and Mrs. R. H. Stevenson of Pride's gave a small luncheon on last Saturday. Covers were laid for eight.

Edward L. Kent of Boston, guest of F. J. Cotting of Boston and Pride's, who was injured in the auto accident at Beverly Farms two weeks ago, has been at the Cotting cottage for several days since with Drs. Jackson and Johnson in attendance. An X-Ray examination was deemed necessary to determine the injury. Mr. Kent was down only for a week-end visit but was unable to return to Boston all last week.

Mrs. John Silsbee Curtis gave a dinner party Tuesday evening of this week at her summer home on Storrow Hill, Beverly Farms.

Mrs. Samuel T. Morse and family removed to Boston from Beverly Farms Thursday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Goddard of Boston and Beverly Farms returned Wednesday of this week from a camping trip to St. Huberts, N. Y.

Mrs. Hanna of Cleveland, who has been the tenant of Jumbo cottage, Beverly Farms, is concluding her stay about October 1. This is Mrs. Hanna's first season as a cottager on the North Shore and she has entertained extensively during the season. Members of the Harri-man family of New York were among those entertained at various times. Young Hanna resumes his studies at Yale the last of September. They have become very fond of the North Shore and may return another season.

Departures from Beverly Farms next week will include the family of Frederick R. Sears of Boston on September 29.

An engagement of interest to the Boston and Washington contingent on the North Shore is that of Miss Olga Converse, daughter of the late Rear Admiral George Converse, U. S. N., of Washington, to Augustine Derby, Harvard, 1903, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hasket Derby of 352 Beacon street, Boston.

Mrs. Hall McAllister, who has been at the Archibald cottage in Nahant all summer, has returned to Boston.

Patrick T. Jackson of Cambridge has arrived at Pride's after a summer sojourn in Europe. Mr. Jackson is a brother of Prof. Chas. Lovering Jackson of Harvard, who also spends the summer in Pride's.

Distinguished visitors at the Fairfax, Beverly, recently included Hon. H. McKenzie of Melbourne, Australia, who came to see Pres. Taft regarding irrigation and conservation. He is minister of lands at Victoria and a member of the Australia legislature. John Dennison Champlin of New York City, the noted literateur and editor of the Standard dictionaries and encyclopaedias, with Mrs. Champlin have also been at the Fairfax. Mr. Champlin's work the past year has been the editing of the works of Senator Depew, who was his class-mate at Yale. The volumes cover the political history of U. S., for half a century. Mrs. C. W. Haddock, wife of Dr. Haddock of Beverly, is a sister of Mrs. Champlin.

SOCIETY NOTES

Previous to President Taft's departure last Sunday, for a two weeks' western trip, he and Mrs. Taft were guests at a dinner Saturday evening, Sept. 17, given by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman of Washington and Manchester. Among the guests present was John Barrett of Washington, director of the Bureau of Republics.

John Philip Sousa, whose family spent several weeks at the Oceanside, Magnolia, this summer, opened the Pittsburg exposition this week with his band of sixty musicians. January 2, he starts on a musical tour of the world with his famous band.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Blackwood Fay and family will be among the late sojourners at Manchester this season and will remain until the middle of October.

The George Armours, who have been occupying "Crowhurst," the F. M. Whitehouse estate at Manchester, have concluded their stay and have gone to Princeton, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement S. Houghton of Chestnut Hill are at their winter home, having closed their cottage on Coolidge's Point, Manchester.

The nuptials of Miss Anna B. McFadon of Quincy, Ill., and Thomas Dorman of Upper Montclair, N. J., are to be solemnized in the Union Chapel, Magnolia, October first and will be a festive climax to the end of the social season there. Miss McFadon is a daughter of Mrs. Wm. McFadon of Quincy, Ill., and a granddaughter of Mrs. C. H. Bull, who has a summer home on Lexington avenue, Magnolia, and is a summer resident of long standing.

Mr. and Mrs. Asaph Churchill of Milton, who have been tenants of the Kirby cottage, Magnolia, have concluded their stay, also the Alfred P. Emmons family of Brookline, who departed Wednesday of this week, from their cottage on Western avenue.

Magnolia cottagers who have closed their summer homes are John T. Clark, Jamaica Plain; Eugene Cuendet, St. Louis; H. H. Adams, Dalas, Tex., and John B. Drake, Jr., Chicago. Mrs. Wm. McMillan of St. Louis closed Briar Rock, her Magnolia estate on Sept. 15.

The Wallace C. Nichols family of Chicago departed from Magnolia Sept. 15.

Stephen M. Clement and family of Buffalo, concluded their stay at Underwood cottage, Shore road, Magnolia, on Sept. 17.

Russell Lee Steinert of Beverly Cove has resumed his studies at Dartmouth College after a pleasant trip to Chicago and other western points. The Steinert family are removing from the Cove to Boston October 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Noble Burnham are closing their studio in the Library building, Magnolia, about the 28th and on October 1, sail for Italy on the Romanic, where they will take up their residence in Rome for the winter.

Col. and Mrs. Wm. R. Nelson have closed their cottage at Magnolia for the season. Col. Nelson preceded his household to Kansas City two weeks ago and at that time his yacht, Hoosier, also went out of commission.

Russell S. Codman of Boston, planned to move his family this week from the small Clark cottage, Blossom Lane, Manchester, to their house on Marlboro street.

AT THE HOTELS.

The Oceanside, Magnolia.

There were 150 guests registered at the Oceanside the middle of this week. The management expects there will be fully 100 guests at the hotel when it closes next Friday, September 30. The last of the Saturday night hops at the hotel was held last week.

The Bagnells left Magnolia Tuesday after a very pleasant season. They had a cottage this year,—one of those connected with the Oceanside. They will stop at New York before going to their home in St. Louis, so that Miss Effie Bagnell can get her wedding trousseau.

The surf last Sunday morning was magnificent and many of the guests and cottagers at Magnolia had the opportunity of seeing one of the most beautiful sights in their lives.

Major Schull, U. S. A., and Mrs. Schull were among the dinner guests at the Oceanside last Sunday evening.

Mrs. N. D. Maher, H. R. Maher and Miss Maher of Virginia were at Magnolia this week for a short stay. Mr. Maher is the second vice-president and general manager of the Norfolk & Western Railway. They spent most of last season at the Oceanside, but they have been abroad this year. They are now planning to come to Magnolia next year for a long season.

A number of the college boys, who have been at Manchester this week for the Intercollegiate Golf Championship, have been stopping at the Oceanside. Among them were Robert A. Gardner of Chicago, the amateur golf champion of the United States; also Henry W. Barrel and H. B. Heyburn of Louisville; Aubrey Huston, Howard C. McCall and John F. Hastings of Philadelphia and Paul Burleigh of Merchantsville, N. J.

Miss Marion McGinley of the Manchester summer colony has been spending a few days this week with her friend, Miss Dolly Bradley of Brookline at the Oceanside.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Carter of Brookline motored to Magnolia last Sunday and lunched with the former's brother, George E. Carter and family.

Charles B. Thorne of New Orleans was a guest over the last week-end of the E. M. Houses, who are to remain at the Oceanside until it closes.

Bishop George W. Peterkin of Parkersburg, W. Va., was at the Oceanside a few days this week, a guest of Mrs. D. M. Steward and daughters.

Cape Ann Resorts

Hon. C. P. Bond and family of Waltham have closed their summer home on the Headlands, Rockport, and the family of George Harvey of Marmion Way, Rockport, have returned to Forest Hills.

Judge Johnson and family of Woburn are still at their Rockport cottage.

Mrs. A. N. Blair of Washington closed her Annisquam cottage this week.

George M. Brown and family, prominent members of the Cambridge cottage colony at Annisquam, have returned home, as have the H. F. Rawson family of Arlington.

Dr. Albert Evans and family of Boston are among the late cottage sojourners at 'Squam.

The Harbor View, East Gloucester, closes on November 1, and not December 1, as we stated erroneously last week.

..Along the Cape Ann Shore..

EAST GLOUCESTER

Although departures are many there is a strong tendency to linger here and enjoy the autumn in full measure.

Mrs. Albert Lewis of Jamaica Plain is at her cottage next to the Beachcroft for her annual autumn stay and has been entertaining her step-daughter from New York. Her son, Charles renews his studies at Harvard next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lunt of Boston, Hawthorn Inn guests of long standing, are at the Inn for September, after a ten weeks' sojourn abroad.

Judge and Mrs. W. S. Grey of New York have closed their cottage, as have W. Beach Olmstead of Pomfret, Ct., and family, their summer home off the Eastern Point boulevard.

The family of F. F. Flagg of New York, vice-president of the American Express company, have vacated Mrs. Anne A. Curtis's cottage, "Windover." Mrs. Wallace Griffin and family of Baltimore have concluded their stay at the Wonson cottage, Paradise Point. Miss M. N. Shepherd of New York, who had the Gate Lodge, has returned to the metropolis.

Gen. and Mrs. Anson Mills are remaining at their concrete mansion until December.

Louis A. Hermann and family of New York concluded their stay at the Elliott cottage, Grapevine Cove, Tuesday of this week.

Nathaniel L. Gorton, who recently sold his Eastern Point estate to R. C. Rathbone of New York and Hawthorn Inn, plans to erect another summer home at the Point. This will be the third summer home Mr. Gorton will have had erected at this resort.

Merrill Hall has closed for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Jay Little are planning to have another cottage erected on one of their Eastern Point lots during the winter.

The Eastern Point Golf club house will remain open until October 1. Golf and afternoon tea parties continue to be very popular there.

September arrivals at the Harbor View include: Clary Ray, the Washington artist, who was at the Moorland, Bass Rocks; Mrs. F. H. Pratt and family of Bennington, Vt.; Misses Marion McDonald and F. M. Whipple, Brookline; Mrs. C. R. Eastman, A. C. Eastman, Cambridge; Mrs. T. C. Brainerd, Miss Brainerd, Montreal.

Congressman and Mrs. J. Sloat Fassett of Washington and Elmira, N. Y., whose beautiful and costly summer home at Grapevine Cove has been closed this season, have arrived home from their summer's trip abroad on the White Star liner Zeeland. Mrs. Fassett declared $3,300 worth of goods and the Congressman $2,000 in custom dues, the largest for many months paid at the Boston Custom House.

BASS ROCKS

There is much social activity here these lovely autumn days among the late stayers; despite the daily departure from summer homes. Among the recent hostesses of the bridge club were Mrs. James W. Newell for last week, and Miss Millicent Jarvie, who entertained Tuesday afternoon. Wednesday evening, Mrs. E. B. Sargent of Cincinnati was hostess for the gentleman's night of the club. The ladies have been contesting for a cup, which will be presented to the player winning the most points this season.

Last Sunday, Mrs. Edward Rotan was hostess of a dinner party of eight covers. The guests included Dr. Wm. Jarvie, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lillie of Philadelphia and Eastern Point and Mr. and Mrs. George Rotan. Mr. Rotan, sr., has returned to Waco, Texas.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Arthur Maxwell Parker's handsome concrete villa on Souther road was opened most hospitably for a tea in honor of Mrs. Parker's aunt, Mrs. Goodwin of Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Farnsworth have returned from Europe and were here for a few days before going to Tennessee. They rented their cottage here this season.

Miss Georgiana Dodge and her sister, Mrs. Mills, entertained for a few days this week, Miss Armes of Lexington, and Miss Norton of Toledo, Ohio.

Arthur M. Cox and family are leaving their summer home tomorrow and will make the journey to New York in their autos.

Among the departures from summer homes have been the families of Chas. May, sr., of Brookline; Granville M. Stoddard, Worcester; Mr. Hugely of Winchester and Mr. and Mrs. Wier, Lowell. Mr. and Mrs. Hugely, sr., went to the mountains from Bass Rocks, but Mr. and Mrs. Hugely, jr., went to Winchester. E. H. Cutler and family of Springfield, who own the cottage which the Hugely family occupied, have arrived for an autumn sojourn.

Robert Laidlaw and family of New York departed from their Bass Rocks cottage today.

Although the Moorland's formal season closed Monday of this week twenty guests remained until today, dining tables being arranged in the hotel lobby, and the informal stay was much enjoyed and the accommodation much appreciated.

SOCIETY NOTES

Edward S. Moore of Chicago has joined his family, who are guests of Judge and Mrs. Wm. H. Moore of Pride's Crossing and he will spend several weeks there with them as a vacation past time.

John T. Morse, jr., and family of Boston are concluding their stay at Pride's Crossing, September 29.

Mrs. Wm. M. Wood is planning to return to the F. L. Higginson cottage at Pride's for two weeks after her younger children are settled in their respective schools. The family are at present at Arden, their country estate in Andover.

E. L. Davis and family of Worcester departed from the Wheelwright cottage, Pride's Crossing, Tuesday of this week.

Harcourt Amory and family of Boston and Pride's were in New York this week to attend the wedding of a relative.

Mrs. Chas. H. Dalton brings her season's stay at West Beach Hill, Beverly Farms, to a close on September 29, and will then open her residence on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, for late autumn and winter.

Watson F. Blair and family are concluding their stay at the Stevens cottage, Manchester, Sept. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seabury and son Howland came up from Cohasset over the week-end and were guests of the Thomas McKees at Beverly Farms.

S. Parker Bremer and family are planning to close their Manchester cottage and remove to Boston Sept. 27.

Mrs. Francis R. Allen of West Manchester is expected this week from Canandaigua, N. Y., where she has been visiting for the past three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Allen are not returning to Boston until the last of October.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Whitehouse and son are still stopping aboard the Iris and will not take occupancy of their Manchester estate "Crowhurst," until the middle of October. Meredyth Whitehouse, the son, enters Harvard next week.

The Sill family of Philadelphia concluded their season's stay at the Brownland cottages, Manchester, Thursday of this week.

Major and Mrs. Henry L. Higginson returned Thursday of this week to West Manchester from their stay at their estate at Lake Champlain.

Russell Tyson and family of Chicago are remaining at Manchester until the middle of October.

Joseph Leiter, who utilized the greater portion of his stay on the North Shore in yachting and cruising, plans to have a schooner yacht built for his use here next season and it will be of the same style as the "Chanticleer," which he had in commission, it is said.

There will be a polo match at the Myopia Hunt club Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock for the "Revised Cups." On Saturday, October 1, at 3 o'clock "The Stout Tankards" match will be played. These latter are presented by J. A. L. Blake.

The casino at Mystery Isles, off Beverly Farms, will be kept open until the 17th of October. Many have taken advantage of the pleasant weather the past week for dinners at the Inn. The launch meets parties on telephone call at any hour from West Beach pier.

Robert Taft is entertaining at Beverly, Steve Philbin, the former Yale base-ball and foot-ball player, who is to enter Harvard for a law school course. Young Taft, Capt. Ruben Wodell of the Yale crew are other Yale men who will enter the Harvard Law School.

Mrs. George Peirce of Brookline closed "Greyledge," her Manchester cottage on Sea street, Thursday.

Mrs. Joseph Proctor and Miss Anna Proctor, who have spent the summer at Oxford, Maine, are due in Manchester for the autumn.

Mrs. Lucius J. Knowles spent a portion of the week in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Knowles, who have been guests since their return from Europe of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. McGinley at Manchester, are returning to their Worcester home, October 1. Miss Lois McGinley resumes her studies at Briarcliffe, N. Y., on October 5.

The George E. Warrens are planning to remain late at their Manchester cottage on Blossom lane.

Philip P. Chase and family concluded their stay in Manchester Monday of this week and returned to their home in Milton.

Edmund K. Arnold and family of Boston will not leave their Manchester cottage until the last of October. Mr. Arnold plans to have an addition made to the house, and other improvements.

—x—

"The Indian Store," opposite the Colonnade, Magnolia, will remain open until Oct. 1, with a full stock of abalone jewelry, pottery, toys, and other special lines. *

SOCIETY NOTES

George E. Cabot of Smith's Point, Manchester, is enjoying a ten-days' auto trip to New Hampshire with Boston friends.

Rev. William H. Dewart and family have returned from Little Boars Head, N. H., to their winter home, Brush Hill Road, Milton.

The intercollegiate golf tournament has been in progress at the Essex County club the last week, teams from nearly all the big colleges participating. Yale won the team championship Wednesday, successfully defending its title of last year by defeating Princeton, 5 to 1, in the singles matches in the morning and 2 to 1 in the four-ball matches in the afternoon, giving Yale a total of 7 points to 2 for Princeton. The amateur record for the course, held by W. J. Travis and John G. Anderson, was equalled during the four-ball matches by Albert Seckel of Princeton, present individual titleholder, and bettered by one stroke by Carl E. Mosser of Yale, the latter making the 18 holes in 74. It was the best golf of the week, and proved highly interesting.

F. J. Cotting and sister, Miss Alice Cotting of Boston are remaining at their Pride's Crossing estate until Oct. 6. Mr. Cotting is the president of the Industrial School for Crippled and Deformed children in Boston and it was through his efforts that the salesroom in behalf of the work done at the school was established this season at Beach street, Manchester. As this branch of the school work will be terminated in Manchester on September 29, those interested in the movement have only a few days longer to patronize the salesroom.

Robert Gould Shaw, 2nd., and family removed to Brookline today, concluding their season's stay at Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Sears, of Beverly Farms are giving a luncheon today at their cottage.

S. Reed Anthony and family of Boson are not leaving "Rose Ledge," their Beverly Farms estate, until the middle of October. Andrew Weeks Anthony, the son, enlarges the contingent of North Shore young men, who claim Harvard as their college home the coming collegiate year.

Mrs. R. F. Greeley and Miss Marion Greeley have returned to their winter home at the Hotel Victoria, Boston, after another very pleasant season at the Browland cottages, Manchester.

Misses Alice and Olivia Thorndike of West Manchester, have been in New York this week for a short stay. The Thorndike family plan to remain at West Manchester until December 1, and will continue their round of entertaining, particularly the very enjoyable week-end parties which they give so frequently.

Little Isabel Porter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter of Beverly Farms, observed her eighth birthday on Wednesday afternoon of this week by a gathering of her young friends, who spent a very pleasant social period with their little hostess. Dr. and Mrs. Porter are not leaving the Farms until the middle of next month.

Mrs. Bradley and family of New York, who had the Perkins cottage on Sea street, Manchester, this season, have concluded their stay there.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Storer and interesting family left Manchester this morning for their country estate at Waltham, where they will spend the autumn, before settling at their 286 Beacon street, Boston, home for the winter.

Cape Ann Resorts.

Miss Pearl Sanborn of Lakeport, N. H., and Waldo Bond of Waltham, son of Ex-Mayor Chas. P. Bond, who has a summer home at Rockport, were married at the residence of Rev. Dr. Getchell of North Woodstock, N. H., Wednesday of this week, Mrs. Getchell being a classmate of the bride. The groom, who is a graduate of Amherst '04, and Boston University Law '07, is now employed in the legal department of the B. & A. at Springfield. His bride is a graduate of Smith College and of the B. U. Law, where she was a classmate of Mr. Bond.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Sylvester Tower and family are concluding their stay at their estate on Cobb avenue, Manchester, the first week in October and their Boston residence on Commonwealth avenue, will be opened for their arrival, October 7.

Mrs. C. A. Munn is remaining in Manchester until December 1, and as Gurnee Munn is a Harvard man, much week-end entertaining of college chums will be in progress at this very hospitable home.

Mrs. Thomas Taylor, jr., is entertaining her mother, Mrs. Ames, sr., of North Easton, and Miss Chapman. The Taylors are not leaving Manchester until the middle of next month.

Mrs. Walter Alexander is leaving Manchester for her New York home about October 1.

REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

The waning of the season marks activity along real estate lines, and those who are to have improvements made to their estates, either ground work, or additions to the house, are making their plans, and in some cases work has actually been started. Two important transfers of summer property have taken place at Manchester during the week, but we are restrained from publishing these this week, because the papers have not yet been passed. Others are to follow.

In this week's real estate doings is recorded the transfer by Mary E. Haven of Beverly Farms et al., trustees, to Mary T. Leiter of Chicago, land on West street 165.26 by 350 ft. This is practically an additional two acres which Mrs. Leiter has secured for the purpose of further developing her newly acquired estate off West Beach.

East Gloucester

Robert C. Rathbone of New York and Hawthorne Inn, senior member of the big insurance company of Robert C. Rathbone & Sons of New York, has purchased the Nathaniel L. Gorton estate at Eastern Point and two acres of land adjoining which run back to Brace's Cove, which will give him a very spacious estate of three acres, and a handsome, commodious and costly summer residence besides. The property adjoins that of the Wilkinson estate occupied annually by the Siamese legation. The price paid for the Gorton estate is said to be in the vicinity of $60,000.

Frederick J. Waugh, the noted New Jersey painter, who has been spending the summer at Rocky Neck, won a gold medal at the International Fine Arts Exposition, which closed September 1, at Buenos Ayres.

J. Sloat Fassett of Elmira, N. Y., and Grapevine Cove was renominated for Congress Wednesday of this week at Elmira in the 33d Republican district. There was no opposition.

Cape Ann Resorts

Chas. Gaffly, the distinguished sculptor of Philadelphia and Lanesville, Gloucester, won the grand prize in sculpture at the International Fine Arts Exposition which closed at Buenos Ayres, Sept 1.

The contract was awarded by the government Tuesday for Beverly's new Postoffice, which is to occupy the lot, off Rantoul street between Broadway and Railroad avenue. It is on the opposite side of the street from the little park, in front of the depot.

See that your name is on the Voting List of your town; if not there call at the office of the Board of Registrars on the days above mentioned, and be registered, or you cannot vote. Bring with you a certificate from the assessors or a tax bill or notice from the collector of taxes, showing that you have been assessed a poll tax as a resident of the town of Manchester.

All persons whose names are stricken from the voters' lists for any lawful reason, will, before they can again have their names placed upon said lists, be required to register their names at the time hereinbefore stated in like manner as new voters.

Naturalized citizens presenting themselves for registration must bring their naturalization papers with them.

If a qualified voter of this town whose name was on the voters' list last year, and who has been assessed for the current year, finds, after the close of registration, that his name is not placed on the voters' list of the current year, by reason of having been omitted by clerical error or mistake, he may upon personal application, have his name placed upon the voting list, or, if application be made on the day of election, he may have a certificate to vote.

By Order of the Board of Registrars of Voters.

In the near future the Breeze will begin another series of articles by L. H. Rugé on the fascinating subject of heraldry. The Breeze welcomes data of all kinds from society, and its subscribers, armorial illustrations of family coat of arms, cuts, engravings, etc. Mention and illustration will be made of these whenever they are fully substantiated by evidences referring to records accompanying them and they are found available. All such matter must be prepaid and a like amount sent for return. The Breeze, however, cannot be responsible for the safety of these in transit; this will be at the owner's risk although every care will be taken for the safe return of everything sent.

These articles written in the interesting and inimitable style of Mr. Rugé will be copyrighted and subsequently published in pamphlet or book form if sufficient interest warrants it.

It is disgusting to see the way the daily papers of the good old town of Salem continue to growl at each other and at everything and everybody in general. The Salem Observer (weekly) observes that:

A live organization is the Beverly Booster's Club and its live president is Melville Woodbury, the shoe manufacturer, who is a live wire from early morn till dewy eve. Here's his motto and it is a fine thing for Salem men to read:

"Fire all croakers, loafers and dead beats. Let your object be the welfare, growth and promotion of your town and its people. Speak well of public-spirited men, and be one of them yourself. Be honest with all your fellow men. Don't think that all your commercial organization will run itself. Co-operation is the foundation of the government. Above all means, get to work early and keep just ahead of your business."

Just because of this spirit is the reason that Beverly booms ahead and for the lack of it our own city is hampered. All one has to do is to read the daily papers in Salem, to learn that our most conspicuous organization in Salem is the "Knocker's Club." Let anyone start a good movement in Salem and the anvil chorus immediately begins its efforts. Suggest a public improvement in Salem or advocate it and you can very quickly find out how your neighbors and friends regard you. A recent editorial in one of the papers in regard to the Good Government movement illustrates just what we mean. Ask any man connected with the movement about the work that was done to enlist the co-operation and support of others in the unselfish, disinterested political work of the past two municipal campaigns, and he will tell you that the effort was not to keep people out but a constant, earnest struggle to interest men of the right sort in the movement the only object of which was to better local conditions. Instead of commending and endorsing and working for so commendable an end, a great many said, "Oh! it's too narrow," "it's a close corporation," etc., etc. In spite of the "knocking" that has been constantly in the daily papers in the past two years, city hall affairs have been cleaner and better, because of the men whom the Good Government workers helped to put there and if the same spirit prevailed in Salem that is shown in Beverly there would be still greater improvement in the year to come.

WHISPERINGS.

Potatoes weighing four pounds, grown in Manchester, sounds rather "fishy." Such is the case, however. Two specimens were brought to the Breeze office a few days ago, one of which tips the scales at four pounds and the other just a little short of the same weight. Rather an uncommon size potato! To tell the truth they are decidedly uncommon: they are freaks of nature, for in both cases the potato is really composed of a group of potatoes. In one case there are seven potatoes of the ordinary shape and size apparently growing out of the larger body-potato, the body-potato being about eight inches long, and shaped in general like any other potato. The other is more bulky and from the main potato is growing five others of ordinary size. The two are certainly unusual products. They may now be seen at the Breeze office. They are of the Beauty Hebron variety, grown at Mrs. H. S. Grew's garden, Old Neck, Manchester, Thomas D. Sanderson, gardener.

The champion clam eater of the world recently made his appearance in New York. At an outing held there a short time ago this individual ate 395 steamed clams and said that the only reason he did not eat more was because he did not like to eat alone. If anyone kept him company he thought he could add considerably to the number. However, he ate enough to win for himself the title of champion clam eater of the world, whatever that is worth.

Manchesterites who are fond of clambakes should bear in mind the above data. One of the Launch club members made away with six lobsters at the bake last Saturday, it is said.

God sends his blessings in disguise,
His benefits calamities.
Nor can we by our wills perverse
Change the blessing to a curse.

Nothing so sharp and venomous appears
As Conscience split up into spears;
Naught so impervious and hard to yield
As Conscience taken for a shield.

Where grapes in purple clusters grow
There must me stock and root below;
And every deed of love, I ween,
Has root in faith although unseen.

As for my cares I have so very few,
My neighbor's lot I envy not Would you?
One may have wealth and fame yet live unblest,
Man's life consisteth not in things possest.

THE "MYSTERY" OF IT.

Among many foolish questions
That oft' are asked of me,
Is, "Why did you change our Misery
To Mystery—with a T?"

I've answered them most kindly
But so many, many times—
That I'm forced to write them blindly
In these long descriptive rhymes.

The mysterious attractions
Of the place itself—it seems
Would be sufficient reason
Without writing all these reams.

But in transition stages
Of the world—or of our lives,
A few there are who hate the change
Be it states, or names, or wives.

So to these few I add a line
That for tradition's sake
Why not wear a leaf for clothing?
Burn our husbands at the stake?

A Distinctive Number.

Always of unvarying interest, next Saturday's (Oct. 1) edition of the Boston Evening Transcript will be read by thousands of persons with gratification and benefit because of the many specially written articles on a variety of subjects which will be printed. One topic, "The farm on the Edge of Town" will appeal to many who enjoy semi-rural life. Other articles of particular interest to real estate owners, investors and builders are—"Growth of the Bungalow," "Great Increase in Number of Building Lot Owners," "Increasing Demand for Country Estates," "Re-

Anyone who has city, suburban, country or seashore real estate, houses or farms anywhere in New England to dispose of will find it advantageous to advertise in next Saturday's Boston Transcript as it will have an exceedingly wide distribution.

Many people who are not regular readers always look in the Transcript when they need a house, apartment, board or room, for they know that the largest lists of the better offerings are printed there as well as the "want" advertisements of especially capable business assistants and good servants.

John King, day linotype operator at the Breeze office since last April, is having a two weeks' vacation. When he returns the later part of next week he will bring a bride with him, for he was married Tuesday at his home in Woonsocket, R. I. He will live at the Mahoney cottage, Pine street.

Several Manchesterites are planning to attend the outing and love feast of the Essex County democrats at the Danvers Country club Saturday afternoon. Cong.-elect McGillicuddy of Lewiston, Me., will be one of the speakers, and Gov.-elect Plaisted of Maine, may also accept the invitation of the committee to attend.

Prof. and Mrs. W. S. C. Russell of Springfield, so well known in Manchester, where Mr. Russell was principal of the Story High school ten years ago, have returned from a second summer in Iceland. They spent a month in the saddle and crossed the country from north to south. They climbed Mt. Krafla, the volcano of the north and spent three days at Lake Myvatn. They visited the Surtshellir cave, the great glaciers of the west, crossed the desert and explored the western dales,—the historic portion of Iceland. Mr. Russell secured some excellent photographs and he is prepared to give an interesting and educational lecture. It is possible that arrangements will be made so that the people of Manchester can hear the lecture and see these pictures. Last winter Mr. Russell gave his lecture on Iceland at more than forty towns and cities in Massachusetts, including Salem, Lynn, and Boston, and the people were very enthusiastic over them.

Edward Wheaton resumes his studies at Harvard next week.

Supt. of Streets Crombie is now building a new concrete sidewalk to Singing Beach,—from the top of Masconomo hill to the plank walk at the beach.

The smelt have "struck in!" Chas. Lovegreen caught 51 the other morning,—the first catch of the season. Local followers of Ike Walton may now be seen lining the town wharf early and late.

The selectmen are having plans and specifications made prior to calling for bids for the construction of the new road connecting Beach and Sea streets. The town voted last spring to build this road, but that the construction of it be held over until fall. The work must be done by contract.

S. Albert Sinnicks is having a six-room cottage house built for his own occupancy, on the road, off Bennett street, where a barn has already been built. The cottage will be opposite the ice pond. The Sinnicks cottage on North street will be rented, and the stable in the rear of the house will be remodelled into a tenement, too, part of the ground floor being used, possibly, for an automobile.

Miss Katherine Watson is acting as Town treasurer in the absence of Edwin P. Stanley, who left Monday for the National G. A. Too Rough for Fish.

The annual outing of the Manchester Launch club took place last Saturday. Owing to the heavy sea none of the boats secured a cod fish required to take the cup offered by Commodore A. C. Needham. Six boats left the town landing at Tuck's Point shortly before 3 o'clock and the start was made off Long Pier promptly at 3. An exceedingly heavy sea was running and when the hour was up the boats began to turn their noses toward home and smoother waters. Not a cod fish had been taken from the water. The clam bake—one of Professor Horton's best—was in progress while the boats were out for the fish and at 4.30 this was ready to serve. Plenty of clams, sweet corn, lobster, sweet potatoes, etc., was cooked for the 35 or 40 who were in attendance.

Board of Health Ordinance

All boats propelled by explosive engines and used on any salt waters within the Town of Manchester shall be provided with an underwater exhaust or muffler, and such underwater exhaust or muffler shall be so constructed and used as to muffle the noise of the explosion in a reasonable manner, and no such boat shall be used on said waters so as to exhaust except through such underwater exhaust or muffler.

VERSATILE AS A WRITER.

Miss Mary H. Northend, a Contributor to Many Magazines.

It is one thing to know the North Shore regions as familiarly as one's own house and another to describe the former with just enough of historical data blended with the latest news on the steady growth of the region as a summer resort to interest the magazine-reading public, and this Miss Mary H. Northend, the versatile magazine contributor of Salem, always manages to do.

Wonderful powers of perception, practicability and delicate finish to her writing give Miss Northend an enviable position as a writer. Many of the popular magazines contain in their summer numbers "North Shore" stories written by Miss Northend as well as articles on artistic collections of which Miss Northend is a connoisseur. Miss Northend also excels as a photographer and specimens of her clever work are to be found in Ideal Homes, Suburban Life and numerous other magazines.

More than a passing local interest is connected with many of the articles appearing in the summer issues of magazines, for example, an exquisite article in Country Life on brass and copper pictures is founded on the collection of Miss A. Grace Atkinson of this city. "Bird Baths," a fascinating sketch, is the result of observations made chiefly at the Nanepashemet estate of the late L. P. Hollander.

The honor of designing small cottages of artistic trend is ascribed by Miss Northend in the August number of Harper's Bazaar, to J. Lowell Little, jr., of Boston, nephew of the Hon. David M. Little of this city.

Beautiful Homes contains an article on "Old Pewter," including much interesting and authentic information upon the subject.

Water Gardens is the subject of a delightful article in the House and Garden while the American Home monthly shows garden seats, porch parlors and artistic arrangements of china. The Designer has a story on "Garden Entrances" that is full of interest to every reader.

A beautiful pen and picture description of the Jeremiah Williams house at Beach Bluff appears in The House Beautiful.

The McCall Magazine has a happy combination of suggestions for various interior decorations, including valuable table hints. There is also a timely chat on the vacation problem.

THE STORE IN TOWN HOUSE

UNIFORM AUTOMOBILE REGULATIONS.

There is something very absurd in the practical warfare which is beginning to exist between states in the matter of automobiles which pass from state to state. The new law which has just gone into effect in New York state provides that no recognition shall be given to licenses issued in states which discriminate against New York by allowing New York owners only a limited time to take out licenses when traversing their territory. The matter came up in connection with Massachusetts because this state allows only ten days to visiting machines. So New York was to allow no Massachusetts automobile to operate in that state without a New York license. As a result of a conference, New York has decided to give us the same time we give them. But the case is worse between New York and New Jersey. As things now stand, any New Jersey cars crossing the ferry will be sent back on the same boat by which they came unless they have a New York license.

Now this is perfectly ridiculous, and can lead to nothing but bad feelings. The Hotel Men's Protective Association does well in starting a movement to secure uniform automobile laws throughout the country. Our states are great institutions, but it is sometimes very awkward to have the country divided up in this fashion. If a law is just and good in one state it should be equally so in another. And, were it not for the frailty of human nature, the task of making a uniform set of rules and getting them adopted in every state should not be very great. Such a set is decidedly needed. Perhaps this is a matter which could be profitably taken up by our new house of governors, if that is the name which that particular body bears now.—Gloucester Times.

Birch Moth is Short Lived.

State Forester F. W. Rane is sending out a circular relative to the insect that is causing the leaves of birch trees in some sections to turn color and drop off. This insect, which is called the birch leaf skeletonizer, is declared by the forester to be short lived, and the official states that no permanent injury is done to the trees.

The insect is one of the Tineid moths (Bucculatrix canadensisella). It has been observed before, in 1901, in this state and later in New York.

BEVERLY'S NEW Y. M. C. A. BUILDING

(From sketch prepared by Walter Atherton, Architect)

The caterpillars feed upon the leaf during August and early September, about this date going into cocoons. In the spring it is expected they will be suppressed by the birds, as when they previously asserted themselves.

Important Suggestions.

Insects play a large part as mechanical carriers of disease and none is worse than the common house fly, yet it is allowed to infest meat exposed for sale, bread and sweetmeats, berries, the edge of the milk pail and the food on the kitchen table.

The keynote of cleanliness is especially sounded with respect to keeping pet animals in the kitchen. The fur of the cleanest of them must come in contact with many things which we would not care to have touch our food.

This information is imparted in a bulletin issued by the department of agriculture, prepared under the supervision of the office of experiment stations. It is entitled, "Care of Food in the Home," and is for free distribution. Its author, Mrs. Mary Hinman Abel, has advanced new ideas and called attention to many simple house methods that makes for cleanliness and wholesomeness of foods in the home.

One of the most important suggestions is that in regard to ptomaine poisoning. On this subject the author says:

"Food may become dangerous even before it shows outward signs of decomposition and the danger hardly be recognized without laboratory apparatus. It is no uncommon thing to hear that a large number of persons attending a banquet were taken violently ill within a few hours. These cases of wholesale poisoning generally occur in summer after a heated term. It is a safe rule to eat sparingly of foods liable to changes in dog days, and where the serving of a large number at one time brings a strain on the culinary forces, when material is certain to be served which has been prepared a considerable time in advance."

Mrs. Abel thinks ordinary kitchen methods fall short of today's requirements, especially with respect to sanitary science. The old fashioned hatred for dirt is not enough. This applies especially with respect to the cleaning of kitchen utensils. For instance, boiling has long been known to kill whatever was the cause of "spoiling" food. However, most housekeepers did not "boil out" the milk cans, etc., but simply scalded them.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

Through arrangements entered into Monday between B. F. Keith and Claude Grahame-White, the aviator, Bostonians will next Saturday at the Harvard Aviation Field, have an opportunity to see a demonstration of aerial navigation under conditions different from any which have obtained since this form of sport became popular all over the world. In fact, it is the idea of both Mr. Keith and Mr. Grahame-White, to give a popular demonstration for the thousands who were unable to see the flights on the Aviation field last week at close range. On that occasion Mr. Grahame-White was a competitor in numerous events and was unable to do many things with his airships that he would have liked to have done. He now proposes to give, on what he considers the best aviation field in the world, a demonstration of the possibilities of aerial flights that will prove really sensational, most of the work being done on the field itself. While he will make some high flights and perform such feats as stopping his motor at a height of about 1,000 feet above the field and gliding Great Mechanics Fair.

It has been well said that a person who is lax in his gaiters is very apt to be lax in his gait. Never before has the matter of neatness and comfort in footwear reached such perfection. This is largely due to the great general advance in human intelligence and artistic taste, not as much as material progress, for, because of the use of machinery, the finest grades of shoes have been placed within the reach of lean purses. The greater part of this movement toward perfection has been made the past ten years, a decade which has witnessed the practical extinction of the "cobbler" with his lapstone, awl and waxed ends and also that of the small shops by the country roadsides with their crude, clumsy foot or hand power machines and the establishment in their place of the modern, clean, well-lighted, highly organized factory employing thousands of skilled workmen and machinery of marvelous speed and accuracy. A shoe-making plant of the very latest type will be one of the big features of the great Mechanics Fair to be held in Mechanics Building, Boston, from ten o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock at night, from Oct. 3 to Oct. 29. Over 3,000 square feet of floor space will be devoted to this single exhibit. Sixty machines, with the necessary crews, will be busily engaged all the time.

The Republican caucuses for the nomination of candidates for representatives are to be held on Wednesday next, September 28th. The polling booths will be open from five to eight p. m. in each ward. In ward six the caucus will be held in G. A. R. hall.

Ward six is especially interested in the contest this year as a ward six man,—Herman A. MacDonald, is a candidate for representative. Beverly is entitled to two representatives this year in the General Court and the voters of ward six hope to see MacDonald win one of the nominations.

Mr. MacDonald has been practically four years in the Governor's office under Governor Curtis Guild, jr., and Governor Eben S. Draper. It has been part of his work to keep in close touch with legislation and the experience gained during this period is the very best that could be obtained. Besides this Mr. MacDonald is a member of the Massachusetts Bar and so far as qualifications go it is generally conceded that his are superior to those of any other candidate for the office.

Every voter in ward six should vote at the caucus as it is more important than the election so far as the selection of candidates. Ward six should vote for Mr. MacDonald to a man.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Ober have closed their house on Hale street and have moved to the Longworth estate at Mingo beach hill, where they will for the second year be the caretakers until early next summer.

The Girls' orchestra is to give a public dance in Neighbors' hall next Tuesday evening, Sept. 27, and has engaged Long's orchestra for the occasion. The girls have in the past conducted several affairs, all of which were well attended and were also most enjoyable.

Larcom Ober left Monday for Orono, Me., where he has resumed his studies as a sophomore at the University of Maine.

Rev. Father McIntire of Prince Edward Island has been spending a few days with Rev. N. R. Walsh at the parochial residence.

At the regular semi-monthly meeting of John West Colony, U. O. P. F., last Friday evening, the following officers were elected: Howard E. Morgan, gov.; Mrs. Wm. H. Gerrish, lieut.-gov.; Fred W. Varney, treas.; Elmer Standley, collector; Charles H. Hull, secretary; Mrs. E. Fred Day, chaplain; William H. Gerrish, serg't-at-arms; Mrs. Howard E. Morgan, deputy serg't-at-arms; E. Fred Day, inside sentinel; Howard Preston, outside guard; Mrs. W. F. Preston, outside sentinel; Mrs. W. F. Low, pianist; J. M. Publicover, trustee for three years.

Mrs. Daniel W. Preston, president of the local W. R. C., has been spending a part of this week at Atlantic City, N. J., attending the national convention as a delegate to the W. R. C. She has been registered at the Traymore hotel, where the Massachusetts Dep't, had their headquarters.

The Democratic caucus in Ward 6 will be held on next Tuesday evening, in the G. A. R. hall at 7.30.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Neal of Springfield, have spent the past week at the Farms visiting friends. They made the trip here in their auto.

Lawrence J. Watson, 2nd., left the first of this week for a two or three weeks' business trip to New York.

Capt. Reuben Grush, much to the regret of the members of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, has given up the office of secretary after a faithful service of about eighteen years. The captain has not missed a meeting of the colony during all this time unless there was a good reason. He now lives in Beverly and this fact together with his not altogether too good health, is responsible for his giving up the position. Charles H. Hull is his successor.

The prettiest dance of the season was that given in Neighbors' hall last Friday evening by the crew of the U. S. S. Mayflower, the party being a sort of a farewell compliment to their Beverly Farms friends. The attendance taxed the hall capacity. It was a 1 o'clock party. The decorations were very pretty and it is doubtful if the hall on any occasion ever looked more attractive. Flags, potted plants, golden rod and a profusion of other flowers were used in the decorations. The dancers, too, were each presented with a bouquet. In one corner of the hall was a decorated table from which refreshments were served. Long's full orchestra furnished the music. An event not down on the program was the giving of three hearty cheers for the Mayflower crew by the invited guests, which was immediately responded to by the "boys in blue." At the conclusion of the dance the good will was again exchanged, the dancers leaving the hall at the sounding of taps by the ship's bugler.

A real "classy" game of base-ball was played last Saturday afternoon at the Wyatt & Trowt field, off Hart street, between nines representing the Farms firemen and the Central fire station. The game was witnessed by a large number of on-lookers. Under the tuition of former Alderman Rob't E. Hodgkins, the Farms boys have developed into a sort of Red Sox class and they defeated the Beverly boys by a score of 10 to 3. It is very likely that another game between the two teams will be played within a short time.

The list of Republican candidates have been filed with the secretary of the Beverly city committee and is now closed. There are three candidates for representative, with two places to be filled. They are: Parker S. Davis, the present representative, seeking a second term; Herman A. MacDonald of the Farms, assistant secretary to the Governor for the past four years; and Councilman John L. Saltonstall of Beverly Cove. The names of the delegates for the representative convention will be placed in a group at the head of the candidates whose names will also appear. The voter will place his cross opposite the names of the two candidates he wishes to vote for, and the delegates will support the two receiving the highest number of votes. In the election of the Ward 6 City committee there are eight places to be filled and nine candidates to choose from. Besides the old committee, who seek re-election, there are two new names, Alderman Augustus P. Loring, jr., and Councilman Frank L. Woodberry. The caucus will be held in G. A. R. hall next Wednesday evening, Sept. 28, from 5 to 8 o'clock.

The U. S. S. Mayflower on Tuesday morning finished the season's stay here, leaving its anchorage off West beach. The ship is expected to be in Boston harbor a few days, and then go to New York, where it will remain for some time, as repairs will be made. The boat then goes to Washington, probably for the winter. The crew during their stay here have spent much of their shore liberty about the Farms, where they have made many friends, who are sorry to see them go but with the hope that next summer they will be back again.

The boys who are members of the Fife and Drum corps have been for some time puzzled over a name for their organization and have at last decided upon "The North Shore Fife and Drum Corps, Beverly Farms, Mass." Walter Wright, engineer at the West street fire station, who is an all round mechanic has taken their base drum and lettered the above name on it, doing a particularly fine job. At a recent engagement which the boys had out of town, the newspapers in speaking of their good work, claimed that the corps was made up of boys from that particular town, an error which the boys do not want to occur again, hence the name on their large drum.

On Wednesday Driver John Cressy and Engineer Walter B. Wright of the Farms fire department attended the convention of the State Fireman's Association in Lowell. Driver Cressy is now enjoying his annual vacation.

The dance last evening in Neighbor's hall, given by Preston W. R. Corps to secure financial assistance for their benefit fund, was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. The ladies secured a sum that will help them materially in their work.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jackson (nee Laura Bennett) expect to leave the Farms next week for a trip to England, for a visit of several weeks to the former's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin F. Mills of Bangor, Me., have spent the past week visiting relatives at the Farms.

The order of Alderman Loring, which he introduced at this week's meeting of the Beverly aldermen, has set many Farms people to wondering as to just what it means in view of the fact that there is a rumor in circulation that an effort is to be made to close up Beach street, at the railroad crossing or to change that part of it which now divides the Hutchinson estate. The street is much used and is a straight thoroughfare from Hale to West streets, and no doubt if any move is made in accordance to the rumors in circulation there will be a strong protest by the people.

Miss Mabel Berry of Boston has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Bolam at their home on Hale street, the last fortnight. Miss Berry is an employee of the Chandler & Co. store in Boston.

John Crowley, the well-known stone mason, who has for years worked at his trade along the North Shore for the various contractors and who has many friends at the Farms, died suddenly last Monday at his home in Lynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McDonnell and family after a pleasant month of cottage life at Long Island, Casco Bay, Maine, yesterday returned to their Beverly Farms home.

Although the bathing season at West Beach is practically over, there are a few, who, however, continue to take their dip. Boating still continues to be much in evidence, although many of the fleet which have been laying off the beach have now gone into winter quarters.

Carpets, Rugs and Draperies

'Tis a Beautiful Exhibit

Selected with that deliberation one would use in studying out true art, — inspecting only goods made by an acknowledged master. 'Tis a gathering to be proud of, limitless in its range, embracing colorings, designs and ideas brought from every clime. It makes such a happy combination right here with our other pretty things, and we know so well, too, how to group them to make each piece show up the best. The house or that room, as we'd treat it, from a picking from this beautiful stock, would just make you swell out with real pleasure, especially when we presented the bill.

Among the Rugs

you'd find tintings and shadings you never dreamed could be woven from yarn. A sheen on some that would lead you into believing, really, they were made out of silk. Bold Oriental effects in the Axminsters, that make you look askance for a Turk, while in the modestly priced Taspestries, we've patterns ordinarily found in body brussels.

Our Fine Laces

we really make to your order, after measuring your windows first, using heavy french cable net, and imported insertions and edges, and employing the labor over here.

The Scrims and Clunys are made with that precision you'd use if you were making them yourself, while even our low-priced little Muslin is good, a-plenty, for any man's home.

The Linoleums

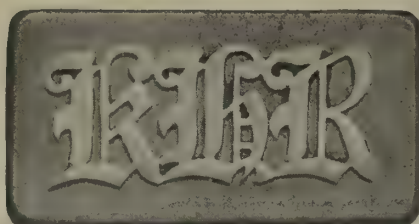

especially for bed-rooms, are as dainty as dainty can be, and the wood effects, now, really will fool you, they resemble so closely real boards.

Just come in now, no matter whatever your want, even, may be. 'Tis a pleasure for us, really, to show goods, they appear so unusually pretty to us.

SOCIETY NOTES

The fine early autumn weather is promoting social activities and extending the season delightfully. Last Saturday afternoon there was a tennis tea for 20 at Mrs. William Hooper's estate at Manchester and Sunday luncheon and dinner parties were in progress at the summer homes of F. L. Higginson of Pride's and Mrs. Guy Norman of Beverly. On Wednesday, Mrs. John C. Phillips of Wenham was hostess of a dinner party and on Thursday Mrs. Julian Codman entertained a dinner company at Hamilton. This evening Mrs. John Silsbee Curtis continues her social entertaining with a dinner party at her summer home on Storrow Hill, Beverly Farms.

By the marriage of Miss Junia Killen Russell, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Russell of 69 Sparks street, Cambridge, and Harold Francis Mason of Boston and Manchester, two prominent families will be united October 26, in Christ church, Cambridge. Mr. Mason is the son of the late Mortimer B. Mason of 347 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, and a Harvard man, class of 1905.

—x—

Associate Justice Wm. H. Moody, who has derived so much benefit from his stay on the North Shore, is remaining in Magnolia indefinitely.

—x—

Mrs. Taft has had a house party at the summer White House during the President's absence. The party was composed of Mrs. Harriet Anderson of Cincinnati, the President's niece, and Mrs. Horace Wesscott, daughter of former Paymaster General Rogers of the United States.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Beals of Boston will remain late at their Beverly estate on Burgess Point. During the summer they acquired more property adjoining and are enlarging and improving their estate admirably.

—x—

Admiral and Mrs. John Pillsbury of Washington and Magnolia and their daughter, Mrs. Edw. B. Richardson, spent a few days this week in Portsmouth, N. H. They are staying very late at Magnolia being great devotees of the North Shore's delightful autumn season. Rear Admiral and Mrs. Pillsbury now own a commodious home in Washington previously being among the members of the naval set to stop at the Washington hotels.

—x—

George A. Goddard and family removed to Boston from Beverly Farms on Wednesday of this week.

SOCIETY NOTES

Samuel A. Culbertson and family concluded their stay on the North Shore Monday of this week when they vacated "Brookside," the Meeker cottage at Beverly Farms. They registered at the Waldorf Astoria, New York, for a few days enroute to their home in Louisville, Ky. When the Culbertsons return to the North Shore next year they will come to their own estate, for they have just bought the Isaac West property at Manchester Cove.

—x—

Mrs. Henry S. Grew reached Manchester the early part of this week from a short visit to London with her daughter, Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, jr.

—x—

Joseph Leiter entertained the popular aviator, Graham-White this week at Beverly Cove.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Warren (Helen Thomas) who have the Otis Luke cottage, Valley Side, this season are not concluding their North Shore sojourn until November 1. They plan to winter in Boston, having secured a residence on the corner of Fairfield and Marlboro streets. Mrs. Warren's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Thomas, will not leave Pride's until November 1 also. They are to remain in Boston, this winter, too.

—x—

Little Sarah W. Porter is returning to Manchester today from New Hampshire where she has been the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth, who comes to Manchester on Monday to remain at her summer home on School street for two or three weeks.

—x—

Oliver W. Mink is closing his summer home on Cobb avenue, Manchester, about October 8. Mr. Mink makes Hotel Somerset, Boston, his winter home.

—x—

Dr. and Mrs. L. Vernon Briggs of Boston are making an indefinite stay at the stone cottage, Manchester, which embraces a portion of the spacious and picturesque Hemenway estate, and ideal environment for autumn.

—x—

Justice and Mrs. O. W. Holmes brought their sojourn at their Beverly Farms estate to a close on Wednesday of this week and they will visit in Boston and New York before settling in Washington, where Justice Holmes is due October 10, for the initial sitting of the U. S. Supreme bench. Improvements are to be made about the grounds of the estate this autumn.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2nd, were due at their Manchester Cove estate this week from their extended stay at the Carnegie camp in the Adirondacks. Mrs. Carnegie's sister, Mrs. Mitchell, is remaining at the Cove until after the holidays and "Glendyne" her beautiful summer home will continue to extend its charming hospitality.

Preston Gibson has been in New York this week directing the rehearsals of his new play.

Mrs. F. H. Peabody is closing her summer cottage on Ober street, Beverly Cove, next week, and is returning to her town house at 247 Berkeley street, Boston.

Mrs. W. H. Miller of Boston registered at the Ocean-side Tuesday to remain until the hotel closed today. Mrs. Miller's visit was principally for the continuance of her riding lessons.

Departures from Magnolia this week have included many well-known families namely those of S. M. Kennard, C. P. Sampson, H. H. Stevens, 2nd., F. Albert Morse, Mrs. L. S. Ayres, and to the former Boston departures were added the families of John and Phillip Allyn. Another Boston family to conclude their stay was that of Robert B. Williams of Roxbury.

Mrs. A. Octavia Wilkins has closed her cottages and removed to Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Graham will be among the late sojourners at Beverly Cove, where they have had "Elm Top," the Norman F. Greeley estate, this season and have entertained extensively all summer and will continue their luncheon and dinner parties during their autumn stay till November 1. The Greeley family has spent the summer at Poland Springs.

Master Alexander L. Steinert observed his eleventh birthday Sept. 21, by a gathering of his playmates at Beverly Cove and every effort was made to make the natal day of the young lad a memorable occasion. There was a sumptuous repast, plenty of amusement and handsome birthday gifts. Master Steinert enters the Volk-mann school, Boston, October 5.

Mrs. Barrett Wendell, jr., (Barbara Higginson) has joined her sister at Dover for a short visit.

Dr. Percival Lombard, who has been in Colorado, returned in time to go over to New York to meet his mother, who has been to Europe this summer. She returned to the North Shore with him for a visit. Mrs. Lombard's sister, Mrs. Thomas, who was a member of the former's recent house party, has returned to her summer home in Cohasset.

Col. and Mrs. Cranmore H. Wallace do not leave Beverly Cove until very late this autumn as extensive improvements will be in order on their fine estate, particularly in relation to the grounds and gardens. Col. Wallace enjoys driving his fine four-in-hand rig on the North Shore drives this time of year. Miss Foster, a niece, who has spent the summer with them, has returned to New York to resume her studies.

The Metropolitan Club's Horse Show is scheduled for October 12, on the Charles River Speedway, Boston, the largest in the United States. More than 200 horses have been entered already. The steeple chase, a gallop-way and four-in-hand races are to be features.

The second secretary of the Brazilian embassy, J. F. de Barros Pimentel, has arrived in Washington after his summer's sojourn in Manchester. The chargé d'affaires of Brazil and Mme. de Lima Silva return early in October.

SOCIETY NOTES

Harold Vanderbilt has been recently entertained by Frederick R. Sears and family of Beverly Farms. The Sears family concluded their North Shore sojourn on Thursday of this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Dexter are leaving Pride's next Monday, but plan to make frequent week-end trips at their pleasure to the Shore, as will the Phillip Dexters, who are departing from Beverly Farms on October 5.

Miss Susan Thayer of Boston and Lancaster recently of West Manchester, has been renewing her social affiliations with the North Shore by a visit this week with Mrs. Bernard C. Weld of Beverly Farms.

Miss Elsie Lawrence, daughter of Bishop Lawrence and the Misses DeFord of Cohasset, were members of a recent house party entertained by Mrs. Neal Rantoul of Beverly Farms. The Rantoul cottage will be kept open until November.

Mrs. C. A. Porter of Beverly Farms spent a portion of this week at York, Maine, as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Falkner of Boston and New York.

The families of James F. Sheldon and Jacob C. Rogers of Boston and New York are still at their Mystery Island cottages. The other eight families, who make the island their summer home, have departed.

Mrs. Childs of Pittsburg is prolonging her extended sojourn with her sister, Mrs. H. C. Frick at Pride's through September. Miss Helen Frick has become an enthusiast over her vacation farm at Wenham and devotes nearly all her time to its welfare and interests. The Frick family will probably remain at Pride's until Thanksgiving.

The Charles H. Tweed family of New York, who have such a spacious and picturesque estate on West Beach Hill, Beverly Farms, will not give up its allurements as an autumn home until Thanksgiving.

Horace D. Chapin and family of Boston, who have as distinguished neighbors at Beverly Farms, Justice and Mrs. O. W. Holmes, will not conclude their stay there until the last of October.

Miss Gerdes of Pittsburg has concluded her stay with her sister, Mrs. Herbert Hostetter and has been succeeded at North Beverly, by another sister, Miss A. Gerdes, who is enjoying an autumn visit with Mrs. Hostetter.

Mrs. Wm. F. Littleton, who has had her sister, Mrs. Semple, with her for an extended period, closed her Beverly Farms cottage tomorrow and returns to her Philadelphia home.

Richard Wigglesworth left Manchester Monday morning for Harvard college making the trip to Cambridge by auto. As quarterback of the Harvard football team, he is a prominent member of the athletic contingent at Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stone of Boston will be among the late sojourners at their Manchester cottage on Smith's Point.

The departure of the Walter Jackson family of Milton, from the Winch cottage, Smith's Point, Manchester, depends on the progress of improvements being made to their Milton residence, therefore they are planning to make an extended autumn stay. Mr. and Mrs. Rhinows of Boston were their guests over the last week-end.

Mrs. L. W. Rogers was due in Manchester from Boston today, having spent the past few days in that city. Mrs. Rogers is one of Manchester's oldest and esteemed summer residents who will remain at Smith's Point until November 1. Her daughters, Mrs. Francis M. Stanwood and Mrs. F. Blackwood Fay summer on Smith's Point and are remaining late also.

Miss Mary J. Amory is entertaining Miss Edith Deacon at Beverly Cove.

Distinguished guests on the North Shore to recently conclude their stay were Sir Hugh and Lady Allan of Montreal, Canada, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bryce J. Allen of Beverly Cove, and "Allanbank" has been kept open delightfully for a round of entertainment in their honor. The recent dinners of Mrs. Guy Norman, Mrs. Allan's sister, and that of Mrs. Oliver Ames was in honor of the visitors also.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Levisieur and Miss Helen Levisieur of Beverly Cove have returned from a two weeks' auto trip to New Haven and up the Hudson. The first week in October they will be in New Haven for a wedding of relatives and on the 15th of next month they will return to Boston and close "Oak Bluff," their picturesque Beverly Cove estate for the season.

Capt. R. N. Sowerby, naval attaché of the British Embassy, is still at the Woodbury cottage, Beverly Cove, but is departing for Philadelphia October 1, and is due in Washington, Nov. 1.

The Chargé d'affaires and Countess Wedel of the German embassy leave Manchester for Washington about October 1. The German ambassador and Countess Von Bernstorff and the young Countess Louise Alexandra are not due from Germany until the middle of October.

There were 68 box holders for the Bryn Mawr, Pa., Horse show this week which continues through tomorrow. The entries numbered 500 and in the classes for hunters, saddle and jumping contests the horses nominated were upwards to 52, breaking all records of the association. The Bryn Mawr assembly ball preceded the opening of the show and was a fashionable event attended by many Philadelphians who had summered on the North Shore.

Among the recent guests at the Hotel Fairfax, Beverly, were C. J. Harris of Ashville, N. C., a classmate of President Taft; Wilson Olney, Boston's internal revenue collector; an auto party from Mobile, Ala., was composed of George Fream, W. K. Lyson and wife and Martha Lyson. Bostonians to register were Mrs. G. F. Gill, Miss V. F. Gill, Mrs. B. A. Allan, Miss K. Wildes and L. E. Jack, Miss A. O. Bowers, Melrose.

C. M. BURT, Gen. Pass. Agt.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. King are on an eight days' trip to New York. They are not leaving Pride's until October 18.

Mrs. Fairlie, mother of Mrs. Wm. S. Spaulding of Pride's, has concluded her visit with her daughter and returned to her home in Chicago. The Spauldings will spend the late autumn and a portion of the winter in Boston and then will sail for Europe.

F. Meredyth Whitehouse, family party and friends left Wednesday of this week on Yacht Iris for a cruise to the eastward as far as Portland. They will go to New York on their return, where the Iris will go out of commission.

C. Howard Clark, jr., and family departed from West Manchester Wednesday of this week enroute to their St. Davids, Pa., home.

Mrs. Edwin C. Swift will not close "Swiftmoor" at Pride's, until Oct. 18, when she will locate in New York. She plans to sail in November for an indefinite stay in Europe.

The Clarence Moores are leaving Pride's for Washington on Sunday and will later go to Hot Springs, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Norman, who have taken leading roles in the social doings of the North Shore the past season, are leaving Beverly Cove tomorrow and will locate in Newport for a few weeks.

Oliver Ames closed his North Shore estate on Hale street, Pride's Crossing, Tuesday. Mrs. Ames and Miss Ames went to New York before settling at North Easton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Daniels of Boston are guests of Mrs. Daniel Ahl, an aunt of Mrs. Daniels, who has a summer home on the Paine Place, Pride's Crossing. They have just returned from Europe.

Robert Treat Paine, jr., and family leave Pride's on Monday and will stop in Waltham for a few weeks while their Boston residence is being prepared for their occupancy.

EAST GLOUCESTER

Mr. and Mrs. John Clay of Chicago concluded their stay at "Finisterre," their beautiful Eastern Point estate, on Tuesday of this week and will spend the autumn and winter in Scotland, where they have a fine estate also. Their friends, Arthur G. Leonard and family of Chicago, who have a cottage near them have taken their departure from East Gloucester.

The Siamese minister and legation attaches will not leave Eastern Point for Washington until well along in October. Other well-known families who prolong their stay at the Point for a number of weeks longer are those of J. Murray Kay of Brookline until the middle and possibly the last of October; Gen. G. C. Reid until December 1; Gen. Anson Mills, January 1, and other late sojourners will include Dr. and Mrs. James H. Knowles, Miss Caroline Sinkler and Miss Cecilia Beaux, all of Philadelphia. Departures from the Point on Monday, October 3, will include the families of John Greenough and John Duveen of New York. Mr. Rathbone, who is now owner of the Gorton estate occupied by the Duveen family, will remove there Monday from Hawthorne Inn for an autumn stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gale of New York and Ecuador have been among the autumn guests in East Gloucester. They stopped at the Beachcroft, which closes today. Mrs. Heavens and daughters of New York closed their season's stay at the Beachcroft this week.

The Misses Morrill of the Studio of Applied Arts returned to Boston today.

Mrs. Francis Wayland and daughter of Philadelphia will be among the last guests to leave Hawthorne Inn, which closes tomorrow, as does the Mailman, Fair View and Delphine hotels.

Dr. Morton Prince, who is still occupying the beautiful Henry Schurmann estate, on East Main street, was among the speakers at the ministerial Unitarian conference at Hotel Rockmere, Marblehead, held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The Eastern Point Golf clubhouse closed for the season today.

BASS ROCKS.

BASS ROCKS

Winthrop Sargent and family departed for their home in Haverford, Pa., Tuesday of this week and Jerome H. Remick and family of Detroit are leaving the Stacey colonial cottage tomorrow. Miss Emily McGuckin returns to Brooklyn next Monday. Miss McGuckin will have a new summer home erected here to be ready for her occupancy in the early spring. She has secured a site on the heights of the estate of the late Alonzo Day off Page street, familiarly known as the Day Farm, which adjoins the Souther estate being developed for the golf links extension.

The new summer home of Arthur L. Spring of Boston is rapidly nearing completion.

Dr. R. H. Follis of Baltimore and family party vacated the Mendell cottage Thursday.

J. S. Gilbert and family of New York will not leave their cottage until October 10, and Arthur M. Parker will not remove his family from Bass Rocks to Detroit until the middle of next month.

Horace P. Beals of Lowell is having the grounds of his new cottage on Beach avenue enclosed with a handsome stone wall with pillars.

The latest sojourners, who will not leave Bass Rocks until November 1, will be the families of Dr. Wm. Jarvie of Brooklyn; Mrs. F. B. Dodge of Toledo, Ohio; James W. Newell and Edward Ellis of Brookline.

The Bass Rocks Golf Clubhouse closes for the season tomorrow.

SOCIETY NOTES

Miss Dorothy Jordan and Miss Eleanora Sears and her brother were among those who had the rare privilege of "flying" with Graham-White at the exhibition meet at Squantum last Saturday.

Robert E. Hunter of Yale and Chicago won the individual championship of the intercollegiate golf association at the Essex County club last Saturday, defeating F. C. Davidson of Harvard by 1 up in 39 holes. This was the first time in the history of the association that the final round of match play at 36 holes was not decided before three extra ones had been played. The match was finished in the dark.

Eastern golfers are gathered at the Myopia Hunt club today and tomorrow for the most important amateur golf competition of the year, held east of the Alleghanies. The matches are for the Leslie Cup.

The Millis family of Pennsylvania, who have been in Manchester for their initial season as tenants of the James Means cottage, Smith's Point, brought their very pleasant sojourn to a close on Thursday of this week.

Mrs. Wm. F. Draper and Miss Draper of Washington and Smith's Point, Manchester, are among the North Shore people, who are loyal to driving, and their handsome turn-outs are still conspicuous on the North Shore drives, as they are remaining on the shore for the autumn. They will winter in Rome.

Hon. Wm J Boardman and family of Washington are not leaving Manchester until October 15. They will not settle in the capital until November 1. The intervening weeks of October will be spent in Dalton as the guest of their daughter, Mrs. W. Murray Crane.

Phillip McMillan and family are concluding their stay with Mrs. James McMillan, at Manchester, during the coming week. Mrs. McMillan now plans to remain at "Eaglehead" until late October.

Telephone Talks

Keep in touch with the world —and see to it that the world may keep in touch with you.

Party-Liners And the Golden Rule

Party line telephone subscribers virtually are co-tenants. They jointly pay for a single telephone line.

If they were co-tenants of a building they would be careful not to infringe upon the rights of others. That same regard for the equities should keep them from infringing by appropriating to themselves more telephone service than can be exacted as their fair share of the capacity of that line.

Lengthy conversations on unimportant matters, the prattling intercourse of children, phonograph concerts, and the like—these sometimes congest party lines and give cause for protest from other tenants in common.

A party line telephone has been likened to a spur track on a main line of railroad. But there is this important qualification—when the telephone spur track is in use, the entire main line is closed to traffic, not merely to the other spur tracks on the line, but also to incoming trains consigned to any part of the line.

Ordinary regard for the principle of the Golden Rule will do more to avert party line difficulties than all the rules any telephone company may promulgate.

B. F. Kieth's Theatre

Since the days of John T. Kelley, known the country over as "The Roll Mill Man," there has not been a story teller to equal Frank Fogarty, who comes to B. F. Kieth's theatre next week. Mr. Fogarty was a concert entertainer up to about four years ago, when he was induced to go into vaudeville and since then he has easily held the leading place in this line of work. His stories are always new, bright, and humorous, and he has a way of telling them that is his own. He will come to B. F. Kieth's theatre with some of his latest and already there have been a great many inquiries in regard to the date. Mr. Fogarty will be one of the features of a long bill, in which surprises are promised.

Jingle, jingle little dime,
I'd like to keep you all the time;
But you've such a nimble way
That I can not make you stay.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Herbert W. Mason, who is one of Manchester's most attractive young matrons, had as house guests, her brother-in-law's fiancée, Miss Junia K. Russell of Cambridge over the last week-end and Miss Dorothy Morgan of Boston, a friend of Miss Miriam Mason, just returned from Europe. Miss Isabel Goodnough of Baltimore, Mrs. Mason's cousin, who was also her guest has returned to her southern home. Another wedding, which will take the Mason family to Boston October 15 is that of Mr. Mason's cousin, Joseph Seabury of Wellesley, and Miss Marion Ball of Bay State road, Boston.

Jesse Koshland and family are remaining at Beverly Farms until October 10.

At the wedding tomorrow noon at Union Chapel, Magnolia, of Anna Bull McFadon of Quincy, Ill., and Thomas Burnett Dorman of Upper Montclair, N. J., Miss Dorothea Dutcher of Milwaukee, a cousin of the bride, will serve as maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be the Misses Marguerite Tower, St. Louis; Mildred Foss, Boston; Mary Willis, Baltimore; Helen Hopkins, Newtonville. Mr. Dorman's best man will be Orville Rogers of Boston. The ushers will include Edward M. Cutler, Boston; Edward Savage, Newburyport; William Converse Chick, Boston; Samuel L. Titcomb, Augusta, Me. Rev. Dr. S. H. Dana will be the officiating clergyman.

Mrs. Daniel Ahl of Boston and household will probably not remove from Pride's for the winter, but make the North Shore a permanent home for the coming months. Such is their present plans.

"Cranleigh," the Wenham Neck summer home of Amory G. Hodges, will entertain this evening a dinner company of eight members.

Wm. A. Slater of Washington is bringing his family's stay at Beverly Cove to a close on October 5.

Miss Eleanora Sears is remaining on the North Shore for some time to accept the many invitations extended her to stop with friends remaining on the shore for mid-autumn and later.

Wm. B. Walker has returned to West Manchester from Chicago where he spent a week in behalf of his business interests.

Miss Coles of Philadelphia concluded a visit with Miss E. C. Mc Vickar of Pride's Crossing Tuesday.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Wm. H. Taft gave a very pretty luncheon at the President's cottage in Beverly Cove, Tuesday afternoon. The guests included a number of North Shore ladies who have entertained Mrs. Taft during the summer and the affair was as enjoyable as it was pretty. The guests included Mrs. Thomas P. Beals, Mrs. Henry C. Frick, Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell, the Misses Amy and Clara Curtis, Mrs. Preston Gibson and Mrs. Clarence Moore.

Those who attended Mr. Rehn's reception at his beautiful Magnolia studio last week were most enthusiastic in their praises of the high character of the work shown. Mr. Rehn will close his cottage and studio at Magnolia Saturday will then with Mrs. Rehn visit his sister Mrs. Chas. E. Foster at her home at Fresh Water Cove where he will continue his out-door work in autumn scenery and to quote him "wait for an October gale along the coast."

Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge left Manchester the first of the week for a motor trip through the Berkshires to New York state, where he is spending a week or ten days at Hyde Park.

The Brownland cottages at Manchester closed for the season Monday, the last guests to take their departure being the Dr. W. W. Gannett and Thomas B. Gannett families of Boston and Cambridge, also Mrs. Partridge and daughter of Redlands, California.

Frederick Ayer and family are leaving Pride's tomorrow and are planning to enlarge the North Shore contingent at the Hot Springs. Mrs. Ayer is arranging for a ball at the Somerset, Boston, December 20, to introduce Miss Katherine Ayer.

Another of the North Shore's prospective debutantes to make her formal bow to society this winter will be Miss Helen Hooper of West Manchester, who will be presented at a ball at the Somerset, Boston, January 27.

John Hays Hammond was among the speakers at the National Civic Federation's meeting at the Chamber of Commerce, Boston, last Friday afternoon in behalf of uniform laws.

Miss Edith Deacon, who is being entertained this week on the Shore, will be an attendant of Miss Emily Rosamund Fish at her wedding, Oct. 22, to John W. Cutler of Brookline. Miss Katherine Tweed of Beverly Farms will be another attendant.

John T. Morse, jr., and household were among the Bostonians who left Pride's yesterday for their city homes.

The women's open tennis tourney at Longwood this week drew quite a gallery from the North Shore. In the third round in the singles on Monday there was a match by Miss Eleanora Sears and Miss Edith Rotch, the latter winning. Other players were Miss Marion Fenno, Miss Curtis and Miss Evelyn Sears.

Dr. Maynard Ladd and household departed from the Morgan cottage, Proctor street, Manchester, yesterday for their Boston home. Miss Ladd of New York, sister of Dr. Ladd, spent the past two weeks with him during Mrs. Ladd's absence in the mountains.

The Norton Wigglesworth family concluded their stay in Manchester today and increased the number of Bostonians who have recently returned to their city homes after long sojourns on the North Shore.

E. G. McInnes and family of Brookline removed from their summer home on Blossom lane, Manchester, Wednesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Bemis are due at Beverly Farms October 9 from a month's shooting trip in the Rocky Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Agassiz Shaw are able now to occupy their estate at Beverly Farms, developed from the Morrill and Davis farms and the extensive improvements to the house and grounds are now practically completed.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

Samuel A. Culbertson of Louisville, Ky., has bought the Isaac S. West estate at Manchester Cove, and work will be started shortly on making many improvements to the house, including the changing over of part of the interior, the installation of several new bath-rooms, etc. The Culbertsons have spent the last two seasons on the North Shore, occupying the Spaulding cottage at West Manchester last year, and a cottage at Beverly Farms this season. The West house was vacant this summer. The Culbertsons intend to become permanent residents of the North Shore. Their son William is to marry Miss Effie Bagnell of St. Louis this autumn. The Bagnells summer at Magnolia. The sale of the above property was made through the agency of T. Dennie and Reginald Boardman.

The Henry W. Cunningham estate at West Manchester has been sold. We are not prepared to announce the purchaser.

Alanson L. Daniels of Boston and Pride's has purchased the Gen. Benjamin F. Peach estate, "Old Farm," at Wenham and will take immediate occupancy, it is said. Mr. and Mrs. Daniels have summered abroad and rented their Valley street cottage in Beverly Farms.

The continued changes and improvements to the S. E. Hutchinson estate on the beach front at Beverly Farms are now in progress, stone for the extension of the sea wall to the end of the former Boardman property now arriving by water. Changes to the grounds adjoining have also been started.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

During the last week The Breeze has taken another important step forward in the development of its steadily increasing business,—both as a publication and as a printing establishment: It has been incorporated. This is a step which we have been meditating upon for several years. After long and careful consideration and after consultation with many experienced in business methods, Mr. Lodge decided that the business in its present proportions can be most economically and skillfully handled, and that better service can be given to its patrons and subscribers, if it is incorporated.

Incorporation is essentially a method of conducting business. It does not directly or indirectly increase or decrease the value of the personal element which lies at the root of all business success.

It includes the principles of co-operation and combination as contained in the partnership idea and adds to these protection, continuity of business and simplicity of method.

The North Shore Breeze Co. is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts. There are 600 shares of common stock and 400 of preferred. Mr. Lodge owns the 600 shares of common stock and 398 shares of the preferred stock. The other two shares are owned by Richard O'Neill, jr., of Gloucester, and Alfred E. McCleary of Maynard, Mass., respectively. The officers of the corporation are J. Alex. Lodge, president and treasurer; Alfred E. McCleary, clerk. These two with Richard O'Neill, jr., compose the directors. Mr. McCleary is a Boston lawyer and was formerly associated for two seasons with Mr. Lodge, and Mr. O'Neill has been employed at the Breeze printing office since it was established. Mr. Lodge, of course, will continue as in the past, the general manager of the business and editor of the Breeze. The change in the method of conducting the business means simply that Mr. Lodge has seen fit to strengthen and fortify the business, which he established six and one-half years ago, and has since developed to its present proportions, by incorporating it under the laws of the state of Massachusetts.

J. ALEX. LODGE.

The board composed of Brig. Gen. William A. Pew, jr., of Salem, A. W. Bacher, principal of the high school in Gloucester, and Lieut. Fred H. Whittier of Haverhill, to whom Congressman Gardner has recently turned over the question of selecting appointees to fill the vacancies at the United States Military academy at West Point and the United States Naval academy at Annapolis announce that they will hold the examination both mental and physical, at the Salem High school, on Saturday, Oct. 29 at 10 o'clock, a. m.

This examination will be open to all young men who are bona fide residents of this Congressional district and who are of the required age for admission to the two academies. For West Point a boy must be between the ages of 18 and 22 upon the date he is admitted, and for Annapolis he must be between the ages of 16 and 20. The board announces that no applicants whose ranks in the physical examination falls below 75 per cent. on the basis of 100 for perfect will be considered as eligible.

Further information with regard to the examinations may be obtained by addressing Mr. A. W. Bacher, Principal of the High School at Gloucester, Massachusetts.

NEW ENGLAND INNS.

A familiar tribute to the automobile is that it has promoted and indeed compelled, better roads.

There is another public service which the automobile has performed and for which it has not received due credit. It has occasioned the necessity and provided the support for better country hotels.

Before the advent of the motor the roadside hotel in New England was in a bad way. Its prosperity received a heavy blow when the railways were built. The stage coach disappeared and travel on the highway virtually ceased, except in the matter of merely local traffic. Finally, the spread of no-license and prohibition removed the chief remaining source of profit for the rural hostelry by closing its bar. Most of the old taverns and roadhouses went entirely out of business, after a dreary struggle for existence under the new conditions. In great stretches of rural New England there was neither bed nor board for the wayfarer. The occasional traveler by carriage or afoot was likely to find himself journeying in the lovely countryside where every prospect pleased and only the hotels were vile.

A revolution has been wrought in a few years, thanks to the touring car. Dilapidated taverns have been regenerated and good, new hotels have sprung up in many places at the bidding of the automobilists.

There is a certain genius for hotel-keeping in New Englanders. A majority of the noted landlords of the country originated here. It is good to see this talent among us revived. Even in the little time there has been for their development we already have not a few country inns here in New England which rival in charm and comfort the famous inns of old England.

NEED FOR ORGANIZED FOREST FIRE PROTECTION AMONG PRIVATE OWNERS.

(From the Dept. of Agriculture)

Washington, September 28.—One of the lessons which will finally be drawn from the trying experience of the present forest fire season, in the belief of officials of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, is the need of wider organization among private owners of timber to safeguard their holdings.

It is pointed out that already in the Northwest, both on the Pacific coast and in Montana and Idaho, timberland owners have formed themselves into associations which assess the members on an acreage basis and thus meet the cost of maintaining a regular patrol and fire-fighting organization. Only by getting together can private owners usually assure themselves protection, for fire is no respecter of boundary lines and the man who undertakes to keep it out of his own timber will want it kept out of his neighbor's, too. Wherever possible the Government's forest officers cooperate with the force put in the fields by the associations, so that the employees of the Government and those of the private owners are handled practically as a unit in fighting the common enemy.

This cooperation is advantageous to both sides. Protection of the National Forests necessarily carries with it a good deal of protection of adjoining or interior holdings. If the private owners would everywhere shoulder their reasonable share of the burden, the public would gain both through more general forest conservation and through relief from the necessity of paying for the protection of private timber in order to protect its own.

The wise man will not disturb a sitting hen nor a quarrelsome woman.

A laugh can hardly be called the center of gravity.

Carpenters' Union will hold an important meeting at Carpenters' hall tonight.

George S. Sinnicks is in New York to attend the big meeting of the Republican clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Knight are on an auto trip through the Berkshires to New York.

Manchester sent a large delegation to the Rochester, N. H., fair Wednesday. The party made the trip in a special car and left Manchester shortly after the 7.25 train, connecting at Beverly with the Rochester train. There were 26 in the party. They arrived home at 10.20.

Edwin P. Stanley and Dennis O'Sullivan of the local post, G. A. R., and Mrs. Harriet Perkins, a member of the Salem W. R. C., returned home last Saturday and Sunday, from Atlantic City, where they had been attending the conventions, and they speak most enthusiastically of the good time they had there. Mr. Stanley was a member of the staff of the national commander and in this connection he was afforded many privileges and attentions which did not come to others. There were fully 25,000 veterans in line on the day of the big parade and there were 25,000 others in the city to attend the various other conventions.

Fitz W. Sargent.

Fitz W. Sargent, a well-known citizen of Manchester passed away last Saturday at his home on Vine street at the age of 60 years. Mr. Sargent has been in poor health for several years. He suffered a shock last week and lived less than a week afterwards.

Mr. Sargent was a native of Annisquam, but he has spent most of his life in Manchester. He was a painter by trade. He was a member of Ocean lodge, I. O. O. F., of Gloucester, and of North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., of Manchester. He is survived by four daughters, Clara, Jennie, Alice and Marjorie Sargent and a widow Rebecca. Funeral services were held from his late home on Vine street Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. Wm. H. Ryder of Gloucester officiating. The funeral was attended by a large number of relatives and neighbors, and members of the lodges to which he belonged. Burial was at Rosedale cemetery.

ATTACK THE CORNER GROCERY

Director E. R. Walters and Dr. J. F. Edwards, of the department of health of Pittsburg, Pa., are preparing for an active campaign against the common housefly. In past years this omnipresent carrier of disease has brought sickness into hundreds of families by carrying the germs of typhoid and other diseases and leaving them in the food supply of Pittsburgers.

Ample instructions are issued from the health department, which, if followed, will result in a large decrease in the fly population and a decided curtailment of its field of operations.

According to Dr. Edwards, the diseases transmitted by flies have been responsible in the last year or two for a large part of the infant mortality in the city. In most cases the infant diseases come from milk and other food which has been infected through the flies. The city is spending a big sum each year for the nursing and care of the children of the poor, and now steps are to be taken to prevent the necessity of so much nursing.

To Reform the Groceries.

The first point of attack will be the corner grocery, where the milk dipper, hanging on the wall, affords an inviting resting place for every fly visitor that wings his way through the open door. The result has been evident, as in a large percentage of the cases visited last year infant troubles afflicted those children whose milk supply came from the corner groceries.

The grocery keeper this year will be enjoined to keep both his milk and his dipper in the ice box, out of the way of the flies, and to keep the flies out of his store, so far as possible, by close screening, scrupulous cleanliness about the premises and the prompt disposal of decaying vegetable or animal matter and garbage of all kinds.

To the housewife the department of health issues the following instructions:

"First—See that your windows and doors are closely screened.

"Second—See that all refuse and garbage are promptly placed in the garbage can; that the can is kept tightly covered all the time. If it has no lid cover it with a carpet.

"Third—Any papers in which provisions or edibles have been wrapped should be kept in a closed receptacle and burned once a day.

"Fourth—The floors and premises generally should be kept scrupulously clean.

"Fifth—Milk or food of any kind should always be kept in a closed box, can or bottle, and if possible in an ice box."

How to Keep Flies Out.

With these precautions the department declares that the average household will be almost free of flies all summer. Flies do not come into the house to keep the inmates company, but hunting something to eat. If there are not waste, garbage or crumbs about the premises there will be no incentive for a fly invasion, and the screening should prove sufficient to repel the curiosity of winged idlers, although it will not keep a hungry horde out if there is any food in evidence inside.

Typhoid fever is also often transmitted through the agency of flies, and the infant ailments are largely due to the infection of foods by houseflies. We are not only going to fight for the child's life after it has been taken ill, but also against the uncleanness that allows it to become ill.—Pittsburg (Pa.) Post.

A WOMAN CUSTOMER WAS RECENTLY OVERHEARD TO SAY—

"I am going to follow the judgment of my friends this time.

In the past I followed my own, and went wrong."

She made a wise decision and bought PATRICIAN

These popular shoes are worn by over three million American women, whose discrimination in buying has never been questioned. You can safely rely upon their judgement, for it is backed by valuable experience. When undecided, accept the popular verdict—Buy PATRICIAN.

✕ Magnolia ✕

The desire has been expressed on the part of many that the basement of the Men's Club house shall be open three evenings a week as last winter. The cost for six months beginning November 1, will be about $3. By charging a small fee for bowling and pool, the amount that will have to be raised by subscription will be $200. Pledges are being received in order to assure the success of the enterprise.

Mrs. Edward Foster of Winchester was in town the first of the week.

Fred Staples has removed his family from the Davis cottage on Western ave., to the Dolliver cottage on Englewood road.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Fred Dunbar in the loss of her father, who passed away at the Addison Gilbert Hospital, Gloucester, the first of the week.

Miss Grace Story was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Story on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Linnekin are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son in their home last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Butler are attending the Rochester Fair this week.

Mrs. Henry W. Brown was the guest of her mother, Mrs. James McCormack at Manchester on Wednesday.

The subject of the sermon at the Village church next Sunday morning will be "One Hundred Years of the American Board." The subject in the evening will be "The Treasures of God's Beloved." The evening services from now on during the winter months will begin at 7.30 o'clock. Rally Day at the Sunday school last Sunday brought fifty three, the largest number yet for the opening session. The new series of graded lessons issued by the Pilgrim Press is to be tried this year. The copies so far received promise well, the lessons for the small children being especially attractive.

Master Edwin Grigg of Boston is spending the week-end with his aunt, Mrs. Joseph Crispin.

Mrs. Helen Crispin Abbott has returned from a two weeks' trip through the White Mountains, including Jackson, Intervale and Bretton Woods.

Prizes are to be given to the young people of Magnolia for good reading during the coming winter. The long winter evenings give opportunity for reading a great many books. To stimulate a taste for good books, prizes of $5 and $10 are to be offered, the terms of the competition are to be made known at the young people's meeting tonight at the Village church at 7.30 o'clock. All are invited.

The two club houses will close tomorrow, each having had an especially good season. The reports will be published very soon. The directors of both clubs are to hold meetings during the coming week.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Among those from the Farms who have attended the Rochester Fair this week have been, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Wood, Mr. and Mrs. H. Irving Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Elliott.

Miss Pearl Whitecomb of Newton, who has been a popular Farms school teacher, was in town this week visiting the school and renewing acquaintances.

The Breeze joins with the hosts of friends of Herman A. MacDonald, the Farms young man, is extending hearty congratulations in his success of Wednesday evening in securing the Republican nomination for Representative. Mr. MacDonald carried his own ward, being high man. In the other wards of the city he was second. Mr. Saltonstall was high man in all the wards excepting Ward 6.

Miss Carrie Davis will resume her position at the Farms Postoffice next Monday morning. Miss Davis has been a sufferer for several weeks due to being run into by an automobile. She is now nearly recovered from her injuries.

THE GREAT MECHANICS FAIR.

This Vast Exposition Promises to Surpass All Others Ever Held In New England.

The vast Mechanics Building on Huntington Avenue, Boston, with every inch of its many hall and immense basement actually bulging and throbbing with several hundred practical, working exhibits is all ready to receive its thousands of visitors. The doors will be thrown open at 10 o'clock Monday morning next, the 3d instant, and daily until and including Saturday the 29th instant, from 10 o'clock A. M. to 10 o'clock P. M., excepting Sundays. This great Mechanics Fair will be a huge hive of industry, a veritable city within a city with its various phases of commercial activity, its entertainments, its complete organization and its multiplicity of fascinating sights and sounds. Upon every side will be found actual and complete demonstrations of the making of things—just what a person wants to know about, and of genuine, extraordinary value to all classes of people. The various latest inventions of Thomas A. Edison will be magnificently displayed and the making of a shoe will be shown in every detail employing sixty machines and their crews of skilled workmen. There will be a model printing plant illustrating the getting out of a daily newspaper. The Art Loan exhibit of paintings and sculpture is valued at $1,000,000 and will be the greatest ever seen at any public exhibition in New England. The room of models will show airships and warships of various types, miniature copies of buildings, etc. The whole of the basement will be occupied by an automobile exhibit with first showing of 1911 models.

The Story of the Votes.

The vote in the various wards of the city at the Wednesday evening Republican caucuses, in which the Farms voters had especial interest, inasmuch as a Farms boy, Herman A. MacDonald was one of the successful candidates for the House was as follows:

| | Davis | Saltonstall | MacD'ld |
|---------|-------|-------------|---------|
| Ward 1, | 102 | 191 | 142 |
| Ward 2, | 102 | 172 | 123 |
| Ward 3, | 107 | 178 | 150 |
| Ward 4, | 126 | 268 | 175 |
| Ward 5, | 117 | 176 | 163 |
| Ward 6, | 30 | 90 | 104 |
| Total, | 584 | 1075 | 857 |

It will be seen that Councilman Saltonstall was high man in all the wards except the Farms (ward 6), which went to MacDonald. Rept. Davis was the low man in all the wards. The vote for MacDonald was a surprise to many, for, going into the fight without any organization and without much prospect at first of securing help from the so-called leaders, he won out, polling a little less than 220 votes behind Saltonstall, who had a well formed organization.

Mr. MacDonald has lived in Beverly Farms since he was four years old, he is now 28. He is a graduate of the Beverly High school. He has been assistant secretary to the Governor for the past four years and while there he studied law at the Boston Y. M. C. A. evenings and was this year admitted to the bar. He is well versed in legislative affairs and Councilman Saltonstall is a Beverly born boy, 32 years old. He was educated at Harvard and is a banker, a member of the well-known firm of Hunt, Saltonstall & Co., Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Culliver of Willimantic, Conn., have been among this weeks' visitors at the Farms. They are to remain here another week.

George H. Burchsted has awarded the contract for building the cellar of his new house at Montserrat to Stephen Edwards, who has already broken ground. The carpentry work has been given to A. J. Gallagher.

A public dance and entertainment will be given in Neighbors' hall next Wednesday evening, October 5, by the Ladies' Sodality of St. Margaret's church. At the entertainment Miss Mary Connolly of Pride's Crossing will read and other good talent will also be on the program.

A splendid boundary wall has just been built along Hale street at the Gordon Dexter estate occupied by John Bolam.

:: Beverly Farms ::

The Republican caucus held in G. A. R. hall on Wednesday evening was the most interesting that has been held here for several years. Undoubtedly the fact that Herman MacDonald, a Farms young man was a candidate for the Representative nomination was the cause of bringing out the 134 voters. Teams and automobiles were used to bring out the voters and the period from 5 to 8 o'clock had the appearance of a regular election day contest. Ralph W. Osborne was chairman, Benj. Hawkins served as clerk, and Alfred Williams, Marshall Woodberry, Edward A. May and Lewis G. Williams were tellers. The following delegates were elected: State, Thomas D. Connolly; councillor, Howard P. Williams; senatorial, Howard E. Morgan; county, Edwin F. Campbell; dist. attorney, Charles H. Hull; congressional, William Standley. For the Representative convention the delegates are George H. Bennett, Charles F. Butman and Elmer Standley. Herman A. MacDonald was given the compliment of being high man in his own ward and his delegates received 104 votes. Councilman Saltonstall received ninety and Davis, thirty. Accordingly Messrs. MacDonald and Saltonstall were the choice of the Ward 6 voters. There was also much interest in who was to fail of election in the selection of the City Committee as there were nine candidates and eight places, and James B. Dow proved to be the one, he receiving 67 votes, the lowest number. Those elected and their vote were as follows: Elmer Standley, 96; Augustus P. Loring, jr., 96; William R. Brooks, 87; Howard E. Morgan, 86; William Standley, 79; Roland Patch, 77; George H. Bennett, 76; Frank L. Woodberry, 75.

Miss Jennie Hanson concludes her duties as assistant at the Beverly Farms Postoffice tomorrow evening. Miss Hanson resigns in order that she may next week commence her studies at Dr. Sargent's school of gymnastics and physical culture, which vocation she is to take up.

A party of Farms young men are planning to conduct a private dance in Neighbors' hall on Friday evening, October 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis F. Mitchell of Stockbridge, have spent the past week at the Farms visiting friends.

It is reported that a subscription paper has just been put in circulation asking for donations for the purpose of building a pavilion at West Beach and the paper has a subscription on it for a starter of $500 from a well-known summer resident. At the annual meeting of the corporation last February the directors were instructed to take up the matter of erecting such a structure and report later. If the scheme is carried out all of the present bath houses along the beach will have to go.

The dance given in Neighbors' hall on Tuesday evening by the Girls' orchestra was well attended and was also a very enjoyable affair.

On Tuesday Miss Katherine Donovan left the Farms for New York City where she will continue her duties as private stenographer for Mr. Preston Gibson, who has resided this summer in the Frank Seabury house.

Samuel Scott, who is well known on the North Shore as a landscape gardener, has just completed for the Elm City Nursery Co. a beautiful formal garden and other work on the estate of P. R. Greist, president of the Greist Manufacturing Co., Westville, a suburb of New Haven, Conn.

Irwin Davis, who is employed by a local contractor as a time keeper and who has been located at Glen Cove, Long Island, since early last spring, was this week transferred to a new job at Mendham, N. J.

Friends of Alexander Carr have received information from him of his safe arrival at Spokane, Washington, and that he has secured a position doing landscape work.

We are very glad to report that J. M. Publicover has improved in health sufficiently to be able to sit up a part of each day.

Mr. Carberry, the contractor, who has been employed since last spring at the Shaw estate, Preston Place, has completed his work, and yesterday he returned to his home in Walpole.

The marriage of James William Naylor, a popular Farms' young man, to Miss Mary Annie Perrott of Boston, took place in Beverly last Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. J. V. Huiginn. After the marriage a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Naylor on Hart street, to which the near relatives and friends of the couple were invited. Mr. and Mrs. Naylor are to live at the Farms for the present. During the past summer the bride has been a member of the Dr. Porter household.

Now that the fall season is on, the G. A. R. associates will meet in G. A. R. hall on Thursday evenings of each week to hold their meetings, and indulge in their favorite game of cards, "Pitch."

If you are one of the ones that put it off from spring, with the idea of buying this fall, fortune certainly favored you, for things are so much prettier now that we dislike to think of last season. Doesn't matter at all what department you visit, it's the that parlor now so that you will be tickled to pieces, and, honestly, the cost won't seem anything to you at all.

We sampled a line of 3-Piece Parlor Suits this morning, and they embrace everything you could ask for, even to a tiny little price. Take this one before me, it's a Sofa, Arm Chair and Arm Rocker, each one of the pieces wide, deep and comfortable.
It is a round cornered suit, with Mahogany panels in each back, and there are claw feet on the legs, that make it look swell. It is upholstered in the prettiest green velour, and mind you, it costs

ONLY $37.00

The pretty $25.00 Suits of which we are so proud are once

FINE DIAMONDS AND OTHER PRECIOUS STONES.

Our knowledge, integrity and reliability have been tested by customers in all parts of the United States and many foreign countries for over twenty years, so no one hesitates to send to us for DIAMONDS knowing they will get the finest quality at a price much less than they can elsewhere. Every order is conscientiously filled and sent subject to your approval. Of course, in buying a diamond you must have confidence in the party you trade with, and time will prove that you have made a good purchase. They are good property if properly bought and advance in value every year, so you can realize on them quickly if you wish to.

We show here a most carefully selected assortment of diamond rings, comprising all the most desirable sizes. The prices are for pure white, perfectly cut, brilliant stones set in the finest 14k gold settings. We can furnish any size diamond in any of these settings, giving you the largest and best quality diamond possible for any special amount you wish to invest, of course, always subject to your examination. By personal attention, and giving the best possible value in every case, we have built up a very large business in "diamonds by mail." A diamond purchase can be most satisfactorily made in this way, as every stone we send out is in reality on approval. If it fails to please in any respect it may be returned at our expense and the amount paid will be at once refunded.

Our diamonds are of a much higher grade than is generally sold, and we are satisfied with a very small profit. We invite comparison of quality and price.

Our diamond department is under the direct supervision of Mr. Daniel Low, senior member of the firm, who has had an experience of over forty years in the buying and selling of precious stones, and all orders are handled by men whose expert knowledge of fine stones and of settings most in favor assures careful selection and intelligent advice.

FINE ENGAGEMENT RINGS A SPECIALTY.

Do not forget to state the size desired when ordering rings. Directions for taking measurements will be found on other ring pages. We will gladly send size card to any address on application.

SOCIETY NOTES

President Taft is back on the North Shore to remain until Oct. 17, and is continuing his golf at the Myopia Hunt club and enjoying auto trips along the beautiful North Shore drives. Following Monday's golf game at Myopia, President and Mrs. Taft partook of luncheon at the club with Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, Miss Mabel Boardman and Sec. and Mrs. Norton. Monday evening the President and Mrs. Taft dined at the home of Wm. Endicott at Hospital Point, Beverly.

—x—

Mrs. J. H. Lancashire of Fort House, Norton's Neck, Manchester, went over to New York Thursday to make arrangements for the entrance of her youngest daughter, Miss Lila Lancashire in the Spence School. Ammi Lancashire returned on the 29th to Yale to begin his senior year's studies. Miss Lancashire is entertaining Miss Kittie Thornton of La Grange, Georgia, and Mrs. Harry G. Williams of Detroit.

—x—

The Lewis Hancocks of Austin, Tex., who occupied the Alexander Cochrane cottage at Hamilton the past season, have brought their sojourn there to a close and will spend the autumn in New York. Miss Dorothy Hancock is among the North Shore contingent at Hot Springs, Va., for October.

—x—

Mrs. W. Harry Brown and Miss Brown of Pittsburg and Beverly Cove have been in New York and Pittsburg for several days previous to Miss Brown settling in Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., where she attends a fashionable boarding school. Mr. and Mrs. Boyle, Mrs. Brown's parents, were planning to conclude their stay at the Cove this week and visit their former home, Pittsburg, while en route to California.

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Rice and daughter have returned to Beverly Cove from a week's auto trip up the Hudson. They are not leaving the Cove for their Boston home until Oct. 20.

Mrs. Henry P. McKean continued her many social entertainments of the season by a dinner of 14 covers last Saturday evening at her Pride's home.

—x—

Much dining and autumn social activity has been in progress at the Myopia Hunt club incident to the star golf contests on last Friday and Saturday by golfers representing Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and the Metropolitan district of New York, the two former teams contesting for the Leslie Cup.

SOCIETY NOTES

Magnolia had a very charming season-end wedding last Saturday noon which brought some 300 visitors to that section of the North Shore from various cities of the country to help observe the nuptials of Miss Anna Bull McFadon of Quincy, Ill., and Magnolia and Thomas Burnett Dorman, Harvard, '06, of Upper Montclair, N. J.

The Union Chapel, Magnolia, was the scene of the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. S. H. Dana of Exeter, N. H., assisted by Rev. F. J. Libby of Magnolia. The church was artistically decorated with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums and an open fire of logs burned cheerily in the big cobblestone fireplace, a picturesque background for the bridal party in their beautiful gowns. Mr. Dorman's best man was Orville Rogers of Boston. The bride's gown was of embroidered white satin with the conventional veil caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the valley. She was given away by her brother, Donald McFadon of Tacoma, Wash.

Miss Dorothea Dutcher of Milwaukee, her cousin, served as maid of honor. She was handsomely attired in pink satin veiled with pink chiffon. She carried a basket of white roses. The four bridesmaids, the Misses Marguerite Tower, St. Louis; Mildred Foss, Boston; Mary Willis, Baltimore, and Helen Hopkins, Newtonville, carried out the pink and white scheme of the wedding and made a charming group in their gowns of pink satin veiled in white chiffon. They carried baskets of Kilarney roses.

The wedding reception and breakfast followed the ceremony at the cottage of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. C. H. Bull on Lexington avenue, which was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and chrysanthemums, except the dining-room which was a mass of Kilarney roses. Receiving with the bridal party during the reception were Mrs. Wm. McFadon, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Franklin W. Dorman, mother of the groom. Serving as ushers at the church and at the reception were Edward M. Cutler, Boston; Edward Savage, Newburyport; Wm. Converse Chick, Boston; Samuel L. Titcomb, Augusta, Me.

Guests were present from Boston, New York, St. Louis, Tacoma, Washington, Montclair and Buffalo. The future home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorman will be at 222 Highland avenue, Montclair, N. J.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Annie H. Armour, the widow of Kirkland Brooks Armour, former president of the Armour Packing Company of Chicago, who spent the summer at one of the Wilkins cottages, Magnolia, was married quietly Tuesday of this week at the Waldorf Astoria, New York, to Capt. Chas. W. Littlefield, paymaster of the United States Navy, attached to the Boston Navy Yard. Only the immediate family was present. There were no attendants. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James S. Holland, rector of St. Bartholomew's Chapel and afterward a wedding breakfast was served. It is understood that Capt. Littlefield has been granted a long furlough and that he and his bride will take an extended honeymoon. Capt. and Mrs. Littlefield will be at home after Dec. 1, at 24 East Armour Boulevard, Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw (Alice Sohier), who have been visiting Mr. Shaw's parents in Lenox, are again at Beverly Cove as the guests of Col. and Mrs. William D. Sohier. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw have taken the house at the corner of Mt. Vernon and West Cedar streets, Boston, and will live there the coming winter.

A distinguished visitor to the North Shore over the last week-end was Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the American ambassador to Great Britain. Mrs. Taft was Mrs. Reid's hostess at the summer White House at Burge point.

Mrs. L. C. Hanna concluded her stay at "Jumbo Cottage," Beverly Farms, last Saturday and returned to Cleveland. Mr. Luke and family have removed from "The Gables," where they have lived this summer, to Jumbo cottage and will remain there until Nov. 1, when they will go south.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moore (nee Hanna) also left Beverly Farms last Saturday for their New York home. "Round Plain Farm," Beverly Farms, until Jan. 1.

Mrs. Allen Curtis and Miss Curtis were due from New York today, after a short visit. They are not leaving their beautiful estate on Oak street, Beverly Farms, until after Thanksgiving.

The William Endicotts closed their Pride's Crossing cottage this week and moved to their town house at 32 Beacon Street, Boston, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. King of Pride's have returned from their sojourn in Tuxedo Park, N. Y.

Col. and Mrs. R. H. Stevenson planned to leave the Saltonstall cottage at Pride's Thursday of this week, and open their winter home on Beacon street, Boston.

Gardner Hubbard of West Manchester, the aeroplanist, will serve as best man at the wedding of Miss Dorothy Pierce, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Pierce of Brookline and Frederick Ingersol Emery, Harvard, 1902, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodward Emery of Cambridge, on Wednesday next at St. Paul's church, Brookline.

Hon. G. H. Lyman of Beverly Farms is recuperating at his North Shore summer home from injuries received in a hunting trip in New Brunswick. While walking through dense underbrush, the string of his moccasin caught in a root and he was thrown heavily to the ground and severely injured. His remoteness from medical aid aggravated his injuries and physical condition in such a manner that when he reached civilization he was in a very bad way, but is now on the road to complete recovery.

John W. Cutler will give his bachelor dinner at the Essex County club, Manchester, tomorrow night incident to his marriage to Miss Rosamond Fish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, on Oct. 22, at Garrison, N. Y. The guests to be entertained are his brothers, Roger and George Cutler, Louis A. Shaw of Beverly Farms and Francis Burr, all of Boston; Sidney W. Fish, Hamilton Fish, jr., Fulton Cutting who has been on the North Shore this past season, these three from New York. Other Harvard classmates to be present will be F. Meredith Blagden, E. Morgan Gilbert, F. S. von Stade, Charles L. Appleton, Munroe D. Robinson, George B. Wagstaff, Clarence Hay, George P. Denny and Evelyn Dupont Irving. Elliott Cutler, another brother, will be his best man.

The late Mrs. Helen M. Nason, widow of Jesse L. Nason, who passed away at her summer home in Beverly, after a long illness, is the mother of Harry L. Nason of the banking firm of H. L. Nason & Co. Her winter home was at 1471 Beacon street, Brookline.

Mrs. John A. Caswell is planning to remain at Master John Caswell has entered St. Mark's School Southboro.

Gordon Abbott and family are removing from West Manchester to Boston, Oct. 10.

Henry S. Grew, 2d, and family left their very attractive summer home at West Manchester, Monday of this week to facilitate the plans of the younger members of the family is settling in school.

The H. D. Scotts of Wellesley, who spent the early autumn in Bar Harbor, concluded their stay at Beverly, Tuesday.

Miss E. C. McVickar of Providence brought her North Shore season to a close on Friday last and closed "The Alhambra," her Pride's estate.

Among last week's arrivals at "The Fairfax," Beverly, were B. Kronstrand, Stockholm, Sweden, and Mrs. M. K. Baker, Boston.

Associate Justice William H. Moody, who is still at Magnolia, resigned Tuesday of this week from the U. S. Supreme bench. President Taft wrote to Justice Moody accepting the resignation with reluctance and expressing his high regard for the retiring jurist. He will receive the full pay of an active member of the court, $12,000 a year.

Mrs. Susan Preston Draper, widow of Gen. William F. Draper, who is still at the Bradbury cottage, Manchester, has offered to erect at Congregational Park, Milford, a statue of Gen. Draper, on condition that the plot remain forever without buildings and that the town shall forever maintain it as a park. The townspeople have accepted the gift.

Mon. Portalis, chargé d'affaires of France, his family and legation attaches, left Manchester for Washington, Monday afternoon. The Italian legation has also been transferred to Washington.

Miss Nancy Hutchinson of Philadelphia concluded a visit with Mrs. Bernard C. Weld, Beverly Farms, Wednesday. Miss Susan Thayer of Boston and Lancaster, who was Mrs. Weld's guest also, has gone on to Newport.

"Lodgehurst," the cottage on Smith's Point, Manchester, occupied this year by the Frederic Foster Careys, is closed, the family having taken up their autumn residence in Tuxedo Park. Mrs. Carey's sister, Mrs. Stoughton Bell, is still at the Smith Farm, Proctor street, Manchester.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Miss Marguerite Le Breton of Pride's Crossing has returned from a ten days' sojourn in Philadelphia, where she was entertained by friends at the Naval Hospital. The Le Breton family are newcomers on the North Shore.

R. M. Townsend and family of Philadelphia, who had one of the Endicott cottages at Pride's for August and September, returned to the Quaker City, Tuesday of this week.

Miss Hopkins of Boston and Washington, who has been the guest of Miss Mary Curtis of "Indian Ridge," Pride's Crossing, is now in Bryn Mawr, Pa.

John Benham of Chicago spent a portion of the week with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stewart Spaulding of Pride's.

Miss Helen Tweed of Beverly Farms has resumed her studies at St. Timothy's school, Catonsville, Md.

Mrs. Robert S. Bradley of Pride's Crossing is registered at the Curtis Hotel, Lenox, for an autumn sojourn.

Mrs. Thomas McGuire of New York has concluded her stay at the Otis H. Luke cottage, "Apple Orchard," Beverly Farms.

Herbert M. Sears and daughters are spending a week in New York. They do not leave their summer estate, "Wood Rock," Pride's Crossing, until the last of the month, when they will take up their residence at Boston, for the winter.

Miss Josephine Rantoul returned Tuesday to Beverly Farms from a week's sojourn in New Hampshire previous to renewing her boarding school studies in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burnham of Boston and Beverly Farms are not leaving the Farms until the middle of November. They are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Gray of Newport and New York at present.

Four hundred dollars were realized from the recent sale for the Floating Hospital at Mrs. John A. Caswell's summer home, "Round Plain Farm," Beverly Farms. The children, who contributed to its success both by the contributions of their handiwork and assistance at the booths were Anna, Elenora and Katherine Winslow, Eleanor Jackson, Peggy and Isabel Porter, Elizabeth Caswell, Katherine Crosby, Katherine and Eleanor Cabot, Frances Weld, Polly Procter, Emma Mandell and Isabel Boardman. The little girls were dressed as Red Cross nurses and Agnes Grew as Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch presided over the "Products from Round Plain Farm." At the tea and refreshment tables were Mrs. Nathaniel S. Simpkins and Miss Faith Simpkins. There was a large attendance and Mrs. Caswell proved a delightful major domo for the children.

Mrs. Charles P. Dukelow of Brookline and her interesting family of charming little daughters are remaining at "Wyndhurst," their summer home on Masconomo street, Manchester, indefinitely and her many friends on the North Shore will be privileged to still enjoy her most cordial and abundant hospitality.

George E. Warren and family find "Singingdune," their Manchester estate and its beach environs so attractive this autumn that they plan to remain there until after Thanksgiving and will do considerable entertaining.

Another departure from Blossom Lane, Manchester, was that of Mr. Russell S. Codman and family of Boston on last Saturday. Charles R. Codman, 2d, was planning to enter college this autumn.

Description of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter's New Summer Mansion.

By Mary Taylor Falt.

The imposing new tapestry brick and marble mansion of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter at West Beach, Beverly Farms, is a notable addition to the array of costly estates being located on the North Shore.

The mansion, which contains over sixty rooms, sets a little back from the beach front at West Beach, with an enclosed marble terrace, and with balustrades in the foreground. In the rear of the house, the grounds of which sweep out toward the ocean on one side and to the Haven estate field on the railroad line, is the gardener's lodge, stable and garage with belfry and clock tower. These buildings have been built also of tapestry brick and marble.

The mansion will be approached by long, tree-bordered concrete avenues. Preliminary work for Italian gardens, 120x46 feet, has been started.

The mansion itself is a fine example of a most complete and ornate home, with lofty halls and living rooms, family suites and guests' rooms, billiard hall, library and servants' apartments, while the culinary, laundry and other practical apartments of such a mansion are most up-to-date and equipped in every detail. The front, side and back entrances are supported by stately white marble columns and marble tiled, roomy balconies open from the up-stairs suites of Mrs. Leiter, sr., and Mrs. Joseph Leiter. The water front terrace of the mansion opens into a loggia of green lattice work and ornately carved papier mache inserts, the medallions depicting classical and mythological subjects.

Much mahogany is used for the heavy doors of the mansion, while the library, finished in gumwood, has very beautiful hand-carved decorations.

The reception room is in white wood with hand-carved mantle. The dining hall, 22x28, is carried out in mahogany and papier mache carvings with a statuary marble mantle. The dainty breakfast room opens on the terrace and is finished in white and green lattice work. The finish of the billiard hall is black cypress and grey stone. The guest rooms number eight. The long sweeping staircase on the first floor has black ornate iron balustrades topped with mahogany and on the second floor it is carried out in colonial style in white enameled wood.

The contractors for the mansion were the L. D. Willcutt Sons Co., of Boston and the architects were Thomas, Parker and Rice of Boston, whose landscape gardener is laying out the Italian gardens. Linehan of Beverly Farms has the grading contract.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. James T. Fields is still at her estate on Thunderbolt hill, Manchester, and plans to continue her stay until the middle of the present month, possibly later, weather permitting. Miss Cochran, who has spent the greater portion of the summer with Mrs. Fields has gone to her former home in Kentucky, before sailing for Europe.

Mrs. Walter Alexander brought her season's stay at the Wheaton cottage, Old Neck, Manchester, to a close on Tuesday of this week. Before settling permanently in New York she will locate at her country place near that city.

Mrs. Amory Eliot and Miss Rosamond Eliot sailed for Europe, Wednesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Overson, who had the small Wigglesworth cottage on Sea street, Manchester, have returned to Brookline. This cottage will be utilized frequently during the coming months by Frank Wigglesworth of the Milton Academy, and Richard Wigglesworth of Harvard for the week-end parties of college friends. Mr. and Mrs. George Wigglesworth were due in Manchester Thursday of this week, after a season's sojourn abroad.

The families of George Putnam and Wm. Lowell Putnam are among the late sojourners at Manchester, who will not give up its many attractions until about Nov. 1.

At the weekly luncheon of the Atlantic Conference held at the Exchange club, Boston, Claude Grahame-White, and his friend and chum, Sydney Macdonald, were among those entertained. President A. Shuman of Boston and Beverly Cove presided and North Shore summer residents present were John S. Lawrence and Col. C. H. Wallace of Beverly Cove and Col. William H. Bunting of Swampscott.

Mrs. W. H. Taft and Mrs. John Hays Hammond spent the last week-end in New York.

The persistent rumor to the effect that President Taft had hired a cottage at Manchester for next season, and another that he had hired one at Beverly, is contradicted by members of the family. It is true that the President and family probably will not occupy the Evans cottage at Burgess Point again, and that Mrs. Taft has looked at several houses with the idea of hiring a new place for next year, but they have not yet hired any house. This latter information was given the Breeze this noon by Miss Taft.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland of West Manchester enlarged the North Shore contingent, who are enjoying the autumn pleasures of New York, this week. They are remaining at West Manchester until the middle of November. Jan. 1 they will sail for Egypt, it is reported.

Mrs. E. B. Everett closed her West Manchester cottage, "The Old Fort," today and removed to her winter residence on the Fenway, Boston.

There will be quite an exodus from West Manchester next week the families of S. V. R. Crosby, F. W. Fabyan, Samuel Carr and the household of Miss Adele G. Thayer being listed for removal to Boston.

A. F. Southerland closed his summer home at Coolidge's Point the last week. Mr. Southerland has gone to the Hot Springs for a visit, and his daughter, Mrs. Eugene G. Foster and family, have returned to their home in New York city. Mr. Southerland was one of those competing in the golf tournament at Rye Beach the latter part of last week, a remarkable feature of which was the fact that out of the large number playing, not one of them was under sixty years of age. That age is not essential to good golf, however, was evident by the large number of remarkably good scores made.

Mrs. S. Parkman Blake of West Manchester, who is a sister of Henry L. Higginson, has been entertaining New York friends and on Tuesday afternoon (Oct. 4) Mrs. Blake gave a delightful afternoon tea and reception in honor of President Taft.

Mrs. J. L. Thorndike has as a house guest for a short visit, Mrs. Horton, who has just returned from Europe.

Clay Wadsworth of Newport and Washington has concluded a visit with the Col. Henry Mays at Manchester.

Thursday evening "Eagle Rock," the magnificent summer home of Henry Clay Frick, extended its abundant hospitality to a dinner company of thirty-six North Shore gentlemen who were bidden to meet President Taft. Among those present were John Hays Hammond, Congressman A. P. Gardner, Bryce J. Allan, Amory G. Hodges, Judge W. H. Moore and Frederick R. Sears.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Philip S. Sears of Pride's will entertain a dinner company of twenty-two.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Taylor, jr., of Manchester have returned from an auto trip to North Easton.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander S. Porter, jr., were due in New York yesterday from their trip abroad and are coming to Manchester to remain at their summer home on Cobb avenue for a few weeks.

The report that C. A. Munn, jr., had bought Miss A. G. Thayer's estate at West Manchester, was denied this morning by Miss Thayer. Her property is for sale, however.

REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

The report that John R. McGinley had bought the Stevens estate on Smith's Point, which he and his family is occupying this season, is not true. It is not at all improbable that they will buy an estate here sooner or later, but they had not bought any place up to this morning. The family plans to linger on the Shore until the middle of next month, or later.

Miss Louisa L. Dresel has vacated her summer home at Mingo Beach, Pride's Crossing, and contractors are making bids for the extensive improvements Miss Dresel plans to make there.

John S. Lawrence has given the contract for a large addition to his Topsfield summer home to Howard A. Doane of Pride's. He plans to expend some $10,000 on the improvements. Mr. Lawrence and family are at his father's home at Beverly Cove. Work has been started at Topsfield. Amos A. Lawrence, Mr. Lawrence's brother, has purchased property at Beaver Pond, which lies between Montserrat and Centerville, and plans to build there. He, too, has been spending the summer at the family summer homestead at Beverly Cove. There is also other prospective building at Beaver Pond.

Publicover Bros. have the contract to place two bathrooms in the summer home of Justice O. W. Holmes at Beverly Farms.

Improvements to the driveway and entrance of the Hemenway estate at Manchester are being made.

The frame work of R. L. Raymond's new summer home off Beach street, Manchester, is raised.

Telephone Talks

A "prompt" answer turneth away wrath. You know how you feel when you are kept waiting at the telephone.

Remember: Example is better than precept.

"No One on the Line"

It has been pointed out that there are three parties to a telephone conversation, namely, the person calling, the operator, and, last but not least, the person called.

The operator has no authority to compel an answer to her summons. She simply forwards to your telephone a mechanical signal. Interpreted, this means "Some one desires to speak to you." It remains for you, the person called, to recognize this request.

There are two strong reasons why you should answer promptly, and both vitally concern you:

1. If you are slow in answering, the caller may hang up the telephone and assume that you are not accessible. Later, if you answer at your leisure, the operator can vouchsafe no information save that "there is no one on the line." Who called you? The operator probably does not know. Any operator in your exchange may have called you, rather than the operator specially assigned to answer your calls.

2. From the moment the operator calling you "plugs in" on your line until she ceases her effort to attract your attention, your line is "busy" to all other callers.

If you are dilatory, therefore, you are obstructing your own service. You are also causing disappointment to your caller and annoyance to yourself.

GREATEST MECHANICS FAIR

Thousands of Delighted Visitors in Daily Attendance at the Exposition in Mechanics Building, Boston.

The great Mechanics Fair in Mechanics Building, Boston, was opened most auspiciously Monday morning, the 3d instant and now is running smoothly and swiftly along delighting thousands every day. Possibly never before in the history of entertainments of any kind in Boston has so much been given for so small a financial consideration. After one passes the turnstiles all of the attractions, and they are of the best, are absolutely free to patrons and there are no charges for seats. One can most profitably pass an entire day at this Mechanics Exposition—one day is altogether too short a time to see and enjoy its wonderful sights and sounds—and the time can be passed in the greatest comfort too, for on every hand there are opportunities, not only for sightseeing and study, but for supplying bodily needs, such as rest, food and entertainment of the lighter sort. It has been well said that this Mechanics Exposition of 1910 is a veritable city within a city; about all things to be found in a well-ordered community are here in abundance, splendidly selected and most attractively displayed.

The Hollis Street Theatre.

No greater treat will be given Boston theatregoers during the coming season than that which will be afforded Hollis street theatre patrons for three weeks of "The Lily," the most powerful drama which has been shown to theatregoers for more than a score of years. Coming direct from David Belasco's own theatre in New York city with cast and production complete in every detail, it will surely be a treat to see these remarkable performances. The performances will be under the personal supervision of Mr. Belasco. The surest way in which to convince of the remarkable merits of this production and company, next to the fact that Mr. Belasco wrote the play and produced it, is the following list of players who have been appearing in it at Mr. Belasco's own theatre. First among these, of course, is Miss Nance O'Neil, next Charles Cartwright and following them comes Julia Dean. Others include Alfred Hickman, Antoinette Walker, Oscar Eagle, Ethel Grey Terry, Wm. C. Holden, Elliott Dexter, Douglas Patterson and more than a dozen others. The customary Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be played, and the engagement begins Monday evening, Oct. 10.

This company and production will not be seen in any other New England city this season.

A bright and prosperous outlook for New England as the summer resort section of the country is prophecied by President Mellen of the N.
Y., N. H. & H. R. R., acting head of the Boston & Maine and its connected lines. To quote the Boston News Bureau:

"President Mellen believes that within 10 years he can double the Boston & Maine business and bring forth fair returns upon all the New Haven investment therein and the millions of new capital that must be put in to expand the business. Before the New Haven road makes its investment in Boston & Maine secure, there will be 100,000,000 people in the United States, most of whom will be looking with longing eyes for a summer taste of the New England seacoast and her inland summer and mountain resorts.

"The great problem, however, will be how to make Maine and the Provinces beyond—for Mr. Mellen is far-sighted—attractive in its resorts, hotel accommodations, boarding houses and food supplies.

"Beginning with the top of Mount Washington, Mr. Mellen will see to it that the American people are accommodated in Maine and New Hampshire.

"Mount Washington's Tip-Top house, burned in the winter of 1908-'09, will be rebuilt with stone or concrete.

"Brains and talent will be applied to the housing and catering as well as the transportation to be furnished in Maine and New Hampshire.

"The railroad people of New England will be awakened to the fact that if they are to hold their own with the Canadian Pacific, and its line of steamers, hotels and excusion facilities, they cannot afford to be behind in any accommodations to the public.

"The Somerset railroad, in the Boston & Maine system, has just bought the Kineo house at Moosehead lake.

"This is only the beginning of what the Boston & Maine must do to unfold to the whole country the natural resources of New England, which natural resources furnish the greatest opportunity for intelligent railroad exploitation of any territory of the United States."

Annual Meeting of Essex County Members of Red Cross.

The fifth annual meeting of the Essex County members of the American National Red Cross Society was held at Amesbury on Sept. 27 by invitation of the Whittier Home Association.

The occasion was a delightful one,
the ladies of the association receiving their guests in the picturesque old-fashioned Whittier association house with Mrs. Emily B. Smith as hostess in chief. Mr. Hawkes, treasurer of the Amesbury society, gave an account of the tuberculosis work that has been done by the members during the year, by raising a large sum of money and expending it for needy cases. This is a help for which there is great demand.

Miss Mabel Boardman gave a very interesting address on Conservation in relation to Red Cross work, and showed ingenious devices prepared for "First aid," such as bandages to be used in accidents before a surgeon can be obtained, with figures printed on the bandage showing how it should be applied to different parts of the body. A very comprehensive small accident box containing plaster, bandages, splints, etc., is made for the Red Cross service, a convenient article for any household as well as for railway stations, factories, etc.

After the business meeting tea was served in the quaint dining room, and the visitors departed with much appreciation of their charming entertainment.

The following officers were re-elected for the Essex Chapter: President, Gen. F. H. Appleton; treasurer, Mr. W. O. Chapman; secretary, Miss L. P. Loring.

THE OLD BARN.

The ancient barn with its clapboards gray
Has for well-nigh fifty years
Sheltered its wealth of fragrant hay
And wealth of golden ears.

The swallows dart thro' the open door
Just the same as in years gone by,
When we rode around o'er the thrashing-floor,
And trod out the wheat and rye.

On rainy days oft a merry throng
Of children gathered here,
And with hunting eggs and games and song,
The gloom gave way to cheer.

In its lofty mows we often played,
In the days of long ago,
And peered 'neath the rafters half afraid,
Lest some goblin lurked below.

Hail! dear old barn, 'neath thy shelt'ring eaves
Sweet echoes dwell, and sing
To my list'ning ear, and my heart receives Fond mem'ries of youth's glad spring.

Our Weekly Letter From :: :: :: :: Washington

Special to the North Shore Breeze.

Washington, Oct. 5.—There is practically only one thing which you can gamble on about the census; that is, that the totals of population will have to be presented to Congress by the time it meets in December. The apportionment of Representatives may be changed materially on account of the changes in population, not to say the increases, and it will be up to Congress to decide whether the plan of apportionment shall remain as it now is, which would result in some states losing one or more members of Congress, or whether there shall be a reapportionment on a different basis. This may look like a simple mathematical proposition, but it is really a complex problem and is one which the best politicians in Congress will worry their heads over.

Ambitious Cities.

It is nothing new that hustling, growing, ambitious cities should wish to appear before the world as possessing a larger population than they are entitled to. A city which is growing rapidly must have some element in it which makes it a desirable place to invest in and to live in. It offers a good field for the man with money who wants to grow up with a live community and profit by the increased value of property. There is nothing to wonder at, therefore, if most of the ambitious cities have been trying to induce the census enumerators to see more persons than really live there. And the enumerators, aside from the fact that often they live in these cities themselves, are filled with a justifiable local pride, are nothing loath to get all the names they can, for their compensation was based on the number of names they could get. The result, natural and to be expected, of such a condition, has been that some cities have shown an abnormal growth. At least the Director of the Census has looked on it that way. He has had his suspicions aroused concerning the accuracy of these returns. He has argued that some enumerators have been too ambitious, and have recorded persons where none lived. Also, he has heard of instances where local citizens' bodies have taken a hand in boosting population returns and have put down as residents of their towns persons who had stopped overnight at the hotels, or even were merely passing through the city.

The cities which hanker after metropolitan classifications are not confined to any particular section of the country. They are found in the south,—like Birmingham, Atlanta, and Mobile; in the Central States, like Bay City, Des Moines, East St. Louis, Kansas City, Detroit and Omaha; in the East like Bridgeport, Newark, Jersey City, Allentown, Bayonne, Hartford, Waterbury, Woonsocket, Yonkers and Schenectady,—just think of Schenectady jumping 129.9 percent from 31,682 in 1900 to 72,826 in 1910. That would put to shame the efforts of the average "boom city" in any other part of the country. Wonder if Mr. Durand let Schenectady get past him without a thorough investigation as to "where she got it?" And we must not forget the far West, where Los Angeles, Oakland, Portland, Seattle, Spokane and Tacoma have made magical growth. Sacramento, not a boom city in any sense, gained 52.6 percent, reaching a total population of 44,696. That was the first California city to be given out,—and after that the Census Bureau rubbed its eye and studied the west's claim. No padded returns are going to get past the Bureau if the Director knows it.

Game Laws.

People who hunt are increasing so rapidly, and the laws of the states and territories are so numerous and complex, and come in contact at so many points with federal regulations, that the Secretary of Agriculture has issued (as Farmers' Bulletin No. 418), a pamphlet entitled "Game Laws for 1910." This differs from other publications of the kind in these points: (1) Inclusion of a brief but comprehensive review of the measures enacted and also the more important ones which failed; (2) arrangement of provisions by subjects instead of by States; (3) adoption of a uniform statement and order of the various details to facilitate ready comparison of similar provisions in different States. Its chief objects are to present in convenient form the restrictions on hunting which affect the enforcement of the federal statute regulating interstate commerce in game, and to show the trend and general condition of legislation from year to year. It can be had for the asking.

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB

The Manchester Woman's club held its first meeting of the season Tuesday afternoon in the Congregational chapel. The large number present showed the continued interest in the club's work this coming winter.

The first half-hour was devoted to business. Mrs. Tenney, the president, gave a greeting of good cheer and enthusiasm for the new year. The committee in charge of funds for the District Nurse presented the encouraging report that over $900 had already been raised for that work. It is hoped that more, however, will respond to this movement, especially the club members. Many small sums will mean more than a few large ones.

The civics committee also reported that the Stamp Saving System in the schools is obtaining satisfactory results—over $400 was deposited in little mites by the children last year.

Miss Jessie Hoare was elected director to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mrs. Albert W. Mead.

The club had the pleasure of listening to Miss Katharine P. Loring tell something of her acquaintance with famous authors. The talk carried with it the real atmosphere of each personality described. During the social hour tea was served by the directors with Mrs. Elizabeth A. Sinnicks presiding as hostess.

N. S. Horticultural Society.

The North Shore Horticultural society will meet this evening at 7.30 o'clock at Lee's hall, Manchester. The speaker will be W. B. Jackson. His subject will be "A Few Suggestions in the Use of Flowers for Decorative Effects." The discussion committee desires as large an attendance as possible.

feature of the traffic in game. If permitted without limitation it is a great factor in game destruction. A realization of this fact has induced many of the States to prohibit export of all or certain kinds of game, and in a few instances all transportation even within the State.

Federal laws affecting the shipment of game comprise the statutes regulating interstate commerce in game and the importation of birds from foreign countries and those providing for the protection of birds and game on territory under immediate federal jurisdiction.

✱ Manchester ✱

The Manchester club meets tonight. Members are reminded that business of importance will come before the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

The barber shops in town have signed an agreement to close Mondays at noon and other days at 8 p. m., excepting Saturdays and nights before holidays.

A Manchester branch of Gray's circulating library of Gloucester has been established at Cawthorne's Branch bakery, 50 Central street. A good assortment of the latest books may be found. The cost for the use of these books is two cents a day.

Roy Wallace, night telephone operator at the local exchange, is having his vacation and is spending it in Maine. Bryce Specht is substituting at the office. Jos. Cawthorne is to substitute at the Marblehead office next week for the operator there.

The annual meeting of the Manchester Launch club was held Wednesday evening and the following officers were elected: Alfred C. Needham, commodore; Louis C. Lations, vice-commodore; Richard L. Cheever, secretary and treasurer; Frank L. Decker, collector; David Fenton, measurer. A committee of three was appointed to draw up plans and make investigations for a building and report back to the club within the next two months. It is probable a sort of bungalow-boat-house will be built as a home for the club.

A beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums magnificently colored has been adorning the editor's desk the last few days, a product of the gardens of Captain Thomas Hannable, now of Beverly. Captain Hannable is a former Manchester man. His keen delight in the cultivation of flowers and the success he attains in having one of the "best" gardens in Beverly make the burden of advancing years the easier for him. Summer visitors driving or motoring by his home in Beverly are very often seen to stop to look at the flowers, and occasionally to be presented with a bouquet by the Captain.

The selectmen have awarded the contract for the construction of the new road connecting Beach street with Sea, at its junction with Masconomo streets, to Charles E. Littlefield. The bids received were:

MRS. K. B. SHERMAN MILLINER

44 Central Street

Manchester-by-the-Sea

Daniel Edgecomb $6156, S. A. Sinicks $5992, Morley, Flatley & Co. $4850, C. E. Littlefield $4413. It will be remembered that the town voted last spring to build this road and $7602 was appropriated for the purpose, it being understood that $2002 would cover the land damage. The successful bidder is under $2500 bonds to construct the road by Dec. 15, and the work must be started by Oct. 15.

Ford-Allen.

A very pretty wedding occurred Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Salter, Dexter Farm, Manchester, when Miss Mary Allen, who has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Salter the last six months, was united in marriage to James W. Ford of Gloucester. The house was very prettily decorated with autumn foliage—oak leaves and flowers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. L. Frost of the Baptist church. Miss Lydia Dennis was the bridesmaid and John O'Neil of Manchester acted as best man. Following the ceremony, a very dainty collation was served and the young people were given a royal send-off. The wedding was attended by relatives of the young people and a small circle of intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Ford will make their home in Gloucester.

Joseph G. Mears.

Joseph G. Mears died at his summer cottage on Tappan street, Manchester, last Saturday morning, after a week's illness of typhoid pneumonia.

Mr. Mears was a native of Manchester, being born here on Jan. 22, 1863, a son of Simon and Susan (Andrews) Mears. He had been in Boston ever since beginning his business career, and about a year ago became a junior partner of the firm of Lowell Bros. & Bailey Co., wholesale fruit and vegetable commission merchants. His Boston home was at 540 Massachusetts avenue. He was married to Miss Mary E. Walsh of Boston, who survives him, as does a son and daughter, his mother and two brothers, Simon and Charles Mears of Manchester and two sisters, Mrs. Charles A. Phippen of Lynn, and Mrs. George L. Knight of Manchester. Mr. Mears was a member of Tremont Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Boston, a large delegation from which attended the funeral and marched to the cemetery in a body. Members of the Produce Exchange were also present. Rev. W. H. Rider of Gloucester officiated.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tappan.

Mrs. Elizabeth Tappan, widow of Henry S. Tappan, died last Saturday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Levi A. Dunn, 39 Central street, at the age of 84 years, 11 months and 11 days.

For one of her years, Mrs. Tappan had enjoyed remarkably good health and was able to be about up until the night of her death. She was seriously ill only a few hours, the end coming very peacefully. Mrs. Tappan was born in Beverly. Her maiden name was Eldridge. A greater portion of her life, however, she spent in Manchester. She was a woman greatly beloved and respected by a large circle of friends—young as well as old—and was always active in the work of the Baptist church. In a few days she would celebrate her 85th birthday, an event which her family was planning to recognize. Mrs. Tappan is survived by two sons, James K. of Beverly and Benjamin W. of this town, and two daughters, Mrs. James Murray of Beverly and Mrs. Levi A. Dunn of Manchester. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late home, Rev. T. L. Frost officiating.

The firm of Magnuson & Hylen, florists, doing business on Bridge street, Manchester, for several years past, has dissolved partnership. Mr. Magnuson retains the business and will conduct it alone. Mr. Hylen moved his family to Randolph yesterday. He will engage in the same line of business there.

The caddies at the Essex County club, to the number of 30, celebrated the close of the season Saturday with an outing at the club. A baseball game was played in the afternoon and in the evening the large stable was turned into a banquet hall and theatre. Dinner was served at 6 o'clock. George F. Willett, chairman of the golf committee of the club, was present and addressed the boys. A first prize of $10 in gold was awarded to George Diamond for being best in caddying, attendance and behavior. Second prizes of $5 were awarded to A. Erickson and Northrup. Six prizes of $2.50 were also presented. After dinner the evening was given over to a moving-picture entertainment.

Duncan T. Beaton and family have returned to their home on Bridge street, after spending the summer enjoying camp life at Conomo Point, Essex, and West Gloucester. The members of the Argentine legation, who have occupied their house, have returned to Washington.

The Manchester high school football team is scheduled to play a game on the Brook street playgrounds Saturday afternoon with a team from the Peabody high. This is the first game of any kind to be played in Manchester under the auspices of a high school athletic association. Manchester, not to be out-classed in the development of its school spirit, has organized such an association and we join with many others who desire to see our schools advance, in hoping the movement will live and bring forth the results attained in other schools. The new association is organized for the purpose of promoting interest in athletics, such as baseball, football, tennis, hockey, basketball, etc., according to season. Sub-master Ralph Hayward is the manager of the football team this fall and Rufus Long, assistant manager. The officers of the association are: John Carter, president; Rufus Long, vice-president; Frank Floyd, secretary; Gordon Northrop, treasurer.

Town Clerk and Mrs. Alfred S Jewitt returned Wednesday evening from a delightful sojourn of a month in the Berkshires, the first two weeks at The Maplewood, Pittsfield, and the last two weeks at the Whelden, Greenfield.

Fred Bergquist, formerly in the tailoring business in Manchester, is now doing a hustling good fall and winter business at his Boston shop, Room 17-B, 3 Tremont Row, Boston, and he is showing an especially fine selection of goods for suits and overcoats. He would be pleased to see his Manchester friends at any time.

Allen post, G. A. R., is to hold a grand campfire next Wednesday evening, Oct. 12, at 7.30, at their headquarters, at which it is expected Gen. C. H. Taylor of the Boston Globe and Francis M. Stanwood, of Smith's Point, will be the special guests. Both these men attended a similar affair last autumn and the occasion will be remembered as one of the most enjoyable of the year. Members of the Corps, Camp and Associates are invited to attend.

✱ Magnolia ✱

A meeting of the board of directors of the Men's Clubhouse association of Magnolia was held at the clubhouse last evening. George A. Upton was chosen president. The report of the treasurer showed $1067 in the treasury with subscriptions due amounting to $239. It was voted to pay $500 on the mortgage of $16,000, the only outstanding indebtedness. The income from the clubhouse compares with the income last year and with the budget as follows:

| | 1910 | 1911 | Budget |
|-----------------|--------|--------|--------|
| Bowling | 607.70 | 644.82 | 630 |
| Pool | 134.47 | 136.05 | 140 |
| Restaurant | 582.52 | 461.68 | 550 |
| Membership | 225. | 252. | 220 |
| Room Rent | 1569. | 1308. | 1530 |
| Dance Profits | 62.24 | 84.71 | 80 |
| Baths | 9.10 | 4.85 | 10 |
| Tennis | 12.20 | 5.10 | 10 |
| Miscellaneous | 3.10 | 10.88 | |
| For Gymnasium | 61.99 | 10. | |

3288.23 2918.09 3170

Expenditures.

| | 1910 | Budget |
|----------------------|---------|--------|
| Salaries, etc. | 1072.55 | 1040 |
| Water | 39.82 | 60 |
| Electricity | 191.91 | 235 |
| Telephones | 22.64 | 40 |
| Reading Room | 42.55 | 50 |
| Laundry | 60.55 | 65 |
| Coal | 16.62 | 30 |
| Prizes | 42.74 | 35 |
| General Expenses | 168.44 | 200 |
| Insurance | 215. | 215 |
| Interest | 896.86 | 800 |
| (Reduced now to 775) | | |
| Ordinary Repairs | 70.64 | 75 |
| Improvements, etc. | 761.21 | 75 |
| | 3601.59 | 2920 |

The difference between the sum spent for improvements and the sum allowed by the budget need occasion no alarm, as the special improvements this year will not need repeating. Except for that column the expenditures in 1910 would foot up considerably less than the sum allowed by the budget. Next year's expenditures will show the club to be on a self-supporting basis with a substantial margin for the reduction of the debt.

It was voted that the clubhouse ought to be used in winter again this year and open three evenings a week from early in November till April 30, the money to be raised partly by subscription and partly in other ways. The board then adjourned.

Miss Sadie Abbott left Wednesday for Kansas City, Mo., where she will spend the winter.

An alarm of fire was sounded from box 35 at 10.50 o'clock Saturday night, for a brush fire on the premises of Mrs. Annie C. Thornton, at the rear of the cemetery. The fire had gained considerable headway and was being carried along towards the house and stable, which were directly in its path, as the wind was blowing in that direction. The alarm was rung by Rev. Frederick J. Libby. The Magnolia firemen responded, proceeding to the scene with hose, wagon and truck and two tanks of 25-gallon extinguisher before the blaze was smothered out and the buildings were declared out of danger. How the fire started is a mystery.

On Sunday, Oct. 16, Rev. John H. Grant of Elyria, O., will occupy the pulpit at the Village church. Mr. Grant will be a delegate from Ohio at the National Congregational Council in Boston and will bring the enthusiasm of the council with him. He is called one of the best men in Ohio. Rev. Frederick J. Libby will start on his annual vacation next week, part of which will be spent in a trip on a freight steamer from Buffalo to Duluth and return.

Mrs. Friend and daughter Louise of Gloucester were the guests of Mrs. Foster the first of the week.

Robert Boyd left Thursday for a short vacation to be spent at Windham, N. H., with relatives.

Jonathan May and Henry Butler, jr., were among those who attended the Brockton Fair from this place on Wednesday.

Daniel Casey, the popular blacksmith, has removed his family to Gloucester.

Miss Edna Guild and Charles Center of Somerville were the guests of Miss Maud Butler on Sunday.

Miss Marjorie S. May is enjoying her annual vacation from her duties at the local telephone exchange.

Jonathan May and family are at Conomo Point, Essex, for their annual autumn sojourn.

SMOKERS' SUNDRIES

There are a very few tobacco smokers who confine themselves wholly to either the pipe, cigar or cigarette. Many like the variety. Every smoker has occasion for something in the line of sundries at one time or another and we are constantly increasing our already fine line of these goods to accommodate the various wishes of all. The following partial list will give an idea of the attention we give to providing a line of these goods to select from.

The committee at the Farms on school children's gardens after periodical visits during the past summer have awarded the following prizes: John McTierman, 1st class, 1st prize, $3; Helen Campbell, 2d class, 2d prize, $2; Helen Stanwood, 2d class, 2d prize, $2; Lillian Drinkwater, 3d class, prize, $1. Presents were also awarded to Bessie Brigham, Arthur E. Poole, S. J. Connolly, jr., Francena Voornevelt, Charlotte Medcalf, Gordon Davis and Mary Chapman.

A plan is in existence for proposed changes at Beach street, and while it is not as yet clear just what the promoters desire to bring about from the numerous rumors in circulation there appears to be two schemes, one which abandons or closes the street at the railroad crossing and that part which runs through the Hutchinson property, giving for an outlet a path under the track running in a tangent line to the West Beach entrance. The line to the West Beach entrance. The other proposition is to make it a street instead of a path, upon the same lines. The Breeze man in his conversation with prominent Farms citizens has found them almost unanimous in their disapproval of any change there whatever, except that a proposition to put the street under the track and hereby abolish the grade crossing would be a good one.

The many friends of J. M. Publicover of High street are pleased to hear that he is on the way to recovery of his health, which, though apparently gradual, now seems to be only a matter of time.

Those who desire to vote at the state election on Tuesday, Nov, 8 and are not now on the list of qualified voters should see to it that their name is added. The meetings for registration are on the following dates: Friday, Oct. 7; Wednesday, Oct. 12; Friday, Oct. 14 from 7.30 to 9 p. m.; and on Wednesday, Oct. 19 from 12 m. to 10 p. m., at which time registration will close until after the November election has been held.

Mrs. Alvin Thomas and daughter Alice of Greenfield, have been entertained this week by Beverly Farms friends.

The Brockton Fair has been a strong attraction this week for many Farms people.

Miss Jennie Hanson and Miss Frances Connolly yesterday commenced their studies at the Dr. Sargent school of gymnastics in Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin R. Burt have returned to Jersey City, N. J., after a two weeks' vacation spent at the Farms and in this vicinity visiting friends.

Next Monday Mrs. Kate McDonald will move to Roxbury where she is to make her home with Mrs. Daniel Smith, her niece.

:: Beverly Farms ::

Mr. and Mrs. Olof Nelson (nee Clara Hanson) and child of Beverly have been spending the week at the Farms visiting Mrs. Nelson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mattis Hanson on Vine street.

Mrs. James B. Dow is leaving for a short visit of a week or two at North Woodstock, Vt., as is her usual custom at this season. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Haynes of Boston.

The entertainment and dance given under the management of the Ladies' Sodality in Neighbors' hall on Wednesday evening was well attended and an enjoyable affair. The entertainment was especially good, the program being a varied one of vocal and instrumental music, readings and some other pleasing numbers.

Neal Murray has entered the Freshman class at Tufts College.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Dow spent last week-end enjoying a trip to the white Mountains, going to Intervale and the Fabyans. They were home on Monday.

The marriage of Miss Mary Frances, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Hill of Brookline, to S. John Connolly of Beverly Farms, will take place in Brookline on Wednesday, Oct. 19. A reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents, 316 Boylston street, at 8 p. m. Miss Hill is well known at the Farms, being a very frequent visitor here, and is a well-known physical-culture instructor. Mr. Connolly, who is a civil engineer, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly and occupies a responsible position with Connolly Bros. The young people have a host of friends who are showering them with their congratulations and well wishes over the coming happy event.

The A. C. club, composed of Beverly Farms young men, will give an invitation dancing party this evening in Neighbors' hall. Several of the Farms ladies will act as matrons. There will be dancing from 8 to 1 o'clock.

William Standley is on a vacation trip across the state to Albany, N. Y., down the Hudson River to New York city, where he will spend a few days before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Turner of Burlington, Vt., have been among this week's visitors at the Farms. They made the trip in their auto.

This has been convention week and the various republican and democratic delegates who were elected in the recent Ward 6 caucuses have been attending to their duties. The representative convention will be held in Beverly next Monday at which Councilman John L. Saltonstall and Herman MacDonald will be nominated.

Mrs. Lewis G. Williams and Mrs. George H. Bennett this week went to Topsfield, where they are to enjoy real country life for the next two or three weeks.

S. E. Hutchinson is preparing to move the Boardman house on West Beach, which estate was recently purchased from George Lee. The new location is to be across West street on the vacant lot in front of the old stable.

Patrick Barry of High street has a dislocated shoulder and is otherwise used up due to a fall received this week. He was riding his horse. It slipped on a wet crosswalk throwing the rider to the ground.

Herman A. MacDonald, the republican nominee for the representative berth, will soon resign his position as assistant secretary to the Governor. Mr. MacDonald, when not attending to the duties as required of a representative at Beacon Hill, will practice law, having made arrangements to enter upon the staff of a well-known Boston law concern.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Quinn of New York city returned home yesterday, after a pleasant two weeks' visit among Beverly Farms friends.

Miss Alice Bolam, who is a recent graduate from the Boston Normal School of Art, has a very fine position at a studio on Boylston street, Boston.

Pride's Crossing, is the second on the list and will pay a tax of $18,964.76. Mr. Ayer is one of the summer colonists who has brought his personal property in for assessment and is taxed on $1,003,770. Mr. Ayer has a magnificent summer home at Pride's Crossing and his action in bringing his personal property to Beverly may be followed by other summer colonists.

Henry Clay Frick of Pride's Crossing pays individually a big tax, and his check for his tax this year will total $8,755.20 and of the assessment $553,000 is on real estate, most of it being levied on his Eagle Rock estate at Pride's Crossing.

Mrs. Edwin Carleton Swift of Swift-Moor, Pride's Crossing, pays a tax of $4,385.96 and the E. C. Swift estate a tax of $4,527.32.

Judge William H. Moore of New York will pay a tax of $3,617 on his estate at Rockmarge, Pride's Crossing.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

Burr McIntosh, who for several seasons has been making the success of his career as a star in "A Gentleman from Mississippi," will present at B. F. Keith's theatre next week a new sketch written by himself, called "Out Yonder." Mr. McIntosh will appear in the principal role and be supported by an excellent company. The sketch deals with life in Arizona, is full of humor and breathes the atmosphere of the prairies. Another feature of the same bill will be the famous Jack Wilson, the extemporaneous comedian, who is always springing surprises on his audiences. He will have with him his clever assistants, Ida Lane and Frank Batty. Still another strong combination will be Elphye Snowden and Earl Benham, who won such popularity with "The Follies of 1910" and "Little Nemo." Irene Dillon, another musical comedy favorite, recently with "Dick Whittington," is also on the bill.

WHERE THEY BEGIN

AND THEY LOOK AS MUCH THE PART AS THE BETTER ONES THAT MAKE THE TITUS STOCK SO FAMOUS.

They are plain, neat, refined, devoid of cheap carving, and so very well finished that they are as smooth as glass. They are designed with a lot of taste, you'll say it yourself, that "they are very pretty," and they commence in price

AT ONLY $7.00

AND SOLID OAK DRESSERS AT THAT

There is a variety of patterns consisting of ten, the highest priced one

ONLY $14.00

They came in a car that was unloaded Wednesday morning, the largest car that we ever unloaded. 175 pieces, by actual count—and we would have been glad if 'twere 300. Snapped up all the made stock the best factory in the South had, a quick turning of stock was their object, and we turn them to you just as we bought them of them, 'cause we are after ALL of your business more than ever.

The Dresser at $7.50 is made of Solid Oak, with a mirror 14x24 inches. The base has a double top, there are locks on all the drawers; 'tis better than we've been selling at $8.50.

A BEAUTY AT $11.00

has a full serpentine front, and the front all quarter-sawed oak at that; a long, oval shaped mirror gives unusual beauty to the price. Just see it for only.

$11.00

The most expensive one is ridiculous at the price, for 'tis made with full swell top drawers; the top measures 23x42 inches; there are 4 great big drawers; the two top ones divided. The mirror is an oval, 24x30 inches, almost the biggest glass used on a dresser. 'Tis a wonderfully big bureau, and very, very cheap.

AT ONLY $14.00

Seven other patterns, correspondingly as cheap, making a variety very satisfactory to pick from. You, who will have needs of anything in this line, let not time nor inclination keep you from investigating.

SOCIETY NOTES

The charge d'affairs of the Argentine Republic, Senor Don Jacinto L. Villegas, with his family, who summered in Manchester, are again settled in Washington at their Connecticut avenue residence. Their young daughter, Senorita Maria Helena Villegas, will be presented to society in the coming winter. The family summered at the Beaton cottage, Bridge street, Manchester, this year.

—x—

Mrs. Gordon Abbott and children have closed their West Manchester house and returned to Boston, as the younger members of the family were to be settled in school. The small cottage on the Borland estate will be kept open for a few weeks, and for week-ends later on.

—x—

Miss Adele G. Thayer of West Manchester has purchased a farm in Dublin, N. H., and in the future during the summers will reside there. She also contemplates disposing of her Boston residence on Commonwealth avenue and locate in Brookline.

—x—

The ranks of a very pleasant and congenial coterie of little folk at Beverly Farms were broken by the departure of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Porter and children on Monday, who were followed yesterday by George Scott Winslow and family. Today Bernard C. Weld transports his household to Boston. West Beach is indeed regretting the absence of its juvenile devotees.

—x—

Herbert M. Sears and the Misses Lily and Phyllis Sears have returned to Pride's from their short trip to New York, being accompanied by Mrs. Bryce J. Allen. The party met Mrs. Oliver Ames and Miss Ames there also. Miss Lily Sears is taking an active interest in motoring, having recently received for her personal use a Packard landaulet. The Sears family spent the last week-end as the guests of the Oliver Ames family at North Easton. They made the trip by auto.

Dr. George H. Washburn and family closed "Oak Ledge," their Manchester summer home, on Saturday morning enlarging the Boston contingent settling in winter homes. Dr. Washburn will remain at Manchester, however, until late October, making daily trips to Boston.

Misses Katherine P. and Louisa P. Loring departed Wednesday for Chocorua, N. H., to visit Mrs. Charles G. Loring, widow of Gen. Charles G. Loring of Boston.

—x—

Mrs. John A. Caswell of Beverly Farms made a short trip to New York this week.

SOCIETY NOTES

Justice Wm. H. Moody left Magnolia Monday for Washington where he will take up his permanent home. Justice Moody has been at Magnolia since the latter part of July and his health has improved since going there. President Taft offered the Justice the use of the U. S. S. Dolphin in which to make the journey to Washington, but Dr. James M. Jackson of Beverly Farms, Justice Moody's physician, considered him in good condition for travel by train. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Mary E. Moody, Dr. Jackson and attendants.

—x—

S. Reed Anthony and family are giving up the charms of "Rose Ledge," their Beverly Farms cottage, on the 18th and they will enlarge the Boston contingent, who will give home-like cheer to Commonwealth by the opening of winter homes.

—x—

Mrs. Amory Eliot and daughter, Miss Rosamond, left Manchester Tuesday and sailed for Europe the 12th to spend the winter. Mr. Eliot accompanied them across, and will remain a few weeks.

—x—

F. Meredyth Whitehouse and family have returned to Manchester, after their yachting cruise to Portland, Me., and thence to New York.

—x—

Dr. R. H. Fitz joined his family at West Manchester this week, after a six weeks' trip to California.

—x—

J. Harrington Walker and family of Detroit left their summer home at Magnolia last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Richardson left Magnolia for their Brookline home Wednesday.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Endicott Dexter have closed their summer home at York Village, Me., and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Dexter of Pride's.

—x—

The Irish envoys John Redmond, John Boyle and Joseph Devlin and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Fitzpatrick, Judge and Mrs. Langley of Halifax, accompanied by Carl Dreyfus and A. Shuman of Beverly called at the home of President Taft last Sunday afternoon and were received by the president, Mrs. Taft, Miss Helen Taft and their guest, Miss Marie Herron. A dinner party followed at "Hetmere," the A. Shuman estate at Beverly. John B. Schoeffel, formerly of Manchester, who is a close friend of John Redmond, entertained the envoys at the Tremont theatre last Saturday night, where they witnessed "The Fortune Hunter."

A Tale of Heraldry.

BY REV. LOUIS H. RUGÉ.

(COPYRIGHTED, 1910, BY L. H. RUGÉ.)

The subject of heraldry is surrounded with volumes of technical and tedious literary paraphernalia that is too intricate for the casual reader upon the subject. And yet it has within it the possibility of great charm. Unless the science can be divested of its technicalities and conjectural interpretations and be presented in such a way as to attract attention and arouse interest this tale will be a failure; for the object is to present it in a readable form. Although the literature of Europe and America is rich and voluminous upon the subject the tale thus far is of comparatively little interest to the people of America in general.

There will be no attempt at a scientific treatment of the subject of heraldry in this tale, for the infinite ramifications are such that but few would care to go very far with the writer. Those who may become further interested are referred to the works of established authority.

There will be no studied attempt to either place undue importance upon the art or to belittle its importance. It is not intended to dwell especially upon family escutcheons, the study is far more important than this. Therefore it is not for the vanity of the few, nor for the heart burnings of the many that this tale is written. If this results it is unavoidable.

The satirist reaches a climax in the realm of heraldry. The jester sharpens his keenest wit on the armorial shield. And the radical and revolutionary publicist is never so happy as when tearing a coat of arms to shreds or in emblazoning one of grim device with which to slander a man's rise from some obscure sphere in life.

There is a satirical side to the subject of heraldry. There is something ridiculous in everything. Human beings are excruciatingly funny, the more so when serious. I do not know that Darwin ever advanced this as one of the scientific evidences of evolution, but all the aeons of man's unfolding have failed to eliminate the monkey in him. Every blunder he makes is less evil than it is laughable. Commercially, politically, socially, intellectually and even religiously he is more comic than criminal in the drama of life, more a clown than a villain. A man has but to study carefully and honestly his own experiences and eccentricities to see this.

What can be more funny than a congressman who takes himself seriously in a heated defense of the tariff for special interests? What is more ridiculous than the solemn attitude of a high churchman on apostolic succession? There is a reverse side to all reformers and ecclesiastics. We all know some truly good men among them that if they assumed that attitude of importance and solemnity as naturally on the stage they would win undying fame as comedians while now they must go their solemn way into obscurity unknown, save by the few that may chance to see them in their true genius. It is true that some serious and sacred things are held too lightly, but it is equally true that there are many funny things that are held too seriously.

In this sense there is a ludicrous side in society's solemn boast of precedence based upon the armorial attitude of a mythological beast on a shield. Why should a lion rampant by any more exalting than an ormoial hog rampant? And why should Sir Ferdinand Noodle's ancestors be more exalted than Smith's ancestors? Surely the roots of both family trees lose themselves in antiquity and both no doubt have borne good and evil fruit. And what is there so much more desirable in a coat of arms than in a monogram if either distinguish an individual above the ordinary and they are of equal artistic design?

Industry as well as war has always had its distinguishing marks and labor has had its coat of arms. Every order of mutual help and fellowship has it. Thus any device signifying the craft by which men achieve wealth and the path by which they mount to fame will do for armorial bearings.

An oil derrick, a pick,
A hog or a big stick—

This will be as honorable a device for pasterity ages hence as some of the crude devices that are now flaunted in gorgeous colors that distinguished meaner exploits than the simple and honorable toil of the pioneer nation builders of an empire—democracy, the peer of any past people.

One of the great hindrances to happiness is that people take themselves too seriously. To one with a keen sense of humor this alone is amusing, but it is often death to the other fellow, because he takes his seriousness as literal and essential and consequences are often fatal. Every dispute and quarrel, especially about superiority or social distinction has its funny side. Dwelling in the interest of personal honor was ever a farce, but proved itself a tragedy because the grim principles in the farce lacked the faculty of humor.

Let us be truly thankful for a sense of the ridiculous, even if it reflects upon ourselves and add a new beatitude to the religion of humanity—blessed are the fun-makers for they shall be called the children of the sunshine.

But aside from all this heraldry is most sensible. The satirist may laugh and the philosopher may preach, but reason must respect this science. It originated in a common sense need and now becomes a social necessity. If it does not cheapen its honor we may say that it is no more pretentious nor unwarrantable than any distinguishing trade mark. As by it a man's wares are known so by a coat of arms a family and its deeds may be known.

Heraldry is the handmaid of history and chivalry, a valuable aid to perpetuity of fame from the records of an individual to the annals of a nation.

By it we interpret literature. Many a masterpiece, as in the historical writings of Sir Walter Scott, would be robbed of much interest and significance without it. Shakespeare is largely a sealed volume without this key, as when he puts into Bolingbroke's anguished exclamation, upon return to his ruined estate, these words—

"You have fed upon my signaries,
Disparked my parks, and felled my forest woods;
From my own windows torn my household coat;
Razed out my impress, leaving me no sign,
Save men's opinion, and my living blood,
To show the world I am a gentleman."

Milton spiritualizes the thought in the idea of the nobler crest of character, the armory of the soul, in the lines—

"Where nigh at hand
Celestial armory, shields, helms and spears, Hang high."

Even the Bible may be read with a larger interest combined with a knowledge of heraldry.

It is invaluable in its fanciful, poetical, yet practical way of distinguishing family groups in a realm. Anything so simple and attractive for preserving the historical integrity of families and that distinguishes an individual as an individual, stamping thus his identity and preserving it, is of real value to the race. In heraldry a man is framed in a picturesque setting and adds something to it in every worthy achievement. In the evolution of the race this science is essential in perpetuating honorable men and deeds, great families, ecclesiology and history itself in a more enduring form than any statue in granite pose. "Aere perennius," as Horace says, for posterity will immortalize its own when time will obliterate the tale in bronze.

With the family escutcheon the utilitarians have dug up inheritances and old-world estates and these chant the praises of heraldry. Old armorial bearings alone have in certain cases established the claim when nothing else could be fully established.

Here then is a poetic phase of human history, an embellishment of war, a plume of valor, and the real spice of social distinction. Here is a field for exploring not simply as a pastime and gratification for family pride, but a field of science of incalculable interest and of value to history and the evolution of the tree.

The pride of ancestry is innate. No democracy can ever eradicate it. If it did democracy would be social degeneracy. Of the commoner it may be said, "Avito viret honore." No one disputes the proposition that "he who careth not whence he came careth little whither he goeth." To despise ancestry is a pride that in vulgarity surpasses all other pride. No one with the slightest claims to a noble ancestry should slight it. When any one does or sneers at the ancestral pride of others it is safe to say they are ignorant of descent and envious of others. Montaigne has expressed it forcibly in the words—"If we cannot attain greatness ourselves, let us have our revenge by railing at others."

"Cromwell and his followers effected to ridicule the dignity which a long and unbroken line of ancestry conferred." But there was no one when he ascended to power that was such a stickler for precedence and for assuming royal robes and attributes to his death and even burial as Cromwell. The French Revolution that abrogated all social rank and peerage attempted to reconstruct it—not with the material evolving for centuries, but out of the social debris of the gutters.

The "clarum et venerabile nomen" is not to be despised but highly valued and cherished. A coat of arms achieved by valorous ancestors is a legacy beyond price.

The consciousness of illustrious descent should prove an inspiration and a power to the soul not only to emulate past deeds of greatness, not only to sustain a family escutcheon in its glory, but to even rise superior to it. If so great and good a result follow, any trace of pride it contains may be forgiven.

SOCIETY NOTES

The W. L. Putnams are closing their home at Smith's Point and returning to Boston this week.

The families of James F. Sheldon of Belmont, Mass., and Jacob C. Rogers of New York were to remain through this week at their Mystery Isles cottages.

Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer, who is inspecting naval stations, arrived in Seattle last Sunday.

Mrs. Robert S. Bradley and Miss Leslie Bradley of Pride's, who are abroad, are now in Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Moore (nee Miss McGinley) are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Tuesday.

Mrs. H. M. Curry and family of Pittsburg are late sojourners at Magnolia as usual.

E. C. Fitch and family of West Manchester returned to their Boston home Wednesday.

Henry P. King left Pride's this week for a hunting trip in Canada. Mrs. King will be absent from Pride's also while her husband is away.

October finds North Shore society in a very festive mood, dining, visiting and entertaining and exhibiting the autumn glories to their sojourning friends, and the drives are still filled with smart turnouts and motor cars.

Friday the James H. Proctors entertained a dinner company of fifteen at their Beverly cottage, and Saturday they entertained a dinner party of eighteen covers. Mr. Wallace of Boston is their guest. They will not leave Beverly Cove until the last of October.

Friday evening there was a dinner party at the Wenham summer home of Amory G. Hodges and Sunday "Cranleigh" again extended its hospitality to a dinner company of five.

Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter gave an afternoon tea on Monday.

SOCIETY NOTES.

President William H. Taft was Boston's guest Wednesday. For several hours the President reviewed the great Columbus Day parade with Gov. Draper.

Mrs. George von L. Meyer and daughters are planning to leave Hamilton the last of this week. They have a European trip of some weeks in view. Spain will be their objective point. They plan to keep Rock Maple Farm, their Hamilton estate, open all winter, and will pay an occasional visit here.

Dr. and Mrs. John C. Phillips of Wenham have been entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Raynal C. Bolling of Greenwich, Conn., for several weeks. Congressman and Mrs. Peters (nee Phillips), who are now in Jamaica Plain, make frequent week-end autumn trips to the family estate at Wenham, "Knobbfield."

There was a luncheon Saturday at "Eagle Rock," the beautiful Henry C. Frick estate.

Miss Katherine E. Silsbee is arranging to remain at her Beverly Cove cottage nearly all winter. Mrs. John B. Silsbee planned to remove to Boston Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoughton Bell left the Smith Farm, Procter street, Manchester, early this week and have settled at their Cambridge home.

Mrs. James T. Fields has been entertaining Mrs. Eaton of Boston for a few days. Mrs. Field's summer home in Manchester was closed for the season Thursday.

Hon. Wm. J. Boardman and family left Manchester this week. They will spend the remainder of the month in Pittsfield, Dalton and New York. Their Washington home will be opened about Nov. 1.

Mrs. Thomas K. Laughlin and children of Pittsburg have concluded a visit with President and Mrs. Taft, rs. Laughlin is a sister of Mrs. Taft.

Mrs. Sylvester Tower and daughter removed from Cobb avenue, Manchester, to their residence on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, Monday.

William H. Wellington is not returning to Boston until Nov. 1. He will be among the latest sojourners on Smith's Point, Manchester.

Miss Hope Thatcher of Boston is being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Harcourt Amory of Pride's.

Charles Bohlen of Philadelphia is a late sojourner at Hamilton. He will not leave "Black Brook Farm" until Nov. 1.

The majority of the North Beverly and Hamilton summer colonists are still at their summer homes enjoying the many pleasures of this section, hunting, golf, polo, etc., which are extending the season most pleasantly.

Dr. and Mrs. John C. Phillips of Wenham were host and hostess of a dinner party at "Knobbfield," their North Shore summer home, on Wednesday evening.

Bald Pate Inn, Georgetown, will be the rendezvous of the hunting set of the North Shore tomorrow, when the annual dinner of the Myopia Hunt club will be held following the hunt meet in that section.

Mr. John S. Lawrence is planning to remove his family from Beverly Cove to Boston on Monday next. Mrs. Lawrence's mother, Mrs. Atherton, has returned to Boston.

Miss Sohier, sister of Col. Wm. D. Sohier, has returned from her summer's sojourn in Islesboro, Me., and is at the Sohier residence at Beverly Cove, where she will remain until Thanksgiving.

Chanticleer Inn, Montserrat closed for the season last Saturday. Mrs. Murray, the proprietor, was in Manchester, Wednesday, with the object of securing some location for next season.

Hauled Up

Wake! for the Sun which thro' the summer days Shone thro' our misty air with tempered rays,
Now shines on fields of mellow fruitfulness
And paves with fallen leaves the woodland ways.

Come! haul the boat from out the yielding wave,
Prepare the winter's rigor to outbrave,
Now that the summer folk are striking tent
Let's settle down, be quiet and behave.

J. A. T.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, sr., who has been in Washington visiting her daughter, the Countess de Chambrun, has departed for Cincinnati.

Miss Helen Taft has been spending a few days with her great aunt, Mrs. Delia Torrey of Millbury.

Alexander Steinert closed "Stone Ledge," his Beverly Cove summer home, on Monday and settled his family in their Boston residence on Marlborough street for the winter.

Dr. Henry F. Sears' Beverly Cove summer residence was opened delightfully Tuesday evening for a dinner company of twenty to meet President Taft.

Mrs. George Cabot Lodge and children have returned to their home on Sheridan Circle, Washington, after passing the summer at Newport and Nahant.

Society extended brilliant patronage to the open-air holiday horse show of the Metropolitan Driving club on Wednesday of this week, at the Charles River speedway. There was an entry of 200 horses and every class in the saddle, harness and hunter divisions were well represented. There was very high class equine competition.

Walter Wellman, who spent the summer with his family on the North Shore at East Gloucester, and members of his crew, sent their farewell messages to their families and friends Tuesday, as they planned to cross the Atlantic Wednesday morning at daylight in Wellman's airship.

Mrs. Henry S. Grew closed "The Sumacks," her Manchester cottage on Thursday.

That the President is to go to Gloucester next summer is the belief of many in close touch with his plans. The President likes Beverly and it would give him the greatest pleasure to spend two more years at least there, but he has been unable to find a cottage that would fill his requirements. John Hays Hammond has offered him a cottage at Magnolia and it is believed that the President may go there.

Hon. Henry Clay Ide of Vermont, United States minister to Spain and a former governor-general of the Philippine islands, visited President Taft Tuesday afternoon at the Evans cottage at Burgess point and paid his respects. The President and the minister to Spain are old-time friends.

October arrivals at the Hotel Fairfax, Beverly, to date included the following Presidential visitors: Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, C. A. Thompson, Columbus, O.; G. A. McClellan, Dayton, O., L. A. Butler, a cousin of President Taft from Syracuse, N. Y., Ernest G. Walker, Washington, Chas. D. Norton, secretary to President Taft, and Mrs. Norton. Automobile parties have included Mrs. R. McM. Colfelt, Boston; Miss Frances Libbey, Magnolia; Mrs. N. C. Cassellberry, Germantown, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dunmoody, Minneapolis. Other arrivals were Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Putnam, Cambridge; G. W. Graham, Boston; F. L. White and wife, Saco, Me.

Mrs. Stephen M. Clement of Buffalo, who occupied "Underwood" cottage at Magnolia the past summer, is returning to the North Shore this week. She will go to East Gloucester as the guest of Miss Cecilia Beaux, the famous portrait painter, and will continue her sittings there for her portrait, which Miss Beaux is painting. Miss Clement has entered the Spence School, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell are in the Adirondacks visiting the Andrew Carnegie, 2ds, at their mountain camp.

Harrison K. Caner will remove his household today from Dana's Beach, Manchester, to Philadelphia.

Mr. Winch, owner of the cottage at Smith's Point, Manchester, which the Walter Jacksons of Milton have been occupying, expects to occupy it for some weeks this autumn.

Charles W. Taintor and family who have been members of the household of Mrs. Chas. W. Hemenway at the Hemenway estate, Manchester, removed to their home on Beacon street, Boston, Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Hemenway removes to Boston the 27th.

The Prescott Bigelows planned to depart from "Fox Hill Lodge," Manchester, Thursday, for their home on Marlborough street.

Mrs. W. Scott Fitz and daughter, Mrs. Edward J. Holmes of Boston and Manchester, are concluding their autumn sojourn in New Hampshire on Next Thursday and will spend the week-end in Manchester.

Through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. George R. White and Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. Bradbury, "Lilliothea," their Smith's Point summer home at Manchester, was turned over to their employees on Wednesday evening for their farewell party to their friends on the shore. Some forty accepted the invitations and the evening was a most enjoyable one for all the participants. Music, dancing and a general good time was in order. A fine repast was also served. The guests extended hearty thanks to Mr. and Mrs. White and Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury for their great kindness and hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tyson closed their Manchester summer home yesterday and departed for their Chicago home.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Abbott of Cambridge have concluded their stay at West Manchester.

Hon. Robert S. Rantoul of Beverly Farms read a paper at the centenary exercises, Thursday afternoon, at the Salem Normal school in honor of Prof. Alpheus Crosby, who was principal of the school from 1857-1865. Hon. Mr. Rantoul's subject dealt with the late educator as "A Public Spirited Citizen from 1857-1874."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denegre returned to "Villa Crest," their West Manchester summer home, last Saturday, after a week's visit in New York, where they settled their daughter, Miss Marie Elaine Denegre, at her boarding school and bade bon voyage to her governess, Miss Power, who sailed for Europe.

Mrs. S. Parkman Blake, whose reception on Oct. 4 in honor of President Taft, was a brilliant climax to the Manchester season, is bringing her sojourn at her West Manchester estate to a close on Tuesday.

President Taft will leave Beverly Monday for New York where he will remain until Wednesday night. Thursday he is due in Washington. On Nov. 8, in Cincinnati to vote and on the 10th will sail for Panama from Charleston, S. C. He will be conveyed there in the cruiser North Carolina convoyed by her sister ship Montana. These plans conclude all social engagements of the President on the North Shore. He expected to select, before Monday, one of some 40 odd cottages on the North Shore he and his family have already inspected for rental next season.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert W. Mason and Harold F. Mason of Manchester will go to Boston tomorrow for the wedding of Miss Marion Ball and Joseph Seabury, the groom-elect being a cousin of the Messrs. Mason. Miss Ball, the bride-elect, is the daughter of Mrs. George Homer Ball of 23 Bay State road.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn have returned to West Manchester, after an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Paul at Woodcrest, Radnor, Pa. Mrs. Munn is among the graceful esquestriennes noticed on the North Shore drives this autumn.

While in Millbury, Miss Helen Taft was the guest of honor at an informal tea with Mrs. Henry A. Phillips of Millbury as hostess. Other guests present were Miss Torrey, Mrs. John Whiting and Mrs. Keeler of Whitinsville, Mrs. Harvey B. Wilder of Worcester, Mrs. Samuel Carr and Mrs. Lester Leland of Boston and Manchester.

Charles P. Searle and family of Boston left Ipswich Wednesday of this week and closed "Inglishby," their beautiful estate, for the season. Oct. 22, Mr. and Mrs. Searle and Miss Searle will sail for Europe. Mr. Searle will return after having established them for the winter. "Inglishby" was one of the North Shore homes which extended its hospitality to President Taft during the past season.

Affairs in Nicaragua.

By F. J. Dyer.

(Special to the North Shore Breeze)

Washington, Oct. 12.—Very largely through the consistent and conservative policy of the Department of State of the United States, the war in Nicaragua has been brought to an end and peace reigns in one of the richest portions of the American continent. The new Government of Nicaragua is going ahead with its plans to heal the scars of internecine strife and rehabilitate the finances and commerce of the country. In this it has the heartiest support of the Government of the United States, which is deeply interested in the fortunes of the many Americans who have invested sums aggregating millions of dollars in that country.

Sensational stories have come out of Nicaragua regarding the treatment of American citizens there in the past. It is declared by the State Department that many of these reports have been entirely without foundation. Among those who have claimed American citizenship in the Southern Republic have been some who were not welcome at home—renegades of one sort or another; many of them colored men of no standing or reputation, although there are colored citizens of the United States in Nicaragua who have the respect and confidence of the people among whom they now live. It has been possible for any man claiming to be an American citizen to go to the Legation and file affidavits regarding alleged brutal outrages on his person or property. Travelers in the country have been induced to look up these affidavits, which often are of a character to make a free-born citizen's blood boil at the treatment described. Such stories have been retailed in this country, and some have thought that the State Department has been remiss in looking after the interests and welfare of Americans in the Spanish-American Republic.

Government Economies.

The Administration has not abandoned its determination to make further economies in the conduct of the public business. The sessions of the Cabinet held during the latter part of September at the White House were devoted almost wholly

Telephone Talks

A "prompt" answer turneth away wrath. You know how you feel when you are kept waiting at the telephone.

Remember: Example is better than precept.

"No One on the Line"

It has been pointed out that there are three parties to a telephone conversation, namely, the person calling, the operator, and, last but not least, the person called.

The operator has no authority to compel an answer to her summons. She simply forwards to your telephone a mechanical signal. Interpreted, this means "Some one desires to speak to you." It remains for you, the person called, to recognize this request.

There are two strong reasons why you should answer promptly, and both vitally concern you:

1. If you are slow in answering, the caller may hang up the telephone and assume that you are not accessible. Later, if you answer at your leisure, the operator can vouchsafe no information save that "there is no one on the line." Who called you? The operator probably does not know. Any operator in your exchange may have called you, rather than the operator specially assigned to answer your calls.

2. From the moment the operator calling you "plugs in" on your line until she ceases her effort to attract your attention, your line is "busy" to all other callers.

to considering the budgets for the various departments and reducing estimates to the lowest possible figures consistent with good service. The commission appointed to probe into the manner of conducting the various departments more in line with the best modern business practices expects to report how large savings can be made. Many seemingly small wastes will be eliminated, and the resulting economies will mount into large totals. For instance, it has been found that the paper on which bank notes and silver and gold certificates are printed need not be handled so often, and a number of clerks assigned to that work can be assigned to something else at a considerable saving. It is probable that the size of the notes will be reduced, and that saving will also be well worth considering. Every publisher knows that to cut the width of the margins on his newspaper saves him money—in the case of big papers perhaps thousands of dollars a year. One publisher, who will not permit black-faced type to be used in his paper, saves hundreds of dollars a year in ink. It is by such seemingly small economies that many big concerns swell their profits. The Government, which does business on a scale bigger than any private corporation, is taking the hint and its savings will be in proportion, while the service will not suffer in any particular.

Bananas for Flour.

The announcement that the banana has been attacked by a blight which is baffling the men of science who have tried to fathom its nature and to discover remedies for it, will be disquieting to the large and rapidly increasing number of people who eat and like this cheap and wholesome product of the tropics. The Department of Agriculture announces that the disease has made alarming inroads on the plantations in Costa Rica and Panama, and natural fears are felt that it will extend to other banana-growing localities. This news recalls a recent publication in the Consular Reports to the effect that dried bananas and what are known as dried banana chips have been offered for sale in Germany with increasing commercial success for over two years.

It is impossible to obtain reliable statistics, as the import figures are included with those relating to fresh bananas, both the dried and the fresh fruit being free of duty. Importers consulted state that they have been able to sell without difficulty all the bananas shipped to them, and that the difficulty has been rather to obtain the goods than to find a market.

The consumers of dried bananas and banana chips were originally vegetarians who discovered attractive ways of serving them, but there is now a considerable demand for the dried fruit in all classes of society and one susceptible of being extended materially.

Thus far the best dried bananas have been received from Jamaica, which also seems to be the chief country of exportation. The whole fruit is shipped in wooden cases weighing 56 pounds, and chips are received in sacks. Importers are paying $5.95 per 100 pounds for goods deliver in Hamburg.

Europe now imports large quantities of bananas. Banana flour, made from the fruit when not quite ripe, is very nutritious. In England bread is made from banana flour, and a factory in Switzerland turns out a "cocoa" preparation from the banana. This is highly nutritious and has a fine flavor.

German imports of bananas amounted to 14,900.5 long tons in 1909, against 7,370.6 in 1908, showing that the consumption more than doubled last year over the previous one. In 1907 the imports were 5,369.8 tons.

G. A. R. HOLD CAMP FIRE.

F. M. Stanwood and Gen. Charles H. Taylor Give Pleasing Addresses.

On Wednesday evening the Grand Army, Sons of Veterans and Ladies' Relief corps met in the G. A. R. hall around the annual camp fire. It was a most pleasant occasion and one that will long be remembered by the united orders. The evening opened by an address of welcome, most ably given by Commander Enoch Crombie. The singing of "We are the Boys" by the comrades was a splendid feature of the program. Mrs. John Prest read in her pleasant and taking manner with Mrs. J. W. Lee as soloist at appropriate times. P. H. Boyle's reading "Look-Out Mountain" was greeted with hearty applause. Mr. F. M. Stanwood next spoke. He said in part:

"Comrades and Sons of Veterans and Ladies of the Relief corps, it is about a year ago that we gathered in this same room, and spoke of Gen. U. S. Grant. Tonight we will speak of Gen. Sherman, but first let me ask the audience to rise, while we pay a tribute to our comrades who have gone before." Mr. Stanwood's well chosen remarks were well fitted to the occasion. Then he introduced Gen. Taylor, who said he was very glad to be here again. He spoke of a recent trip to the South when the monument was erected for the men from Massachusetts who were killed there during the Civil War. Gen. Taylor kept his audience laughing from start to finish at the many bright stories he related. He told of the splendid reception they received in New Orleans from Gov. Saunders, and of the very interesting visit to a Confederate soldier's home, telling how the soldiers enjoyed their visit and of the number of things done to brighten their lives.

A. S. Jewett in a few well chosen remarks thanked all those who had helped in any way to make the recent fair a success. He also told a number of interesting war stories.

The Reading of "The American Flag" by F. M. Stanwood was very impressive and most suitably adapted to the occasion. The singing of "America" by the audience brought a splendid program to a close. Refreshments were then served.

See that your name is on the Voting List of your town; if not there call at the office of the Board of Registrars on the days above mentioned, and be registered, or you cannot vote. Bring with you a certificate from the assessors or a tax bill or notice from the collector of taxes, showing that you have been assessed a poll tax as a resident of the town of Manchester.

All persons whose names are stricken from the voters' lists for any lawful reason, will, before they can again have their names placed upon said lists, be required to register their names at the time hereinbefore stated in like manner as new voters.

Naturalized citizens presenting themselves for registration must bring their naturalization papers with them.

If a qualified voter of this town whose name was on the voters' list last year, and who has been assessed for the current year, finds, after the close of registration, that his name is not placed on the voters' list of the current year by reason of having been omitted by clerical error or mistake, he may upon personal application, have his name placed upon the voting list, or, if application be made on the day of election, he may have a certificate to vote.

No name can be added to the voters' list (except to correct omissions made by clerical error or mistake) after ten (10) o'clock of the evening of Saturday, Oct. 29, 1910 at which time registration closes.

TO MAKE THE ROADS SAFER.

Universal Light Laws Are Much Needed—They Are Opposed by Persons to Whom They Would Give the Greatest Protection.

Discussing the need of "light" laws, a subject that for several years past has been before the Massachusetts Legislature, Motor World says:

"Saving a man from himself probably is one of the most thankless and most difficult efforts it is possible to undertake. The average man apparently does not desire to be saved until he is beyond saving or well nigh beyond it, at any rate, particularly if the effort to do so involves expense or inconvenience on his part, however slight.

"Nothing better serves to illustrate the point than the disinclination of most owners of horse-drawn vehicles to provide themselves with lamps for night travel, and the indifference of the police authorities to the enforcement of laws requiring the use of such lamps where such laws exist. In many, in fact in most instances, the disinclination of the horsemen finds expression in strenuous opposition to the enactment of legislation of the sort when it is proposed, and usually they find vigorous and shouting supporters in the legislative halls. Always they object to the slight cost and slighter inconvenience the use of lamps entails and with the aid of their political friends it is made to appear that such enactments primarily are for the benefit of automobilists.

"The horsemen and their friends either cannot or will not see that a lighted lamp after nightfall is in the nature of a life preserver for the person using it, it matters not what form of vehicle he may employ. It is just as necessary and serves the same purpose on the highways of the earth as on the highways of the sea, and it is not too much to say that the person who does not display such a guiding signal is guilty of semi-criminal carelessness.

"The idea that the driver of one type of vehicle only shall display such lights and that the burden of avoiding accident with an unlighted vehicle of another type shall fall on him is such apparent and rank injustice that it scarcely should require remark. When an automobilist is so unfortunate as to become involved in such an accident a hue and cry usually results, and, regardless of circumstances, the disposition prevails to blame the man in the motor car. As a matter of fact, however, the automobilist who is not more than ordinarily careful when driving at night is the rare exception. Despite too popular belief to the contrary, he has every wish and every anxiety to avoid accident, but however careful, the unlighted vehicle is a constant menace to his safety and an even greater menace to the safety of those who occupy it, even if they so often refuse to recognize the truth. Even at a slow pace it does not require much force for a collision to result disastrously to the frail buggies which are the worst offenders.

"Those who oppose their enactment or who fail to enforce them where they have been enacted are the ones who primarily are responsible for practically all accidents that may occur. Such laws, too, should require the lights to be adequate and not mere glimmerings which now so often are made to serve."

Opposed to Closing Old Road at Rockport.

Opposition to the effort of C. Pur-ton Martin, owner of Turk's Head Inn to have the old road leading to Loblolly cove closed has arisen among the summer residents of Rockport.

Gen. W. A. Pew, whose land adjoins that of Mr. Martin's, is heading the opposition. Asst. U. S. Dist.
Atty. Sullivan will appear in the state land court to oppose the closing of the road in the interest of the U. S. government.

The cove has been used as a landing place for the lightkeeper at Thatcher's Island. According to the records of legislature this road was laid out in 1789 by justices of the court of general sessions of justices of the peace in Essex County under chapter 121 of the acts of 1789.

Martin denies that the road was ever laid out legally and is now seeking to have the land registered as his in the land court.

Newspaper Errors.

Some people seem to think they prove their own brilliancy by being able to point out errors in a newspaper. After taking their leisure to pick flaws in work that had to be done in a hurry, they call the newspaper man by telephone or hail him on the street, for wrong capitalization or a split infinitive, if they can find nothing more serious.

Every one makes mistakes in his profession, but with most people only the boss knows about it. The newspaper man's mistakes are spread out for all the world to see.

The conditions of newspaper making demand that it be done at high pressure. If the editor went at his task with the extreme caution manifested by the lawyer when he writes a will, there would not be time to do much writing. And few people realize what infinite pains, even under existing conditions, are taken to avoid error so far as possible. The bulk of the mistakes are the result of inaccurate information given to reporters.

"The Far Look For Tired Eyes."

A Memorial Sermon Presented in a Graphic Style that Makes a Deep Impression.

BY REV. LOUIS H. RUGE.

A good congregation gathered at the Congregational church, Manchester, last Sunday morning notwithstanding the threatening weather to hear Mr. Ruge upon the above subject and the sermon brought forth the most eulogistic comments. The text chosen was from the 121st Psalm and the 1st verse: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help."

A synopsis of the sermon follows. Mr. Ruge began by saying:

A woman went to consult an oculist about her eyes. Upon careful examination he said—"There is nothing the matter with your eyes except that they are tired and worn with too close an application to your work, you must rest them."

But the poor woman told him that she had so much to do, so much sewing for the household, so much mending for the children, so much cooking and baking and washing and ironing and that she had no time to rest her eyes or any other part of her tired body.

The oculist thought a moment and then asked: "Have you any far views from your window?"

"Oh, yes," she replied, "there is a range of mountains on one side, peaks on peaks in the distance, and great stretches of plains with rivers and lakes and forests on the other side, beautiful views all around the house."

She was told, "take ten or twenty minutes at times and take the far look, it will rest and strengthen your tired eyes."

She had beautiful views all around her, but she seldom saw them because her eyes were constantly upon other things. So there are beautiful visions all around the soul, but we tire the poor immortal eyes into blindness by fastening all our thoughts and aims upon material things.

You get so tired, discouraged, fretful and hopeless at times on account of straining the eyes of the soul. When you tire and strain the eyes, headaches, indigestion, nervousness and other ailments result. And so the poor soul gets sick unto death by too close an application to worldly affairs and it needs the far look to the celestial hills to rest and strengthen it. As the far look rests the eyes so the far look rests the soul.

I once met a lonely wife and mother in her far-off prairie home ten miles from the town and railroad. She had come from the east and her eyes were always turned toward it. She dreamed of the old homestead at night and there only she saw the faces of kindreds and friends. She followed daily the thin line of smoke on the distant horizon that told her of the east-bound express. She unfolded to me her sacred plan of a trip east. Her dreams failed to come true. Her hopes deceived her often. If this year the crops should be unusually good she would take that trip home, but a drought would come. When the children were a little older so she could leave them in the care of the father and the eldest girl; but another baby would come to tie her more firmly to the lonely ranch on the plains. If her little store of savings should accumulate to a certain amount, then—but sickness and unforeseen misfortunes would come and it would all disappear again. I don't know if this poor woman ever came east, but it was the far look for her tired eyes that kept her from going insane.

Great libraries are fine things, and hero funds, but I wonder some multi-millionaire does not found some national travel fund for such poor women as this one.

Here is an industrious family with fine tastes living in some crowded city that are constantly planning and hoping for an artistic home of their own in the suburbs or among the sweet smelling grasses and field daisies. It is the far look for tired eyes.

A sick man is tossing on a bed of suffering. He hears the feet of the crowd as they pass under his window on the street below. He hears the distant train as it whirls its multitude into the very heart of the world's busy life that he loves so well. He looks forward to the day of recovery; but it is a far look from that sick bed to the office. The fogs may settle over the hills soon and the shadows of a night that will never lift fall upon him, but the far look rested his suffering soul for the time being.

A father watching his boys in the knickerbocker and play-day period looks forward to the day when they will graduate with honors, when they are honorable men of the community and country. It is his far look.

A mother sees her daughter safely married to some good man, the center of a happy home surrounded with more comforts than she has, while yet the daughter is a prattling child at her knees. It is the mother's look for tired eyes.

Young men and maidens have their far visions at their school tasks and it rests and refreshes the souls of the young.

Far out at sea I see a ship. Your ship, my ship, sailing toward our port of entry. Do you not see it?—too far away? Look again, look long, keep on looking. I know it is a far look, but it will rest your eyes to look for it.

All great men take the far look. Newton and Kepler took wide sweeps of an infinite horizon. The astronomer trains his telescope under the stars, spreads under it his sensitized plates and there comes to him, down through the eternal midnights and untold aeons, the story of creation.

The visions of the scientists and inventors lie far beyond the acids, retorts, furnaces, and paraphernalia of the laboratories. Strange lights shine there that do not come from furnace flames nor the combination of chemicals. They have views of world power and glory to inspire them.

The great Bible and church characters had far views.

Joseph's dreams are an illustration. Between the shepherd's tent and Egypt's throne of imperial power was a far look. Between these points lay the pit into which his envious brothers threw him, lay the slavery and the imprisonment. But there were the hills of imperial power toward which the youth looked until he reached them.

Moses saw the day of Christ and it was counted to him for righteousness. John had his far visions beyond the foam-lashed waters of the Euxine Sea. Paul saw beyond the licentious groves of cypress the pure reign of Christ, and Augustine saw above his cross-emblazoned banners visions in the sky.

The church in all ages has this far look and it rests, refreshes, and clarifies its vision.

It was a far, far look from the Cross to the throne of world Redeemership, but Jesus looked down the vast reaches of the centuries and He "saw of the travail of his soul and was satisfied." It is a far look still to the world's highway of holiness upon which shall walk the redeemed of the Lord, a far look for the sinful soul of man to the exalted children of the Most High, but let us keep the celestial heights in view, it will help us to attain unto higher and holier living.

A clear atmosphere is essential to the far look. This is vital in matters of the eyesight. If fogs and gloom should constantly hide the distant horizon the eyes would ache and the head would throb with dull pains. And so it is with the soul's vision. Never send fogs and depressing shadows over the landscape of a soul.

How clear are the hills at times. I could see the highest hills between the Alleghenies and the Rockies from the windows of our parsonage in Wisconsin. How cameo-cut against the clear sky they stood at times, but only in a clear atmosphere. I have scaled a point here on the North Shore and had a view into three states on one side and a great sweep of the Atlantic on the other.

I can see from the hills here Provincetown, forty-five miles out at sea. I can also mount up and get a view of the heavenly hills; but all only in a clear atmosphere.

I hear a strange sweet throb of music or song and I am lifted where visions unfold afar. I listen to some profound truth clearly and eloquently set forth and it is as when the sun leaps from the clouds on a dull day and as when the lightning shimmers along the distant mountain range on a dark night.

You need the far spiritual look unto the hills from whence and nowhere else cometh your help. Beyond all the sorrows and sufferings of sin are the heights of infinite and eternal mercy and grace and love.

"It is only that you look and live." These delicate organs of sight can stand a tremendous strain if we only know how to rest them. So these sensitive souls can stand a tremendous strain of trial and temptation if we only rest them at times by the far look of Christian faith.

As the artist transfers the glory of the hills to his canvas, as the astronomer transfers the story of the stars to his sensitized plates, so let us transfer the strength of the celestial hills to the soul.

The eye of the astronomer is keen, the eye of the telescope is keener, but with most marvelous power the eye of faith penetrates all inter-stella spaces and sees God.

"Reds" Entertain the "Blues."

The vestry at the Baptist church presented a very pretty appearance on Thursday evening when the "Reds" entertained the "Blues" at a supper and entertainment. This was the result of the trip taken to Palestine by the Sunday school several months ago, when the Blues reached Palestine first.

At 6.30 the pastor, Rev. T. L. Frost, asked the blessing, when the company sat down to supper. A number of young ladies from the Reds served as waitresses. The children's banks were opened and something over twenty dollars was realized. This money goes towards the church building. Allyn Brown, the organist, rendered several beautiful selections. Gospel songs were heartily sung by the audience. At 8 o'clock W. W. Main of Boston gave an illustrated lecture on Palestine, which was very interesting as well as instructive. Everybody went home satisfied with the evening's entertainment, which was a success in every way.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

The new summer home of Robert L. Raymond now under erection at his newly acquired property on Beach street, Manchester, will be an attractive, commodious cottage of old English architecture with plastered exterior. The plans call for a living room, dining room, loggia, family apartments with all modern improvements, servants' apartments and culinary departments, all conveniently equipped and arranged. There will be a terrace extending from the loggia and the rear grounds will be nicely graded. The location of the house is a very picturesque one being on a high elevation amid woodlands which command beautiful vistas of the ocean and surrounding country. The contract calls for its completion next spring. The architect of the house was James Purdon of Boston. The contractor in charge of the building is R. D. Donaldson of Lincoln.

Gordon Dexter is having a portion of his estate at Beverly Farms enclosed with a granite wall with pillars. Linehan has the contract.

Storrow cottage No 1 at the Farms, which has been occupied by the Phillip Dexter family, is having a new second-story piazza added, wire screened. New French windows are to be added to the cottage also. Publicover Bros. have the contract.

Work has been started on improving the Shore road, Magnolia, the appropriation of $2,000 from the Gloucester city government calling for a sixteen-foot road and a three-foot sidewalk on the water front. This will be a great and much appreciated improvement for this section of Magnolia.

FOOTBALL NOTES.

The game between the Manchester High and the Beverly Farms High last Wednesday resulted in another defeat for the Manchester boys, the score being 5 to 0. It was a good game and one that shows that our boys are improving, and with a little more practice will later on in the season reverse the decisions. Good field work was shown throughout the game and the coaching was excellent. The attendance was good despite the attractions elsewhere, which took a large number away who would undoubtedly have been present to encourage the boys in their efforts. The boys deserve credit for the spirit and the vim which they put into every play and also for the manly way they acknowledged their defeat. They have an excellent coach in Mr. Heywood, the assistant principal.

The Peabody team defeated the Manchester boys at football, at the Brook street playground last Saturday afternoon, the score being 64-0. The out-of-town team was composed of much larger boys than the local team, and those who witnessed the game think the Manchester boys deserve praise for doing as well as they did.

Next Wednesday the boys will play Marblehead and let every one who can be present to encourage them.

Saturday, Oct. 29, Manchester boys will go to Beverly Farms, and quite a number of Manchester people have signified their intention to accompany them.

Nova Scotia, considered the crack military band of the maritime provinces. A model printing plant shows every detail of how a daily newspaper is gotten out. Paintings and statuary valued at $1,000,000 are on exhibition in the art gallery and in Paul Revere Hall adjoining lectures on domestic science are given by Bertha Palmer Haffner of Chicago and colored motion pictures with talks on the cultivation and marketing of coffee and tea supply an excellent and instructive entertainment given by Charles E. Greeley.

Saturdays, up to 6 o'clock, children under 12 years of age, are admitted for ten cents. All of the attractions are free. The exposition will positively close Saturday, Oct. 29.

OCTOBER.

O, T. Roosevelt has come back to the West!
Of all the Rough Riders his luck was the best.

He rode from Dakota to San Juan Hill,
And he found him the Spaniards he wanted to kill.

Shouting, "Into 'em, Teddy,
An' into 'em deep!"

And the men of Granada
Went down in a heap.

He rested his broncho and fed him his fill, and then he rode yelling up Capitol Hill. He wasn't expecting or asking a thing, but he landed right in the political ring, shouting "Into 'em, Teddy, and into 'em plump!" and the poor politicians went down in a lump.

He watered his pinto and fed him some oats,
And then he remounted and hunted for goats.

He found him some people who didn't agree

With all of his notions, and gave a whoop-pee,

Yelling, "Into 'em, Teddy,
An' into 'em hot!"

And he knocked them all into
The pittoless bot.

He hobbled his charger and gave him some grass, and then he went after someone in his class. He put in a lion with blood in its eye, and he clapped on the spurs with a terrible cry, saying "Into 'im, Teddy, 'an into 'im hard!" and the lion passed on to his final reward.

He breathed his good mustang and looked him around.

But further adventure was not to be found.

So he pulled up his trousers and pulled down his vest,

And slowly rode back to his olden-time West,

Shouting, "Back to 'em, Teddy,
An' back to 'em proud!"

And they gathered about him
And solemnly bowed.

He rode in his saddle, and rode on his head, and he put all the tenderfeet under the bed. He dashed to the East, and he dashed to the West, and he halted before them, expending his chest, saying, "Three cheers for Teddy, the pride of the West!" and they took a great pleasure in doing the rest.

October is from the Latin octo, meaning eight, and it was formerly the eight month of the year. This brought the foot-ball season around at a time when there was grave danger of being suffocated before the ball was even put in play, and there was a great deal of dissatisfaction at the old Greek and Roman universities. A change was frequently talked of, but it remained for Numa Pompilius, who was one of the early friends of education, to do anything about it. In 713 B. C. he moved October along to its present place in the calendar, and now the quarterback on a foot-ball team always says before snapping the ball,

Numa, Numa,
B. C.

Come seven,
One, three!

After which the rooters, who reached a very high state of proficiency in the latter days of Numa, recite,

Numa, Numa,
Boomalooma,
Come seven,
One, three,
B. C., Wheopee!
Siwash!

or whatever the name of the school is, as you may hear them doing any time this month by following the riot wagon when it passes.

Until the 23d of the month, October will be under the influence of Libra, the Balance, which is the seventh sign of the zodiac. This will enable everybody running for office to keep on the fence pretty well as to the real issues of the campaign, but when the sun passes out of that constellation on the following day they will begin dropping on one side or the other, and it will be easier to make out who the true friends of the people are. After the 22d we will be influenced by Scorpio, the Scorpion, which is almost meaningless now, but in early times typified the manner in which who were in the habit of going until very late in the season without having on any wear to speak of, either, the north wind stung the old Greeks, over or under.

A bit of Fall is as nice a thing
As I know anything about—

When the pumpkin pie is ripening,
And the time is opportune for kraut.

When the hunter gets his trappings out,
Awakened by the time of year,

And the farmer, furious without,
And hot within, begins to shout,

"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here!"

"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here—dadblame your skin!"

Ah, that's the proper time to sigh—
When the squirrel gets his goodies in Against the winter by-and-by.

When the bending reaches of the sky
Are very soft and very near,
And the farmer, with a watchful eye,
Begins to hop around and cry,
"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here!"

Get ou-u-u-u-t of here—you blanky-blank!"

Ah, that's the season of them all—
When winter hangs upon the flank

Of the wild goose passing in the fall.

When the plaintive quail begins to call

Across the golden fields and sere,

And the farmer, bursting from the tall
With leaps and bounds, begin to bawl:

"Get ou-u-u-u-t of here!"

The melancholy days will come, and the pheasant will intone his drum upon the sad and drowsy wind in the solemn manner of his kind. The booming frog will sniff the breeze and fall to digging on his knees, and the buckwheat cake will take a crack at this fool thing of coming back.

It may be Jeffries and his strain are never quite themselves again, but the pickled pig's foot and the rest are always equal to the test. They never dissipate a bit, but spend the summer prime and fit, and let the frost succeed the dew, and they're there, you bet, as good as new.

The doughty oyster on his shell, the chitlin looking strong and well, and clear and resolute of eye, the hardy brands of winter pie. The applebutter, juice and flake, the same that mother used to make, and the crackling of our youthful lot the cock and captain of the pot.

The softer weather will defy

The blandishments of June,

And the month will give us by and by

The office-hunter's moon.

A chop will cost four bits a pound,

And beef a buck a bite,

And the wolf will wear a groove around
The cabin every night.

The 418th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus will be celebrated on the night of the 14th by the seven Guggenheim brothers.

Mr. Roosevelt will be stage manager again this month. The villain will be the Demon Rum. Mr. Bryan will be the father of the stolen child, and Mr. Cannon, who made the password Hell last month, will change it to read Hell-p!

And then November will return

With cold and chilly draft,

And the wild goose going down the line

With Winter biting aft.

Ladies—We have an unusually attractive chance for a bright, energetic woman, well and favorably known in this community. For details address, enclosing stamped self addressed envelope to Manager, Lock Box 750, St. Louis, Mo. *

DAMAGES AWARDED TO GOVERNMENT FOR DESTRUCTION OF YOUNG FOREST GROWTH.

In an action for fire trespass on the Black Hills National Forest brought by the United States against the Missouri River and Northwestern Railroad, the jury has awarded damages to the Government not only for the loss of merchantable timber, but also for the destruction of unmerchantable young growth.

This is regarded by Government officials as establishing a very important precedent. So far as is known at the U. S. Department of Agriculture, it is the first time that any court has recognized what foresters call the "expectation value" of young growth as furnishing a basis for the award of damages. The difficulty in the way of such an award in the past has been that there was no way to prove to the satisfaction of the courts the money value of the loss suffered.

The award in the South Dakota case followed the presentation of evidence as to the cost of work in reforestation which the Government is actually doing in the Black Hills. The amount claimed for the young growth burned was $12 an acre, and the claim under this item was allowed in full by the jury. The total amount of damages claimed was $3,728.85, of which $2,634.45 was for merchantable timber destroyed or injured by the fire.

It is recognized by foresters that the cost of artificial reforestation will not always furnish a fair basis for estimating the damage to forest reproduction. Where new growth can be expected by natural sowing from seed-trees on the ground within a short time, artificial planting or sowing is an unnecessarily expensive method. To meet such cases what are known as "yield tables" are being prepared. By the use of these the loss can be shown in terms of the final crop and the time necessary to produce it.

Thus, if it is known that ten thousand feet of timber per acre can be cut once in seventy years, it is easy to calculate the value of the crop when it is ten years old by discounting from its value when mature. In European countries where forestry has been long practised this method is regularly applied in selling, condemning, or estimating damages on forest proper-

The annual inspection of Preston W. R. corps, No. 93, which was scheduled to be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 8, has been postponed on account of the G. A. R. hall being used on that evening for the state election. Mrs. Callahan of South Boston is the inspecting official.

Charles F. Butman has started in the poultry business on Stanley street at Centerville. His place is called the "Bald Hill Poultry Farm."

The Republican representative convention was held in G. A. R. hall, Beverly, last Tuesday evening. Messrs Geo. H. Bennett, Elmer Standley and Charles F. Butman, the ward 6 delegates attending, accompanied by a party of Farms Republicans, John S. Baker made the nomination of Councilman John L. Saltonstall and Samuel Cole nominated Herman A. Macdonald, both candidates receiving the nomination by acclamation, to which they made neat speeches of acceptance. After the convention a collation was enjoyed.

Sidney Larcom is the new clerk at Varney's drug store.

Miss Pauline Luke has commenced her studies at the college at Washington, Conn., of which she was a student last year.

Stephen Henchy, the popular meat cutter at Wyatt's market, has concluded his duties there on account of the closing of the season and has accepted a position in Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Holton of Providence, R. I., have been among this week's visitors at Beverly Farms.

Sneak Thief at Work at the Farms.

Word was received at the Beverly police station late Monday night that the room of Christopher Jewett at the garage on the Robert Rantoul estate on West street, was broken into some time between 8.05 and 8.40 and a yellow English traveling bag and suit case, two bank books, one on the Provident Institution for Savings at Boston, containing $130, another on the Penny Savings bank of Salem, containing $30, two shirts, a night shirt, seven or eight collars and $15 in money were stolen.

Mr. Jewett left his room at 8.05 and returned at 8.40 and the articles were taken during that time. He has his suspicions as to who the guilty party or parties may be and the police are investigating.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

Every week at B. F. Keith's theatre new faces brighten the bill, and next week will be no exception to this rule, as there will be a number newcomers, all stars in their particular lines, with several old and tried favorites.

One of the newcomers will be Gene Greene, who has made a tremendous hit during the past few weeks singing his own songs in a characteristic manner. The Field Brothers are also newcomers, recently with one of the big minstrel troupes.

Among the old favorites are Will K. Murphy and Blanche Nichols, in what is probably the funniest farce now on the boards, called "The School of Acting," in which the passing army perishes in a scream of laughter. Goleman's Dogs are without question the most wonderful troupe of canine actors ever on the stage. Local favorites will be Katherine Nelson and Elizabeth Otto, in their pianologue, and among other features to be announced are Cooper and Robinson, the celebrated colored entertainers, in "A Friend of Mine."

Miss Brooks of Peabody is the new teacher for the sixth grade at the Farms school, taking the place of Mrs. Ford of Beverly, who has been substituting.

The wedding of Miss Mary Hill of Brookline and S. John Connolly of Beverly Farms will take place at the home of Miss Hill's parents on Boylston street next Wednesday evening.

Thomas Murray of Boston is the new gardener and caretaker at the Neal Rantoul estate on West street. Robt. McColgan having resigned.

A part of the West Beach pier is in such a condition that no doubt before another season quite extensive repairs will be necessary.

The various gymnasium classes of which the Misses Connolly are the instructors are to commence this year's course of lessons on or about Nov. 1.

Councilman Frank W. Hammond has announced his candidacy for the Board of Aldermen from ward 4. He is a civil engineer employed mostly at the Farms with Messers D. Linehan & Son.

Herbert W. Taylor of Gloucester, a former well-known Beverly Farms resident, is reported to be critically ill at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will install their new officers in Marshall's hall next Friday evening. Dept. Supreme Gov. Lambert of Lynn and staff will perform the work.

Commemorative exercises of Columbus and the discovery of America were held at the Farms school on last Tuesday afternoon. An interesting program was given, including a little play founded on the life of Columbus and written by one of the teachers. The affair was much appreciated by a large party of visitors.

Alfred Hanson has accepted a position in the machinist department of the United Shoe Machinery plant at Beverly. He has commenced his duties there.

W. J. Creed, the Beverly Cove caterer, who has arranged the majority of the leading dinners and luncheons of the North Shore this season, has purchased an automobile. He is having a garage erected on his East Corning street property.

The Farms fire department celebrated Columbus Day in the afternoon by answering three alarms. At the Tweed estate the Haven estate and the woods off Haskell street. The fire in the woods off Haskell street was a particularly stubborn one and required the layout of all the hose the department had. At neither of the fires was there any particular damage done.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Powers of Stockbridge arrived at the Farms yesterday for a two weeks' visit here among friends.

The prettiest party of the season was that given in Neighbor's hall last Friday evening by the A. C. club, composed of Farms young men. Several new dances were introduced which found much favor, including the Moonlight and Joss-stick, the latter was decidedly attractive, the lights being put out and each dancer carried a lighted taper. The hall was decorated the prettiest ever seen here.

Wednesday, Columbus Day, was pretty well observed at the Farms. Business was generally suspended. Many going to Boston to see the parade. In the afternoon the football game at North Beverly was a strong attraction.

Two well-known young people of Beverly on last Tuesday evening, at 7 o'clock, were quietly married by Rev. Carey W. Chamberlain. They were Miss Florence Gertrude Butman and Philip Roy Morrill. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, 81 Essex street. They are to reside at 242 Rantoul street. Mr. Morrill until recently has always lived at Preston Place, Beverly Farms, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer K. Morrill.

The floats at the end of the West Beach pier was taken up last Tuesday and put in winter storage on the upland.

A party of Farms young ladies are to give a public dance and social in Neighbor's hall next Thursday evening. Long's orchestra will furnish the music. The affair promises to be an enjoyable one for all those who attend.

Mrs. Thomas Murphy and daughter, Helen, have returned to their Springfield home, after a pleasant two weeks' visit among Farms friends.

Invitations are out this week for the coming marriage of Miss Mary Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly to George Robert Dean of Boston and Manchester, which is to take place on Thursday evening, Nov. 3, at 7.45, at St. Margaret's church, Beverly Farms. A reception will be held immediately after the ceremony at Neighbor's hall. Miss Connolly is the well-known physical culture and gymnasium instructor, and one of the most popular young ladies at the Farms and who has also been in much favor in many out-of-town places through her excellent work in her chosen vocation. Mr. Dean is also popular at the Farms and occupies a responsible position with the Smith's Express Co. Their host of friends are already showering them with hearty congratulations and best wishes over the coming happy event.

Tonight, from 7.30 to 9 o'clock, and next Wednesday, from 12 noon to 10 p. m., are the only days left for the Farms voters who are not on the voting list to get registered for state election, Nov. 8.

Beverly FarmsSUPPLY OF PAPER BIRCH NOT DECREASING.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The U. S. Department of Agriculture is authority for the statement that the paper birch, also often called white birch, or canoe birch, is one of the few timber trees in this country which seem to be holding their own against ax and fire. The average citizen, however, probably takes no particular interest in the paper birch. Yet it is doubtful if any other kind of wood on the face of the earth is found in so many households; for paper birch furnishes most of the spools made in the United States.

Maine is the chief center of spool manufacture. Its factories turn out 800 million spools yearly, chiefly birch. Few woods as hard as this can be worked with as little dulling of the tools; its principal recommendation lies in that fact. It is handsome in color, and, after the wood becomes seasoned, it shrinks and warps very little. That is an important consideration, because the delicate machinery that winds the thread would fail to work if the spool changed its shape to a perceptible degree.

The birch wood for spools must be selected and handled with care. The tree's red disk heartwood is objectionable because it will not turn smooth in the lathe, and the color is not desired. Few industries waste more wood, in proportion to the quantity used, than spool making. Heartwood, knots, and all other defects, frequently amounting to more than one-half of the tree, are rejected. From one-half to three-fourths of the remainder may go to the refuse heap in sawing the bars and turning the spools. Despite this waste the paper birch does not appear to be threatened with extinction. It is a fire tree—that is, it spreads rapidly over spaces left vacant by forest fires. The most extensive paper birch forests of Maine and New Hampshire occupy tracts which were laid bare by the great forest fires which swept the region from 1825 to 1837.

The tree is short lived. At an age when the white cedar, for example, is just beginning to lay on useful wood, the paper birch has passed its prime and is ready for decay. It is placed at still further disadvantage by being unable to compete with other trees for light and soil. It prospers when growing alone, but it gives up the fight after stronger trees begin to crowd it. Nevertheless, it is believed that more paper birch is growing in the United States today than 200 years ago.

AUTUMN IN WASHINGTON.

Congressmen have been dropping in by ones and twos of late, and while some are looking for homes during the coming session, others are merely aiming to get ready for their final exodus after the short session has ended. The autumn days have come, and the fall moving is about over. School has opened, to the grief of the small boys. The vacationists have got back and the shutters are being taken from windows of houses which have been deserted all summer. In short, the sad autumn season, is again with us, the persimmon is mellowing, oysters are in season, and the plaintive call of the turkey echoes over the Virginia hills as the date of Thanksgiving approaches. And yet the town is dull and it will continue to be so until December brings Congress together again.

And To Feel Confident, Too, That It's Real Good

There's such a tendency today to hurry things through, taking the chance that they will slip by, or relying upon the ignorance of the public to detect quality till it's off their hands, that one now has to use wonderful care, lest they get that which in time proves not good.

Do you know, in our dealings with the manufacturers, we've been so very exacting about quality, that the factory that is not very particular does not approach us to sell us his wares. 'Tis the manufacturer that will send with his invoice a guarantee that quality is there whom we seek to give our good orders, 'cause we know his goods are built with great care. He knows how to make goods that are right, and by that means, of course, well, and real cheap. The combination is possible to obtain—'tis a matter of knowledge—of knowing where.

To illustrate that they are obtained here, take this

Stop Long Enough to Think This Over!

The balance wheel of your watch should vibrate 18,000 times an hour. If it vibrates 18,001 times it will gain one second in five hours, or over half a minute a week, which is not considered good time-keeping.

Perhaps this will give you a better conception of the delicate adjustment of a watch. Every little part must be in perfect adjustment and work in perfect harmony with every other part. It doesn't take much to throw the balance off a beat or two in an hour.

When you have your watch repaired next time, keep these facts in mind and let us do your work. Only experienced, competent workmen will handle your watch. No cheap man will get his experience at your expense in our store.

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES

Baron de Rosen, the Russian ambassador, family and legation attaches concluded their stay at Mrs. Russell Sturgis' Manchester estate last Sunday. This estate has a beautiful water front location on the Singing Beach, also spacious grounds. The house itself is most homelike and attractive in its quiet elegance, and the distinguished foreigners, who are very fond of Manchester, have spent a very enjoyable and comfortable summer there. They arrived at the residence on Farragut Square, Washington, Wednesday.

—x—

Herbert W. Mason and family brought their season's stay at "Rockledge," the J. Randolph Coolidge cottage at Manchester, to a close Tuesday. Their return to Boston will be shortly followed by the wedding of Harold F. Mason and Miss Junia K. Russell.

—x—

Col. Henry May and family of Washington are continuing their stay at the large Kimball house, Manchester, until the 30th.

—x—

Dr. L. Vernon Briggs and family will remain at Manchester at the Stone cottage, Hemenway estate, until the last of the month.

—x—

Miss Elise Ames of North Easton spent the last week-end with the Misses Lily and Phylis Sears of Pride's.

—x—

Henry P. McKean is enjoying a western trip, a portion of which is being spent in Colorado Springs. Mr. McKean's sons, who are Harvard men, are having large week-end parties this autumn at their Beverly Farms summer home.

—x—

North Shore society is much interested in the engagement of Miss Pauline Chase, the actress and adopted daughter of J. M. Barry the English novelist, and Claude Grahame-White, the noted aviator, who was entertained on the North Shore by Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter and others. Charles Frohman, Miss Chase's manager, made the public announcement at the Knickerbocker theatre, New York, Tuesday evening. The marriage will be the culmination of nine years' acquaintance. Mr. White and Miss Chase first met in London, when Miss Chase was a member of the Edna May company.

—x—

Mrs. George D. Howe concluded her stay at her Manchester summer home, "The Cliffs," on Smith's Point, Wednesday of this week. Her sister, Mrs. James Howe, concluded her visit with her at the same time.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. W. H. Taft, her sister, Mrs. Thomas K. Laughlin, jr., of Pittsburg and Miss Helen Taft accompanied President Taft as far as New York on Monday, where they remained through this week and may stay longer.

—x—

A large dinner party was given at the French embassy in Washington Monday in honor of the new ambassador from Italy, Marchese Cusani Confalonieri. The retiring naval attache of the Italian embassy, Lieut. Campiero and his fiancée, Miss Eleanor Terry, were present; also members of the Austrian, Spanish and Mexican legations. The First Secretary of the Italian embassy and Madame de La Rocca were also present.

—x—

Mrs. Henry C. Weston is closing "The Uplands," her Beverly Farms summer home, early next week and removing to her Boston home on Beacon street.

—x—

Henry P. King and family arranged to have Sunset Rock, their Pride's Crossing estate, closed for the season Thursday.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Shaw (nee Pemberton) and household concluded their stay at Pride's Crossing Monday.

—x—

Messrs. Ernest and Arthur Jackson and Miss Anna P. Jackson of Pride's Crossing are not leaving the North Shore until Nov. 12, when they plan to go to Europe for an extended sojourn.

—x—

"The Pines," the Philip S. Sears estate, at Pride's Crossing was closed for the season Monday.

—x—

Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth closed her summer home on School street, Manchester on Tuesday.

—x—

Harry Grant, winner of the Vanderbilt cup race, was in Beverly last Friday and called upon President Taft at the summer White House at Burgess Point. He came over the road from Boston in the same car he drove in the race. The President extended hearty congratulations to the skillful and fearless driver.

—x—

Mrs. Austin Gray has returned to New York, after a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Burnham of Beverly Farms.

—x—

Preparations are apace for the 11th National Automobile show to be held in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., which is being extensively remodeled for the show.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The drag hounds of the Myopia Hunt club will meet for the rest of October as follows: Saturday, 22d, Curzon Mills, Newburyport, 2.30 p. m.; Tuesday, 25th, Rowley Common, 3.30 p. m.; *Thursday, 27th; Saturday, 29th, Underhill's Corner, 12.30 p. m. Breakfast by invitation of Chas. F. Ayer, Esq., Juniper Ridge, 2 p. m. *Morning run. Details at the Kennels on day previous.

Alexander S. Porter, jr., and family departed from their Smith's Point summer home at Manchester, Wednesday, increasing the number of Bostonians opening Marlboro street homes.

Among those who have secured grand tier boxes for the coming season of Grand Opera in Philadelphia, which opens Dec. 13, are Henry Pratt McKean and E. T. Stotesbury.

At the conference in Beverly in behalf of the proposed new public library, Miss Katherine P. Loring presented plans of the suggested structure and explained them. Miss Elizabeth P. Sohier of Beverly Cove identified herself with the conference and spoke particularly of the value of the library to school children and others.

At the American Artists' exhibition at the Rhode Island School of Design, Providence, Miss Cecelia Beaux, the distinguished portrait painter of the North Shore, whose summer home is at East Gloucester, is exhibiting her portrait of Richard Watson Gilder.

The funeral of the late H. H. Gallison at Mount Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, last Saturday noon, was the last obsequies over the remains of the famous North Shore artist, who made Annisquam his summer home and made that section of the shore noteworthy by his paintings of "The Old Sand Dune," "Morning on the Sands," "Floating Mists from the Sea" and such landscapes which he procured from the surroundings of his Annisquam cottage-studio with its beautiful foreground of marshes and tidal river. He was a Bostonian by birth and had exhibited in all the European capitals. Last spring he exhibited in several of the middle western cities where his work was enthusiastically commended. His painting of the "Rising Mists," was purchased by the National Museum of Turin, Italy.

Mrs. Preston Gibson and child have been in Manchester since last Saturday, remaining till Wednesday of this week, as the guests of Mrs. James McMillan. The Gibson summer home at Beverly Farms was vacated on the 15th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lee and family are remaining at "Villa al mare," their Beverly Farms estate, until about Dec. 1, when they will sail for Europe for an extended sojourn. Miss Margery Lee will enter a school in Paris for the winter.

Ex-Gov. Bates is among the late sojourners on the North Shore. His summer home at Wheeler's Point, Gloucester, is still open.

Jesse Koshland and family of Boston have left Beverly Farms, being tenants the past months of Larcom cottage, Hale street.

The University of Berlin, which is celebrating its 100th anniversary, has been conferring degrees upon Americans. Among those honored was Associate Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of Beverly Farms, who received the degree of Doctor of Laws. Dean Kohler of the law faculty eulogized Justice Holmes' service in solving legal problems and the deep fundamental value of his writings.

Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, who was entertained by Mrs. William H Taft at the Summer White House, was a passenger on the Mauretania sailing last week from New York for England.

The Rose Tree Hunt club of Philadelphia last week held its initial races for the Agricultural Stakes at Media. Returning Philadelphians from the North Shore noted in box and parking space were Mrs. C. Howard Clark and Daniel B. Wentz, late of West Manchester and Pride's.

Tomorrow evening the mayor of Tokio, Japan who is touring America, will be the guest of honor at the White House. Washington, when a smaller dinner company with President Taft as host will greet him.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Cabot are leaving Manchester Monday next for their winter residence in Boston.

Mrs. James McMillan is closing "Eaglehead," her Manchester summer home on the 27th. She will enlarge the Washington contingent who have been on the North Shore.

"Sunnybank," the Albert I. Croll estate at Gale's Point, Manchester, will be closed for the season the 28th. The Croll family have a winter home on Beacon street, Boston.

Mrs. George E. Warren, who is still at her Manchester summer home, is among the equestriennes noted on the North Shore drives these beautiful autumn mornings.

Miss Mary C. Gray of Cambridge spent a portion of the week with the Misses Katherine P. and Louisa P. Loring of Pride's.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stewart Spaulding have returned to their Pride's Crossing estate after a short stay in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Curtis of Boston have been spending a portion of the week with Mrs. James F. Curtis at her estate, "Indian Ridge," Pride's Crossing. F. G. Curtis has entertained during the week Count Okuma of Japan, both gentlemen being interested in the Japanese art collection at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Mrs. Henry Clay Frick is in New York city, the guest of Mrs. Schoonmaker, whom she entertained on the North Shore at "Eagle Rock," her Pride's Crossing estate, this summer.

The household servants completed the closing of "Swiftmoor," Pride's Crossing, Wednesday, and took their departure on the evening train.

A portion of Judge and Mrs. W. H. Moore's servants have gone to New York to prepare their winter home for occupancy early in November.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge of Pride's were host and hostess for a dinner party of 10 covers last Sunday evening.

A. Shuman has closed "Hetmere," his fine estate at Beverly for the season.

Amory A. Lawrence of Beverly Cove returned last week from his European trip. His son, John S. Lawrence, went to New York to meet him. Mr. Lawrence, jr., and family have changed their plans and will not leave Beverly Cove until Nov. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Graham, who have been the occupants of the Greeley cottage on Ober street, Beverly, will remove to their Boston residence on Commonwealth avenue on the 26th. Mrs. Graham has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. Lockhart, and the latter's son from New York.

SOCIETY NOTES

Dr. and Mrs. Marshall Fabyan of Boston spent the last week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Percival Lombard at their cottage on Hospital Point, Beverly. Mr. and Mrs. Lombard are remaining at their summer home until Oct. 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Beals will keep their beautiful new summer home open at Burgess Point, Beverly, until after Christmas.

Monday evening Dr. and Mrs. John C. Phillips continued their series of autumn dinners at "Knobbfield," their North Beverly estate.

B. Kronstrand, the celebrated portrait painter, of Stockholm, Sweden, concluded a three weeks' stay at the Fairfax, Beverly, Monday, being near the summer White House for sittings by Mrs. Taft for her portrait, which proved a great success. Mr. Kronstrand has painted many of the crowned heads of Europe. He enlarged the number of distinguished people who have visited the North Shore this season.

Prince Koudacheff, counsellor of the Russian embassy, has arrived in Washington, after passing the summer in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter have taken a hotel cottage at the Virginia Hot Springs and have as guests Mrs. Leiter's mother and sister, Mrs. J. R. Williams and Miss Dorothy Williams of Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Leiter recently gave a luncheon of twelve covers at Fassifern.

The Count and Countess de Chambrun, the former the military attache of the French embassy, have been entertained at Hot Springs recently by Miss Ruth Harrison.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador, and family were passengers on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., which sailed for New York Tuesday of this week.

John W. Cutler of Brookline, it is reported, is to bring his bride-elect, Miss Rosalind Fish, daughter of Hamilton Fish of New York, to Beverly Farms to pass the winter. Both are fond of out-door life and particularly the seashore.

Ferdinand von Stumm, second secretary of the German embassy, and his American bride (Miss Constance Hoyt of Washington and Philadelphia), who spent the early part of their honeymoon in Manchester, are located in Stuttgart, Wurtemberg, Germany, where Herr von Stumm has a diplomatic post. The appointment is necessary, when a German diplomat marries a foreign wife, that said wife may be thoroughly Germanized before being sent to a foreign capital.

The Marchese di Montagliari, who has been charge d'affaires of the Italian embassy at Manchester the past summer, welcomed the new successor of Baron Mayor des Planches in New York and returned with him to the capital. The new Italian ambassador is Marquis Cusani Confalonieri and his first secretary is Marquis Negrotto Cambraso. They came from Switzerland and next month will be joined by the Marquis' wife and two children. The Italian embassy at the capital is the former home of Mrs. Hearst and is one of the finest and largest in Washington.

Mrs. Robert S. Bradley is remaining at Pride's until Nov. 1. Mr. Bradley and Miss Bradley are still abroad.

Mrs. Edward B. Haven is concluding her stay at Beverly Farms the first of next week, when she will open her Boston residence on Beacon street.

SOCIETY NOTES

North Shore society is much interested in the reported engagement of Miss Cornelia Wolcott, only daughter of the late Governor and Mrs. Roger Wolcott and the Rev. Mr. Drury, submaster of the St. Paul's school, who was for a long time associated with St. Stephen's church, Boston. Miss Wolcott's brother, S. Huntington Wolcott, married Miss Hannah Stevenson, second daughter of Col. and Mrs. Robert H. Stevenson, who spent the past summer at the Saltonstall cottage, Pride's Crossing.

Mrs. Larz Anderson and Mrs. Clarence Edwards are in Berlin as members of the party of U. S. Secretary of War Dickinson, who have been making a several months' trip abroad.

W. Harry Brown and family of Pittsburg have concluded their stay at Beverly Cove, having been neighbors of President Taft and family.

Charles E. Cotting and family closed their summer home on Harbor street, West Manchester, Monday. They were guests of honor at a small dinner party previous to their departure given by Mrs. Gordon Prince of West Manchester. Mrs. Prince and family concluded their stay at their West Manchester cottage Thursday. Gordon Chickering Prince entertained his friend, Mr. Peters, over the last week-end. They enjoyed a yachting trip to Marblehead where the Prince yacht went out of commission for the season.

Mrs. G. S. Curtis and family, who had the small Higginson cottage at West Manchester for several weeks this autumn departed Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bemis are still absent from their Beverly Farms summer estate and are continuing the pleasures of hunting in the Rockies. They plan to keep their Farms residence open on their return until after Thanksgiving.

The families of Mrs. Charles H. Dalton and Henry R. Dalton gave up the pleasures of the North Shore Tuesday of this week and have entered into metropolitan life at their Boston homes.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. C. A. Porter has received a cheque for $200 from Miss Amy Grant of New York, for the Sharon Sanatorium, of which Mrs. Porter is secretary. Part of this amount was from the proceeds of the interesting musicale Miss Grant gave at Magnolia this fall, which was such a social success. To it she very generously added a considerable sum to make the even two hundred dollars.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Andrew, parents of asst. U. S. Sec. of the Treasury, A. P. Andrew, jr., closed their North Shore summer home at East Gloucester, Tuesday of this week and returned to their home in La Porte, Indiana.

The Misses Bartlett, whose summer home at Manchester has been closed this season, are due in Boston the 29th from their European trip.

Frederick S. Winston and family of Chicago have concluded their stay at Old Neck, Manchester.

George N. Black made arrangements to close his Manchester estate "Craigsides," Smith's Point, late this week and remove to his Boston home.

Mrs. Robert S. Bradley of Pride's was among those present at the meeting of the Women's Municipal League held Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. T. James Bowlker of Beacon street, Boston, a sister of President Lowell of Harvard. Mrs. Bowlker as president of the league addressed the meeting.

Many prominent North Shore summer residents were present Thursday afternoon at the funeral of the late Mrs. Julia Ward Howe at the Church of the Disciples, Boston. They were also represented by beautiful floral tributes. Dr. Morton Prince served as an usher at the church and Mrs. John L. Gardner personally assisted in arranging the flowers around the pulpit platform and in front of the church. Flowers were also sent by Mrs. Gardner, Congressman and Mrs. A. P. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson, Mrs. James T. Fields and many others.

William S. Kuhn and family enlarged this week the Pittsburg contingent leaving the North Shore for winter homes. They occupied the Head estate, "Undercliff", at Manchester.

Mrs. C. A. Munn, jr., has been entertaining relatives from Elkins Park, Philadelphia, at West Manchester this week.

CARBONOL

Aid to Cleanliness

Carbonol is BETTER THAN soap. It is easier to use (just add a spoonful of it to a bucket of water). It dissolves grease and greasy stains. The dingy look of curtains in the rooms where there is much smoking is caused by greasy deposits. Carbonol restores their original freshness of color. The same with rugs and carpets. Prevents moths. It disinfects, it banishes insects and it suppresses odors by arresting decomposition. 10c. and 25c. a bottle. Sample free on request.

Get Ready For Winter---Rely Upon Webber's In Your Every Preparation

Though the weather is still warm and fine, there is an insistent demand in every home to get ready for Winter. The birds have flown, the squirrels have stored their nests. Bruin has gone to his long winter sleep. All the signs point to the coming of winter, and that soon.

This store felt the call of Winter months ago. It began its preparations when the world was enjoying the pleasures of summer.

Through its score and more expert merchandising men, it has drawn upon the finest merchandise that the markets of three continents can produce. Lovely styles and latest novelties. Necessities and luxuries. Finer merchandise is not to be found in any city. It provides for your every winter need. And the economy of Webber's prices makes money go a very long way in your preparations. In making your preparations for Winter, count on the very best service that any store can give.

Webber's will not disappoint you.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

An 8-room cottage is to be built at Magnolia this winter for Mrs. A. C. Thornton. It will be located off Magnolia ave., near Mrs. Thornton's present residence. Kehoe Bros. have the contract for work.

The grounds of "Lilliothea," the beautiful estate of George R. White on Smith's Point, Manchester, is undergoing quite extensive improvements. Morley, Flatley & Co., of Manchester are assisting with the work.

The new road being opened from Beach street to Sea street, Manchester, is well under way.

Mr. Pierce of the Pierce Nurseries, Beverly Farms, has commenced work on a large estate in Milton, on which he has been awarded the contract for laying out and planting.

Kehoe Bros. of Magnolia have the contract for building a 6-room cottage house for William Haskell on Lincoln street, Manchester, next to Mrs. White's new residence.

SOME IDEAS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

Keep Cellar Air Pure.

The air in cellars where there is little or no sunlight is liable to get musty and unhealthy. The best disinfectant, of course, is sunlight and fresh air, but frequently it is impossible to get a strong draught through a cellar; it is wise then to make occasional use of a disinfectant. Germs thrive in such dark places and ordinary cleaning with water is not effective in driving them out. Mix some carbonol with the water, however, in sprinkling the floor when sweeping, and this disinfectant will destroy all bad odors and make the air pure. It does it by killing the germs which are responsible for the odors, which is the only proper way to get rid of a smell.

Keep the Ice Chest Germproof.

The ice chest should always be kept absolutely clean and sweet to insure the health of the household. Remember that an ice chest is dark inside and the germs are sure to multiply in spite of the coldness. It should be occasionally scrubbed out with a tablespoonful of carbonol to a gallon of luke-warm water, then given thoroughly aired.

Take Care of Garbage.

The garbage can should be cleaned with carbonol to keep it sanitary, destroy germs and dissolve the grease which otherwise will cling to the can in spite of soap and water. Don't let the garbage can become foul with old garbage. You will find that carbonol cleans the can easily, because it is so powerful and dissolves grease so easily.

Carbonol is a coal tar disinfectant which you can buy at a drug store. It comes in bottles for 10c, 25c or 50c. As only a spoonful of it needs to be used at a time, a small bottle will last for weeks. It is more necessary than soap. A sample bottle can be obtained by addressing the Barrett Manufacturing Company, 297 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Denegre left West Manchester Wednesday for a short trip to New York, by auto.

Miss Elizabeth W. Perkins closed her estate on West Beach, Beverly Farms, yesterday. By her return to Boston, one of its artistic and philanthropic residents of social prominence will be welcomed.

D. Herbert Hosteter and family are leaving Beverly on Tuesday next for their Pittsburg home.

F. L. Higginson and family are giving up the pleasures and attractions of their Pride's estate next Wednesday. Thursday evening they were at home for another of their delightful dinner parties. There were covers for six.

The Hale street summer residence at Beverly of James H. Procter will welcome a dinner company of ten tomorrow evening.

The members of the German legation, who have made Manchester their summer headquarters, planned to remove to Washington Thursday of this week.

The secretary of the Brazilian legation, R. De Lima E. Silva, will remain in Manchester until the middle of November as a little son arrived in his household last Sunday, which will cause a delay in his plans for departure to Washington.

Thomas Taylor, jr., and family plan to leave Manchester for their winter home in South Carolina next Monday.

Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter closed her Beverly Cove cottage last Sunday and has returned to her winter residence, Dupont Circle, Washington. Mrs. Leiter is an early comer and late stayer on the North Shore. She intends to open her new estate at Beverly Farms next May to reside until Nov. 1. During the autumn the large fruit and vegetable houses of glass, will be erected.

Mrs. George Wigglesworth and daughter, Mrs. Chase of Boston, were in Manchester Monday. This was the first visit of Mrs. Wigglesworth to her summer estate since her return from Europe.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE.

With at least three productions in the list of entertainers of world-wide reputation, the bill at B. F. Keith's theatre next week promises to break

Party-Liners
And the Golden Rule

Party line telephone subscribers virtually are co-tenants. They jointly pay for a single telephone line.

If they were co-tenants of a building they would be careful not to infringe upon the rights of others. That same regard for the equities should keep them from infringing by approaching to themselves more telephone service than can be exacted as their fair share of the capacity of that line.

Lengthy conversations on unimportant matters, the prattling intercourse of children, phonograph concerts, and the like—these sometimes congest party lines and give cause for protest from other tenants in common.

A party line telephone has been likened to a spur track on a main line of railroad. But there is this important qualification—when the telephone spur track is in use the entire main line is closed to traffic, not merely to the other spur tracks on the line, but also to incoming trains consigned to any part of the line.

Ordinary regard for the principle of the Golden Rule will do more to avert party line difficulties than all the rules any telephone company may promulgate.

all records. Among the productions will be included Jesse Lasky's big musical comedy called "The Photo Shop," with a large company of comedians and the splendid chorus wearing beautiful gowns; another will be Mrs. Gardner Crane and her company of comedians, in the comedy called "The Little Sunbeam," which is without question one of the greatest novelties of the year. The scene shows the interior of a Pullman sleeping car during the early morning, when all the passengers are turning out, and there are all kinds of difficulties in which the conductor and porter take a leading part. There is a plot running through the piece and an endless amount of comedy. This week will also mark the first vaudeville appearance of Florence Noyes and Walter Stiles, two well-known Bostonians, who have for some time been prominent in fashionable drawing rooms doing classic dances.

STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS MET THURSDAY AT MANCHESTER

The State Federation of Woman's clubs held their 11th meeting at Manchester, Thursday of this week, as guests of the Manchester Woman's club. Between 70 and 80 delegates, representing the woman's clubs from all parts of the state were present. The sessions were held in the Congregational church.

The day proved a most delightful one for the visitors, many of whom had never been on the North Shore before, and it was a rare treat provided for them by the local committee, in taking them on an auto ride about town, to see the various beautiful summer estates, at West Manchester, Smith's Point and at the Cove. For this feature of the day's program, between twelve and two o'clock, many of the summer residents loaned their automobiles, and ten or a dozen of the town folk, who own cars also gave their machines over to the women.

Most of the delegates arrived on the 10.25 train from Boston and were met at the station by a committee from the local club. The morning session was given over to a discussion of the various ways in which the Federation can assist the local clubs in their work. Many letters were read from the presidents of various clubs in answer to questions sent out by the Federation officers some time ago, bearing on this subject, and these were answered by the officers of the Federation, who pointed out the feasibility of some of the suggestions made and the impractical features of others.

The president, Miss Georgia A. Bacon of Worcester, alluded most feelingly to the death of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, who was the first president of the State Federation and really its founder. She stated that the three ex-presidents of the Federation were attending the funeral, representing the Federation, and that flowers had been sent. The following resolutions on the death of Mrs. Howe were later adopted.

"As it has pleased the heavenly father in his infinite wisdom to remove from the scene of her brilliant accomplishment the beloved and honored founder and first president of this Federation, Julia Ward Howe, we, the presidents and secretaries of the clubs of the Federation, convened at Manchester this Oct. 20, 1910, desire to express to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy and appreciation of the loss which has been sustained by the whole world."

At noon lunch was served in the Town hall. The officers of the local club entertained the officers of the Federation at lunch at the Manchester house.

At the afternoon session the chairmen of the various committees presented the plans of their work for the year. Mrs. Dame of Clinton told of some of the work of the Civics committee, saying the work was divided into five departments, one of which had to do with juvenile courts. One of the things the committee was working for was the abolition of bill boards. Another thing was the development of playgrounds. She urged that efforts be made to see that proper persons are appointed to direct the playgrounds. Great progress had been made in the Saner Fourth movement and also in the Peace Day department. The Junior Civics League, she said, was a new department. She hoped to see it taken up by more of the clubs. More than $200,000 had been saved by children last year through the Stamp Saving Department.

Mrs. Mabel Taber of Watertown, spoke on the Civil Service Reform movement and urged stronger co-operation by the clubs this year. She suggested the giving of prizes for the best written essay by high school pupils on Civil Service as one means of carrying forward the work of the clubs.

The chairman of the Conservation committee was not present, but Miss Crocker, a member of the General Federation committee, spoke of the work. She said that the movement embraced all the natural resources.

Mrs. Clark of the Food Sanitation committee urged the clubs to appoint committees to look after local conditions. The careless attitude of the consumer, she said, was very apt to be the cause of the careless conditions. Each city and town should have a market inspector,—and for this position no one was more fitted than a woman. All bakeries should be kept in best sanitary condition. She spoke of the house-fly and the work that must be done to guard against it. The Food Sanitation conference will be held at Jamaica Plain, Nov. 2.

Mrs. Douglass of the Home Economics committee gave some good suggestions along this line. We must regard housekeeping in the line of a profession, she said.

Mrs. Siblee of Waltham spoke on Industrial and Social Conditions. This year the committee was taking up the work of children's welfare on the playgrounds as well as in the factory and sweat shops. The work is necessarily much along the line of investigation this year, she said.

The Legislative committee chairman was not present. Literature and Library extension committee work was outlined and it was suggested that the drama might be taken up for the year and a series of nine meetings was suggested to end with a discussion meeting as to the tendency of modern drama,—is it uplifting or degrading?

The committee on Public Health urged that the local club committees interest the supt. of schools, doctors and boards of health in the effort to stop unnecessary noise and smoke, etc.

The meeting adjourned at 3.45, the delegates departing on the 4.19 train, after extending a vote of thanks to the local club for their entertainment.

for the purpose of receiving evidence of the qualification or persons claiming a right to vote at the election to be held on

Tuesday, Nov. 8th

1910, and of correcting the list of voters.

See that your name is on the Voting List of your town; if not there call at the office of the Board of Registrars on the days above mentioned, and be registered, or you cannot vote. Bring with you a certificate from the assessors or a tax bill or notice from the collector of taxes, showing that you have been assessed a poll tax as a resident of the town of Manchester.

All persons whose names are stricken from the voters' lists for any lawful reason, will, before they can again have their names placed upon said lists, be required to register their names at the time hereinbefore stated in like manner as new voters.

Naturalized citizens presenting themselves for registration must bring their naturalization papers with them.

If a qualified voter of this town whose name was on the voters' list last year, and who has been assessed for the current year, finds, after the close of registration, that his name is not placed on the voters' list of the current year by reason of having been omitted by clerical error or mistake, he may upon personal application, have his name placed upon the voting list, or, if application be made on the day of election, he may have a certificate to vote.

No name can be added to the voters' list (except to correct omissions made by clerical error or mistake) after ten (10) o'clock of the evening of Saturday, Oct. 29, 1910 at which time registration closes.

Manchester Woman's Club.

The Manchester Woman's Club held its second regular meeting of the season at the Congregational chapel, Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 18.

The president read an announcement of the conference in Jamaica Plain upon Food Sanitation to be held Nov. 2, and appointed Mrs.
Catherine B. Campbell, chairman of the class in household economics, as delegate. A communication was also read from the Hospital Aid association of Beverly soliciting donations of preserves, jellies, pickles, old linen, etc., to be presented on "Donation Day," Tuesday, October 25. The hospital will be open to visitors from two to four o'clock.
Those who would like to do their part but feel unable to go to Beverly may leave their donations with Mrs. R. C. Allen, who will see that they reach their destination.

Following the business meeting, a piano selection was rendered most acceptably by Allen Brown of the New England Conservatory.

Mrs. Ida Vose Woodbury gave a most instructive and entertaining lecture upon the people of the Cumberland Mountains. The land of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come" was described by one who had actually lived among that strange people and knew their sterling qualities and the hardships of their existence.

A social hour followed the lecture over which Mrs. Alice P. Joseph presided as hostess.

At the next lecture given by Miss Flora MacDonald on "Art in the Household," there will be an exhibit of handiwork presented by members of the club.

The club program for the year 1910-1911 has been printed and distributed among the members. It is in book form this year instead of a folder and contains besides the program for the year, list of committees, officers, etc., a complete list of members, 126 in all. The program for the balance of the year is as follows:

November 1. Miss Flora Mac-Donald. "Art in the Household."
Mrs. Sarah Snelling, hostess.

November 9. Minna Elliot Tenney, stereopticon. "A Summer in Norway." Public evening lecture Town hall.

November 15. Miss Ethel Batting, reader. Mrs. Mary Bennett, hostess.

December 6. Mrs. Elizabeth Denison. "What Our Children Should Know." Mrs. Mabel Johnson, hostess.

December 13. Mrs. Isabel Heustis. Paper on home economics.

December 20. Miss Alice Bradley.
Cooking demonstration. Mrs. I. Sylvia Peart, hostess.

January 3. Dr. Leon H. Vincent.
"Franklin as a Man of Letters."
Mrs. Grace K. Beaton, hostess.

January 17. Home Day. Theatricals, Mrs. Charlotte E. Brown, manager. Mrs. Catherine Campbell, hostess.

February 8. Special evening meeting. Annual guest night. Lecture:
Rev. Allen A. Stockdale, "Shall the Corners of the Mouth turn up or Down?" Mrs. Larah Wheaton, hostess.

February 21. Musicales. Open meeting. Westland Quartet. Mrs.
Annie H. Knight, hostess.

March 7. J. L. Harbour. "Blessed be Humor." Mrs. Helen M. Robertson, hostess.

March 21. Open meeting. Mrs.
Kate Upson Clarke. "Effects of Women's Clubs on the Home." Mrs.
Ida Dodge, hostess.

April 4. Children's Day. Miss Mary L. Bullard, stories. Mrs. Flora Hersey, hostess.

April 18. Annual meeting. Election of officers. Payment of dues.
Mrs. Bessie Needham, hostess.

Parent-Teacher Association

The first meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association this fall was held on Wednesday evening at the hall in the Price Primary building.
The program for the evening was mostly that of a musicale, consisting of two solos by Mrs. R. C. Allen (Mrs. Charles E. Williams, accompanist); piano solo, Miss Kauffman; vocal solo, A. L. Saben; and a humorous reading "A Night Out," by Miss Goldsmith.

A social hour followed, refreshments of cocoa and cake being served by a committee of ladies, in the kindergarten room on the first floor. Many of those present met the teachers for the first time and it proved to be for the sixty or more present a most enjoyable gathering.
The next meeting comes on the third Wednesday in November and speaker will be announced.

North Shore Horticultural Society.

The North Shore Horticultural society will meet this evening,—Friday—in Lee's hall, Manchester.
Alfred E. Parsons, gardener at the E. S. Grew estate, West Manchester, has a timely subject for discussion.
The members are enjoined to come and take part in it.

Our Weekly Letter From ::
:: :: :: Washington

By F. J. Dyer.

(Special to the North Shore Breeze.)

Washington, Oct. 20.—Not all the politics in Washington is of the national brand. Among the office holders in the Capital are many men who keep up their residence and party affiliations in their respective states and when possible, go home to cast their ballots. One impelling reason for this is the fact that originally they secured their appointments through home influence, and many of them still depend on that influence to keep them on the payroll and to secure their advancement. These officeholders have political organizations of their own in Washington and during a campaign they hold meetings and listen to speeches and do what they can to promote the interests of their favorite tickets and candidates. Many of them, especially those living in states not too remote to make the necessary travel a burden, will go home next month to vote.

The South's Awakening.

Ex-President Roosevelt attended a gathering of prominent Southern business men at Atlanta the other day and took occasion to praise the movement by the Southern Commercial Congress to boom the South. It has been a source of wonder for a long time to many persons that the South has not made more rapid material progress. With the wealth lavished on it by Nature the South has been a land of neglected opportunity and outsiders have scarcely known of the advantages it has held for enterprise and brains. Now that the entire South has apparently united to secure the development of its latent resources, there is due for it one of the greatest periods of progression any part of this country has ever seen. The South is rich and its potentialities are almost beyond computation. Its wise men have decided that it is time that it was realizing larger returns on its unworked capital.

Skilled Farm Experts in Demand.

There is an increasingly attractive field for young men skilled in different branches of farm management and farm practice. This is made strikingly apparent by a recent announcement that the Bureau of Animal Industry had asked the Civil Service Commission to hold an examination to secure eligibles for appointment as animal husbandmen. There are vacancies worth $2,040, $1,740 and $1,380 a year for men qualified in the subject of feeding and breeding sheep and goats, and in the subject of herdbook methods and administration; also $1,380 a year for men qualified in the subject of feeding and breeding horses. There are other positions as good for men who can qualify in feeding and breeding beef cattle, feeding and breeding hogs, feeding and breeding poultry, stockfarm management with special reference to any section the applicant may select, incubation and breeding, packing storage and marketing of poultry and eggs, principles of animal nutrition, principles of animal breeding, animal husbandry literature and library work. The Department of Agriculture not only offers a field for experts in these and many other lines, but it is training up a class of young men who often find excellent openings in private employment or in the service of foreign governments.

Thorium a Rare Mineral.

Many strange and recently discovered minerals are playing an important part in the industrial affairs of the world. Thorium, for instance, is a constituent of monazite, and it is in great and constant demand for use in making incandescent mantles for gas lamps. Brazil and the United States, according to the Geological Survey, supply the world's demand for monazite. Most of that obtained in this country is from North Carolina and South Carolina, the production in 1909 being 541,931 pounds valued at $65,032. Deposits have been discovered in Idaho which promise to be valuable.

Practically all the monazite of commerce is derived from placer or gravel deposits, all attempts to extract it from its original rock matrix having failed. The deposits are worked like placers—by sluicing and hydraulicking—and the crude monazite sand obtained is further cleaned on concentrating tables and by electromagneto machinery, which removes its iron contents.

Whitewashing Whitewash.

"I think you said, 'Rastus,' that you had a brother in the mining business in the west?"

"Yeh, boss, that's right."

"What kind of mining—gold mining, silver mining, copper mining?"

"No, sah, none o' those; kalso-mining."—Everybody's Magazine.

Special Farewell for President Taft.

President Taft's vacation ended last Sunday. Monday morning he started for Washington by way of New York. Three thousand Beverly school children lined up on Lothrop street and waved him good-by with little American flags as he started on his automobile journey to Boston. Sunday, at the Beverly Unitarian church, the President was called upon to make a few remarks.

Mr. Taft said: "I should be most reluctant to break into the regular course this morning if it did not give me the opportunity on behalf of Mrs. Taft and myself to express the gratitude we feel at having had the privilege of worshiping with you during this beautiful summer season in a church so full of history, with such a wealth of usefulness in the last 250 years. It is a church that illustrates in its history the growth of liberalism in religion, and the development of the Orthodox tenets of those who came here to make the beginnings of New England into our faith of Unitarianism."

The President then paid a tribute to Dr. Benjamin R. Bulkeley, pastor of the church, and concluded: "I hope we—I mean my family and myself—are going to be able next summer to be here, or, as they say in the West, 'hereabouts,' and certainly if we are within any practicable distance, and you will treat us as well next summer and as hospitably as you have this, we shall be numbered among the worshippers under this roof. I thank you sincerely."

The announcement as to the location of the President's home next summer has not yet been made. All the chances, however, favor Beverly, and it is believed that within a few days a lease will be signed for a cottage within easy walking distance of the present summer White House.

New Directory Out

The 1911 edition of the Gloucester directory, which contains also the directory of the towns of Manchester and Rockport, has made its appearance and as usual is a well gotten up book, accurate and reliable. The book contains 15,397 names, including 12,046 in Gloucester proper, 2,038 in Rockport and 1,313 in Manchester. Sampson & Murdock Co., 246 Summer street, Boston are the publishers.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanford left for their new home in Dover, N. H., the first of this week, their household furniture going a few days previous.

The officers of Wm. Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers, will be installed on Monday evening next by Deputy Supreme Gov. Lestella McLaughlin of Lynn, assisted by the degree staff of Francis Higginson colony of Salem. Supreme Trustee McAnnally of Lawrence will also be present on that occasion.

Very Sad Death.

John J. King, of Woonsocket, R. I., since last April a resident of Manchester, passed away at the Carney Hospital, South Boston, last night, at the age of 28 years.

Mr. King's death was particularly sad from the fact he was such a young man, and because he was married just one month ago. It is a terrible blow for his young bride, who was Miss Elizabeth Brady of Woonsocket.

Mr. King came to Manchester last spring to take charge of the linotype machine at the North Shore Breeze office. He was the acme of good health, never knowing a sick day. He was a young man of exceptionally good habits and in the few months he lived here he gained many friends. On the 20th of Sept. he was married at Woonsocket and after a honeymoon trip he returned to Manchester two weeks ago last Tuesday and started house-keeping in the Mahoney cottage, Pine street, intending to make this his permanent home. He was in the best of health Tuesday night when he returned to his home from the Breeze office. He ate a hearty supper and just after retiring at 10.30 he was taken with violent vomiting, which caused a hemorrhage on the brain. Drs. Glendenning and Washburn were called as soon as Mrs. King could summon help and it was seen at once that his condition was critical. He was removed to Corney Hospital Wednesday on the 1.30 train where everything possible was done for him. He passed away, however, about 7 o'clock, last night.

He is survived by a mother and three sisters, besides his young bride. Funeral services will be held Monday at 9 a. m., at Woonsocket.

Mrs. Fannie Kenney of Charlestown was recently in town visiting friends.

Miss Marion Kitfield was home from Mystic, Conn., to spend the last week-end.

Allen McKinnon and John Carter spent the last week-end camping out at Conomo Point, Essex.

Allen post 67 was represented at the funeral of the late Sydney Gardner in Gloucester Monday.

Miss Florence Jewett of Portsmouth, N. H., has been visiting her friend, Miss Ruth Blaisdell, Union street.

North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., obligated one candidate at their meeting Tuesday evening, and received a visit from Deputy Anderson of Gloucester.

George Burchstead, who has a position on the Dr. Ruiz estate, West Manchester, is moving his family from Bennett street into his father's house on Pleasant street.

The school board has designated Monday, Oct. 31, as Visiting Day for the public school teachers and the annual convention of Essex County association is held on the Friday previous.

The Manchester High school football team will play the Beverly Farms eleven tomorrow morning at the playgrounds. Wednesday a team from Marblehead defeated the Manchester boys 18-0.

Mr. Thurston, the democratic candidate for the state senate was in town Tuesday building his political fences in this section of the district. With him were other political leaders from Gloucester. Mr. Thurston entertained his party at dinner at the Manchester House.

About thirty members of Conomo Tribe of Red Men went to Lynn Wednesday evening and took part in the big Red Men's parade. They were met at the railroad station by Winnepurket tribe. There were about 1400 Red Men on parade and thousands of spectators viewed the parade along the line of march. The Red Men have a very strong representation in the Shoe city, there being several tribes. The parade ended at the Casino where the various tribes were served with a bountiful repast.

A novel and interesting entertainment was held in the vestry of the Baptist church Wednesday evening. The "yarn social" made a decided hit. The following program was presented: Piano solo, "Love Dream," Allyn Brown; a real home spun yarn, Mrs. Nellie Rogers; another yarn by Mrs. J. D. Baker and another by Robert Baker; piano solo, "A spinning song," Miss May Rogers; a yarn spun by Miss Annie Younger, and another by T. B. Stone; solo, Mrs. J. W. Lee; a yarn spun by Mrs. Abbie Bullock; solo, Rev. T. L. Frost; a reading of part of "The Spinning Wheel" from Longfellow's "Miles Standish Courtship," by Mrs. Charlotte Brown; with spinning song accompaniment by Allyn Brown; song, "Priscilla," Brenda Cook; an old fashioned song, Mrs. Allen; reading (by request) "The Boarding House Keeper," Mrs. Brown; piano solo, "The Village Holiday," Mr. Brown. Refreshments were served during the evening and a social half hour was enjoyed by all.

Charles B. Dodge.

The community was greatly shocked to learn of the sudden death on Sunday morning of Charles B. Dodge, who passed away at the home of his parents on Western avenue, aged 40 years, 2 months, 13 days. Mr. Dodge had been ill for the past year being obliged to resign his position as gardener for Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, 2nd., last spring on account of ill health, but it was not thought that the end was so near. He was a native of Magnolia, being the son of John B. and Mary E. (Symonds) Dodge, both of whom survive him. He was a member of Col. H. P. Woodbury camp 149, S. of V., of Manchester and of the Gloucester Firemen's Relief association.

Mr. Dodge was of a quiet retiring disposition and was well-known and well liked by all and will be greatly missed from the community. Sincerest sympathy is extended to the parents who are left alone to mourn his loss.

Services were held at the Union Congregational church on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Wm. H. Rider of Gloucester officiating. The Sons of Veterans held their ritualistic services at the grave. Interment was in the Magnolia cemetery.

Some time ago Councilman Woodberry introduced an order in the Beverly city government for the outside painting of the West street engine house, which order is still pending favorable action. There is no doubt that by this time the Farms people are tired of looking at the dirty and dingy building which certainly needs a good coat of paint. It would also be a good plan to go further to the extent of painting and renovating the interior, which also needs looking after badly. But perhaps the citizens would be satisfied for this year if a little paint, just enough to cover the dirt could be put on the outside.

Talk About Hair-Raisers!

Anyone who likes excitement will be more than ordinarily interested in the news that The Ridgway Company, the well-known publishers of Everybody's Magazine, have issued a new publication which will be entirely devoted to "the most interesting and thrilling adventure stories to be found anywhere."

It's called Adventure, and the first number has just made its appearance. If the contents of this issue can be considered a fair sample of what is to follow, it is safe to assume that the publishers have found what they are looking for—and then some.

Adventure is a big, well-made magazine. It has 192 pages of better paper than is usually found in a purely fiction publication. Three serials and nine or ten exciting stories, with appropriate drawings, go to make up what most people will consider a very good 15 cents' worth, indeed.

"Yellow Men and Gold," "Can a Man Be True?" and "The Crook and the Doctor" can be specially recommended to those who like to have their thrills handed out to them in rapid succession.

If the energy and skill with which the publishers have handled Everybody's Magazine counts for anything at all, this new publication can be relied upon to go some. Folks who know the history of the inside workings of the magazine game, will talk with wonder in their eyes and voices of the skyrocket progress of Everybody's Magazine from a house organ published by John Wanamaker to its present position of the biggest selling 15-cent general magazine in the field.

It is said that Adventure starts with a circulation that would do credit to an established publication of long standing. The magazine itself is unique, physically attractive and powerfully interesting. It ought to create and fill a distinctly new place in magazinedom, and be the means of entertaining a good many hundreds of thousands of people monthly.

Here's Good Luck to Adventure!

The republican ward 6 city committee has made all arrangements for a rally to be held on Monday evening, October 31, in Neighbors' hall. The speakers are two of the best on the republican list, being Congressman A. P. Gardner and E. Mark Sullivan, the well-known lawyer and assistant U. S. district attorney. The Beverly Farms Band is to furnish music for the occasion. Women as well as men are cordially invited to be present and it is hoped that in view of the fact that the Farms is very fortunate to secure these excellent speakers the hall will be filled to its capacity.

Tonight will be a pleasant one for the members of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers. Deputy Supreme Gov. Mrs. McLaughlin of Lynn accompanied by the degree staff of sixteen members from the Francis Higginson colony of Salem, will visit the colony for the purpose of installing the new officers for the ensuing year. An entertaining program has been provided.

A recent probate court notice prays that "letters testamentary" may be issued to William LeMars that he may be made executor of the estate of the late S. Annie H. Pierpont, late of Beverly Farms.

At the meeting of the class of 1913 of the Beverly High school held this week, Miss Prudence Connolly of the Farms was elected vice president.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Collins of New Haven, Conn., have been among this week's visitors at the Farms. They are to remain here another week.

The Farms fire companies last Friday evening went to Beverly, where they were royally entertained by the firemen from the city center. Besides a program of entertainment, the fire laddies sat down to a splendid supper.

George F. Wood has been distributing tax bills about ward 6 the past week. The rate this year is $15.20 per thousand.

Postmaster and Mrs. William R. Brooks are leaving today for a vacation trip south, to be gone seven or eight days. While at the national capitol, they plan to take a side trip to the Gettysburg battle ground.

James Mahoney, who has been an employee of L. J. Watson for several years, left the Farms last Monday for a trip to Ireland.

The dance given in Neighbors' hall last evening under the management of a party of Farms young ladies was well attended and was an enjoyable time.

A pretty wedding, which many Farms people attended, was that of Mary Frances Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Hill of Brookline, and S. John Connolly of Beverly Farms, at St. Mary's parsonage, Brookline, on Wednesday evening. Miss Gertrude Hill, a sister was bridesmaid and Charles C. Gilman of Dorchester was best man. At the close of the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 316 Boylston street, Brookline, where there was a splendid display of beautiful and costly presents of a large variety. Amid a shower of confetti the happy pair left in an automobile for their wedding trip. On their return they are to occupy a new cottage house, which the groom has just built on Everett street, Beverly Farms. The Breeze join their host of friends in extending to Mr. and Mrs. Connolly congratulations and best wishes. The bride is a graduate of the Brookline High school and of Dr. Sargent's school of gymnastics, and has been a private teacher to the most prominent society people in Boston and vicinity. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Connolly of Beverly Farms. He is a civil engineer and is with the firm of Connolly Bros. Both young people are very popular in their respective home places.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Wright will observe the 15th anniversary of the wedding next Wednesday evening at their home, cor. Hale and Vine streets.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Pike and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Larcom returned Wednesday from 10 days of camp life at Conomo Point, Essex. During their stay there they entertained many friends. Yesterday Mr. Pike resumed his position as driver of the Farms Hook & Ladder truck.

Frank A. Williams was one of the ushers at the Allen-Larrabee wedding in Beverly Wednesday evening. His sister, Miss Bessie Williams was one of the Farms people who attended.

John M. Publicover has so far recovered from his illness as to be able to get out of doors a few hours each day.

Walter B. Wright, engineer of the Farms steamer 3, has just completed a job of painting, striping and lettering on the old fire department punga that is a masterpiece and is pronounced by all to be a dandy job. The old punga has been wearing a coat of plain blue for a long time. Mr. Wright has done the work at spare time and the only charge to the city is the bare cost of the paint.

Miss Sarah Donaher of Worcester has been a guest part of the week of the Thomas D. Connollys.

The G. A. R. Associates are invited to meet Thursday evenings in G. A. R. hall for their annual fall and winter gatherings.

Yesterday Rev. and Mrs. Clarence Strong Pond returned from a pleasant vacation, most of which was spent at Pocasset, Mrs. Pond's former home.

Farms members of John West colony, U. O. P. F., have tickets for sale at the popular prices of ten and 25 cents, for the Forefathers Day celebration to be given by the U. O. P. F., in Mechanics building, Boston, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 21. The program announced will be an interesting one and will include such attractions as the Salem Cadet Band; the Schubert club of Malden, 75 male voices; Albert C. Orcutt, tenor; Mrs. Frances Dutton Brown, soprano; and a noted speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Morgan spent last Saturday, Sunday and Monday visiting friends in Worcester.

Registration for the Nov. 8 state election closed Wednesday night with a total of 3867 names on the voting list. Ward 6, now the smallest, has 349 voters listed.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Travers of Bangor, Me., have spent the last week at the Farms visiting friends.

The Girls' club is to give a supper in the Chapel of the Baptist church next Tuesday evening from 5.30 to 7 o'clock.

Edwin Callahan of St. John, N. B., is a new arrival at the Farms.

An old land mark, the barn on the estate formerly owned by Robert J. Brown on Hart street, and now owned by Matthew Smith, was demolished this week. It is very likely that a small cottage will be erected on the property.

Capt. J. Frank Blaney put his house boat in winter quarters at Manchester this week.

Henry D. Stillman lost a valuable chestnut horse from colic this week. The animal was one of a perfectly matched pair of draft horses, whose appearance on the street always attracted much attention.

Preston W. R. Corps is to give a public supper in the G. A. R. banquet hall on Tuesday, November 8, from 5 to 7 o'clock. The ladies have held these suppers in the past and they have been very popular.

Letters remaining unclaimed at the Beverly Farms postoffice for week ending October 19, 1910: Mrs. Anniel Braidie, Mrs. Marie Parter, Mrs. W. A. Flinn, W. H. Fenimore, Mrs. T. L. Gary, Mr. M. We Believe You Ought to Know It.

Some of you for the reason that you take such an interest in this store, and the other of you good folks, whom we so hope to interest, too, how the fame of this store is rapidly spreading, and how large is our field gradually growing.

At the present moment we are preparing in our work rooms, for delivery, furnishings for pretty homes for the following parts:

Friday, a beautiful home in the City of Worcester; Saturday, another fine home in the town of Hamilton; Saturday, by freight, we ship an outfit to Woodsville, New Hampshire; Monday of next week, we fit a house out, out in Roxbury. All of these folks were utter strangers to us, guided here by influence we knew nothing whatever about; ordered their goods after careful comparison—really found they could be better served with variety and prices by trading here at TITUS', out here in Salem, passing through Boston on their way here to trade.

One man had a catalog of one of Boston's good houses right here with him to be sure he was right. Found the same goods, from exactly the same factories, and in every single instance found our prices were under. We tell this to you because we are proud of such facts, and want you at home here to know of our growth.

Want to cite you an instance of the difference in price on just one article to show you the advantage they gained trading here.

'Tis a Quartered Oak China Closet with round ends and swell front that stands on french legs, and has tenon claw feet. 'Tis finished in that fine way in which good furniture is treated, and designed to be neat, well-proportioned and graceful.

Our Price Is $14.50

'Tis Cataloged Elsewhere at $17. 00

Just think! there's nearly 20 per cent saved in trading in here. We hope the next article you anticipate buying, you'll favor us with the opportunity of saving you, too.

PARISIAN IVORY. Parisian Ivory is an exquisite material perfectly adapted for toilet articles, closely resembling real ivory in appearance, but surpassing it in beauty of finish, richness of tone and durability. We call special attention to the quality of glass in the mirrors, the bristles in the brushes and the cutting of the combs, believing in their superiority in these respects to other lines. Engraving is extra. Colors: Light blue dark blue, pink, green, red or black; dark blue's recommended. The letter after each number indicates appropriate size. Size a 1.00, b .75, c .50, d .40.

Stop Long Enough to Think This Over!

The balance wheel of your watch should vibrate 18,000 times an hour. If it vibrates 18,001 times it will gain one second in five hours, or over half a minute a week, which is not considered good time-keeping.

Perhaps this will give you a better conception of the delicate adjustment of a watch. Every little part must be in perfect adjustment and work in perfect harmony with every other part. It doesn't take much to throw the balance off a beat or two in an hour.

When you have your watch repaired next time, keep these facts in mind and let us do your work. Only experienced, competent workmen will handle your watch. No cheap man will get his experience at your expense in our store.

SOCIETY NOTES

The wedding of Miss Junia K. Russell of Cambridge and Harold F. Mason of Boston and Manchester was solemnized Wednesday at high noon in Christ Church, Cambridge. The nuptials brought together a large number of relatives and friends of the family. The rector of the church, Rev. Prescott Evarts, officiated and the edifice was beautifully decorated with palms and white chrysanthemums. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Joseph Ballister Russell, a brother of the late Gov. Russell, was attired in white liberty satin adorned with rich lace. She was attended by Miss Katherine Dorr of Cambridge, who wore a French creation of pink and pale blue chiffon and a large black hat. Joseph B. Russell, jr., was best man and the ushers were Charles E. Mason, Herbert W. Mason, Austin B. Mason, Robert Winsor, jr., Constantine Hutchinson and Augustus Hemenway. Mr. Mason is one of the five sons of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer B. Mason of Boston and Manchester and is a Harvard man, class of '05. His club affiliations in Boston include the Tennis and Racquet. At the conclusion of their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Mason are to make their home at 310 Commonwealth avenue.

—x—

One of the most important of the autumn weddings in Philadelphia which will create much North Shore society interest is that on November 29 in St. Mark's church, of Miss Julia Rush Biddle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Williams Biddle, and T. Charlton Henry. Among the attendants will be Mrs. Charles Munn, jr., (Mary Astor Paul) of Manchester, her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. J. Drexel Paul, and Miss Mary Josephine Amory, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis I. Amory of Boston and Beverly Cove.

—x—

Clay Arthur Pierce and family plan to leave Pride's Crossing next Tuesday (Nov. 1) for their winter home in St. Louis.

SOCIETY NOTES

At an elaborate luncheon Tuesday aboard the Argentine training ship, Presidente Sarmiento, off the Washington navy yard, President Taft was received in the captain's dining room, which was profusely decorated with flowers. Senor Jacinto L. Villegas, the Argentine chargé d'affaires, who spent the summer in Manchester, and Gen. Garcia, chief of the Argentine warship commission, who was frequently entertained at Marblehead during the summer, were present.

—x—

Tuesday and Wednesday of this week fashionable society at Washington were in evidence at the Horse Show at the American League Park. President and Mrs. Taft headed the list of box holders.

Mrs. John B. Silsbee has returned to her Boston residence on Marlboro street from her season's sojourn in Beverly.

Herbert M. Sears and family are closing "Woodrock," their Pride's estate, about November 5.

"Round Plain Farm," Beverly Farms, received a congenial dinner company of twelve on Thursday evening, Mrs. John A. Caswell doing the honors of hostess in her usual charming manner.

Mrs. John Silsbee Curtis is a late autumn entertainer at her residence on Storow Hill, Beverly Farms, and was hostess for a dinner party Thursday evening of this week.

Wm. J. Hobbs, fourth vice president of the B. & M. R. R., and family are among the late sojourners on the North Shore being still at their estate "Ledgemere," on Marmion Way, Rockport.

Miss Gladys Munn has returned to Manchester after a sojourn in New York.

Mrs. James McMillan closed "Eaglehead," her Manchester estate, Thursday for the season. Before opening her Washington residence on Vermont avenue, she will spend two weeks in New York City.

Hon. George H. Lyman and family and Otis H. Luke and family were Bostonians closing Beverly Farms summer homes on Thursday of this week. Mr. Luke and family will pass the winter in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wheelwright are bringing their season's stay at Mrs. Samuel Foster's cottage, Beverly Farms, to a close tomorrow and will remove to their winter home on Beacon street, Boston.

Sidney E. Hutchinson and family are transferring their home and social interests to Philadelphia next Thursday, where they will be cordially welcomed in their home city as leaders in its many affairs.

John W. Cutler of Brookline and bride (nee Rosalind Fish) of New York have secured for the winter the George Lee small cottage on Hale street, Beverly Farms, occupied the past season by Bernard C. Weld and family of Marlboro street, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seabury are spending the winter in Boston this year their Beverly Farms cottage which they have been in the habit of keeping open the year round, having been closed for the season since the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gibson.

Mrs. E. Preble Motley concludes her stay at Pride's Crossing, next Monday and will be among the Bostonians to open Beacon street homes for the winter.

Mrs. George von L. Meyer and daughter have departed from "Rock Maple Farm," Hamilton, for their proposed European trip. They were passengers on the S. S. Saxonia enroute for Madeira.

Frank A. Magee and family of Boston have concluded their stay at their Wenham estate and are in Chicago visiting relatives.

E. B. Cole and family of Boston are planning to spend the greater portion of the winter at their Wenham Neck estate.

Charles G. Rice will not close his estate at Turner Hill, Ipswich, as he plans to divide his time between Ipswich and Boston this winter.

Washington is anticipating a prominent wedding next month, when Lieut. Filippo Campiero, the naval attache to the Italian embassy, and Miss Eleanor Terry, one of Washington's best known society belles, will be married. The invitations will be issued among a large number of the official and social leaders of the capital. The wedding is of particular interest to Philadelphians as Miss Terry is a cousin of Mrs. Henry Norris of the Quaker City and she and her fiancé have been members recently of a large house party at the West Chester, Pa., estate of Mrs. Norris.

Chas. D. Sias and family returned to their Boston residence from Wenham on Monday.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter, Mrs. Joseph E. Widener and Comtesse de Chambrun were among the patronesses at the café chantant given recently at the Virginia Hot Springs. The proceeds were for the work among the Virginia mountaineers.

Count and Countess von Wedel of the German embassy, who passed part of the summer at Manchester settled in their home at the Portland, Washington, D. C., last Friday. The German ambassador and Countess von Bernstorff and daughter were expected in New York Tuesday.

Justice and Mrs. Oliver Wendell Holmes, who concluded their stay at their Beverly Farms summer home, Sept. 28, arrived in New York Tuesday on the Kaiser Wilhelm II, being members of a notable passenger list enroute from Germany. They were abroad for the ocean trip only.

Mrs. Oliver Ames has opened her winter residence on Commonwealth ave., Boston, after short stays in New York and North Easton following her departure from Pride's Crossing. Mr. Ames has been to Chicago for a short trip. Miss Elise Ames received the Sewing Circle at her Boston home for its opening business meeting, which was held recently.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilder Pollard of Brookline and East Gloucester will present their daughter, Miss Elise Pollard at a large tea at the Tuileries, Boston, Tuesday, Nov. 22.

North Shore society was represented at the wedding, October 18, in New York of Miss Gertrude Sheldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Sheldon, and Mr. Samuel Stevens Sand, son of Mrs. Wm. K. Vanderbilt. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. Lithgow Devens and Mr. and Mrs. Amory Hodges of New York and Wenham.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn, jr., on the conclusion of their stay in West Manchester are to locate in Boston having leased Mrs. Oscar Iasigi's house at 76 Beacon street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank I. Chick, who are still at the Fuller cottage, Magnolia, observed their 25th wedding anniversary at their winter home, the Vendome, Boston, last Friday evening by a reception. Mr. and Mrs. Chick received their friends in a floral bower arranged from palms, ferns, roses, carnations and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Chick was attired handsomely in yellow brocade and carried yellow roses. The supper room was also beautifully decorated with flowers.

Mrs. John R. McGinley and daughter returned to Pittsburg Tuesday of this week, leaving as occupants of the Steven's cottage at Manchester, Mrs. McGinley's married daughter, Mrs. Edward Small Moore, and family, who are to remain there three weeks longer.

A Tale of Heraldry.

BY REV. LOUIS H. RUGE.

(COPYRIGHTED, 1910, BY L. H. RUGE.)

II.

This subject has lent itself to some picturesque imaginings. Many fantastic meanings have been ascribed to the most casual and ordinary symbols of the ancients. Some old writers of skill and authority have allowed their imagination to invest the worthies of antiquity with armorial bearings and fanciful attempts have been made to figure out a system of heraldry dating back to pre-historic ages. In a sense this attempt is justified.

And Morgan has gone so far as to ascribe armorial bearings to Adam and also to Eve in which serpents and apples and fig leaves are ingeniously woven through the designs. Another writer claims that Adam's shield was at first red, but that he was compelled to change it somewhat after the fall and modified it with a garland of fig leaves. Eve's shield was white, but after she passed from Paradise it was silver with a little apple tree in the center.

In her zealous interest to establish the gentility of all men, a very commendable and altruistic motive, Lady Juliana Berners has discovered that Adam was a gentleman in which we may all agree and lay the flattering unction to heart with no trace of sarcasm in the humor. And if there are any sticklers as to Adam trying to shield himself behind his fair partner in disgrace let him hold his peace.

Many a pleasantry underlies the writings of the most prosaic and profound, a very ripple of mirth under the duldest sagacity. We take down a tome, and open it and look into withered, mummy faces of forgotten sages of most forbidding aspect that soon, however, gleam with merriment under the grim ceremonies if we give them our attention.

The reader was told that heraldry had its court jester, or words to that effect. These are some of the choice gems of humor that the writer in his delectable search has dug up from some musty and dry heaps taken from fireproof vaults where the precious dust reposes with its glittering particles, for which he trusts his readers are duly thankful.

No incomparable Mark Twain ever perpetrated a finer jest than Lady Juliana Berners and yet her name is missed from the list of the world's humorists.

Too much of such fanciful and ridiculous speculation will spoil any science as it has hurt religion and bring discredit upon it which is unjust. Mark Twain in writing about a carbuncle on his neck says that the dictionary defines a carbuncle as a jewel and deplores the humor as out of place. Of course any one can see that too much of that sort of jesting in a dictionary would depreciate and very soon destroy the art of lexicography. And therefore the fantastic tilts of such writers might easily bring into disrepute all the evidences of ancient heraldry, especially among so serious a class of scholars as heralds whose zeal in the cause of systematic and scientific heraldry has dried up all their springs of humor, as zeal in any science is apt to do. Beware of the withering drought of scientific zeal.

Fanciful descriptions are given by a few of ensigns and emblems with which these antiquarians fictionists have invested Abraham and Moses and the dim figures of the classical and mythological ages.

Guillim with some warrant perhaps has invested the men of Israel with armorial bearings. These attributive arms of Samson and David down to the wise men of the east and Jesus himself, whom these enthusiasts upon the subject have invested with a coat of arms, are not authenticated sufficiently by any records or research that can be found.

It is true that in sacred and profane history we find seals and symbols. The Bible gives the symbols of the twelve tribes and in Herodotus are recorded symbolic signs that distinguished communities and armies from earliest times, as also in the Aeneid. In Genesis 38:18 the Hebrew word meaning signet refers to a ring seal for sealing documents. Jezebel we read used the King's seal. From Numbers 2:2; Psalms 20:5; 60:4; Isaiah 13:2; and Jeremiah 22:24 we gather the same information about insignias and seals worn on the hand or suspended on a ribbon round the neck as they are still worn in the east, or emblazoned upon banners. All this was perhaps the genesis of armorial bearings in later periods.

Bolton is known as a writer upon the subject who has devoted his life in tracing and inventing a coat of arms for all the heroes of past ages. Ferne ascribes armorial bearings to the Egyptian Kings; the priesthood of Egypt's wierd and magical rites being the custodians of all symbols in those days.

Darius is known to have used a signet as did his lords. Alexander the Great is accorded a shield with a golden chair upon which is a lion represented as amusing himself in playing with a battle ax.

The Romans and Goths and Vandals used many symbols. Tiles of the 11th century bear armorial devices. The symbolic arms of the Saxon monarchs and Anglo-Norman Kings, so largely a matter of tradition and unauthenticated and unsystematized are still presumptive evidence in which a coat of arms later is traced to William I, two lions on a shield, as also armorial bearings to Matilda, his wife.

Archaeology is full of evidences, as Hallam claims, that emblems and devices similar to modern heraldry were used from time immemorial. Antiquity has passed down indisputable evidences that nations and individuals distinguished themselves by the use of insignias that although haphazard and unsystematized served the same purpose as the emblazoned shield of the tournaments and crusades in later centuries.

Many Egyptian and pre-historic seals are found in the world's great museums formed of clay and even attached to documents by means of papyrus bands and cords bearing the hieroglyphics of heathern deities and kings. At first these designs were anything of an allusive association, of plants, animals, familiar objects, artificial designs and mythological monsters.

The unsystematic condition and usages of these symbols and insignias is no worse than was civilization and government of that day. No one presumes to say that civilization is purely a modern affair because it is more orderly, refined and moral than that of the ancients. As civilization fades away into antiquity scarcely distinguishable from the debris of barbarism so the symbolic art, now more or less systematized under the science of heraldry had its beginnings in a chaotic condition.

The designs of so many barbaric chieftains, duplicated in the European coat of arms, in which it is claimed heraldry had its birth, could hardly have been due to countless co-incidences. Even ancient symbols have been retained in the systematized science. "The 'White Horse' of the Saxons and the 'Palm Tree and Crocodile' of the city of Nismes anterior to the period generally recorded as the genesis of heraldry is a case in point."

Armorial bearings may have come and gone as other arts leaving behind for centuries only unauthenticated traces. The fault of these inaccuracies may be accounted for by the carelessness and ignorance of officers and custodians as is often the case in every community in our modern affairs. And such errors must have been numerous and glaring in the times and under the conditions that did not lend themselves to the scientific accuracy practiced today. Much therefore that is true in everything ancient has therefore been confounded with the false as is the case with much critical research, and not enough due regard is given to many things, that although unauthenticated, have, however, about them certain strong probabilities.

Heraldry has no doubt been a process of evolution and is most interesting in its study, until it assumes a place in history and society both important and distinctive above many other arts and promises to remain so.

To the 12th century must be conceded it seems the orderly array and marshalling of the art. Contrary to a generally accepted idea of its antiquity the modern phase of the art as a social insignia is in its infancy. It is not "anciens régime," but in a sense most modern and is not a worn out medieval eccentricity of the nobility as some contend. Especially is this true of armorial bearings as an hereditary distinction which dates from the times of the tournaments which contribute a most romantic chapter in the tale of heraldry.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mrs. Louis A. Shaw (Miss Joan Bird), who is one of the very few North Shore society women to hold a gunner's license, accompanied her husband to New York for the Cutler-Fish nuptials. Mr. Shaw served as an usher.

Frederick Ayer and family of Boston and Pride's, who are at the Virginia Hot Springs, recently gave an automobile party followed by dinner at Fassifern farm.

Returning and sojourning North Shore summer residents were largely in evidence at the Boston symphony rehearsal last Friday afternoon: Major and Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, Miss Faith Simpkins, Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, Mrs. John Lawrence, Mrs. S. V. R. Crosby, Mrs. Charles W. Taintor, Mrs. Neal Rantoul and daughter, Josephine and many others.

Last Friday evening President Taft gave a dinner at the White House in honor of the Mayor of Tokio, Japan. Mrs. Taft and her sister, Miss Herron, did the honors with the President, Miss Taft not having returned to Washington. Chrysanthemums, Japan's national flower, were used in profusion. The Marine Orchestra played during the dinner. The mayors of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Richmond, Va., were among the guests bidden. There were covers for some fifty-four guests.

George Lee Peabody has fully recovered from his illness and is expected in Newport this month with his fiancée, Miss Edith Deacon, for a visit with the latter's grandmother, Mrs. C. H. Baldwin.

George E. Cabot and family preceded Mrs. Chas. P. Hemenway to Boston on Monday of this week. Mrs. Hemenway closed her estate at Manchester on Wednesday.

Miss Elizabeth C. Wood of Cobb avenue, Manchester, entertained a party of Boston and Providence friends Tuesday of this week, with an auto picnic party along the North Shore drives.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis R. Allen brought their sojourn at "Old Corner House," Sea and Bridge streets, West Manchester, to a close Tuesday of this week and opened their residence on Fairfield street, Boston.

Miss Adele G. Thayer's household servants completed the closing of the "Uplands," her West Manchester estate, on Tuesday. Miss Thayer preceded them to Boston a few days before.

Miss Eleanora Sears is in New York and has been an interested spectator at the aviation meet at Belmont Park. She also made a flight with Grahame-White.

The William L. Putnams were among the Boston families, who opened their town houses, Boston, this week. Their summer residence on Smith's Point, Manchester, will be kept open for week-ends most of the fall and winter.

Edmund K. Arnold and family departed from the Tappan cottage, Sea street, Manchester, Monday. Their winter residence is in Gloucester street, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland of West Manchester are spending the week in New York. They will go to Europe later to spend most of the winter.

Our Weekly Letter From :: :: :: :: Washington

Washington, D. C., Oct. 27.—It's a sad era of misrepresentation and substitution. Even the lower animals are subject to it, for occasionally the Pure Food Board of the Department of Agriculture has to get after some conscienceless chap who puts out foodstuffs for horses, cattle and other domestic animals which are not what their labels claim for them. And now, the fishes in the sea have been made the subject of a cruel jest. Long enough they have been expected to bite at bits of red flannel, or artificial flies and shining bait, contrived in simulation of minnows. The latest crime practiced on them is the substitution of artificial roe in place of cod roe as bait in sardine fishing. Inasmuch as this was done by French fishing boats, Dr. Wiley can't step in to claim the cause of the sardines as his own, and so the outrage may be permitted to go on. But how chagrined the sardines must feel to learn that they have been greedily biting at stuff made from fish refuse, costing, in its prepared form but 2½ cents per pound, when their patrician tastes have been pampered heretofore on Norwegian cod roe at 7 to 10½ cents per pound.

Coal Consumption.

The Bureau of Manufactures recently compiled some statistics on the world's coal production, from which it appears that the United States consumes more than twice as much coal as any other country, and almost as much as the United Kingdom, Germany, France and Belgium. The United States also produces much more coal for each miner, and to prove it the Bureau of Manufactures cites British reports showing the production in the United States in 1908, by the 690,438 persons employed in mining, to have been 126,562,000 tons of coal more than was produced by the 966,264 persons similarly employed in the United Kingdom. The production per person employed in this country amounted, therefore, to 538 tons, while in the United Kingdom it amounted to 271 tons per person employed. The value per ton at the pit's mouth was $1.48 in this country to $1.98 in the United Kingdom. Whether the difference in production is accounted for in part by the employment of a large number of women and children in the British mines is not stated. The total annual consumption of coal in the different countries is stated to be 882,093,000 tons. This does not include lignite, the production of which is considerably over 110,000,000 tons annually.

The President's Homecoming.

It's no small task to make ready for the President's homecoming. All the work in the interior of the White House, the cleaning, refurnishing, and stocking up of pantries and larders the public sees nothing of, but it goes on just the same, and when the family reach Washington they find everything in apple-pie order. Outwardly, there are more indications that something impends. The spacious lawns are clipped and raked; the drives and paths are made even neater than usual; the gardeners and painters and other help put everything in the best possible condition. An always interesting operation for the tourists is the transfer to the grounds of the potted ornamental trees and plants which ornament the spaces above the east and west one-story wings.

These are transferred on trucks and are wheeled across temporary stagings to their resting places.

Washington is always glad when the President returns. It knows that this is a signal for a resumption of social and business activities. The boarding houses and hotels begin to fill their vacant rooms, the stores take on a greater activity, and the capital throbs with new life. Even though the President makes an occasional journey after reopening the White House, the season is now on, and activity takes the place of the summer stagnation.

Blueberry Culture

At last the advocates of blueberry pie are to have an inning. The Department of Agriculture, having given the culture of this fruit earnest study, has worked out a system of pit culture under which the blueberry attains a development beyond all previous expectations. Bulletin 193 of the Bureau of Plant Industry tells all about it. The blueberry does well in acid soils, found over wide areas in the eastern part of the United States.

SOCIETY NOTES

The engagement was announced Wednesday of Miss Gladys Durant Rice, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Rice of New York, to John L. Saltonstall of Beverly Cove. Miss Rice was introduced to society four years ago. She is an accomplished young woman, being proficient in languages and playing the violin. She has lived several years in Paris. Recently, with Miss Elizabeth Hoyt of New York, she studied landscape gardening and arboriculture under the direction of Prof. Sargent of Harvard.

The engagement is announced today by Mr. and Mrs. George Wigglesworth of Old Neck, Manchester, and Milton, of their second daughter, Miss Marion Wigglesworth to Dr. Lloyd T. Brown of Worcester.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

SUBSCRIBERS leaving the shore for their city homes should notify this office of their "change of address" promptly, sending their present as well as new address.

Mrs. Susan Wood and daughter have concluded their stay at the cottage belonging to Ralph H. Barbour of Manchester, on Mt. Pleasant avenue and have returned to their home in Philadelphia.

Samuel S. Gray and family are remaining at their estate "Heartbreak Hill," Ipswich, until Christmas week.

The plot of land in front of the First Congregational church. Milford, has been purchased by Mrs. Susan Preston Draper, widow of the late Gen. Wm. F. Draper for $10,000 and she will erect on the lot an equestrian statue of her late husband at an expense of some $50,000. She will then present the land and statue to the town of Milford for a park. Mrs. Draper and Miss Draper concluded their season's stay at the Bradbury cottage, Manchester, on Tuesday.

East Gloucester

Asst. U. S. Treasurer A. P. Andrew was due at his summer home Wednesday of this week to remain until next Tuesday. Mr. Andrew has been and will do much entertaining during his brief stay on the shore.

Late October finds many sojourners here in summer homes and at those hotels, which still remain open. "The Ramparts," the former Rouse mansion at Eastern Point, is still open and Mrs. Raymond has been entertaining some of the younger members of the J. Murray Kay family since the closing of their summer home.

The Siamese legation will bring their long stay on the shore to a close next week.

E. C. Rathbone of New York, who purchased the Nathaniel Gorton property at Eastern Point, is remaining there with his family until December. Improvements have been made inside the house and roads are being laid out on the property, which was enlarged by the purchase of several lots of land adjoining.

Henry Davis Sleeper and his mother of Boston are still loyal to the autumn charms of the North Shore and will remain very late at Eastern Point.

Walter L. Dean, the noted marine painter, and family, are still at their summer home.

A. Wilder Pollard and family of Brookline are still at their Eastern Point summer home.

And their talented company will appear at the Town hall, Manchester, next Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Pilgrim Fathers. The local theatre-goers will remember the Harris Co. that played here in August, and was voted the best company that ever played in Manchester. The Pilgrim Fathers have gone to a great expense to have this company back here, as Mr Harris only plays the larger towns through New England and New York state. The play to be given is the "Blockhead", one of the best comedies that the Harris-Melvin Co. has ever played. Those that saw the play before are anxious to see it again. The company introduces choruses and specialties. Geo. Fisher that made such a hit will introduce some new songs. As a guarantee that the show is first-class, it plays the next night in Gloucester where this company has always been considered one of the best companies that has ever played that city. The Pilgrim Fathers ought to be congratulated on being able to secure such a talented organization as the Chas. K. Harris Co. Don't forget the date!

Article from the Department of Agriculture.

Washington, October 24.—Examinations opened this morning in fourteen far Western States, and in Florida, Michigan, Minnesota, and Alaska, to fill vacant positions as assistant Forest rangers on the National Forests. The examinations are held at National Forest headquarters in all States in which National Forests are located, except in Arkansas and Oklahoma, and will last two days.

The positions pay, at entrance, a salary of $1,100 per annum. Men who enter the National Forest work as assistant rangers are eligible for promotion to positions as rangers, and later to the position as Forest supervisor, if they are good enough. The latter position pays a salary of from $1,600 up, and calls both for all-round executive ability and for a certain amount of practical knowledge of forestry. Rangers work under the Forest supervisors, often with a particular district in their charge, protecting the forests against fire and trespass, handling much of the minor business with forest users, estimating and scaling timber and enforcing regulations under which purchasers of timber are allowed to cut on the National Forests, building trails, supervising the work of Forest guards, and on occasion leading forces of temporary employees against forest fires too large to be handled by the regular National Forest force.

The Forest ranger must therefore first of all be an experienced and vigorous woodsman. In the words of the little pamphlet which the Department of Agriculture sends to persons making inquiry, "Invalids seeking light outdoor employment need not apply." He must be sound-bodied, inured to hard-ships, able to ride, pack, and take care of himself and his horses in the woods and mountains, familiar with the region and local conditions where he seeks employment, and a resident of the State in which he will be appointed. Although the requirements are largely physical and practical, they include both a sufficient general education to qualify the ranger to transact National Forest business intelligently, and knowledge of land surveying, mining laws and customs, and the handling of range livestock. In the Southwest some knowledge of Spanish is often necessary.

the examination is largely a test of practical capacity to do things. The candidate must give a demonstration of his horsemanship, ability to pack, knowledge of the use of the compass, and similar matters. Other parts of the test are written examinations. Because of the desirability of securing, in the new rangers, recruits who will prove capable of rising to the higher responsibilities laid upon Forest supervisors, the tests of educational qualifications have been strengthened. Thus the Government is obtaining picked men for the rank and file of its little army of employees who administer and promote the proper use of its nearly two hundred million acres of National Forests.

Notice to Voters. REGISTRATION

Office of the Board of Registrars of Voters, Manchester, Mass., Oct. 10, 1910.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session at the office of the Board of Selectmen on THURSDAY, OCT. 20,

From 7 till 8 p. m.

also on

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 26,

From 7 till 8 p. m.

also on

SATURDAY, OCT. 29,

From 12 m. to 10 p. m., for the purpose of receiving evidence of the qualification or persons claiming a right to vote at the election to be held on

Tuesday, Nov. 8th

1910, and of correcting the list of voters.

See that your name is on the Voting List of your town; if not there call at the office of the Board of Registrars on the days above mentioned, and be registered, or you cannot vote. Bring with you a certificate from the assessors or a tax bill or notice from the collector of taxes, showing that you have been assessed a poll tax as a resident of the town of Manchester.

All persons whose names are stricken from the voters' lists for any lawful reason, will, before they can again have their names placed upon said lists, be required to register their names at the time hereinbefore stated in like manner as new voters.

Naturalized citizens presenting themselves for registration must bring their naturalization papers with them.

If a qualified voter of this town whose name was on the voters' list last year, and who has been assessed for the current year, finds, after the close of registration, that his name is not placed on the voters' list of the current year by reason of having been omitted by clerical error or mistake, he may upon personal application, have his name placed upon the voting list, or, if application be made on the day of election, he may have a certificate to vote.

No name can be added to the voters' list (except to correct omissions made by clerical error or mistake) after ten (10) o'clock of the evening of Saturday, Oct. 29, 1910 at which time registration closes.

By order of the Board of Registrars of voters.

B. F. Keith's Theatre

There will be another vaudeville debut at B. F. Keith's theatre next week, Charlotte Hunt, the stock actress, one of the great popular favorites of Boston, making her first appearance in a new comedy entitled "Love Under Difficulties." On the same bill will be another big Lasky production, called "On The House Top." The scene of this musical comedy is on the roof of a large apartment house in New York, and is one of the handsomest stage settings ever seen in vaudeville. The company is a large one, including a number of pretty girls and the principal comedian, Knute Erickson, was formerly the star of "At The Waldorf." Another splendid feature will be Pat Rooney and Mar-

RETURNING MISSIONARY AT MANCHESTER.

Rev. F. C. Briggs, Home from Japan, Tells Former Church Friends of his Work.

Last Sunday morning at the First Baptist church, Manchester, Rev. Frank C. Briggs, a former pastor of the church, but now a missionary in

REV. F. C. BRIGGS

Missionary in Japan, now in Manchester visiting friends.

Japan, spoke on "The Work in Japan." There was a large congregation present to welcome back to America and especially Manchester, one they all loved so well. Mr. Briggs first spoke of the pleasure it gave him to be in the church once more, and speaking to the same people. He said in part:

"As we came on from Japan it was hard to leave, because both Mrs. Briggs and I knew we were needed there, but we needed the change and now that I am here in this church it seems indeed that the home-field in mine. My message to you this morning is about the "Work." Since reaching America, we have been going from place to place, and sometimes speaking three or four times on Sunday. Ruskin says "To see a thing clearly, and take it plainly is doing a great work." Since leavion Bont, in their dancing comedy called "At The News Stand," and other features will be the Avon Comedy Four; Dolly Connolly and Percy Wenrich, the latter the author of "Old Gray Bonnet" and other hits; Williams and Segal, in dances; and the Cycling Brunettes.

ing here I have seen things clearly. Since 1902 I have been in Japan; during that time I have been north and south, lived in the city and in the country, in hotels and among the people, walked and talked and eaten with the people, and I want to say that the newspaper reports in regard to Japan desiring war with American are absolutely false. Everywhere I went and told them I was an American, I was treated with great respect.

"About the influences at work in Japan or transformation in Japan! Any man going to Japan will see what he is fitted to see. A military man will remark about the up-to-date army and navy; a commercial man about the large factories they have and the great change in industry. All these things are changes, but what does the missionary see? For we are all missionaries: It is all one work,—bringing the kingdom of God on this earth. How about the men of Japan? All these changes must have some influence on the characters of the citizens. It does. The old time politeness of the merchant, is now done away with. He is now a man of the world.

"I would speak of the power of education. Never in the world has a nation had such free chance to show what education will do, as Japan. Forty years ago, they sent the smartest and brightest of their young men to the various nations to study the stages of education and bring it home. The buildings while not elaborate are well fitted to the purpose, they are all over the Empire. The children are brought from the primary school to the college so that education will make good citizens of them.

"There is in Japan as in many eastern countries a strange readiness to commit suicide. The list of these suicides on being closely examined, is found to consist of the brightest students. A few months ago, attention was called to the immoral conditions of the schools, and now the Educational department itself is no longer insisting that education alone is all that is necessary to mold the character of a citizen.

When I first had a bible class in a normal school, I received word that it was not wanted. A little over a year ago I received a letter asking me to come back. This shows that they are now realizing that education with God's teachings will make their citizens what they desire they should be. Now there is something which has an influence,—the elevating influence of the beautiful. Give a pure white lily in the slums, the people admire it, and try to be more like it. Japan of all nations on earth has been favored by God. Its rivers, mountains and climate, all combine to make it 'The World's Garden.' The people who live there, love and appreciate their beautiful country. They get out and enjoy the beautiful new fallen snow. In February they adore the plum blossoms. And everybody knows how the Japanese love their cherry blossoms. God's gifts are enjoyed by its people.

"Now for some of the real conditions in Japan today. There are thousands of our bright girls and women living a life of shame, and the sad and cruel part is they do not know they are doing it. So that shows the failure of the beautiful to elevate their characters. In Japan, but more so in China, the study of Classics receives a lot of attention. They study the doctrine of Confucius (1) Relation of King and subject, (2) Relation of father and child, (3) Relation of husband and wife, (4) Relation of older and younger brother, (5) Relation of friend to friend.

As we were coming here we passed through China. There is a great famine there now, and the poor starving people flock to the wealthy city, only to be driven back by policemen with clubs to die. This in China where for years they have studied man's relation to man. What does it mean but failure. There is a power however, a simple story which told to them gets their hearts and changes them. It is the old story, that God who made all things is their father and that he loves them."

Mr. Briggs then recited a number of incidents where people had accepted Christ and of the joy they found in telling others the story.

At the evening service Mr. Briggs spoke again on Japan, giving a very interesting talk on the possibilities of the field and also telling of the obstacles to overcome in order to introduce religion. The discourse was most closely followed by an exceptionally large congregation.

On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Briggs gave their last talk to Manchester friends. This was a beautiful service and owing to the very large crowd had to be held in the auditorium instead of in the vestry. Mrs. Briggs spoke during the first of the evening. Her talk was impressive and very helpful to those who heard her. Mr. Briggs also gave an address. Mr. and Mrs. Briggs left Manchester Wednesday. While here they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sawyer of Vine street.

Democratic Candidate for Congress Sends Letter of Acceptance.

William H. O'Brien, whom the democrats of this district have nominated as candidate for congress, has sent the following letter of acceptance to Marcus C. Pettingill, chairman of the congressional convention, which nominated him:

"Dear Sir: While not at present a voting resident of the Sixth Congressional District, your convention has seen fit to summon me to assist in the work which the party of the people has mapped out in state and nation; to demonstrate that, notwithstanding the sinister influence of corporate greed in national and state legislatures, we are to remain a government of the people.

"The great honor which your convention pays me seems out of proportion to any acts of mine during my legislative career. I have simply tried to do that which I believed the great majority of the voters would have me do. As a native of Essex County, I feel that no greater honor could come to me; and as your candidate for membership in the next Congress in opposition to the distinguished gentleman who now enjoys that distinction and who is nightly boasting of his votes in favor of the special interests that have the great consuming class at their mercy, I shall endeavor by every fair means to convince the voters of the district that the success politically or otherwise, of any individual or set of individuals, is not essential to the welfare of all the people of the district, or of the state itself.

"The great mass of the people are crying for relief from the unjust burdens which special legislation by the National Congress has placed upon them and there are many who fear for the nation's future unless a halt is called in this direction. This crisis can be avoided through the passage of remedial and progressive legislation, but this can never be hoped for from the legislative friends of the present monopolistic propaganda, and I firmly believe that Massachusetts will swell the list of Congressmen who can be depended upon to work and vote for such legislation. I shall not duplicate at this time the cold storage promises and pledges that usually go with such communications, and which are so quickly forgotten, but shall simply say to the voters of the district, through you and your associates, that if honored by them with an election to the next Congress (and I confidentially expect such a result), I shall be the representative of all the people, not contenting myself with a discussion of the efforts of some of the 'specialists' in financial and industrial legislation, (the 'good thing' trust) but shall urge my own ideas and those of my constituents in the shape of legislation for the benefit of all classes. The question is not 'can we win?' but rather, 'ought we to win?' and with our splendid platform of progressive principles there can be but one answer, which will say to the political proprietors of Essex County and of Massachusetts, 'You can't fool all the people all the time.'"

Yours very truly,
William H. O'Brien."

Gillette as "Sherlock Holmes" at the Hollis next week

Mr. William Gillette, under the direction of Mr. Charles Frohman, begins at the Hollis street Theatre, Boston, next Monday evening 31st instant, an engagement of signal importance to this community. The distinguished playwright-actor is announced for farewell appearances in a round of his famous successes, and the list is to embrace such stage triumphs as "Sherlock Holmes", "Secret Service", "Held by the Enemy", "Clarice", "Too much Johnson", and "The Private Secretary."

The opening play of the engagement is to be Mr. Gillette's masterly impersonation of "Sherlock Holmes" the characterization by which he has of late years become best known to theatre-goers the world over. Mr. Frohman is to present his star in the drama for the entire first week of the engagement with a matinee on Saturday only.

There was a beautiful collection of single chrysanthemums at the semi-monthly meeting of the North Shore Horticultural society last Friday night, all from the greenhouses of Mrs. Lester Leland, West Manchester, Eric Wetterlow, gardener. The particular thing to attract the gardeners present was the magnificent Mizpah, which was fully five feet in diameter and had 1000 or more blossoms on it. It was an unusual specimen, pink in color and grown this year. There were several pots of white single chrysanthemums, grown this year from seedlings. One of the specimens was a pure white, said to be the only pure white chrys. in existence. At the next meeting of the society, Friday evening, Nov. 4, the officers for the coming year will be elected and there will be an exhibition of chrysanthemums.

The W. R. C. will have a Harvest supper in the near future,—about November 10. Ladies of the W. R. C. are requested to have this in mind, and with their usual liberality contribute squash and pumpkin pies, puddings, etc., and make this a grand success.—Mary M. Lane, chairman committee.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phippen of North Beverly have given up their home there and moved to Manchester this week, taking up their residence with Mrs. Olive Morgan on Pleasant st. Mrs. Phippen is a daughter of Mrs. Morgan and the change is made so that she may be near her mother who is not in the best of health.

William Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers, held a most enjoyable meeting at their rooms Monday night, the occasion being the installation of officers for the ensuing year. The officers were installed by the Salem staff, the work being exceptionally good and impressive. A large number from the Beverly Farms colony was also in attendance. The visitors were made most welcome by the local colony. The banquet hall was opened and a splendid New England supper served. The Pilgrims from Beverly Farms and Salem made the trip to Manchester in barges. On Wednesday night a number of the local Pilgrims attended the meeting at Salem.

The old stone roller which the town sold last spring at auction to M. E. Gorman for $105 has been sold by Mr. Gorman to Mr. Brophy of Gloucester, who in turn has sold it to the Lowney chocolate people of Mansfield, and it was shipped away Wednesday. The matter of loading it upon the flat car at the freight yard was no easy task, but it was done under the skilful engineering of Ernest Dechene, who runs the town steam roller. The machine was run up onto the flat car under its own power.

Mrs. Israel Harvie.

Early Wednesday evening Isabella Sinclair Harvie, widow of the late Israel Harvie, passed away at her home on Lincoln street after a lingering illness at the age of 78 years.

Mrs. Harvie was a native of Edinburgh, Scotland, but has spent the greater part of her life in this country, coming to Manchester a number of years ago and making their home in the attractive cottage they had built on Lincoln street. Since Mr. Harvie's death a short time ago Mrs. Harvie has been in failing health. Her niece, Mrs. Isabella MacGeorge of Ashmont has been with her the last few months and was with her at the time of her death.

Mrs. Harvie was of a quiet and retiring nature. She had many friends by whom she will be greatly missed. Her nearest relative is Mrs. Isabella MacGeorge of Ashmont.

Funeral services were held this Friday afternoon from her late home on Lincoln st., the Rev. L. H. Ruge of the Congregational church offici-

Makes Water and Oil Mix.

Carbonol, a coal tar product, gives water the power to dissolve grease. Every housekeeper knows that the most difficult part of any kind of cleaning is the removal of grease. Water will dissolve dirt of any kind, but as it refuses to mix with oil or grease, there is no remedy except to scour and remove the grease by friction, a laborious and not very thorough method.

Carbonol is a liquid that mixes with water and with grease. A spoonful of it in a bucket of water is sufficient to enable the water to dissolve any grease with which it comes in contact. When the kitchen dishes are washed, for instance, the housekeeper throws in a dash of carbonol into the washing pan, and the grease can be washed away with the dirt easily and immediately.

Sponging carpets and furniture with a carbonol solution is wonderfully effective in removing the dinginess. The carbonol seems to get at a layer which ordinary cleaning does not touch. The fine film which is deposited by smoke, cooking vapors, etc., gathers and retains dust and no amount of brushing will make it let go. Carbonol, however, by dissolving this greasy film, releases both grease and dirt and the original newness and freshness of carpets, rugs, hangings, upholstery and garments will be restored.

A little carbonol in the kitchen sink greatly simplifies the work of keeping it clean, and as it runs down through the pipes, the carbonol cleanses them also and prevents clogging by waste grease.

The garbage can, which is almost impossible to clean in ordinary ways can be rinsed with a carbonol solution and made clean and sweet.

Carbonol is also a powerful germicide and insecticide. It will disinfect a sick-room and all utensils used in the treatment of contagious diseases. A few drops in crannies or cracks of the floors and walls will drive away vermin better than insect powder.

Simply as a precaution against disease, use carbonol in the water when housecleaning. It will make the house much more sanitary and safe to live in.

A generous sample of this remarkable preparation mailed free on request. Address the Barrett Mfg. Co., 297 Franklin street, Boston, Mass.

It has been suggested and it seems to be a good plan, that a public meeting be called at the Farms for a discussion by the voters upon the question which will come to them at the election on November 8 to decide "Shall the new charter for the city of Beverly be accepted?" As yet we venture to say that not many of the voters in Ward 6 know how they stand on this question, which is an important one. If such a meeting should be held it would certainly be one of education and well attended.

A kitchen shower was given in Marshall's hall last Saturday evening by members of the Gymnasium classes to their instructor, Miss May D. Connolly, whose marriage to George R. Dean will take place on November 3. About every conceivable article that will be needed to furnish the culinary department was among the collection and attached to each piece was a "classy" piece of poetry. The advice—"Let George do it", was noticeable on all articles to which it is an open question as to what is a man's work about the house. The coal hod, dish pan, wash board, tub and others bore that particular inscription. Refreshments were served and with music the party had a jolly good time. Miss Connolly was surprised by the gathering but proved herself to be the lady of the hour by feelingly expressing her sincere thanks.

A watch is the most delicate piece of machinery on earth. Nothing else can compare with it when the smallness of its component parts and the delicate adjustment of those parts are considered. If any of the vital parts of a watch are a fraction of a hairs' breadth out of adjustment it will greatly affect the running of the watch or stop it altogether.

You can see how important it is to have your watch repaired by a man who is competent to make such delicate adjustments. A careless or ignorant workman can do more injury to your watch while attempting to repair it than you would probably do in carrying it for a lifetime.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The engagement of Miss Gladys Durant Rice, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Rice of New York and John L. Saltonstall of Boston and Beverly Cove is interesting numerous society folk on the North Shore since Mr. Saltonstall has been considered such a desirable person from the standpoint of wealth, family and social affiliations. He is a Harvard man, class of 1900 and in clubdom is a member of the Tennis, Racquet, Myopia, Automobile, Exchange, Eastern Yacht and others. He is a brother of Mrs. Neil Rantoul of Beverly Farms and of Mrs. Charles Auchincloss (Rosamond Saltonstall) of New York. Miss Rice was introduced to society four months ago, and is said to be very attractive and accomplished, with a marked musical gift for violin playing. She has lived several years in Paris. Mr. Saltonstall is a member of the Beverly City Council and Republican candidate for representative from Beverly. He served as an attache of the American embassy at London, under Ambassador Joseph A. Choate.

Another recent engagement of Quaker City young people of much North Shore interest is that of Miss Sophie Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Pendleton Hutchinson, and Henry S. Drinker, Jr., son of the President of Lehigh University and a brother of Cecil Kent Drinker, who married Miss Katherine Rotan of Waco, Texas, at Bass Rocks, September 7. Miss Hutchinson's fiance served as his brother's best man at the above mentioned wedding. Both young men are nephews of Miss Cecilia Beaux, the famous portrait painter of Philadelphia and East Gloucester.

Mrs. S. Fisher Corlies and Miss Margaret Corlies of Philadelphia and Magnolia, who have been traveling in Europe during the past year, have decided to remain abroad for the winter. They will make a long stay at Biarritz, going later to Spain and then to Egypt.

—x—

Last Friday's Symphony concert brought out a large North Shore representation:—Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean, Mrs. F. L. Higginson, Miss Juliet Higginson, Eben D. Jordan, Mrs. Neal Rantoul and others. Concert Master Witek made his American debut and aroused much enthusiasm.

—x—

The S. V. R. Crosbys were arranging to leave their West Manchester estate Tuesday, November 1. Mrs. Crosby and children will probably carry out their annual custom of spending a day each week-end during the winter at this favored estate of the family.

SOCIETY NOTES

There will be much transatlantic interest in the coming New York horse show, which opens Saturday Nov. 12, and continues through the 19th, there being several foreign entries among them Col. Lord Decies, D. S. O., commanding officer of the Seventh Hussars, who is bringing from England a team of cavalry, officers and several picked horses to take part in the military contests which are to have exciting features with French, Dutch, Canadian and U. S. cavalymen participating. Other English horsemen who are coming over are Walter Winans and William Foster. Winans has had splendid struggles at the Olympia, London, against the fine horses of Judge W. H. Moore. He shipped 16 of his best harness horses, jumpers and trotters on the Minnehaha. Another exhibitor will be John Kerr, who sold Flourish to Judge Moore. Alfred Vanderbilt is president of the Horse Show committee. The cash prizes will amount to $40,000. The Galt Kilties, a famous semi-military Canadian band, has been engaged to furnish music.

—x—

President Taft is enjoying golf during his spare moments at the Chevy Chase Club, Washington, the links of which have been entirely made over since last spring, giving a new interest in the course for the President.

—x—

Mrs. C. A. Munn, Jr., returned to Manchester this week from New York, where she was a very interested attendant at the aviation meet at Belmont Park, as Armstrong Drexel of Philadelphia and London, the society aviator, contesting in the exhibition, is a cousin of Mrs. Munn. Mrs. Munn is remaining on the Shore a few weeks longer before settling in Boston for the winter. Mr. Munn is at Harvard completing his course of study for the senior year.

—x—

Miss Helen Taft returned to the White House Wednesday of last week after visits with school girl friends in and about New York, while en route from Beverly.

—x—

Charles B. Taylor and household transferred their interests from Manchester to Boston on Thursday, closing "The Craigs," their Smith's Point summer home for the season.

—x—

Miss Matilda Clark of Chicago has closed her summer home on Lothrop street, Beverly, for the season and returned to her winter residence on North State street.

D. L. Bingham---Manchester's Grand Old Man.

Manchester, Mass., has been noted for many years for producing men of exceptional calibre, men who have gone out into the world and done things, and she also has the reputation of having more men of greater longevity than any other town in proportion to its population in the United States. Anyway, there are none to gainsay that she has today the oldest active librarian in America in her respected and revered citizen, Dulucena L. Bingham, who, if he lives until the 11th of November will be 96 years of age.

Although nearing the century mark, Mr. Bingham seems many years younger, and though he has failed considerably during the past two years, he is still able to walk down to the library from his home and back each pleasant day, a distance of half a mile, which he does without much fatigue, and when a reporter called recently he found the venerable librarian busily employed in clearing up his garden and making things snug for the winter.

Mr. Bingham was ready to talk and paused in his labors long enough to indulge in some personal reminiscences of anti-slavery days when he and a handful of other men whose names have since become world famous, took up the fight for the abolition of slavery fearlessly, facing odds which we in this enlightened day and generation can scarcely comprehend.

Mr. Bingham's earliest library work was with the old Manchester lyceum, and it was under their auspices that many very prominent men were brought to Manchester in the anti-slavery days and red-hot meetings were of frequent occurrence. The venerable librarian still has very vivid recollections of such men as William Lloyd Garrison, Daniel Webster, Wendell Phillips and a host of others, and he throws some very interesting side lights on the lives and characters of those men.

"I remember Mr. Garrison well," said Mr. Bingham. "He came to Manchester to lecture before the lyceum at my invitation, and he was my guest at my house during his stay here. The impression among the people seemed to be that Mr. Garrison was of a crusty and generally disagreeable disposition, but nothing could be further from the truth. I found him a most agreeable companion, and a brilliant conversationalist and his conversation was not confined to the abolition question either. He had a tremendous fund of general knowledge and was ready with wit and anecdote.

"He believed it was wrong to vote under the constitution of the United States because, before one could vote, it was necessary to swear to uphold the constitution of the United States, and this he could not do while it sanctioned slavery.

"Garrison was a printer by trade, having learned his trade in the office of the Newburyport Herald, I think. It was his custom to go to the case and set up an article or editorial right out of his head without stopping to write anything.

"It may be a fact not generally known that it was Garrison who discovered Whittier. When the great leader was running a paper in Newburyport a poem was sent in one day by young Whittier, whom no one had scarcely heard of at that time. The poem was entitled, 'The Exile,' and was published, and Mr. Garrison was quick to see in it the marks of genius and he took it upon himself to see the elder Whittier shortly after and pleaded with him to give his son a liberal education. The old gentleman did not take kindly to the proposal at first, saying that mighty few boys benefited by their education after they got it. He finally gave in to the arguments of Garrison, and the young man, who was to become one of the world's most famous poets, was sent to college and came out with high honors. He always felt a deep gratitude to Mr. Garrison for what he had done for him, and never forgot it as long as he lived.

"Another man whom I have a very distinct recollection of is Wendell Phillips. He was called the most finished public speaker for lyceum work in the United States, but Webster was easily his superior for large out-of-door gatherings. Webster was disappointing as an indoor speaker. It took a cyclone to arouse him, but when he was fully aroused to his subject, he was certainly a grand orator, having a very powerful voice. Indoors his audiences would sometimes go to sleep, but in the open air, as at the dedication of Bunker Hill monument, he was certainly grand.

"Douglass, who was active in the anti-slavery movement, was half white. He was a man of great natural talent. He was a slave and ran away from his master, but he afterward returned, before the war, and it is said they had a very pleasant reunion. He was a large man, of good voice and an able speaker. He spoke in Manchester at one of our anti-slavery meetings.

"Charles Raymond was another man of his stamp. He was a well-educated negro, but he never got over the sensitiveness common to the colored race. He was often grossly insulted, yet when he was in England he was thought everything of, even by the nobility, and on one of his lecture tours he was accompanied to Scotland by My Lady Southerland. Yet after all this homage to the man, when he started to cross the Atlantic for home the steamship company would not allow him in the cabin and he was compelled to stay on deck throughout the voyage and nearly froze to death. This naturally cut him deeply after the treatment accorded him abroad and he came home smarting under the wrongs his race was suffering.

"Stephen S. Foster was a converted preacher who drifted into the profession through his evangelical work and fame as a speaker. He was a very logical man and had a power of sarcasm that was unrivaled when he chose to use it. During one of his lectures in Manchester, he used the phrase, 'A slave holder is a man thief.' One of Manchester's prominent citizens who was in the audience had a brother in the south who had just bought a slave and the remark nettled him not a little, and he shouted, 'Who calls my brother a man thief?' Mr. Foster paused in his remarks and very deliberately facing his excited hearer, asked, 'How many slaves has the gentleman seen?' The man answered he had seen a few in a certain place. 'Well,' persisted his interrogator, 'how many have you seen altogether?

O Friend of mine, the friend of men and books,
Time's shadow rests serenely in thy looks.
The volume of thy life doth yet abide,
Numbered and catalogued and classified;
A tome where every page doth illustrate
A life to duty fully consecrate;
A book from title-page to colophon
Bright with the story of success well won;
Not shelved as yet but bound to circulate
Among its fellows at no laggard rate.
Not yet shall we write Finis at the end,
Nor Heaven's library forestall our Friend.

Time! that so many things adorns or queers,
Deal gently with his long and lingering years,
And may the sun-set glory of his age—
The solomn twilight—bless life's later stage—
Our Grand Old Man, loved citizen and sage!

J. A. T.

er?' 'I suppose I have seen 7000,' was the answer. 'The gentleman says he has seen 7000 slaves,' calmly continued Mr. Foster, 'but, my friends, there are over 3,000,000 in this country.' It was a home thrust, and the speaker was not again interrupted that evening.

'I once attended a meeting in Faneuil hall when some very good points were brought out, showing the inhumanity of the slave traffic, notwithstanding the many arguments to show that the slaves if well treated were better off in bondage than if free. It was brought to our attention that a convention had recently actually been held in the south of slave owners to consider whether or not it was more profitable to treat their slaves with consideration and get 20 years work out of them, or to drive them to the limit and get about seven years work out of them.

'Pillsbury was another lecturer at that time. He was a revivalist preacher, too, and was well educated, being a graduate of Andover, and he had a wonderful stock of sarcasm.

'The old lyceum did a good work and the library passed into the hands of the town in 1872. It had but a few hundred volumes then and I have seen it grow until it now has 20,000 volumes and some of them are very valuable works. I commenced my work as librarian in '44, although I was affiliated with it long before that.

'Yes, indeed, I have seen many changes in the character of reading in the long span of years I have been dealing with books. Horace Mann, the father of our public school educational system, went to Germany in the 30s to study the libraries and school work abroad, and when he returned our libraries received quite an impetus. My experience has been that the percentage of people who were reading fiction in the 30s and 40s was very much less in proportion than now. People then liked to read travel, biography, history and essays, but now the demand is for light reading.

'In the old days there were but few newspapers and people would stop on the street and discuss the questions of the day.'

It was through Mr. Bingham's instrumentality that Manchester received its princely gift of a beautiful library building, its donor being Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge. Its ivy clad walls give it the appearance of a bit of architecture dropped down from some medieval age. There the venerable librarian delights to linger daily and pour over his beloved books that have proved his choicest treasures and life-long friends.

SOCIETY NOTES

Departures from Manchester and West Manchester summer homes this week included Mrs. L. W. Rogers and George Putnam and family of Smith's Point, who returned to Boston. Charles E. Hubbard and family left the Spaulding cottage on Bridge street, West Manchester in the early part of the week.

Miss Faith Simpkins was hostess for a Hallowe'en party at Beverly Farms on Monday evening, when some 25 young people very pleasantly entertained in keeping with the advent of Hallowe'en.

There has been quite an exodus from Pride's this week. Judge and Mrs. W. H. Moore left Sunday for New York and their household servants followed Monday. Monday also was the day of departure of Mrs. E. Preble Motley, Mrs. R. S. Bradley, Washington B. Thomas and family, all of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. S. Spaulding closed their estate Tuesday and are on a visit with Mrs. Spaulding's relatives in Kenilworth, Ill. Their household servants went to Boston. Tuesday saw the Gordon Dexters en route for their Boston home and Wednesday Mrs. Clay Arthur Pierce and children left. They planned to stop over in New York to visit Mrs. Pierce's sister-in-law, Mrs. Eben Richards (nee Pearl Pierce) before going to St. Louis.

Col. Charles Lawrence Pierson was numbered among those returning to Boston on Tuesday. He has made a long stay at his Pride's estate this season.

Francis Bartlett, Esq., opened his winter residence on Beacon street, Boston, Thursday.

Mrs. Daniel Ahl and Leonard D. Ahl are remaining at Pride's until January 1, when they will go to Palm Beach, where they have secured a cottage.

Mrs. G. Howland Shaw and Dr. and Mrs. J. Collins Warren, who made one household at Pride's Crossing the past season, removed to Boston last Saturday, going to their respective homes on Commonwealth avenue and Beacon street.

A post season event of social interest late last week at Beverly Farms was the reception Mrs. Wm. G. Means gave in honor of her sister, Miss Gladys Durant Rice, fiancée of John L. Saltonstall.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Paine have closed their Beverly estate, "Brookside," and have located at their winter home on Waterhouse street, Cambridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Richards Johnstone, who have spent the past summer and early autumn at Long Beach, Pasadena, California, and at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin, were due at their Hamilton estate, "Bracken-side," Thursday.

Charles Bohlen and family of Philadelphia are planning to remain at their Hamilton estate, "Black Brook Farm," until Thanksgiving.

Rodolphe L. Agassiz of Hamilton is on a business trip to Calumet, Mich.

Miss Julia Frothingham of Boston has been the guest of Mrs. John C. Phillips at Wenham. Dr. and Mrs. Phillips planned to leave Wenham this week.

Mrs. J. M. Haskell has closed her Wenham cottage and returned to her winter residence on Beacon street, Boston.

Prescott Bigelow and family closed "Fox Hill Lodge," their Manchester Cove summer home, Thursday. They will be at 16 Marlboro street, Boston, instead of Richmond Court, Brookline, this winter.

Col. Sydney M. Hedges of Boston and East Gloucester was a member of the committee presented at Marlborough House, London, by the Earl of Denbigh to invite King George to accept honorary membership in the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts. He accepted the election and praised the organization.

Charles P. Dukelow and family have concluded their stay at Manchester and opened their winter residence on Orkney road, Brookline.

Major and Mrs. Henry L. Higginson brought their stay at West Manchester to a close on Monday.

SOCIETY NOTES

•Mrs. E. H. Harriman, who visited the North Shore in her steam yacht Sultana the past season, also her son and daughter, who were entertained by Mrs. L. C. Hanna at Beverly Farms, formally gave last Saturday to the Palisades Park Commission of New York a deed of 10,000 acres of land in Rockland county for state park purposes. In addition she will give $1,000,000 to improve the park.

Francis W. Fabyan and family are bringing their stay at West Manchester to a close this week. They are members of the Commonwealth avenue community, of Boston.

Bishop Lawrence dedicated the new Parish House of St. John's Church, Gloucester, last Thursday evening. Members of the summer colony who are vestry men of the church are Charles W. Scott, Jr., of Overbrook, Pa., and Arthur W. Parker of Detroit, both summer residents of Bass Rocks. Mrs. Lida Bacon of Cincinnati and East Gloucester served on the decoration committee for the dedication.

Col. and Mrs. Henry May and household departed from Manchester Monday afternoon for their home in Washington.

Richard J. Monks and family are concluding their stay this week in Manchester Cove, where Miss Grace Monks has done much entertaining this season. They will enlarge the Boston contingent of Marlboro street now settled in winter homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Eben D. Jordan have been renewing acquaintances on the "Shore" since their return from Europe a few weeks ago.

SOCIETY NOTES

day morning at his summer home on Lord's Hill in Wenham, after a short illness from pneumonia, was a prominent North Shore summer resident from Boston, who formerly summered at West Manchester, at what is now the Eben D. Jordan estate. Mr. Burnham was one of Boston's leading capitalists and a notable figure in Boston's financial and club circles. The North Shore clubs of which he was a member, were the Myopia Hunt, Eastern Yacht and Essex County. In Boston he was affiliated with the Somerset and St. Botolph clubs. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Clark of Philadelphia, also a son, John Appleton Burnham, Jr., Harvard, '99, and by two daughters, Misses Helen and May Burnham. William A. Burnham of Boston and Pride's is a brother, also Henry D. Burnham of Beacon street, Boston.

J. Newton Gunn and family returned to New York last Friday. They occupied "Grey Gables" at Beverly Farms.

D. Herbert Hostetter and family concluded their stay in Beverly last Saturday and returned to their Pittsburg home.

John Appleton Burnham, who passed away very suddenly Wednes-

Today at Tremont Temple, Boston, Miss Ellen Terry, the famous English actress, who played leading roles with the late Sir Henry Irving, will be tendered a reception by a distinguished committee of Bostonians, who will also present her with an autograph memorial volume. Among those whose names appear on the committee are many North Shore summer residents:—Mrs. James T. Fields, Judge and Mrs. Robert Grant, Hon. Curtis Guild, Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge, Mrs. John L. Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Foote and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Longfellow closed their cottage, "Edgecliffe," on Coolidge Point, Manchester, Tuesday of this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Percy Musgrave, who have been occupying "Oak Grove" cottage at Magnolia, concluded their stay there Tuesday and returned to Boston.

Mrs. A. S. Covell, who has been among the late sojourners at Magnolia, at her Lexington avenue cottage, departed for Boston Tuesday, where her Commonwealth avenue residence was opened for the winter.

Miss Janet House of the Magnolia colony is at Hot Springs, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Prince of Wenham Neck are to spend the winter in Pau, France, as usual. They sailed last week on the Kronprinz Wilhelm.

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson have returned from their tour around the world. They will remain at Brookline until New Year's.

Mrs. S. F. Henderson, who was the summer tenant of Rev. Roland Cotton Smith's cottage at Ipswich this season, is now in New York, where she went to meet her sister en route from abroad. They will remain there for several days before going on to New Orleans.

Among the popular young women of Philadelphia who will make their initial bow to society this season is Miss Elizabeth Smucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Smucker, who summered at Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester, and took a very active part in the social life of the past summer. Miss Smucker's debut will take the form of a tea given by her parents, Monday, Nov. 7. Tuesday evening of this week she was the guest of honor at a dinner-dance at the Merion Cricket Club.

John F. Wilkins and family returned to Washington last Saturday after a pleasant summer's sojourn at Beverly Farms.

FOR NOVEMBER.

Copyright 1910 by C. H. Rieth.

JUST A MINUTE—

NOVEMBER.

Mr. Taft, who rules the nation
Offers this, his proclamation:

Whereas, Providence continues
Blessing us from day to day,
And the boon of independence
Has, we take it, come to stay;

And whereas, Indulgent Nature
Lavishes upon us still Bounty in excess of what the Weather and the bugs can kill;

And whereas, The old republic
Couldn't be improved upon,
Notwithstanding everybody Gets to run it off and on;

Therefore, I, as delegated
Now and for a short time hence
President, decree that turkey Shall go up to 20 cents.

That's about all there is to it.
Once the country raised its own, and the White House proclamation was not greeted with a groan.
Father simply grabbed the hatchet, mother got the water hot, father read the proclamation to the turkeys in the lot, all the young and female turkeys promptly fainted from the shock, and after due farewells the gobbler laid his head upon the block.

No one telephoned the butcher, asking what a turkey cost. No one in his deep resentment wished the Pilgrims had been lost. No one, while the feast proceeded, knew the torment of the rack figuring upon his napkin what the day had set him back.

Everybody was provided, as the founders pre-supposed. No one can be very thankful, if the truth should be disclosed, paying what we pay for turkey, and, for all of Heaven's gifts, feeling that the day was founded for the Armours and the Swifts.

November gets its name from the Latin novem (nine), and was originally the ninth month of the year.
This brought Thanksgiving around two months earlier than we have it now, and it became very unpopular.

The insurgents, who constituted a majority in the agricultural districts, were bitterly opposed to it. They made two contentions: First, that young turkeys were not old enough to market; second, that crops had not progressed to the point where it was possible to make out whether there was anything to be thankful for or not. In 713 B. C. the storm broke. The insurgents carried Gaul, Britannia and 17 other doubtful states, and the Forum immediately assembled and made November the eleventh month of the year.

The festive colt will sniff the air and don his heavy underhair, and the frenzied candidate will jump and hop around upon the stump. He'll point with pride and view with fear, and suck and blow the atmosphere, and then, together with his cult, await with prayer the result.

Does reason haply hold its sway, or is it madness for a day will tell the people what to think and put the country on the blink? One cannot tell, but must abide the count that sees him justified in courage, confidence or doubt, according as it may turn out.

One thing alone is sure, it seems, and that it this: No one esteems a patriot in politics. We only trust him while he sticks to war, with all its thrill and throb. The moment that he wants a job somewhat conspicuous for pay, by Jove! we don't know what to say.

But whether we do ill or well, election day alone can tell, or whether love for us and fear did any good, will then appear. We have to judge men as we may, and where the candidates all say about the same thing in the end, one scarcely knows who is a friend.

At any rate, the snow will fly, and the wild duck spin across the sky with both eyes focused on the ground, and his tail-piece going round and round. The eager hunter will deploy, and supplant the live decoy, and the pneumococcus, while he toots, will perforate his rubber boots.

A little shooting now and then is relished by a lot of men. They like to gallivant about and let the farmers run them out. It does them good to feel, by jing, that Morgan don't own everything, and if he came in consequence, and also tried to climb the fence, together with his dog and gun, he, too, would also get the run.

November will be unusual this year for the reason that there will be no full moon. This is because there will be a total eclipse of the moon on the night of the 16th, when it would otherwise be full. This eclipse will be visible in the United States and in Wall street, and it will send bacon down a couple of points.

The breath of Winter will distil upon the outer windowsill, and the chilling calf will hump his back and burrow deeper in the stack. The hired man, with wintry spurts, will put on both his undershirts, and the plutocrat who sells us coals will pry our bodies from our souls.

Then let us all embrace the chance and be as merry as we may, for whether we desist or dance, the fiddler is for all to pay. The gentle autumntime will pass, the countryman will kill his hogs, the cottontail will weave the grass around the obfuscated dogs, the honking goose will ride the heights with that weird hollering of his, and the wolf will sit around o' nights and tell the moon how thin he is.

O woe is us that could enjoy the autumntime for aye and aye, and what with growing soul employ its witchery from day to day. The phosphorescence in the sky, the quail soft-piping on the hill, the blackbirds ever bobbing by, and the wind soft-sighing where it will.

But happiness can never last, as Antony could apprehend, and holding Cleo to him fast, destroyed himself before the end. The summer cometh after spring, and winter, merciless withal, as truly must succeed the sweet and gentle blandishments of fall.

At any rate, upon a day
Deciphered in the almanacs,
December, desolate and gray,
Will come to whistle through the cracks.

SOCIETY NOTES

A large dinner company were entertained at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Thorndike, West Manchester, last evening, the affair being in honor of Miss Olivia Thorndike's birthday.

Mrs. Mary W. Sampson closed her summer cottage at Manchester Cove Tuesday for the season.

Mrs. Gordon Abbott of Boston has been paying a visit to her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Tiffany of Virginia.

Miss Helen Taft's debut is being planned for the middle of December, soon after her return from Panama, where she will go with President and Mrs. Taft. Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter will give a ball in her honor January 3, and Mrs. John R. McLean will give one on January 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Boardman, who left Manchester a few weeks ago, have arrived in Washington and reopened their house on P street. After leaving Manchester they spent the late autumn in Western Massachusetts. Mr. and Mrs. Boardman will go South, according to their annual custom, to pass part of the winter.

Mrs. Oliver Ames and Miss Mary Josephine Amory are members of the committee, planning for Boston's new skating club, which will meet at the Arena, St. Botolph street, Tuesday and Friday afternoons during the season from November 15 to March 21.

J. Henry Coulter of Boston and Manchester, the popular riding master, with stables at Magnolia in the summer, has made known his intention to compete in the world's coaching Marathon from the Arrow Head Inn to Madison Square Garden, New York. Boston has never had a representative in this famous coaching joust and the fact that Harry Coulter will compete against the world's best ribbon holders struck Boston horse enthusiasts with a good relish. Mr. Coulter has met with great success on the North Shore, and his four-in-hand was one of the sights of the shore drives this summer.

An amusing story is told of a dinner which Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter, who had the Endicott cottage on Neptune street, Beverly Cove, gave when the President's yacht Mayflower was anchored off Beverly. Among the men invited were Passed Assistant Surgeon Cary T. Grayson and Lieut. Gilbert J. Row-

Our Weekly Letter From Washington

Special to the North Shore Breeze.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Talking about plant breeding reminded an official of the Department of Agriculture that the Sitka Experiment Station is engaged in breeding apples which will meet the climate conditions in Alaska. In spite of the popular notion that Alaska is a region given over to the rigors of the Arctic regions, there are native crab apples growing there, and it is with these as a basis that the Department is experimenting. The most suitable commercial varieties have been crossed with the native Alaska species and now there are 46 new varieties which are being patiently tried out at the Government farm. When the excellent quality of apples raised in Washington, Oregon and British Columbia are taken into account, it must be admitted even by the layman that there is a strong probability of getting a fine line of apples especially bred to suit the conditions of the Alaska climate and soils. Already it has been demonstrated that currants, gooseberries and raspberries do exceedingly well all along the coast region of Alaska, and the Agricultural Department is looking forward to making some distinct achievements in other lines in the Territory, which is advancing rapidly in agriculture.

Expensive Land.

Good land for growing bulbs is worth in the Netherlands from $1,557 to $2,433 an acre, says the Daily Consular Reports. The industry has become so extensive that wherever a suitable piece of land was available it was given over to bulb growing. The export value of bulbs now amounts to about $4,000,000 a year. About 4,000 persons are engaged in the industry. They are organized into a general federation, consisting of 37 groups, in the interest of which a paper is published twice a week, weekly exchanges are held during the trade season, novelties are examined and reported on by a board of judges, and a trade council inquires into and settles all trade differences. Exhibitions are held and exhibits sent to foreign countries. The United States is the third largest customer of the Dutch bulb growers, taking in 1909, 7,633,040 pounds of bulbs, and selling to the Dutch something over one million pounds.

Jap King of Potato Growers.

The biggest grower of potatoes in the world is a Japanese, of Stockton, California. He is known popularly as the potato king. This Japanese, whose name is Shima, cultivates as much as 12,000 acres of the rich tule lands along the Sacramento River in one year. The potatoes there are more or less afflicted with a disease known as potato scab. The Department of Agriculture made an investigation of this disease through its experts, and came to the conclusion that the disease could be treated successfully by fumigation of the seed potatoes with formaldehyde. Shima took a great deal of interest in the investigation by the agents of the Department, and last season he sent word that he would like to fumigate his seed potatoes. Inquiry being made regarding the quantity he would plant, he replied, 45,000 bushels. The Department sent a man to superintend the work of fumigation, in order that it might be thoroughly accomplished.

cliff of the Mayflower. At 7.55 they arrived opposite Mrs. Leiter's place to find that their launch could not get within 20 feet of the landing, and that the flats between the two points were covered with water. It was too late to return and go around by land, so the officers decided to brave the terrors of a footbath to be in time for dinner. So, with shoes and socks in their hands, and trousers well tucked up, they waded to shore and retired behind some flowering shrubs to repair their toilet. Suddenly there was a rush from the rear, and they were seized by men shouting, "We have caught you at last!" Although they protested that they were "officers from the President's yacht," the energetic constable declared they were the burglars who had been making depredations on the North Shore. Finally they induced their captors to let Mrs. Leiter identify them. They were led to the kitchen, and there their hostess, much to the amusement of their friends and the chagrin of the protectors of the place, vouched for the character of her barefoot guests. Half an hour later they were enjoying their dinner, as well as the joke.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lancashire have now reached their winter home at Alma, Mich., after a delightful season at Manchester. The other members of the family are widely separated at present. Miss Lancashire is visiting in La Grange, Ga., and Ammi W. Lancashire is at Yale. Miss Helen Lancashire, with her companion, is spending the winter in Paris, and Miss Lila, the youngest of the daughters, is in school at New York.

Mrs. Reginald Fitz of West Manchester spent a portion of the week in Dover.

Dr. L. Vernon Briggs and family planned to leave the Stone cottage, Smith's Point, Manchester, today (Friday). Their winter residence is on Beacon street, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stone brought their long sojourn at their cottage on Smith's Point, Manchester, to a close this week and opened their winter residence on Marlboro street, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Wood depart for Brookline next week. Their daughter, Miss Elizabeth C. Wood, will remain two weeks longer at the Wood cottage on Cobb avenue, Manchester.

Francis M. Stanwood and family are among the latest sojourners at Manchester and are remaining indefinitely, since November is proving so enjoyable for shore life.

Real Estate and Improvements.

The foundation for the new summer mansion of Herbert W. Mason is being laid on his newly acquired property, the Aretas D. Wallace farm, known as the Thomas Lowe farm, on Heartbreak road, Ipswich.

Dr. Wm. Jarvis of New York has purchased the summer estate of Elihu H. Cutler of Springfield on South and Atlantic roads, Bass Rocks. Mr. Cutler's estate adjoined the Jarvis estate.

Real estate transfers recorded at the Registry of Deeds during the last week include:

Nehemiah C. and Isaac M. Marshall to Lenora F., wife of Michael E. Gorman, all of Manchester, 2 3/4 acres land in Manchester.

Michael E. Gorman et ux. Lenora F. to Louise C., wife of William B. Walker, all of Manchester, 3.83 acres land in Manchester.

Nehemiah C. Marshall et al., to Lenora F., wife of Michael E. Gorman, four acres woodland in Manchester.

The inspection of Col. H. P. Wodbury Camp, 149, S. of V., was made last Tuesday evening. A delegation from the camp is to go to Salem tonight to witness the installation of a new camp in that city, the work to be done by a degree team from Beverly. It is expected that Ernest Mead of Wellesley Farms will give an informal talk before the camp on Tuesday evening, Nov. 15, on his vacation through the south. The boys will meet him at the station and escort him to the hall.

The committee appointed by the town at the annual meeting to make an investigation on the question of sewage for Manchester have been very fortunate in being able to secure as consulting engineer, Desmond Fitzgerald of Brookline. Mr. Fitzgerald has recently returned from Europe, where he made a study of the sewage question, among other things. He ought to be especially fitted to advise the committee here, as he was the consulting engineer for the new water supply. The committee hopes to be able to present a full and comprehensive report at the next March meeting.

Republican Rally.

Manchester is to have a Republic-can rally in the Town hall next Monday evening, the night before election day. John N. Cole, ex-speaker of the House, and Malcolm E. Nichols, ex-representative of Boston, will be among the speakers. Several of the candidates for office in this district on the Republican ticket will also be present. The hour set for the rally is 7.30.

Parent-Teacher Association.

Next Monday afternoon (Nov. 7) at the chapel, will take place a joint meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association and the Woman's Club at 4 o'clock. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Alma Pendexter

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB.

Miss Flora MacDonald, Interior Decorator, Lectured at Tuesday's Meeting. Many Important Announcements of General Interest Were Made.

The progressive and artistic club spirit was admirably manifested at the meeting of the Manchester Woman's Club on Tuesday afternoon at the Chapel, when the Arts and Crafts committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Frank A. Rowe arranged a most enjoyable and helpful afternoon, in keeping with that department of the club's work.

The president, Mrs. Emma G.
Tenney, presided and the announcements during the business session were as follows:—Food Conference at Jamaica Plain Wednesday of this week, club was represented by a delegation; November 8, Catabrigia Club conference at Cambridge, delegates, Mrs. Nellie
M. Rogers, Mrs. Grace K. Beaton;
November 9, stereopticon lecture in Town hall, subject, "A Summer in Norway," Miss Minna Elliot Tenney, lecturer. This is a public evening lecture and a large patronage is urged. Tickets are for sale by club members. November 10 the class in parliamentary law will meet with Mrs. Susan M. Andrews. November
15 at the regular club meeting, Miss Ethel Batting will give a program of readings and Mrs. Mary Bennett will do the honors of the afternoon as hostess. The club will participate in the Parent-Teacher Association meeting and social next Monday afternoon at the Chapel. The president read a letter from one of the leading officials of the federation of clubs thanking the Manchester club for its delightful hospitality at the recent conference of the clubs in Manchester. The president also asked that those who were unable to serve on the afternoon tea committees would make a point to secure substitutes on those occasions.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. J. Warren Lee rendered a plantation lullaby very effectively,

Haven of Boston. Afternoon tea will be served at the close of the lecture by a committee of ladies representing both clubs.

This will be the regular November meeting of the Parent-Teacher Assoc.

Allyn Brown serving as an able accompanist.

The speaker of the afternoon, Miss Flora MacDonald of the Woman's Educational and Industrial Union, Boston, was then introduced. She gave a very practical and lucid exposition of her subject, "Art in the Household." Miss MacDonald spoke in part as follows:—There is good and bad in both old and new furnishings for the home and artistic effect is not always obtained through expensive materials. Interior decoration from the artistic standpoint hinges on architecture, color, harmony and the ability to choose appropriately, and inborn sense of color. A home should not lack dignity or repose in its arrangement, simplicity, distinct character and individuality to predominate by careful selection of furnishings in keeping with the laws of construction, proportion and harmony. Children's rooms should be given special attention to inculcate the artistic taste and the desire of good surroundings, such as good pictures, good picture books and simple, but good and useful pieces of furniture. The custom of relegating the cast off furniture of the household to children's rooms should be tabooed as a home is constantly growing and is a bold insignia of the character of the family.

Color schemes in relation to one another, the quantity of light in rooms, the colors of rooms, which create their atmosphere were all carefully treated in the address.
The carpets of the house should have the stronger tones, middle tones for walls, lighter for ceilings.
Rugs, carpets, wall papers, draperies and furniture were all treated, both verbally and by the display of materials significant of design, color, combination and selection from the tasteful and most artistic standpoint.

Miss MacDonald's last admonition was to exercise one's best taste for good construction, good lines and all that should tend toward the most important articles of household decoration,—cheer and hospitality. There is beauty in the commonplace if the proper selection is made, therefore there can be art in the household inexpensively as well as expensively.

In connection with the lecture the Arts and Crafts committee had a very beautiful and comprehensive display of needlework, embroidery, stenciling, weaving and raffia work, in fact, nearly all arts and crafts were represented in some two hundred articles displayed. Particularly novel was the applique work displayed by Mrs. Tenney and the very beautiful Portuguese embroidery by Mrs. Joseph J. Vasconcellos, which are entitled to special mention, also the Mexican rugs loaned by Mrs. Fisher.

During the social period, the honors of the tea room were shared by Mrs. Sarah Snelling, hostess, Mrs. F. G. Cheever and Mrs. Mary Bennett, who poured, and a group of club members, who served.

Hallowe'en Parties.

All Hallowe'en, that mystic night, when hobgoblins prowl abroad and lads and lassies go through stunts to determine their future mates, was as usual, celebrated in Manchester Monday evening, in due form.

There were a number of private house parties, but aside from this the young people who had no plans arranged, celebrated in their own way. Groups of them could be seen in various parts of the town, with hollowed-out pumpkins and squashes, and boxes, in which faces had been cut, and in which lighted tapers were burning.

Saturday evening, Irving Baker entertained a number of his school friends at Fairview and all had a most delightful time.

Monday evening a large number of young people gathered in Lee's hall and had a most glorious time of it. Dancing was enjoyed, and the usual games were played. A special feature was the fortune teller, a local young man disguised as a gypsy. He was so perfectly disguised that he succeeded in fooling even those who knew him intimately.

An entertainment was held in the Town hall, Monday evening, under the auspices of the Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters of the Baptist church and this proved most successful. The tables were soon cleared of the articles for sale. The hall was decorated very tastefully, the stage being especially attractive. The following program was presented:

Piano solo, Allyn Brown; recitation, "Hallowe'en," Gladys Hildreth; song, "Night," Mrs. J. W. Lee; reading, "Ghost in Kitchen," Mrs. Charlotte Brown; "Jack-o'-Lanterns," six boys; drum solo, Isabelle Lee; children in Brownie song; song, ten children; reading, Miss Effie Stidstone; piano solo, Allyn Brown; recitation, George Fleming; drum solo, Isabelle Lee; reading, Mrs. Brown.

The drum solos by Isabelle Lee were greatly appreciated and heartily applauded. The fortune teller also drew large crowds into her tent, where the mysteries of Hallowe'en were revealed.

Summer Residents Lost Way in Magnolia Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pigeon of East Boston, summer residents of Fresh Water Cove, tested the density of Magnolia's woods last Thursday afternoon to the extent, that had not their friends' alarm at their absence provoked a searching party, they would have spent the night in the woods. They left their home about 3.30 o'clock in the afternoon in search of foxberries, which grow abundantly in the woods thereabouts, and in their wanderings became lost in Cedar swamp. They accepted the uncomfortable situation, built a fire, and planned to await the morning. Ex-councilman Walter E. Marchant, Charles B. Currier and a son of Officer

Chapman composed the searching party, and armed with torches, lanterns and a gun, which they frequently discharged, at last came upon Mr. and Mrs. Pigeon around their camp-fire. They were happy enough to have their neighbors again about them to lead them safely out of the woods.

MANCHESTER

The Manchester school teachers enjoyed a brief vacation over the last week-end from Friday to Tuesday of this week. Friday they attended the teachers' convention in Peabody. Monday was spent in visiting various schools. Miss Lola Durrell visited schools in Cumberland, R. I., where she was the guest of friends. Miss May Eaton spent the day at the Somerville schools and Miss Jessie Alexander in Malden, Miss Edna West observed teaching methods in Amesbury and the Misses Audrey Calder and Alice Sides had interesting and instructive visits at the Salem Normal school and the schools of Swampscott. Miss Lena Jones of the teaching force has been quite ill and Miss Teresa Walsh has also been indisposed, therefore they were not able to make visits. Mrs. Frank Rowe has been substituting for Miss Walsh and Miss Mildred Lothrop of Lynn for Miss Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Robertson entertained a few friends at their home on Lincoln street last evening, the party being in honor of Mr. Robertson's birthday.

✱ Manchester ✱

Miss Abbie Hitchcock was in town Tuesday for a brief visit with friends.

A meeting of the Manchester Club will be held this evening. As business of importance is to come up the members are urged to be present. The entertainment committee has arranged something in the line of a competition for this evening and refreshments will be served.

Wednesday evening, November 9, Miss Minna Elliot Tenney will lecture upon "A Summer in Norway," illustrated with colored stereopticon views. As Miss Tenney has lived in the homes of those people, she is especially able to present their customs and modes of living. The evening promises to be as helpful and interesting as a flying visit to the "Land of the Midnight Sun." The lecture will be in the Town hall at 8 o'clock. It is given under the auspices of the Manchester Woman's Club. Tickets are on sale at Allen's Drug store.

Mrs. Charles Morgan of Lincoln street has moved to Lynn this week, where Mr. Morgan has a position.

Master William Anderson of Lynn is spending the week with his grandmother, Mrs. John Elliott of Vine street.

Arthur Hayes and family moved into the T. Mahoney cottage on Pine street this week. Mrs. Hayes and children have recently returned from a trip to England.

Many Manchester people will remember the visit a year ago of Capt. Silveira of Portugal to this town, and they will learn with interest, that the captain, since promoted to the position of major, has been in the thick of the recent revolutionary movement in Lisbon. A letter to a friend of his in Manchester this week speaks briefly of the trouble, saying that the revolution was made in 17 hours and that everything is now very quiet. Major Silveira is probably on the side of the revolutionists, though his letter does not say. On his recent visit to this country, he was greatly interested in our form of government, especially of the small towns and cities.

A daughter was born Wednesday, Nov. 2, to Mr. and Mrs. Domnick Flatley, Vine street.

Miss Lila Goldsmith was a guest over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mead of Brookline.

Lyman W. Floyd has been quite ill the last week at his home in Central square, as the result of a slight touch of ptomaine poisoning.

Nearly 300 people were in the square Wednesday evening to greet Congressman Foss, democratic candidate for governor, and Candidates O'Brien for Congress and Smith for district attorney of the county. They stopped here on their way from Gloucester to Beverly. Mr. Foss came through about 7.40 and gave a 10-minute talk on the issues of the campaign. He was introduced by Chairman Foster of the town committee and spoke from his auto. After Mr. Foss had started for Beverly and while waiting for the others to arrive, Mr. Richardson of Essex made a plea for the democratic cause from the steps of the town fountain. Mr. Smith and Mr. O'Brien were given an enthusiastic reception and each spoke nearly ten minutes.

NEW STOCKINGS

For School Wear

Season after season thousands of Essex County parents have depended—and wisely—on this store for their needs in Children's Hosiery. There is not a hose on the market at 25c that is equal to our special "Lion Brand". We sell thousands of pairs annually and everyone speaks of them in the highest terms.

The Lion Brand Hosiery is knit after the style of the German goods, but being made right here in America has the advantage of escaping the duty—so the difference is used in better yarns.

Miss Grace Bean of New Hampshire was in town this week on business.

Mrs. Evelyn Mack of Lynn is visiting her mother, Mrs. John Elliott of Vine street.

Miss Anna Coughlin is the new book-keeper at Samuel Knight & Sons' coal office.

Mrs. Lincoln of Cohasset was in town this week visiting her sister, Mrs. William Cheever.

Miss Helen Fraga of Gloucester has been spending the week in town, visiting the Henry Mitchells.

Miss Edith Northrup is sufficiently recovered from her recent illness to be able to resume her teaching duties at Provincetown.

A delegation from the local colony of Pilgrims visited the Gloucester colony Monday evening to witness the installation of officers.

Sally and Betty, the little Cushing twins, came home today from Hingham, where they have been for the last two weeks with relatives.

Mrs. Frank Bullock returned the first of the week from a visit of several weeks to New York City with her brother, George E. Scott and Mrs. Scott.

Manchester was largely represented at the wedding in Beverly Farms last night of George R. Dean and Miss May D. Connolly. Mr. and Mrs. Dean are to make their home in the Mears cottage on Tappan street.

Howard M. Stanley had a close call Monday, when he fell from the roof of the barn on North street, owned by S. Albert Sinnicks. Mr. Stanley, who is a mason, was just finishing a new chimney in the building, being changed over into a dwelling house, when in trying to pass around the other side of a dormer, he lost his hold and fell on his back down the roof. He struck the gutter as he went over the edge, which broke his fall somewhat, but did not stop him altogether, so he dropped the remaining eighteen feet to the ground. He was hurried to Dr. Tyler's and it was found that the small bones of his left wrist were broken. He received a terrible shaking up, but he is able to be about, though his broken wrist will keep him from work for weeks to come.

Maynard B. Gilman has returned from a week's vacation trip to New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher (Dora Chaffin) of Torreon, Mex., arrived in Manchester last Friday and Mrs. Fisher and little daughter, Dora, will remain for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Knight. Mr. Fisher's business may keep him in New York City most of the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Drake of Norway, Me., have also been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Knight this week.

With the transferring of the Cunningham estate at West Manchester a short time ago to Lester Leland, the services of Nathaniel Morgan as caretaker of the estate were concluded. Mr. Morgan had served as caretaker and gardener for Mr. Cunningham for 30 years and has been very faithful to his duties and has well earned the reward "Well done, good and faithful servant."

The assessors have been spending several days at the State House this week, working on the State and Corporation taxes. The new law taking away from towns all domestic corporation taxes will mean considerable to Manchester, as the taxes now will be derived only from public service corporations, such as railroads, telephone companies, etc. The board is not able to say yet what difference this new law will make in Manchester's revenue.

The selectmen have awarded the contract for cleaning out the Channel to Daniel Edgecomb, whose bid was $745. The other bidders were Littlefield & Semons $747, and Morley, Flatley & Co. $896. The town appropriated for this work last spring $800. In the specifications for bids the board of health asked for the excavation of a new channel, to begin at the point near the entrance of the brook into the pond and to extend in an almost straight line along by the wall to a point near the engine house, where it will connect with the main channel, instead of reaching this point by a more circuitous route. The stream is to be fifteen feet wide.

Dr. Dakin is making minor improvements at his house on the Gloucester road, Magnolia, used by President Lucius Tuttle as a summer home. A rose hedge has been laid out along the driveway leading up to the house, and in front of the cottage along by the road has been planted a barberry hedge. President Tuttle had a lot of Japanese ivy vines planted on the opposite side of the road during the summer.

A noted improvement to the road leading into Magnolia village along by the beach is the clearing away of the under-brush and willow at this point. The work has been done during the last two or three weeks under the supervision of Superintendent of Moth Work John D. Morrison of Manchester.

DEAN-CONNOLLY.Brilliant Wedding at Beverly Farms. Nuptials Very Largely Attended. First Evening Wedding in History of St. Margaret's Church.

St. Margaret's church, Beverly Farms, was the scene of a brilliant wedding last night,—the first evening wedding in the history of this church,—when Miss Mary Dorothy Connolly, the well known gymnasium and athletic instructor, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dyer Connolly, became the bride of George Robert Dean of Boston and Manchester.

The ceremony was performed at 7.45 by Rev. Nicholas R. Walsh, assisted by Rev. John H. Downey in the presence of hundreds of relatives and friends, who filled the church to over-flowing. The bridal party marched down the aisle of the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Margaret Cannon, the church organist. The church was artistically decorated for the occasion, making a beautiful floral setting for the bridal party in their handsome gowns. The bride, who is very attractive and athletic, wore her bridal robe of imported Irish lace over satin, with much charm and grace. It was cut en train, the conventional veil of Dutchess lace being caught with orange blossoms. She carried a rosary and a pearl prayer book.

The maid of honor, the bride's sister, Miss Anna Crispina Connolly, and the bride's maid, Miss Sadie Gertrude Donaher of Worcester, were attired in costumes of shell pink mesalline with over-dresses of pink chiffon, designed with gold beads. The costumes were garnished with braided ribbon buckles, pearl ornaments and ermine. The hats matched the gowns and were adorned with tiny pink roses, willow plumes and ermine. Their bouquets were large bunches of pale pink chrysanthemums.

Mr. Dean's best man was Dr. George F. Kienan of Boston.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. During the ceremony several vocal selections were rendered by Asst. U. S. Dist. Atty. E. Mark Sullivan of Beverly.

The ushers included: Dr. Daniel Hurley of Boston; Dr. John Cahill, Worcester; Dr. Fred Keyes, Chas D. Casey, Providence; Dr. James Hurley, Boston; Charles C. McCarthy of Boston, Georgetown, '05, Harvard Law, '08; Thomas E. Hill, Brookline; Gregory P. Connolly, Exeter, '09, and Thomas D. Connolly, Beverly Farms; Dr. Daniel Maguire, Lieut. U. S. Army, Fort Meyer, Va., and C. Frank Trowt, Pride's Crossing.

After the marriage ceremony the bride and groom were driven to Neighbors' hall, where a reception was held, attended by hundreds of friends of the young people and neighbors and relatives. The hall was literally packed, thus giving one an idea of the popularity in which the couple were held.

As a further evidence of the popularity of the young people was the magnificent collection of wedding gifts that filled several rooms at the Connolly home on Oak street. The display included nearly every conceivable kind of wedding present, and was the largest array of both costly and useful articles ever seen at Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean left the hall amid a shower of confetti and motored as far as Beverly, where they boarded the Boston train. Their wedding trip will take them to New York City, thence up the Hudson to Albany and on to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, to Toronto, and thence to Montreal by way of the Thousand Islands, a most delightful trip at this time of year. They will make their home in the Mears cottage, Tappan street, Manchester, on their return.

Before her marriage Mrs. Dean was a physical culture teacher, with classes in Boston, Brookline, Beverly Farms and other places. Mr. Dean is connected with the Smith's Exp. Co. of Manchester and Boston.

At the reception last evening the informal announcement was made of the engagement of another sister, the third daughter, Miss Gertrude Connolly, to Dr. George Keenan of Boston, formerly connected with the East Boston Relief station of the Boston City Hospital.

BEVERLY FARMS

An important real estate transfer in the Centerville portion of Beverly Farms, was consummated Wednesday, when Stephen D. Edwards became the owner of the Hathaway farm on Essex street, which consists of about 40 acres of fine land, a dwelling house and farm buildings. Mr. Edwards is to cut the property into house lots and otherwise develop it. The lots are to be of good size and will be within the 5-cent fare on the electric to Beverly and Salem, and should prove a splendid piece of property for development. The land runs from Essex street through to Hull street. Within the past year or more, owing to the scarcity of house lots here and the high prices many people of the Farms have purchasad land at Montserrat upon which they have since erected houses for their own occupancy.

Gillette in "Secret Service" at the Hollis Next Week.

William Gillette, under the direction of Charles Frohman, crowded the Hollis Street theatre, Boston, all this week with a revival production of his most popular dramatization of Conan Doyle's hero of fiction, "Sherlock Holmes," the title role of which Mr. Gillette performed with his customary masterful skill and sensation.

During the current week, beginning next Monday, the 7th, Mr. Gillette will play his stirring Civil War drama, "Secret Service," enacting his original role of the spy-lover, who, after penetrating the hostile country and proceeding to thwart the enemy's purpose against his own country, falls under the sway of the daughter of the commanding general he was planning to destroy.

After the week of "Secret Service," Mr. Gillette is promised for the week beginning 14th instant in his world-famous farcical comedy, "The Private Secretary."

The engagement of this distinguished star terminates at the Hollis with the week ending 26th instant, during which he will appear in a round of the remaining plays of the repertoire selected for his present tour.

On this bill will be one of the greatest European novelties ever imported to this country, called "The Four Uessoms," a big troupe of acrobats and balancers. Howard and North will present the greatest of all their comedies, "Those Were the Happy Days."

Another extraordinary feature from abroad will be Vilmos Westony, the pianist of international reputation. Still another foreign company is that of Percy Warm, who will appear in a dramatic sketch, based on one of W. W. Jacobs' famous sea stories, called "The Boatswain's Mate." Other features will be Gordon and Marx, German comedians, and the Royal Colibris, a troupe of midgets.

In his annual report the Surgeon-General of the Army declares that "Alaska still maintains its position as by far the healthiest region where the army is stationed."

There were but two deaths among the 1,064 troops in Alaska last year, both from drowning. Infectious fevers were noticeably absent, no case being reported of typhoid fever, smallpox, measles, scarlet fever, or diphtheria. This record is so remarkable that it is bound to attract attention and causes comment.

Next Tuesday is state election day and the ward six voter will cast his vote as usual between 6 a. m. and 4 p. m. in G. A. R. hall. Besides voting for the state officers, from governor down, the Farms voter will have to decide on the question of the new charter for the City of Beverly.

Preston W. R. C. are to give another of their popular "election" suppers in G. A. R. banquet hall next Tuesday evening from 5 to 7.

An entertainment is to be given next Friday evening, Nov. 11, at the Baptist chapel by the Blind Trio of Boston, Alfred N. Heroux, violinist and tenor; Richard Barnard, pianist; Edw. R. Ray, clarinetist. Stereopticon slides will show the work being done by and for the blind.

Preston W. R. C. will be inspected Monday evening, Nov. 14, by Mrs. Hattie Callahan of South Boston.

Marriage intentions were taken out at City hall this week by Edward Joseph Saulnier of Boston and Agnes Victoria McCarthy of Beverly Farms.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Murdock of Greenfield returned to their home yesterday after a fortnight's visit here.

The fruit store on West street, conducted the last summer by a Greek, was closed this week for the season. Mr. Grivas intends to run the store again next year.

M. Silverberg, the proprietor of the tailoring establishment on West street, will close his shop tomorrow evening for the season, and will move to Boston for the winter.

Preston Relief Corps is to hold a special meeting in G. A. R. hall Saturday evening, to which it is urged the members will come.

The boys fife and drum corps have changed their weekly rehearsal night from Monday to Friday, as the latter night interferes with their school work. Their instructor, Mr. Stone, leader for years of the Excelsior corps of Marblehead, is doing good work with the boys.

There is no doubt but that Councilman John L. Saltonstall and Herman MacDonald, the two local men, who are the Republican candidates for the legislature, will get a handsome vote, at the polls next Tuesday.

The speakers were given close attention, with the exception of a couple in the audience who were undoubtedly "on the other side," and wanted to ask questions. The Beverly Farms band furnished the music for the evening. There were many women in the gallery.

A quiet home wedding took place last Monday evening on Hart street, when Adelaide Elsie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Wyatt, was married to John Duncan Mutch. The bride has lived practically all her life in East Wenham, and has a host of friends and acquaintances. The groom is also quite popular. He has lived at Pride's Crossing for the last two or three years. After a short wedding trip, they will live on Haskell street.

THE MORE WE HEAR IT, THE HARDER WE GRIND TO CREATE CONDITIONS THAT WILL SEEM EVEN MORE PLEASING.

We never in history, have had so many "Comebacks," as we are enjoying this fall. Day after day, people who have been looking about return here, and place with us their generous orders.
Tell us we're lower, assortments are better and service of our salesmen more pleasing. This gives us strong courage to seek after YOUR trade, which, for one reason or another, we are not getting.
On such testimony as this, that comes from your neighbor, we'd like you to give us a try. We'll show you our goods without doing any urging, and just let you judge for yourself. Now to coax you along, we'll just take

THIS ODD DRESSER

and tell of its virtues and price. 'Tis made of White Maple, all covered over with little eyes that makes this dainty wood appear so interesting. It has a swell front all the way up and down, and that most sought-after—the graceful oval mirror. It is very good sized, and finished like glass, and has those new-featured wood knobs. It is made upon honor, and could be sold for much more—but no! we sell it for as little as possible. It should bring you in here just to see what we do, for we sell it

FINE DIAMONDS AND OTHER PRECIOUS STONES.

Our knowledge, integrity and reliability have been tested by customers in all parts of the United States and many foreign countries for over twenty years, so no one hesitates to send to us for DIAMONDS knowing they will get the finest quality at a price much less than they can elsewhere. Every order is conscientiously filled and sent subject to your approval. Of course, in buying a diamond you must have confidence in the party you trade with, and time will prove that you have made a good purchase. They are good property if properly bought and advance in value every year, so you can realize on them quickly if you wish to.

We show here a most carefully selected assortment of diamond rings, comprising all the most desirable sizes. The prices are for pure white, perfectly cut, brilliant stones set in the finest 14k gold settings. We can furnish any size diamond in any of these settings, giving you the largest and best quality diamond possible for any special amount you wish to invest, of course, always subject to your examination. By personal attention, and giving the best possible value in every case, we have built up a very large business in "diamonds by mail." A diamond purchase can be most satisfactorily made in this way, as every stone we send out is in reality on approval. If it fails to please in any respect it may be returned at our expense and the amount paid will be at once refunded.

Our diamonds are of a much higher grade than is generally sold, and we are satisfied with a very small profit. We invite comparison of quality and price.

Our diamond department is under the direct supervision of Mr. Daniel Low, senior member of the firm, who has had an experience of over forty years in the buying and selling of precious stones, and all orders are handled by men whose expert knowledge of fine stones and of settings most in favor assures careful selection and intelligent advice.

A watch is the most delicate piece of machinery on earth. Nothing else can compare with it when the smallness of its component parts and the delicate adjustment of those parts are considered. If any of the vital parts of a watch are a fraction of a hairs' breadth out of adjustment it will greatly affect the running of the watch or stop it altogether.

You can see how important it is to have your watch repaired by a man who is competent to make such delicate adjustments. A careless or ignorant workman can do more injury to your watch while attempting to repair it than you would probably do in carrying it for a lifetime.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The operatic premiere on Monday evening at the Boston Opera House brought North Shore society together in beautiful gowns and bedecked in costly jewels to listen to equally beautiful music through the medium of Boito's "Mefistofele". Box-holders included Mrs. John L. Gardner, L. Cartaret Fenno, Quincy A. Shaw, Robert Gould Shaw, S. Reed Anthony, Larz Anderson, Lester Leland, James J. Storrow, Bryce J. Allen, Eben D. Jordan, Herbert M. Sears, Frederick Ayer, Wm. M. Wood, Mrs. Walter D. Denegre, Mrs. F. Gordon Dexter and many others. The following have secured orchestra seats for Monday evenings:—Amory Eliot, Mrs. Edward S. Grew, Henry L. Higginson, Mrs. George C. Lee, Amory A. Lawrence, Gardner M. Lane, A. Shuman, George Putman and Miss A. G. Thayer.

Francis W. Fabyan and family took leave of the North Shore Tuesday of this week and closed their West Manchester cottage for the season.

—x—

By the closing of the Whipple cottage at West Manchester Wednesday of this week, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Whipple and son George N. Whipple and the former's brother George Noyes were numbered among the Bostonians returning to their city homes.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Leland are bringing their stay at their West Manchester estate to a close on Thursday next. They will spend most of the winter in Europe.

—x—

Miss Helen Taft spent the last week-end at Bryn Mawr, returning to Washington last Sunday evening.

—x—

Mrs. W. Harry Brown of Pittsburg and Burgess Point, Beverly, was an aid Tuesday afternoon at the reception given by Mrs. James Scott and Miss Scott at "Atholl", the Scott residence on Stanton avenue, Pittsburg. Guests were asked to meet Mrs. Frederick Cole Fairbanks, daughter of Mrs. Scott and a daughter-in-law of ex-Vice Pres Fairbanks, and Mrs. Edward Groetzinger. Following the reception the aids with an equal number of men were entertained at dinner by the hostess.

—x—

Mme. Corinne Rider-Kelsey, soprano of the Covent Garden opera company of London, who has summered in Magnolia, appeared at Wellesley college Monday evening in the first of the annual series of artists' recitals under the auspices of the music department of the college.

SOCIETY NOTES

Eben D. Jordan celebrated the opening of the opera season, which also signalized his birthday, by a dinner party Monday evening at the Hotel Lenox. Henry Russell director of the opera company, acted as toastmaster. His toast of good luck to Mr. Jordan was drank by the guests, who included several North Shore summer residents:—Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Carr, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Goodrich, T. D. Boardman, West Manchester; Herbert M. Sears, Pride's; Mrs. Jordan, Robert Jordan, Miss Dorothy Jordan, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Shaw, Mrs. Larz Anderson, also Mrs. Elsie French Vanderbilt and the operatic stars of the company, several of whom sang arias during the evening.

—x—

The date of Miss Edith Deacon's marriage has been announced for Saturday, January 7, in the apartments of the bride elect's grandmother, Mrs. Baldwin in the Ritz-Carlton, New York. Mrs. John W. Culter, who will spend a portion of her honeymoon in Beverly Farms this winter, will be Miss Deacon's matron of honor. Miss Deacon was a bridesmaid at Mrs. Cutler's wedding.

—x—

The engagement of Laurance H. Armour and Miss Frances Lacy Withers recently announced will be followed by their wedding January 11. The engagement renews interest in the affairs of Mr. Armour's mother, who became the bride of Charles W. Littlefield, U. S. N., in New York in September after her summer's sojourn at Magnolia.

—x—

John Hays Hammond and family are remaining at their North Shore residence, Fresh Water Cove, well into the Thanksgiving season. Mr. Hammond is not in good health and his physicians have prescribed absolute quiet. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond are planning to sail for Russia late in the winter where they are to be received by the Czar and Czarina at the Russian court.

—y—

Mr. and Mr. Harold F. Mason are spending a portion of their honeymoon at the Virginia Hot Springs. They are registered at the Homestead.

—x—

T. Dennie Boardman, and family party are removing from West Manchester to Boston next week.

—x—

Mrs. Reginald Foster, daughter Ruth and her two sons of Boston and Coolidge's Point, Manchester, are planning to spend the winter abroad. They were due to sail this week.

SOCIETY NOTES

Miss Helen Hooper will not give up the pleasures and attractions of her West Manchester estate until the end of the present month.

Summer residents of East Gloucester who will be speakers before the Cape Ann Scientific and Literary association this season are Prof. A. Piatt Andrew, Asst. Sec. U. S. Treasury; Miss Eugenie M. Heller, "interior decorations", and Mrs. Lida Johnson Bacon, "Personal Impressions of the Passion Play."

Mrs. Wm. Madison Wood of Boston and Pride's, who spent the early autumn at "Arden," her country estate at Andover, has opened her town house on Fairfield street. The first in her series of Thursdays will be given November 17 from 4 to 6.. Miss Irene Wood will receive with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Tucker of Boston and West Manchester are at the Plaza in New York for the winter.

Mrs. Henry C. Weston of Beacon street, Boston, is arranging for a large luncheon in honor of her granddaughter, Miss Evelyn Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Curtis of Beverly Farms, who is among the coming debutantes of the season.

The Frederick Ayers were registered at the Plaza hotel, New York, last week while enroute to Boston from the Virginia Hot Springs. Miss Ayer's coming debut will be a social event in Boston of special interest to the North Shore contingent.

Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, Jr., of Boston and Pride's has been making a visit in Washington with her father, Wm. F. Mattingly, who was her guest at Pride's for an extended period during the past season.

Amory Eliot and his son, Samuel Eliot of Manchester are occupying a suite at the Puritan hotel, Boston, for the winter. Mrs. Eliot and her daughter are abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison K. Caner of Philadelphia and Manchester are among the sojourners at the Virginia Hot Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Seamans left their Pigeon Cove estate recently and made the trip to their home in Brooklyn in their Pierce touring car by way of Springfield. They made a side trip to Northampton to visit their daughter, Miss Dorothy Seamans, who is a Freshman at Smith's college.

The Charge d'affaires of the Brazilian embassy, Lima de Silva and Mrs. Silva and their infant son and Mrs. Silva's mother, Madame Covarabius left Manchester Monday for Washington. They are to be at the capital in time for the big Brazilian celebration on the 15th of this month.

The Misses Mary and Fannie Bartlett have returned from Europe and are again at their Commonwealth ave., Boston, home

Mrs. R. C. Winthrop closed her residence at West Manchester Tuesday of this week and went to her Boston home, 10 Walnut street.

Childs Frick returned to "Eagle Rock", Pride's Crossing, Tuesday after a two months' hunting trip in British Columbia and Alaska.

At the debutante tea Monday afternoon for Elizabeth Smucker, of Philadelphia and Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester, members of the receiving party included the debutante's sister, Mrs. Frederick Clementon of London, England; Misses Esther Pugh and Alice Scott of the Bass Rocks colony; Keturah Smucker and Margaret Overton of New York and Hawthorne Inn. A supper followed the tea for the receiving party. Covers were placed for 22. Mrs. Chas. Scott, jr., of Philadelphia and Bass Rocks will give a theatre party in honor of Miss Smucker December 8 and a dance will be given for her in January.

The James H. Procters closed their cottage at Beverly Cove Wednesday of this week.

President Taft Leases "Paramatta", Peabody Cottage at Montserrat.

President Taft has made his decision as to a summer home for the seasons of 1911 and 1912, "Paramatta", Mrs. Peabody's Monserrat estate on Corning street, being the choice. Mrs. Peabody received word Monday evening stating his decision.

The new summer capital is on Corning street, about 200 yards from the Montserrat depot, setting back some distance from the road. The house is much larger than the Evans cottage which the President occupied the past two seasons. It contains 18 rooms and across the street is a twelve room cottage, part of the Peabody estate. This will be used for executive offices, it is said. Other features of the estate are the Japanese gardens, tennis courts and golf links, artificial pond for geese, ducks and swans and a fine fishing preserve. The grounds embrace over 60 acres. The house and grounds will be put in the best condition for the reception of the Presidential family. Water privileges also go with the estate so that the President will be enabled to land from or board his yacht but a short distance from the estate. Mr. Peabody, late husband of the present owner of Paramatta, was one of the famous Boston merchants, whose ships sailed to all parts of the world and brought back great cargoes from the far east to Boston. The rare plants in the Japanese garden were brought from the east by the late Mr. Peabody.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gordon Means are to spend the winter at Beverly Farms as last year.

E. T. Stotesbury, father of Mrs. S. E. Hutchinson of Philadelphia and Beverly Farms, has donated $50,000 to the Palisades Park Commission of New York. He appears to be the only non-resident of New York who subscribed, according to a published list of those backing the project.

Mrs. Q. A. Shaw, sr., closed his country residence on Common Lane, Pride's Crossing, the first of the week and returned to her Boston home.

The H. M. Sears closed their Pride's Crossing home this week and have moved to Boston permanently for the winter.

Mrs. Hall Curtis brought her season's stay at Beverly Farms to a close on Tuesday returning to her Boston home on Spruce street.

Last Saturday was the day of the departure from Beverly Farms of the J. L. Frothinghams of Boston who have had the small George Lee cottage on Hale street.

The Vincent Club fair will take place November 29 at Hotel Somerset, Boston. As many North Shore summer residents are members, the various coteries of the younger smart set will be identified with its various attractions. Mrs. Frank B. Bemis of Beverly Farms will be in charge of the bridge tournament.

Miss Osborne of New York has been the recent guest of Mrs. C. A. Munn and the Misses Munn of Beach street, Manchester.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The first production on the operatic stage of Debussy's one act opera "L'Enfant Prodigue" will mark the second week of grand opera at the Boston Opera House. Claude Debussy, the master of modern French music won the much coveted Prix de Rome with the work.

The repertoire of the week commencing Monday, the 14th, will be as follows;—The production of Gounod's "Faust" scenically entirely novel to American audiences, will be given on Monday night. It is an exact reproduction of the scenery and costumes of L'Opera in Paris. The performance will start at 7.45. Andre Caplet, the most eminent French musician of the newer generation, will make his debut as conductor. Alice Nielsen will appear for the first time this season; she will sing the role of Marguerite. Herman Jadowker of the Metropolitan Opera will sing the title role. Leon Sibirakoff, who made his debut at the opening performance of the second season and scored a great success as Mefistofele in Boito's opera of the same name, will sing the part of Mefistofele, and George Baklanoff, the Russian baritone, will take the part of Valentine. Others in the cast will be Jeska Swartz as Siebel, Anne Roberts as Martha, and Frederick Huddy as Wagner, and complete crops de ballet.

Wednesday evening, Nov. 16th, at 8 "L'Enfant Prodigue" with Alice Nielsen as Lia will be given its first American production. Robert Lassalle will sing the part of Simeon and Ramon Blanchart will be Azael. Andre Caplet will conduct. This opera will be followed by Leonecavallo's "Il Pagliacci" with Florencio Constantino as Canio. Fely Dereyne makes her first appearance this season at Nedda, and Tonio will be sung by Carlo Galeffi who will make his Boston debut. Others in the cast are Rodolfo Fornari, Ernesto Giaccione, C. Stroesco and Frederick Huddy. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

"La Boheme" will be presented on Friday evening, Nov. 18th, at 8 and Alice Nielsen will sing. Constantino will sing Rodolfo, one of his famous roles, and Fely Dereyne will take the part of Musetta. Marcello will be sung by Galeffi and Colline by Jose Mardones. Others in the cast are Attilio Pulcini as Schau-nard, Luigi Tavecchia, Frederick Huddy and C. Stroesco. Wallace Goodrich will conduct.

At the Saturday matinee on Nov. 19th at 2, Rossini's "Barber of Seville" will be presented. Lydia Lipkowska will sing the role of Rosina, and Florencio Constantino the role of Count Almaviva. Leon Sibirakoff will sing Basilio. Others in the cast are Anne Roberts, Rodolfo Fornari, Luigi Tavecchia, Attilio Pulcini and Ernesto Giaccione. Arnaldo Conti will conduct.

Saturday evening, Nov. 19th, at 7.45 at popular prices, Verdi's "Aida" will be presented with the following cast. Carmen Melis as Aida, Janka Czaplinska as Armeris, Ruby Savage as Una Sacerdotessa. Enrico Areson will make his American debut as Radames, and George Baklanoff will sing Amonasro.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

The most important announcement of the year to date in connection with B. F. Keith's theatre is the appearance of Gus Edwards, the song writer and composer of "School Days;" "Sunbonnet Sue;" "Good Bye Little Girl Good Bye;" "See Saw;" and hundreds of others that have been whistled and sung all over the country, who will appear in a big production called Gus Edwards' "Song Revue." In this number Mr. Edwards will be supported by a company of thirty-three singers and dancers, and he has one of the most elaborate productions ever made in vaudeville. There is a constant change of scenery, seventeen different pictures being

SOCIETY NOTES

The C. A. Munn, Jr., concluded their stay at the Prince cottage, West Manchester, Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Munn will spend the winter in Boston having secured the Iasigi house in the Back Bay.

Mrs. Edward Small Moore and children and her sister, Miss Marion McGinley, are leaving the Stevens cottage, Smith's Point, Manchester, Monday for their respective homes in Chicago and Pittsburg.

Mrs. William Robinson Cabot is leaving the Eliot cottage, Beverly Farms, Monday, and will return to Brookline for the winter.

Rear Admiral H. G. O. Colby of Boston and West Manchester arrived home on the Cymric from Liverpool last week.

shown during the progress of the act, and the company includes a number of soloists who sing Mr. Edwards' latest songs. One of these that is bound to be whistled all over Boston is "Look Out For Jimmy Valentine," a song travesty on the drama now running in New York. This will be Mr. Edwards' first appearance in vaudeville in Boston, and an opportunity will be offered to hear him sing his own songs in his own way.

Did you ever stop to wonder what a lot of mischief you might get into if you didn't have to work so hard for a living?

The Boylston Beals have moved from their Smith's Point cottage to Boston for the winter. They are planning, however, to spend the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays on the Shore.

Mrs. C. S. Tuckerman and sons left "Applefield", their Ipswich estate, Tuesday for their winter home in Boston.

Geo. Von L. Meyer, Secretary of the Navy, arrived at his Hamilton residence Tuesday after a trip to the naval stations of the country and Cuba.

The honor of entertaining the President's daughter, Miss Helen Taft, at the first large ball of the season will belong to Baltimore, where Miss Taft will make a visit in December. The Monday german, December 12, is one of a series of time honored functions. She will participate in this event as the guest of Miss Christine Marbury, daughter of Theodore Marbury.

The New York National Horse Show opens November 14 and will continue through the 19th. The Chicago International Horse Show is scheduled for November 22-26.

The French Bulldog Club of New England will hold its bench show in Boston, Nov. 30, and December 1. The Toy Spaniel Club of America will have its bench show in New York, December 2 and 3.

There was particular North Shore interest in Wednesday evening's Opera performance as the conductor was Wallace Goodrich of West Manchester, who made a careful and appreciative study of Verdi's "Rigoletto", the opera of the evening. The stars were Lydia Lipkowska, Constantino and Balkanoff.

W. J. Creed of Beverly, who established himself in business on the North Shore two years ago, as caterer, and to do private waiting, will be in Boston again this winter. He will be located at the Mass. Chambers, where patrons may reach him at any time by calling telephone 3040 Back Bay. Mr. Creed is prepared to cater to very large as well as small parties. In fact, he catered to many of the largest and most exclusive functions on the North Shore the last two seasons.

✱ Manchester ✱

Miss Alice Hoare spent the first of the week in Roxbury the guest of Mrs. Robert Allen (Minnie Olsen).

Substitute letter carrier, Daniel Chane is moving his family from Magnolia to one of C. L. Crafts houses on Pleasant street extension.

In accordance with the requirements of the state commission of public records new steel-enamel vault fittings are today being installed in the vault at the town hall. The regulations call for a stated kind of fittings and the selectmen have complied with the requirements. The cost of same is in the vicinity of $400.

The school committee has petitioned for the location of telephone poles on Brook street extension, from Summer street to the Price Primary school. A hearing was held at the selectmen's room yesterday, but as nobody appeared another hearing is called for next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The estate of the late Daniel Mahoney was sold Wednesday at a trustee's sale, to close the estate. The property on Summer street, at the entrance to the Essex County club was sold for $1400 to P. H. Boyle, who may later move the barn thereon to his property on Summer street, a couple of hundred yards away. The old homestead on Elm street was bid in by George E. Willmont on for $2400. It is understood this will remain in the hands of one of the members of the Mahoney family.

Tuesday evening, the 15th, will inaugurate the beginning of renewed activity with the local camp, Sons of Veterans. On that occasion visiting brothers of the order are expected from Gloucester and Rockport. Invitations have likewise been extended to all eligible sons and grand sons of Veterans to be present, also the old soldiers, to enjoy the talk to be given by Ernest Mead of Wellesley Farms, who has been pleasantly and profitably heard on previous occasions. All brothers are expected to be at the camp room as early as possible in uniform and with a short parade, red fire and music, with attendant enthusiasm, a good time is assured. Refreshments, of course, served by the entertainment committee, who are on to their job and not restricted as to quantity. Come early, stay late is the slogan, and fill out an application blank while at the hall.

Coleman-Guinnivan.

Thursday evening at 7.30 o'clock, Miss Nellie Guinnivan and Philip Coleman, two well-known Beverly young people, were united in marriage at the parochial residence, Beverly by Rev. Francis Curran. The wedding was a quiet affair, only the immediate relatives of the two families being present. The bride was becomingly attired in an electric blue traveling suit with hat to match. Her sister, Miss Effie Guinnivan was maid of honor, and wore pale blue silk and a black picture hat. Dr. David Coleman of Beverly, a brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride has many friends in Manchester where for a number of years she was bookkeeper for Saml. Knight & Sons. The groom is a native of Beverly, but for a number of years has been connected with a banking house in Ohio. Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Coleman left for Washington, D. C., where they will spend their honeymoon. Their home will be in Ohio.

Lucius Glidden.

Lucius Glidden passed away at the Beverly hospital last Saturday evening at six o'clock after a few days illness with diabetes, though of course he had been ailing with the disease for a long time. Mr. Glidden was employed by the Smith's Express Co. for the past seven years and was always an honest, faithful worker. He was 53 years of age and his home was in South Effingham, N. H., where his body was taken for burial Wednesday.

Charles C. Boardman.

Charles C. Boardman of Gloucester died last Sunday night at the age of 80 years. He was a native of Manchester being the son of Samuel O. and Mary Boardman, but has lived in Gloucester for many years. In his younger days he was a cabinet maker. In later years he has been a piano and sewing machine agent, in Gloucester. He had many friends in Manchester.

Mrs. Edward Harraden received word Sunday from Minneapolis of the death in a hospital in that city of her sister, Mrs. Isabella Sargent widow of the late George Sargent of Lanesville. Mrs. Sargent was well-known in Manchester, where she and members of her family have visited at various times. Her body was brought to Lanesville for interment the first of this week.

The Election In Manchester.

For the first time in its history, it is said, and certainly for the first time within the memories of most of the present voters of the town, Manchester went Democratic at Tuesday's state election.

That is, it voted in favor of Mr. Foss for the next governor by four votes in excess of that given Mr. Draper. The rest of the ticket was for the Republican candidates with the exception of the vote of district attorney, in which case, Manchester showed its favor for the Gloucester candidate, Mr. Smith. The candidate for representative, H. Bert Knowles won out in this town by two votes. The democratic voters in the town are naturally very much elated over their success and the leaders of the party here are to be congratulated on the big vote they got out. The chairman of the committee, Frank Foster worked exceptionally hard to get out a good democratic vote. The summary of the vote is as follows:

REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

The former Boardman cottage at Beverly Farms, which was located on the property acquired by Sidney E. Hutchinson adjoining his Beverly Farms estate on the beach side, has reached its destination across the street. The land about its new location is being nicely enclosed and laid out for additional garden facilities.

The Samuel Carr estate at West Manchester is being greatly improved, a number of changes being made prior to next summer's occupancy.

Real estate transfers recorded at the Registry of Deeds, Salem, this week, include:

Chester L. Crafts of Manchester conveys to Daniel Edgecomb of Manchester land and buildings Pleasant street, Manchester, 127.61 by 163.3 feet.

John T. Gardiner et al., trustees of Land's End purchase, to Joseph R. Worcester of Waltham, land on Eden road, Rockport, 105 by 164.65 feet.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

PERHAPS the reason some places seem so untidy and disorderly is because there are so many broken resolutions lying round under foot, cumbering the ground.

With some people it is never too late to be later.

The way to keep out of a quarrel is to have the first word and not use it.

Commander Peary now can feel that he has one perfectly good north pole and so will be able to keep down his temperature.

The only thing about new clothes that a boy really enjoys is the process of making them old.

Needs Operating On.

Will the class in anatomy
Please arise
And listen while
The professor tries
His best to explain
And to make the thing plain
All that is known Concerning
Winter's backbone?
It is a cold story,
Children,
From cold storage.
This backbone
Of winter
Has a way
Of humping itself,
Not like the hump
On a camel,
Oh, no!
More like the hump
On Greenland's icy mountains.
You may handle the subject
Without gloves,
But it is better
To put on Your woolen mittens
When you go to it.
It has one Peculiarity
That you will notice.
You think
It is broken
When
It isn't even cracked.
One warm day
And you say,
"Hurray!"
That'll be all
For it.
Then right away
It throws another fit,
Stiffens up
Like an alderman under fire,
And you say:
"Oh, shucks!
It is here to stay!"

Of Course.

"Children seem badly reared nowadays."

"But not from ignorance."

"No?"

"No; there are legions who know all about how they should be trained."

"Indeed! Who are they?"

"Those people who have no children."

Modernizing.

"Can't we do something to bring this drama up to date?" asked the stage manager.

"What would you suggest?"

"You know that line, 'A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse!' I thought we might have him ring for his automobile."

The Engagement Ring.

"He hasn't any money."

"Is that the reason why she doesn't love him any more?"

"No, but it is the reason why she has turned him out into the cold world to hustle up and make good or else she'll ring off."

Disappointments.

"What are you crying about, Jimmy?"

"All the other boys get to stay out of school for a week or two except me. I can't have the measles nor have any leg broken nor nothing."

All Done.

"He is trying to make a monkey of me."

"He can't do it, though."

"You bet he can't."

"Of course not. Nature beat him to it."

Wasted Talents.

"I saw Jones filling you up."

"Yes, but does he tell the truth?"

"Most artistic liar I ever knew."

"Then why didn't he discover the north pole?"

The Choicest.

For lack of cash to keep the pace
The best man often misses.
The only good things that are free
Are kisses.

Depends.

"It is easy to lie."

"Not when you have to depend upon the lie to make your living for you."

Reason Enough.

"Why did he call it a popular lecture?"

"Because nobody came, I guess."

Man Next Door to Hear From.

"He wasn't an enemy in the world."

"How old is this marvel?"

"Oh, about six or eight hours."

Wary of All Cures.

"I see you have a very hard cold."
"Thank you. Please don't mention it."

Printing

WITH A

"Pull"

Anybody in business should make it a point to have only the best in printing. Every piece of advertising literature sent out acts as a silent salesman, and on the appearance of this salesman depends the "Pulling Power." The Breeze Print executes the kind of printing that gets business—and keeps it.

LETTER-HEADS, STATEMENTS, PACKET-HEADS, BILL-HEADS POST CARDS
POSTERS, FLYERS, PLACARDS WINDOW CARDS BOOKS, CATALOGUES FOLDERS
CALLING CARDS, ENVELOPES BALL ORDERS and TICKETS
WEDDING STATIONERY

The list covers a few of the many different forms of printing we do. To designate all the different lines of letter-press work the office is capable would require too much space.

Some people never tire of asking favors of a newspaper but when it comes to getting a little job of printing done they correspond with every office within fifty miles in order to get a reduction in price of a few cents. They generally don't care a farthing about the looks of a job just so the price is low. They expect a newspaper to live on wind but to always be prepared to cheerfully hurl a chunk of "taffy" their way as large as a washtub.—Richmond

REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIA- TION.

Mrs. Alma Pendexter Hayden of Rochester, N. Y., Addressed the Meeting.

The Manchester Woman's club and Parent-Teacher Association met in joint session at the chapel Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock to welcome to Manchester, Mrs. Alma Pendexter Hayden of Rochester, N. Y., superintendent of the Rochester Industrial School, and a sister of Mrs. Frank P. Knight of Manchester.

The platform was occupied by Mrs. Hayden, Mrs. Emma G. Tenney, president of the Woman's club and Mrs. Grace K. Beaton, president of the Parent-Teacher Association.

Mrs. Hayden gave a very interesting talk on the various departments of industrial work at the school, its resources for practical and helpful training and the school as a medium to learn how the "other half" lives.
The cooking department specialized in economical cooking and cleanliness. The sewing department was very practical, mending, cutting and making of clothes being particular branches.

There was an outside visitor to visit in the tenement districts, and report conditions and the Industrial School took up the cases for improvement. The playgrounds for the children were referred to, and music, games, dancing and sewing were features of this department.
The work was even more far reaching through the medium of Day
Nurseries and Mothers' clubs.

Mrs. Hayden considers the playground a great training for civil government and the opportunity to learn to designate between fair and right, two adjectives which greatly appeal and impress children.

As education today is tending toward practical issues she believed no cultured or refined person could be indifferent to human life or the cause of the "other half." The Parent-Teacher Associations therefore are good missionaries in this respect and can join in the work of "passing the good along" in a very helpful manner. Mrs. Hayden interspersed her remarks with humorous juvenile anecdotes which created much amusement.

She was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums and a rising note of thanks.

At the close of the address Mrs.
E. H. Wilcox rendered a solo very impressively, Mrs. Charles E. Williams proving a very sympathetic accompanist.

Mrs. Alfred L. Saben, wife of the principal of the High School, was chairman of the program and is to be congratulated on its helpful and social merits.

During the social period, afternoon tea was served by Mrs. John C. Mackin, wife of the superintendent of schools,, Misses Eaton and Calden of the teaching faculty, Mrs.
G. S. Sinnicks, Mrs. O. M. Stanley,
Mrs. Alexander Robertson, Mrs.
William Follett, representing the club; Mrs. J. J. Connors, Mrs. Edward F. Height, and Mrs. Charles Francis, the parents; Mr. Mackin and Mr. Saben served as ushers.

in an eclipse that will be clearly visible from this part of the world next Wednesday, Nov. 16. Total eclipse will begin at 6.55 p. m. and last 52 minutes, or until 7.47 p. m.
The moon will emerge from the shadow at 8.58 p. m. and from the penumbra at 9.56 p. m. The time of greatest interest will be from 7 to 10 in the evening, when the moon will be high in the eastern sky.

Our Weekly Letter From ::
:: :: :: Washington

Special to the North Shore Breeze.

Washington, November 9—Under the pure food laws of the United States it is as much a fraud on the public to give an incorrect impression regarding the origin or place of production of an article for human consumption as it is to give a wrong impression regarding the contents, nature, or composition of such an article. Foreign governments have been co-operating with the Government of the United States to prevent the misbranding and incorrect labeling of food products originating in those countries. France has been very active in this respect, and it is now illegal in France to label as champagne any wine produced outside of certain well-defined boundaries. A sparkling wine produced elsewhere than in the legally defined champagne country cannot legally be sold as champagne, even though experts might declare that it possessed all the qualities of wine so grown and even was superior to them. The same thing holds as regards cognac, and it is probable that similar regulations will be adopted regarding certain popular brands of cheese and other things which the public associates with trade names.

Lucca olive oil is another article which those who have the right to use that name wish to see protected. So many inferior grades of olive oil have been put on the market as "Lucca" that the name was fast ceasing to carry any weight. Olive oil labeled "Lucca" has been found by the pure food inspectors coming from Greece and from Spain and from other places aside from Lucca itself.

Trying to Classify Coffee.

The Government is now taking up the question of requiring the numerous varieties of coffee imported into this country to be honestly labeled. At a meeting of the Pure Food Board held in Washington last week for the purpose of taking testimony regarding the labeling of Brazilian coffee, prominent importers from New York testified that Brazilian coffee had been shipped to Arabia in order that it might be re-imported from Aden as Mocha coffee, and they said that the practice was still in force, although as Dr. Wiley remarked, the dealers did not always go to Arabia for re-export before branding it as "Mocha," or some other brand recognized as fine Arabian coffee.

After hearing testimony from experts present showing that the practice has grown up of labeling coffee with the name of the port from whence it is shipped regardless of the place of origin, Dr. Wiley stated that an effort would be made to reform this practice, which the importers admitted to be wrong, and that the matter would be properly taken up in due form with the Government of Brazil through the State Department to the end that the Brazilian coffees, which form by far the greater part of the coffee used in the United States, should be sold under their proper designation. It developed that the existing practice is beneficial chiefly to the trade, which has been getting about a cent a pound more at wholesale for a great deal of the Brazilian coffee on account of the system of branding with which the trade is very familiar, but concerning which the public at large has been in ignorance.

Thanksgiving Topics.

Whatever may be the feeling of the average citizen, the country at large certainly has a great deal of cause for thankfulness. It is not plunged in any costly wars, it is enjoying a large measure of business prosperity, most industries are in a condition which enables them to keep a full force busy at satisfactory wages, and the crops are so big that a mere statement of their size in terms of bushels or dollars conveys a very inadequate impression of their value. Standing out large in the totals is the corn crop of 3,000,000,000 bushels—and corn has been selling lately in New York at 60 cents a bushel. For once the axiom that big crops mean low prices does not hold good. It would seem as if the farmer, of all people, had a right to be thankful. And he has, but he would have a still better right if the proceeds of his labors were not so inequitably divided. Too many non-producers take toll until, when the crops reach the consumer, they are marked up to figures which appall the humble wage-earner. The farmer is the most prosperous man in the country today, and the rush of pupils to the agricultural schools and colleges proves that many are going to seek on the farms a portion of the prosperity which everyone attributes to the farmer.

The illustrated lecture entitled "A Summer In Norway" gave great pleasure to those in attendance at the Town Hall Wednesday evening. Miss Minna Elliot Tenney, the lecturer, spoke from her personal knowledge of the manners and customs of the people her remarks being made doubly intelligible and instructive by the display of beautiful stereopticon pictures. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Manchester Woman's club.

William Phillips and family are moving from the Crafts house into Mrs. Margaret Lee's house on Pleasant street.

The next meeting of the Haphazard Club will be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Glendenning, on Monday evening, Nov. 14, at 7.45 o'clock.

H. Baker, the tailor, has moved from the Kimball block, to the store in the building on Beach street occupied by the Breeze, where he will remain during the winter months.

The supper given at G. A. R. hall Thursday evening by the Relief Corps was very well patronized and an excellent supper was served, much to the credit of Mrs. Mary Lane and the other ladies in charge of it.

Mrs. Fannie Toppan of Hanover, is in town to remain with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Rowe, over the Thanksgiving holidays, when her brother, Samuel A. Rowe, who has been in Rutland for some time will be home. Mr. Rowe's many friends will be pleased to hear of his improving health, which will enable him to spend the coming holiday at his home. Mrs. Toppan is assisting temporarily at the office of S. Knight & Sons.

Manchester's oldest citizen—D. L. Bingham, was one of the 471 voters to cast his ballot at the State election Tuesday, the day after his 96th birthday. And odd as it may seem the youngest voter in the town was in the voting booth at the same time as Mr. Bingham, in the personage of Stedman Hanks, the son of the late Charles Stedman Hanks.

The many friends of Miss Florence Kauffman, teacher of modern languages at the Story High school for the last seven or eight years, will regret to hear of her resignation from the faculty, to take effect Dec. 1. She has accepted a position in the High school at Asbury Park, New Jersey, which is one of the largest summer resorts in that state. During her stay in Manchester Miss Kauffmann has endeared herself to a great many people, especially to the pupils whom she has taught, and it was with much regret that the pupils at the school learned of her intentions this week. She is an especially good teacher and her loss will be one hard to fill. Miss Kauffman's home is in Lexington.

George E. Willmorton while passing County road, Ipswich, near the Ipswich-Hamilton line Monday in his auto discovered Francis B. Armington, ex-president of the Armington Coal Co., of Marblehead, and a retired business man, beneath his wrecked automobile killed by a broken neck. Mr. Armington is believed to have attempted a sharp turn in the road at high speed, and after half ascending a steep embankment, rolled over and over down into the roadway. Mr. Willmorton called a physician, who found that Mr. Armington's neck was broken. The deceased was 45 years old and well-known in Essex County. He was a Spanish war veteran. M. B. Gilman and E. S. Knight were with Mr. Willmorton at the time.

The assessors have received word as to the amount of corporation and bank tax to be received by Manchester this year. The public service corporation tax will be $49,095.11; the domestic business corp. tax, $92.86; and the national bank tax will be $5991.45,—a total of $55,179.42. Last year the corporation tax was $54,414, and the bank tax was $4,959,—a total of $59,373, a loss of $4,193.58 this year. The assessors feel satisfied with the returns, as they anticipated a decided decrease this year in view of the new statutes governing revenue from these sources. It was expected that the town would meet a large loss this year, due to the domestic corporation taxes being credited to the towns and cities in which such corporations are located. Manchester fared especially well from the public service corporations, however.

Delucena L. Bingham, Manchester's oldest resident, had the great pleasure of celebrating his 96th birthday on Monday under the most happy conditions. His wife, who is 91 years of age, was able to receive with him. He is in the best of health and able to attend to his duties at the public library, being the oldest living active librarian in the United States. Mr. and Mrs. Bingham had numerous callers, many floral tributes, two birthday cakes and a most delectable dinner. Among the birthday remembrances was an autograph volume entitled "Authors and Friends" sent by Mrs. James T. Fields, a beautiful picture of the library by John R. Cheever and sums of money in gold by admiring friends. Summer residents also sending gifts were Mrs. Wm. Hooper, George R. White and Mrs. Frederick T. Bradbury.

Rev. Frederick W. Lockwood, assist. supt. of the Anti Saloon League, gave an address at the Village church last Sunday evening that was well liked. He spoke in an interesting manner of the work of the League and of the activity of the Brewers' and Distillers' Trust in influencing legislation which made the League necessary if only from a protective point of view. He referred to the growing opposition of business men to the saloon and their growing realization of the many ways in which it hurts business and said that after an address recently a large manufacturer told him that if he could move his plant to a town into which the saloon would not come, it would be worth to him an outlay for moving of $100,000.

Mrs. Willard Boyd and daughter Mary, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bannon of Lynn, over the week-end.

Augustus Macone, who has been employed in Newton the past year, has accepted a position as stone mason for D. C. Ballou & Co.

Misses Amy and Mary Lycett left Thursday for a short visit with relatives in Lynn and Bridgewater.

The young people are looking forward with pleasure to the commencement of Miss Louise Friend's dancing classes which will start shortly after the Christmas holidays.

Among those from this place who attended the Elks' first grand concert and ball at Gloucester Wednesday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Hunt and son William.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold its first meeting next Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. R. Crispin. A full attendance is requested.

Rev. F. L. Libby returned last Friday from a vacation spent on and around the Great Lakes. His experiences travelling in a freighter up and down the Lakes and visiting the great Copper Country of Lake Superior and the still more important iron region of Minnesota will form the subject of his address next Sunday evening. Mrs. John J. Burke united with the Village church last Sunday. Communion was celebrated after the morning service with twenty-five present.

Annual Meeting of Church.

The annual meeting of the Union Congregational church in Magnolia was held at the church Wednesday evening. Supper was served by the ladies at 6.30, the committee in charge being Mrs. Fred S. Lycett, Mrs. Henry W. Brown and Mrs. W. R. Boyd. A social hour followed, while tables were being cleared and the dishes washed. At 8 o'clock the meeting was called to order by Wm. L. Wilkins, moderator. After prayer by the pastor the roll was called and of seventy members forty-five were present and nine others had sent letters to be read in answer to their names. The treasurer's report showed all bills paid and $160 in the treasury.

The pastor's report indicated the grounds for encouragement in beginning the new year: The manifest life of the church showing the presence of God in it; the steadily increasing attendance at all of the services; the steady growth in membership; the loyalty of the young people; the splendid condition of the Sunday school; the growth of missionary interest; and the generous backing accorded the church by friends of means both without and within its circle. High tribute was paid the character of the three members lost by death during the year,—Lillian West, who died November 29, Mrs. Mary A. Lycett, who died December 13, and Elbridge G. Foster who died February 13.

The pastor then proceeded to speak of the program of work before the church for the winter, which included a Sunday morning service attended by every member giving inspiration for the week; a Sunday School with every Protestant child in the village present; a People's Forum Sunday evenings after Christmas; a strong young people's meeting Friday evenings; a Men's Bible class to be held on a week night in the kitchen of Henry W. Brown to study the Sermon on the Mount in the light of present problems; two strong patrols of Boy Scouts; a Reading Circle to encourage the habit of good reading among the young people; a loyally supported Ladies' Aid Society; and over and above all as the main work of the church, the continued service to the community, filling it with kindness, with sweetness and light, with faith and hope and joy.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Standing Committee: Dea. W. R. Boyd, Mrs. Howard Foster, Mrs. Henry W. Brown; Geo. A. Upton, clerk; Wm. L. Wilkins, moderator; Mrs. Edgar L. Story, treasurer; Fred S. Lycett, asst. treas.; W. R. Boyd, deacon; Charles G. Hoysradt, asst. deacon; Mrs. Judith Wilkins, deaconess; Mrs. F. F. Story, asst. deaconess; Amy D. Lycett, organist; Mary Boyd, asst. organist.

Among the members present from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Sanborn of West Action; Mrs. Edith Strombald and Mrs. Ernest W. Dunbar of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Dunbar and Mrs. Ida Pring of Gloucester; Mrs. Fred F. Davis of Annisquam; Mrs. Chas. Currier, Mrs. Samuel Wolfe and Miss Izetta Ray Wolfe of Fresh Water Cove. Miss Marian G. Story also came from Boston for the meeting returning next day.

There is a man in a neighboring town who is so slow that his neighbors say the only thing he was ever known to catch was the measles.

"WORK FOR THE WANT ADS"

This sort of work is a part of the "usual usefulness" of the classified ads. They accomplish so much of it—at so little expense, with so little delay—that other ways of finding work for either people or money are going out of use.

One of the greatest accomplishments is to be a good listener. By letting the other man do all the talking we acquire a reputation for wisdom far above that we may gain in any other way.

Don't speculate. Calculate, regulate, hesitate, migrate if you think you must, but never speculate.

Representative-elect Herman A. MacDonald in stating his position on the election of a U. S. senator says: "The best interest of the Republican party should be the first consideration of all Republicans. The political fortunes of any one man should not in my opinion stand in the way of party harmony. The recent election shows that in the national government progressive men are needed and needed badly if the Republicans hope to govern in the future. If Senator Lodge withdraws or other Republicans are considered or put in the field I know of no man setts than Curtis Guild, Jr."

Last evening Mrs. Saml. F. Collamore at her home on Greenwood avenue entertained the Ladies Sewing Circle.

Charles H. Creesy of Beverly, a candidate for alderman at large, was at the Farms yesterday circulating his nomination paper.

Charles Boothby of Kennebunkport, Me., was at the Farms a portion of this week. He is spending a week or so in Boston and came to the Farms to renew his acquaintances here.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Guinnivan last evening attended the wedding in Beverly of Mr. Guinnivan's sister, Miss Nellie Guinnivan and Philip Coleman.

Members of the G. A. R. and Associates are requested to meet in G. A. R. hall on Thursday evenings of each week. As soon as a sufficient number are present the meeting will organize and plan out a program for the winter.

Registration for the city election commences this evening at City hall. The dates are Friday evening, November 11; Wednesday evening, November 16; Friday evening, November 18, and the last is on Wednesday, November 23, from 12 o'clock noon to 10 p. m.

The Beverly Farms fire department last Monday evening at the West street fire station held their monthly business meeting after which a splendid collation was served.

Alderman Augustus P. Loring last Wednesday morning took out nomination papers for alderman in Ward 6, and the same are being circulated for signatures by Eli R. Hodgkins. Under the new charter each ward is to have one representative only but there are three to be elected at large.

A Literary club has been formed at the Farms among a number of ladies, which is to meet during the coming winter on Monday evenings. Besides a program of a literary nature at each meeting there is to be a social hour and refreshments. The officers are: Miss Jane M. Watson, president; Miss Wilhelmina Patterson, secretary; Mrs. John Hawley, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Connolly of Connolly Place are delighted over the advent of a baby girl which came to them last Sunday morning.

It has been suggested that now the new city charter has been accepted that in Ward 6 a public meeting be held to nominate officers to represent the ward. Such a meeting could nominate a mayor, alderman at large, alderman and member for the school committee. It could not only be instrumental in putting into the running such candidates as they saw fit to nominate but could endorse or approve any who may seek office, who have already or may later take out nomination papers. Such a meeting would undoubtedly be well attended and create an interest in the ward in having it well represented.

Addison Davis has plans out for a new two-story house which he proposes to build on a lot he owns corner of the Chebacco Road and Pole Swamp Lane at Preston Place.

Judge Blake, now of the Farms, was much interested in last Tuesday's election. He was until recently a citizen of Montana and in 1860 was a delegate from that state to the National Convention, which nominated Abraham Lincoln for the Presidency. Judge Blake is also a Civil war veteran and is now living with his daughter, Mrs. Clark at the Ober estate off Hale street.

Election day at the Farms was a busy one. Autos and carriages were used to get out the voters, and out of a registration of 343 there were 289 who voted. The Foss supporters were very much pleased over the 129 votes polled for the Governor-elect which was the largest ever given in Ward 6 for a Democratic candidate for governor and only 29 votes behind Draper. The vote on the new city charter which was in favor of its acceptance by 134-90 was a surprise, as not much was done by the supporters of the new charter to push it. Ward 6 was the first in the city to announce the vote, as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Perkins have returned to their home in Chicago after spending several weeks at the Farms, where they were the guests of Mrs. Benj. Ober, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Hooper on Hale street.

The marriage of Miss Mary, daughter of Mrs. Thos. Quirk of High street, to Thomas M. Conroy will take place shortly. Both young people live at the Farms, are very popular and their host of friends are congratulating them over the coming happy event.

The Republican Ward 6 committee are disappointed over being unable to bring up the vote in Ward 6 for Gov. Draper to 150. If this had been done, it would have given this ward in the conventions of next year a larger number of delegates. The vote for the head of the ticket was 149, just one vote short of the required number to give the ward the desired increase of representation.

Nicholas Lawlor has gone on a vacation trip to Vermont to visit Horatio A. Haskell at his farm. Mr. Haskell until a year or so ago was all his life a Farms resident.

The Beverly city election comes on Tuesday, December 13. Gen. William Stopford, Frederick A. Dodge and possibly Sumner Glines are so far the candidates for mayor.

Richard Slee of Washington, D. C., a former Marblehead resident was at the Farms a part of this week visiting friends. Mr. Slee is always glad to see anybody from the Farms at the National capital, where he entertains them royally.

Wilbur J. Pierce, the Central square plumber, is out with a new automobile. It is a Flanders.

The public supper given in G. A. R. banquet hall last Tuesday from 5 to 7 o'clock by Preston W. R. Corps was a great success. The affair was well patronized.

It is reported that Messrs. Millett, Roundy, Forness and Golphwait of the school board will not be candidates under the new charter, which decreases the committee from 9 to 7 members.

"The Blind Trio", presenting an excellent program of instrumental solos, duets, stereoptican talks, humorous songs and comic pictures will no doubt attract a large audience, as it should at the Baptist church chapel this evening.

Quite a feat of building moving, which has attracted much attention, was the moving during the past week of the Boardman house recently purchased by Mr. Hutchinson. It was moved from the old location on West Beach across West street to the new location on the north side of above street. The drop or incline from a steep banking required a great amount of blocking and extreme care. The house is now resting on its new foundation.

Well We're Having Just The Dandiest Time

And the farther it advances the better it seems, the way goods are coming and going this season. Every new invoice appears to have surprises in store that keep one on the very edge of excitement, the beauty they show, and at the prices they'll sell just makes us long for the opportunity to show them.

One of the new fads in furniture—and furniture certainly has its fads—is the beautiful

Princess Dresser

'Tis a very pretty piece, its very name would imply that, and then, too, it is so very practical. It has that great long mirror, in which one can see one's entire figure, and three spacious drawers, too, so convenient.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Francis M. Stanwoods, after a long season on the North Shore, closed their summer home on Smith's Point, Manchester, yesterday and returned to town for the winter. They have taken a house at 90 Ivy street, Brookline, this winter.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Mandell of Boston and Beverly Cove celebrated their golden wedding Tuesday evening by a family gathering at the Algonquin club, Boston. A dinner of sixty covers was given, the guests present being relatives and members of Mr. Mandell's firm, C. F. Hovey & Co., and a few surviving friends of their early married life.

—x—

Major Henry L. Higginson of Boston and West Manchester presided at the banquet at Hotel Somerset, Boston, Tuesday evening given by the Harvard Club of Boston to the Harvard Varsity crew of 1910.

—x—

On Tuesday was held the first meeting of the new and exclusive skating club at the Arena, Boston. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Oliver Ames and Miss Mary Josephine Amory.

—x—

Recent contributors to the Edward Everett Hale Statue fund include Augustus P. Loring of Pride's $50 and Mrs. George D. Howe, Manchester, $50. The amount is now $14,650.

—x—

Ernest Jackson, Prof. Charles Loring Jackson and Miss Anna P. Jackson have concluded their long sojourn at Pride's. There were passengers on the White Star line steamer Zeeland which left Boston Tuesday morning for Europe.

—x—

Late sojourners among the Hamilton colonists are the Frederick J. Alleys and the Reginald C. Robbins.

—x—

The members of the Harvard football team spent the last week-end at the Myopia Hunt Club.

—x—

Departures from Pride's Crossing summer homes this week include Mr. and Mrs. William A. Burnham and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus P. Loring on Monday. On the same day, Judge and Mrs. W. C. Loring removed to their winter residence on Gloucester street, Boston.

—x—

Mrs. James F. Curtis concluded her stay at her Pride's estate Thursday and opened her Boston residence on Marlboro street for the winter.

SOCIETY NOTES

Count and Countess von Wedel, who spent part of the summer at Manchester, were guests of honor at a dinner given last Friday evening by the German ambassador and Countess von Bernstorff, at Washington. Count Wedel, the retiring counsellor of the embassy, will sail next week for Germany. The second Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Kennard gave a luncheon in their honor last Sunday.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. George Dexter bring their season's stay at Pride's to a close tomorrow and will remove to their Boston home on Commonwealth avenue.

—x—

Henry Clay Frick will be a box-holder at the Nixon theatre, Pittsburg, Nov. 22 at the appearance of Miss Ellen Terry in her "acted discourse" of "The Heroines of Shakespeare". The lecture is given under the auspices of the Free Kindergarten association.

—x—

Mrs. Henry May and the Misses Cecelia and Isabel May, since their return to Washington from Manchester, have been sojourning at the Virginia Hot Springs.

—x—

Advices from Washington Monday reported the critical illness of Preston Gibson, the dramatist, who spent the summer at Beverly Farms. He was brought to Washington from New York by special train last Monday. The many North Shore friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gibson (Grace Jarvis) hope for a speedy recovery.

—x—

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, sr., of Cincinnati and Pride's Crossing is in Pittsburg, the house guest of her daughter, Mrs. Buckner A. Wallingford, jr., of Ridge avenue. Mrs. Longworth had been in Washington visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Count and Countess de Chambrun, previous to arriving in Pittsburg.

—x—

Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter is among the season's subscribers to the forth-coming series of four visiting orchestral concerts given under the auspices of the Pittsburg Orchestra Association. December 5, the New York Philharmonic orchestra appears; Jan. 30, the Boston Symphony orchestra; February 21 and March 27 the Thomas orchestra of Chicago.

—x—

Among the late sojourners at Beverly Cove, who have returned to Boston recently, are Col. and Mrs. Cranmore Wallace and Col. and Mrs. Wm. D. Sohler. Percival Lombard and family are also settled in their winter home in Denver.

SOCIETY NOTES

December 1, is the date reported for the formal presentation of Miss Helen Taft, when Mrs. Taft will give a tea at the White House. Much entertaining will be done in her honor. Miss Catherine Britton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Britton of Washington and Magnolia, will give a dinner dance complimentary to Miss Taft.

At the opening of the New York Horse Show last Saturday, the Kilties band of Galt, Ontario, paraded the arena escorting 36 of the finest saddle horses in America, the cream of the stables of the Vanderbilts, Judge W. H. Moore of Pride's, the Watsons and the Culpepers of Virginia. Two thousand orphans from the various New York institutions were there besides 1500 children of the tenements who had $2.00 seats in the balconies of Madison Square Garden. They came as the guests of Alfred Vanderbilt. He also presented each one of them with toy horses filled with candy.

Paymaster and Mrs. Charles W. Littlefield (Mrs. Kirk Armour) have returned from their wedding trip and are among the North Shore contingent at the Homestead, Virginia Hot Springs.

Miss Elise Pollard of Brookline and East Gloucester assisted at the tea table at the presentation tea of Miss Sallie Rackemann last Friday afternoon, given in the ball room of the Tuileries, Boston.

Miss Elise Ames of Boston and Pride's, a leading debutante of the season, is identifying herself with the important social events of the winter. She was a participant in the hunt breakfast which Gen. and Mrs. Francis Peabody, Jr., gave at the Kennels of the Norfolk Hunt club. She is also appearing with her mother, Mrs. Oliver Ames, in the Ames box at Grand Opera looking charming in handsome and dainty frocks. On her hunter, Iona, she carried away some of the honors at the Norfolk Hunt.

Gurnee Munn of Washington and Manchester goes to New York Nov. 21 to serve as an usher at the wedding of Miss Frances Gordon Alexander and Allen Gouvenour Wellman at the Fifth avenue Presbyterian church. Mr. Wellman is a Harvard man, class of '05. The Wellmans summer at Bar Harbor.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Mortimer Brooks of New York, Newport and Manchester are registered at the St. Regis Hotel, New York, for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Bemis closed their Beverly Farms estate this week and removed to their winter residence on Beacon street, Boston.

Rodolphe L. Agassiz has returned from his Western trip and came to Hamilton last week to vote. He and his family are now settled in their Boston home for the winter.

The widow and daughter of the late John A. Burnham are remaining at their Wenham estate, Lord's Hill, until November 25.

Charles Bohlen and family of Philadelphia will stay at "Black Brook Farm" until the 25th. Next season it is expected that they will join the Ipswich summer colony as they have purchased property there, it is stated.

Julian Codman and family are remaining at their Hamilton estate until Christmas.

Hon. Augustus P. Gardner is still at "Sagamore Farm", Hamilton, but his family have concluded their stay there and have gone to Washington to prepare their winter home for the capital season.

The twenty-sixth annual National Horse Show at New York, opened last Saturday (12th) with 1740 entries, two hundred in excess of the best previous record.

Thomas P. Beals has been enjoying a two weeks' southern trip. He and his family are remaining at their beautiful Burgess Point estate for several weeks longer.

Francis I. Amory and family are to continue their stay at Beverly Cove several weeks longer, as are Mrs. Joseph H. Tyler and Chas H. Tyler at their spacious estate, "Willowbrook."

Miss Edith T. Fisher of Philadelphia has been a guest of the Henry P. McKean at Pride's Crossing this week.

Mrs. Henry Clay Frick and son, Child's Frick have been in New York this week. They left last Sunday in their private car.

H. M. Sears is continuing his round of entertainments since returning to Boston from Pride's. On the 22nd, he is giving a dinner for twenty-four guests at his residence on Commonwealth avenue.

John L. Saltonstall issued eighty invitations to a banquet at G. A. R. hall, Beverly, Tuesday evening, November 15. It was complimentary to the voters securing him his recent election as a representative.

Mrs. Wm. F. Draper and Miss Margaret Preston Draper, who left Manchester a few weeks ago, are at the St. Regis, New York, until they sail for Southern Europe where they will spend the winter. At a recent dinner party given at the hotel by Mrs. Draper, the guests present included Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, Mr. and Mrs. Preston White, Mrs. and Miss French, Winthrop Aldrich, Edmond J. Curley, H. L. Dillon and Preston David.

At the dance for the debutantes, Miss Sarah Parkman Rackemann and Miss Rose Lee Saltonstall of Milton, given last Friday evening at the Tuileries, Boston, by Mrs. C. Minot Weld, the ushers included Charles E. Cotting of West Manchester and William Davis Sohier, Jr., of Burgess Point, Beverly.

Departures this week from Beverly Farms summer homes were those on Tuesday of Allen Curtis and family and Mrs. Franklin Haven. Both households were transferred to Boston for the winter.

George Lee and family are closing "Villa al mare" at Beverly Farms, November 29. On the 30th they sail for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cutler, Jr., (nee Rosalind Fish) are now in Brookline the guests of Mr. Cutler's parents. They are soon due in Beverly Farms where they have secured the small George Lee cottage for the winter.

The draghounds of the Myopia Hunt club will meet for the rest of November as follows:—Saturday, 19th, High street, Ipswich 3.15 p. m.; Tuesday, 22nd, North Beverly schoolhouse, 3.15 p. m.; Thursday, 24th, Thanksgiving Day, Underhill's corner, 12.00 m., breakfast by invitation at the kennels at 2.00 p. m.; Saturday, 26th, Norwood's mills, 3.15 p. m.; Tuesday, 29th Ipswich trotting park 3. 15 p. m.

A Tale of Heraldry.

BY REV. LOUIS H. RUGE.

(COPYRIGHTED, 1910, BY L. H. RUGE.)

III.

There is nothing, perhaps, that so saddens the heart of the scientist as the lack of adequate and exact data and detail in formulating and founding a science. His advance is marked by hard and fast lines like the rails of a railroad. Nothing avails but the deeply cut groove of an absolute law. And therefore the absence of accuracy and details in the records of ancient heraldry must be counted a sad misfortune in Heralds College. In the evolution of this great social insignia of today, the coat of arms, there is not only one missing link, there are any number; until the garment is literally in rags, moth eaten by time and periods of neglect, if one may use this figure of a coat originally designed of steel links.

But we, as casual loiterers in Time's great museum of historic and human phenomena, may however derive some little satisfaction and pleasure in the play of thought that the ancient fragments and historic patchwork provides for us so abundantly and temptingly.

The art apparently had its beginnings in the use of seals. They are very ancient. The seal of Judah is mentioned in the Bible 1730 B. C., which scholars tell us is 250 years before Genesis was written. In the classics also are found minute descriptions of symbolic seals. The notary public in daily practice is repeating an act dating from most remote periods in the attestation of public and private documents. These seals are important in marking the events and periods of history, in that these seals are recognized as distinctive insignias of nations and individuals and of certain periods. As the dating of documents prevailing now was not the practice then these seals are the only evidences often of the age and authenticity of the documents.

Clear records of English seals date back to Edward the Confessor. In the annals of old English towns references are made to these seals. Before that the sign of the Cross as a sacred pledge was affixed to documents of all kinds and any writing bearing this sign was considered most sacred. From this custom dates the usage of an illiterate person making his mark (X) of a cross. This has led to some confusion in endeavoring to harmonize the insignia of the Crusaders Cross with former seals of a cross that are without any significant connection.

Every grant of land or contract then as now was affixed with a seal by parties entering into a contract.

At the close of the 12th century seals had become highly embellished in the evolutionary process of the art and the coat of arms as afterward perfected and systematized began to appear upon public documents.

Rouge-Rose, herald contemporary of Elizabeth, writes that at first only the King, the nation and a few of the nobility were entitled to use seals; but during the reign of Edward III the use of seals became quite common.

All this is ground for contention as to the use of insignias from which heraldry had its rise.

Heraldry proper, as today classified, had its origin in the Crusades and is a product of a virile, fighting and not an effeminate christianity. The Heraldic Cross is distinctly of military origin. It was quite naturally in great veneration as a martial insignia from the days of Constantine to the chief of the Crusaders, who emblazoned it upon their banners, helmets, shields, surcoats and even upon the trappings of their horses. At first a cross of differing colors was worn on the right shoulder, as for instance, the English, white; French, red; and the Flemings, green.

The art of heraldry is largely indebted to the church not only for the art itself, but for the beauty of the art. There is no finer symbolism extant than ecclesiastical heraldry.

The chiefs resplendent in this blazonry of battle, both in the test of knightly skill and on the field could be easily distinguished by their individual insignas and devices. To the German tournaments belongs the origin of the individual coat of arms, passing then successively to France and England in its practice.

Taken prisoners the device was in more ways than one a shield of safety. It was often worth while to spare the man with armorial bearings for the ransom he brought and the more distinguished the person the more surely were they spared for the larger ransom demanded while the common soldiers were slaughtered. Thus always the unemblazoned, unexalted have literally and figuratively,—if I may be forgiven the colloquial but forceful expression,—“gotten it in the neck”, or wherever the fatal blow is struck, as when the “beef barons” direct their blow at the common people's stomach, and at the half fed coming generation at school, while the great and powerful “barons” escape.

At first, until he achieved some valient deed of chivalry, daring or conquest, a knight wore his shield plain after which the design was significant of his achievement. Often the coat of arms bore the devices of an enemy conquered in battle.

Gradually these devices lost their significance. Certain designs also were repeated and confusion began to prevail. Where mistakes were made in duplicating one another's designs one knight had to relinquish it in favor of the other or settle the matter by single combat the victor retaining the chosen device. Finally however, devices were largely changed again to conform to memorable events in the history and achievement of the wearer as originally intended in the art of heraldry.

Up to the 13th century, some say later, the hereditary coat of arms was not in use. The coat of arms was originally intended simply as an individual, not a family mark of distinction. Although a son might step into his dead father's shoes he had to go and somehow get his own coat in so sad an emergency.

This soon became changed in the exigencies of the social and folde-rol standards of rank in such effeminate and luxurious days of Richard II, who introduced the surcoat, hitherto worn only by warriors in battle, into his sumptuous court affairs, until it was not long before a warrior's armorial bearings passed down the line and became the family inheritance to be used as a mark of distinction, today however quite a common affair in Europe.

At first only the shield and its device was thus inherited the crest still remaining the mark of the individual acquiring it, but at last everything was claimed by decedents until we see as Byron says—

Now no true English gentleman’s wardrobe, or for that matter an American swell’s wardrobe, is complete without this old hereditary garment handed down from father to son with the ancestral halls and plate and rubbish and whatever constitutional, physical and moral infirmities may run in the family, with of course such honors and achievements which may be reflected upon a name and to which they are duly entitled.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Warren closed their summer home on Blossom street, Manchester, Monday and opened their winter residence on Bay State road, Boston.

Judge W. H. Moore was a winner in Tuesday’s coaching contest at the New York Horse Show. He won the challenge cup with his bay team of international champion hackneys, Lord and Lady Seaton on the lead and Robin Hood and Burgomaster as the wheelers. Judge Moore was on the box. Lord and Lady Seaton secured the blue ribbon and the cup offered in the appointment classes. Judge Moore also secured third prize in tandems with Lonsdale and Menella.

Miss Laura Nelson, daughter of Col. and Mrs. William R. Nelson of Kansas City, summer residents of Magnolia, and Irwin Russell Kirkwood, also of Kansas City, were married at noon on Tuesday in Trinity chapel, New York city, by Dr. Manning, rector of Trinity church. Miss Nelson was attended by Mrs. Henry Scott and Mr. Kirkwood by his brother, Thomas Kirkwood of Baltimore.

The Francis M. Whitehouses are to spend most of the winter at their estate “Crowhurst”, at Manchester Cove. Their son Meredith is in Harvard.

Miss Eleanora Sears, who was in New York this week for the Horse Show, was the guest of Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt.

The Walter D. Denegres have taken a house in New York for the winter, though they may be expected to be in Boston frequently to visit their daughter, who is attending school there, and at their West Manchester estate throughout the winter.

North Shore Whip Finished Second in World’s Coaching Race.

J. Harry Coulter of Boston, the well known North Shore riding and driving master, has protested the award in the world’s coaching race, which opened the National Horse Show at New York, and in which he finished second, and was disqualified by the judges. The arbiters claimed that Coulter was assisted over the course of nine and four-tenths miles from Arrowhead Inn to Madison Square Garden, and violated what they claim to have been a “gentleman’s agreement”.

Coulter’s four-in-hand horses, harnessed to the coach Happy Days, familiar to all North Shore visitors, and which had the words “Magnolia to Beverly” painted on the rear panel, finished second. There is no dispute as to that, but there is a serious disagreement as to what were the terms of agreement governing the race.

When the racing hour arrived Paul A. Sorg and Alfred G. Vanderbilt announced that a change of drivers would not be allowed, and claimed to have had a conference with Coulter, who had seemingly agreed. Morris Howlett, the New York, London and Paris whip, who accompanied Coulter upon the coach, together with H. Brown, W. Coulter, J. J. Grewicky and S. J. Miller, objected, and asked Coulter if he had agreed to his stipulation, and the latter replied that he had not.

And now to further complicate matters comes Ben Riley, the donor of the championship cup for the race, and says that the changing of drivers is one of the conditions of the contest and that there are absolutely no grounds for Coulter’s disqualification. And as if matters were not sufficiently complicated, Coulter’s friends came to the front and declare that the drivers were changed on Howlett’s coach last year and that he was not disqualified. And finally comes Coulter with a protest against the Paul A. Sorg four-in-hand, and claims that William Grant, the driver upon the Sorg coach, gave over the reins during the race to Frank E. Palmer.

Everyone who went over from Boston to see the race agrees the coaching joust was one of the finest bits of amateur sport seen in many a day. Fort Washington avenue and Broadway held immense crowds, who lined the pavements to see the getaway and Riverside Drive also held an immense concourse of people. It was here Sorg and Coulter showed their skill in a merry drive with Coulter, who had started a minute behind Sorg, only twenty-five yards behind at One Hundred and Sixteenth street, and gaining steadily.

At McGovern’s Tavern Coulter and Sorg were even, and twenty-five yards from the inn Coulter took the lead, while the guests of this famous hostelry wildly cheered the feat of the Back Bay whip.

Just beyond this point Coulter’s right leader of the four horses broke down and two stops were necessary, which lost to Coulter the race.

The drive down Fifth Avenue was through cheering lanes of spectators, and the drive taxed the ability of Messrs. Sort and Coulter to the utmost to get their coaches through safely.

Arriving finally at Madison Square Garden the contenders swept around the arena to receive tremendous ovation. Vanderbilt finished a poor third.

REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

Thomas A. Appleton of Beverly conveys to Ellis L. Dresel of Beverly, two acres land in Hamilton.

Parker S. Davis of Beverly conveys to Ellis L. Dresel of Beverly, 1¼ acres land in Hamilton; also 1¼ acres land in Hamilton.

(In connection with the two transfers above, it is reported that the Samuel Ayer, Frank Marshall and part of the Isaac Knowlton property and also the Frank Brown place at “Four Corners”, has been sold to Mr. Dresel.)

George S. Sinnicks has been engaged on improvements about Mrs. Henry S. Grew’s summer residence on Masconomo street, Manchester.

Building operations are going on at the estate of M. L. Dresel, formerly owned by Miss Caroline King at Mingo Beach Hill. The old house is to be used for an ell or servants’ portion. Already a large cellar has been excavated for a new house, which occupies a splendid position overlooking the water. Messrs. Connolly Bros., together with a Boston concern, are doing the work.

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB—MISS ETHEL BATTING, READER, ENTERTAINED AT TUESDAY'S MEETING.

An afternoon of humor, music and sociability made the semi-monthly meeting of the Manchester Woman's Club, Tuesday, a very enjoyable occasion. The president, Mrs. Emma G. Tenney, presided, and the announcements during the business session were of club interest. Mrs. Nellie M. Rogers, the delegate to the conference at the Cantabrigia club, Cambridge, on November 8, gave a very interesting report of the conference which included a memorial address on the late Julia Ward Howe.

The president also spoke in behalf of the sale of Christmas seals, the proceeds to be devoted to sanitary purposes. The financial report of the stereopticon lecture on Norway by Miss Minna Elliot Tenney was also given. The proceeds to the club's credit will be nearly $22.00.

Mrs. Carrie L. Knight was appointed delegate to the conference at the Art Museum, Boston. The class in parliamentary law will meet with Mrs. Emma E. Stanley, Nov. 21, at 3 o'clock. December 6, the club will have Mrs. Elizabeth Denison address them on "What Our Children Should Know". The Parent Teacher Association will attend also. Mrs. Mable Johnson will be the hostess on this occasion.

At the close of the business session, a musical and literary program was presented by Miss Ethel Batting of Boston, monologist, and Allyn Brown, pianist. Miss Batting proved a very clever and versatile entertainer being particularly amusing in the juvenile characters she essayed. She was equally at home in her society monologues and other selections. She had a very cordial reception.

Mr. Brown, pianist, who is a popular entertainer at the club's meetings, gave very artistic reading of Friml's "Awakening of the Forest", and "Melodie" by Meyer-Helmund he also played the incidental music for some of Miss Batting's selections which included an original monolog, "At the Musicale", "The Home Coming", "The Only Child", juvenile selections, humorous anecdotes and amusing poems with incidental music.

Mrs. Philip Stockton of the summer colony, a member of the club, was present and tendered the social courtesies of the day to Miss Batting.

During the social period which followed, the honors of the tea room were shared by Mrs. Mary Bennett, hostess, and Miss Sarah T. Brown, who poured.

SONS OF VETERANS HOLD OPEN MEETING.

Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, 149, S. of V., of Manchester held another interesting meeting Tuesday evening, this occasion taking the form of an "open meeting", when members of the Post and Associates, "eligible sons" and others were guests. Large delegations were also present from the camps at Gloucester, Rockport and Beverly. The special attraction of the evening was a talk by Ernest Mead of Wellesley Farms on his visit to the battlefields of the south the last summer.

A short parade was held prior to the meeting, when 40 or 50 members, headed by the drum corps from the Gloucester camp, started from the camp headquarters, marched down Beach street to the railroad station and escorted the speaker of the evening through the center of the town and as far as Ashland ave. thence back to the hall. Red fire was burned along the way.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the gathering was called to order in G. A. R. Hall and Chairman L. W. Floyd of the entertainment committee gave a few words of welcome, introducing Mr. Mead. Three cheers were given the speaker as he came forward. Mr. Mead gave an interesting talk to a similar gathering last year, and all knew full well the value of his address on this return occasion.

Mr. Mead told of his vacation trip last August, to the battlefields of the south, prefacing his remarks about the latter with a brief reference to Niagara Falls, where he stopped on the way. Mr. Mead has a remarkable memory and an unusual abundance of facts and data about the places he visits. He usually sees everything and he possesses the remarkable tact of conveying to others the things he sees. He told of Gettysburg and made especial reference to the battle of Stone's River. His account of the battles he described was made the more vivid by means of the blackboard on which he sketched the line of battle, showing the relative locations of the Confederate and Union forces.

COMING EXHIBITIONS.

Boston to See Some Notable Displays During the Coming Season.

The interest is increasing in the second national flower show to be held in Boston, March 27 to April 1, inclusive, 1911. The exhibition will be held by and in connection with the annual convention of the Society of American Florists, assisted by the American Rose Society, the American Carnation Society and the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, and one of the grandest displays of flowers and plants as well as general trade exhibits ever brought under one roof seems assured. Over $10,000 in prizes will be awarded in the various classes and it is expected that this large sum will stimulate the interest of growers throughout the country.

Boston's great automobile show, acknowledged by all "the" show of the year will be held as usual in Mechanics Building from March 4 to 11 inclusive. Preparations are even now under way to make this show one long to be remembered. More models will be shown than ever before, with a greater range of prices. Cars from $300 up to and including the very expensive models in the thousands will be there, as well as the thousand and one appliances that add to the comfort and convenience of motoring.

An exhibition that should prove of great interest at the present time, is the second annual exhibition of aerial craft. This will be held during the week of February 20 to 25, and the thousands of people who visited the great Harvard-Boston meet last September and were unable to have a close view of the machines will here have the privilege of becoming familiar with the different types of flying machines. Every kind will be on exhibit, many of the machines having made record flights.

At the conclusion of Mr. Mead's remarks all joined in singing "America". A buffet lunch was served. Pipes were distributed and a social hour followed. The singing by Commander Corliss of the Gloucester camp, and the selections by the drum corps were much enjoyed. All took part in the singing of the old war songs. At train time the visitors were escorted to the depot. The evening proved a most delightful one for all who attended, and was another in the series of entertaining evenings to be held by the camp this winter.

Real Estate :: :: :: :: And Improvements

It is reported that Mrs. William A. Russell, who for the past two years has had the Burnham house, so-called, of Arthur Little at Beverly Farms, has purchased the estate on Hart street formerly owned by Samuel F. Currier, also the adjoining field which has been used for several years by the Pierce Nurseries. The two properties contain about twelve acres, and is a splendid piece of land having a good size frontage on Hart street and abuts on the north side the property of Quincy A. Shaw, 2nd. It is understood the new owner is to establish there a home. Mrs. Russell spends most of the year on the Shore.

Roberts and Hoare, the Manchester contractors, have started on extensive improvements to the summer residence of Alexander S. Porter, Jr., on Cobb avenue, Manchester. The front of the house will be entirely changed to permit an addition of several rooms.

Minor repairs and improvements are being made to the E. J. Black cottage off Sea street, Manchester, by Roberts & Hoare.

Preliminary work for quite extensive improvements on the Edmund K. Arnold summer home on Sea street, Manchester, was started this week by R. D. Donaldson, contractor, of Lincoln. The roof of the house is to be removed and another story added which when completed will give some eight new rooms.

One of the largest real estate transactions on the North Shore was the recent transfer of a tract of 600,000 square feet of land belonging to the Patch estate at Grapevine Cove, East Gloucester, between Bass Rocks and Eastern Point. The owners were Isaac Patch, esq., and his sister, Mrs. George W. Woodbury. The purchasers were Joseph O. and Mrs. Florence (Cunningham) Proctor of Gloucester. The land is to be divided into house lots. By the disposition of this property, the whole of East Gloucester's "back shore" will now have been utilized for summer residential districts. The purchase includes the "High Pebble" beach a famous place for procuring ballast for the Gloucester fleet, one source of the foundation of the original Patch fortune.

The family of John F. Scott is to move to Beverly in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Calderwood entertained the Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters and their friends at their home on Central street last evening. The guests enjoyed a good, old-fashioned candy-pull. Games were played and a delightful evening was spent.

Miss Lena Jones, one of Manchester's most popular teachers, was taken to the Beverly hospital the first of the week and has been in a serious condition since. At the hospital this afternoon it was stated that Miss Jones was resting as comfortably as could be expected after undergoing an operation Tuesday.

Orders taken for Aviation Caps at E. A. Lethbridge's.

An interesting entertainment was given at the chapel last evening under the auspices of the Ladies Social Circle. Home-made candies were sold after the entertainment. The program carried out included a piano duet by Misses Dora Marshall and Grace Merrill; vocal solo, Mrs. Raymond C. Allen; reading, Miss Mary Dodge; piano solo, Arthur Lodge; vocal solo, Alfred L. Saben; reading, Miss Lila Goldsmith; cornet solo, Ralph Hayward, with piano accompaniment by Miss Dora Marshall; vocal solo, Mrs. Raymond C. Allen; reading, Miss G. Glendenning and another cornet solo by Mr. Hayward.

Red Men Celebrate.

The members of Conomo tribe No. 113, I. O. R. M., met at their wigwam in the Manchester Town hall Wednesday evening to observe Thanksgiving in accordance with a proclamation sent out by the head of the order. The occasion took the form of an "open meeting" and the members had their wives and lady friends and other guests to the number of 70 or 80. The entertainment committee was disappointed in most of the talent it has arranged for the evening, but despite this everybody present had a most enjoyable time.

The hall was prettily decorated with boughs and red lights. In one corner of the hall was arranged an Indian tepee.

After the reading of the Thanksgiving proclamation Chairman Henry Moulton of the committee made some introductory remarks after which the Prophet of the tribe, Fred C. Dougherty recited an Indian invocation. The degree staff of Winipurkett tribe No. 55 of Lynn, under the direction of Deputy Albert W. Ellison went through some floor work that pleased the audience very much. The work was very prettily performed and showed careful training.

P. H. Boyle gave several readings including "The Last Speech of Chief Blackhawk", "Sparticus to the Gladiator", and "The Battle of Lookout Mountain". Lagory Wade played two trombone solos, and Fred Dougherty recited a selection from Hiawatha. John Gray sang a popular song.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and fancy crackers were passed around at the conclusion of the exercises.

Among the Bowlers.

The second round in the bowling tournament at the Seaside Alleys, Manchester, brought out some interesting matches. The Wizards are still in the lead as far as pinfall is concerned, but the Speed Boys and Brunswicks are tied with the Alpines on the percentage basis.

WHISPERINGS.

A man is not always responsible for everything he does on his wedding night, therefore he is to be excused if he forgets to write "Mrs" when he registers at the hotel on the first night of his honeymoon, and he ought to receive our sympathy for the embarrassment he is naturally subjected to when the clerk calls him back from the elevator and makes him produce his marriage certificate. We do not accuse anybody in this section with all this, but—whisperings reached us not long since of a couple living not many hundred miles from the Breeze office who were the actors in the above episode.

The attention of the public is called to the following new regulation relative to the delivery of registered mail: "Registered mail the delivery of which has not been restricted by the sender or addressee may be delivered to any responsible person to whom the addressee's ordinary mail is customarily delivered." Formerly registered mail could be delivered only to the addressee, or to a person authorized by the addressee in writing to receive it.

The following countries refuse to admit to their mails articles bearing non-postage "Christmas" stamps or other adhesive charity stamps or labels: Guatemala, Uruguay, Portugal (if they resemble regular postage stamps). Other countries will admit articles bearing such stamps, but only when affixed to the reverse and not to the address side.

The Moon's Eclipse.

Residents of the North Shore saw the total eclipse of the moon Wednesday night and it certainly proved to be a most impressive spectacle. Perfect atmospheric conditions prevailed. At the early stages there were some clouds, but these passed away and humanity had the opportunity of a lifetime to watch the strange darkening of the full moon's bright face by the earth's shadow.

The first indentation of the bright moon took place at 5.44 at a point on the lower half of the lunar disk. The shadow swept gradually across the moon until at 6.55 it completely covered it, and the eclipse was total until 7.47.

It was an impressive spectacle to those unfamiliar with the wonders of the sidereal heavens, for the glowing circle of silver paled and a dull red-brown hue succeeded, which in turn, gave way to positive darkness. The last indentation of the disk disappeared at 8.58, and soon after the moon shone as brightly as if it had never been eclipsed.

To Electrify Railroad to Gloucester?

The Boston & Maine and the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads, by their president, Charles S. Mellen, Wednesday petitioned the Legislature for permission to acquire the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad, popularly known as the "Narrow Gauge"; and, when it is acquired by both or either of the petitioning roads, to change it to a standard gauge, electrify it, connect it on the south with existing lines now running into the South terminal station, and on the North with existing lines of the Boston & Maine railroad, and to construct a tunnel under Boston harbor as a part of the route of the acquired road.

In a statement made Wednesday afternoon, Vice-President Byrnes, of both the petitioning roads, said that it is the intention of those roads, if the necessary legislation is secured, to extend the road to Beverly, and added: "We have in mind the ultimate extension and electrification to Gloucester."

The proposed acquisition aroused much interest, not only in railroad circles, but all along the North Shore. Whether the dominant motive is or is not to block the much discussed and long projected Boston & Eastern electric railroad, the petitioning management is credited with the blocking purpose by friends of the interurban plan.

N. S. H. S.

The North Shore Horticultural Society will meet this evening in Lee's Hall, Manchester, at 7.30 prompt. John L. Chapman will be the speaker of the evening and his subject will be "Planting and Training of Dwarf Trees".

The following are the new officers elected at the last meeting: A. E. Parsons, president; Robert A. Mitchell, vice-president; Jas. McGregor, treasurer; Chas. Allen, librarian; John D. Morrison, clerk; Wm. Till, Jos. Clarke, Waldo H. Tyler, E. H. Wetterlow, Jas. Salter, executive committee.

Census Returns.

The complete census returns for the state of Massachusetts shows a gain of 151 in the population of Manchester, since the last census in 1900. At that time Manchester's population was 2522, while this year it is 2673.

Manchester is the only town in the Cape Ann district which shows an increase. The returns show that Essex lost 42 in the ten years, it being 1621 the present year against 1663 in 1900. Rockport shows a loss of 381, the figures for 1900 being 4592 against 4211 the present year. Gloucester, too, shows a loss. The population this year is 24,398 against 26,121 ten years ago.

On the other hand practically all of the other towns and cities of the country show a gain. Beverly for instance shows an increase of nearly 5,000, the population in 1910, being 18,650 against 13,884 in 1900. Salem's population this year is 43,697 against 35,956 ten years ago.

When we say the population of Manchester is 2673 we give a wrong impression, for Manchester is really a very much larger town. For six months of the year there are hundreds and hundreds of people here who are not counted among our regular population and during the summer months—June, July and August—the population of the town is very nearly doubled.

Our Weekly Letter From :: :: :: Washington

Special to the North Shore Breeze.

The result of the election could not be called surprising in view of the apparently settled conviction everywhere that there would be a Democratic House, but the extent of the landslide surprised even the Democrats. Whether their claims that Col. Roosevelt has lost his influence in view of the result will be born out by events is an open question. There is a good deal of talk about the effect of the change on legislation, but it may not be amiss to remind people generally that the coming session of Congress will be the same in character as the one which ended last summer. None of the newly elected members will take their seats until a year from this December, so that President Taft will still have a chance to put through some of his legislative policies before the fourth of March next. The certainty that he will try to do so makes it highly probable that the coming short session will be one of the liveliest the country has seen for years. What the Democratic majority may be able to do when it gets hold of the reins remains to be seen.

Postal Economies.

There is no little danger that in seeking to enforce more rigid economy in the Government service a loss of efficiency will result. For this reason, it is likely that the special Board appointed by the President to cut down expenses will find it necessary to view with the closest attention all the plans submitted for promoting economy. One proposal which has already encountered criticism in the plan suggested by the Post Office Department to save money in the registry division, amounting to some thousands of dollars annually, by not returning to the sender a receipt for a registered letter or package unless an explicit request is made for it. One of the principal things which makes the registry service effectual and desirable is the return of receipts to the sender, showing that the person to whom the article was addressed received it. Many persons will not think about the new rule, and there will be a flood of complaints following the putting into effect of such a rule, which will be likely to convince the department that the rule was unwise. Another result will be the decrease of registry business. The latter, probably, is not looked for or desired, but it will follow. Economy is a good thing, but it has always been held heretofore that in the Post Office Department especially, efficiency should come ahead of economy. Otherwise, means might long ago have been found to cut expenses, and the rural free delivery service, among other things, would never have been inaugurated.

War on Profanity.

Washington, where many crusades originate and where others find congenial soil for their propaganda, has taken up with enthusiasm the war on promiscuous and indiscriminate profanity. On a recent date 7,000 members of the Holy Name Society of the Archdiocese of Baltimore paraded Pennsylvania Avenue and other streets of the Capital, and were reviewed by high dignitaries of the Catholic Church, which has been active in organizing this movement in various cities of the country. The church is striving to curb the growing tendency to profanity among the boys and young men of the country.

Aside from the religious phase of the question, it has been declared that no gentleman would use profane language. It is annoying and disgusting to hear striplings expressing themselves in a manner which shocks religious persons and disgusts every rightminded person. This crusade is one which will be likely to receive very general approval.

Consular Notes.

The average yield of oysters in the Dominion of Canada is about 30,000 barrels annually. The imports of oysters into Canada amount to about $350,000 a year.

As a result of two years of good crops, Russia has large wheat reserves for exportation.

Russia raises more rye than any other sort of grain, the production in 1910 being estimated at 25,000,000 tons, while the production of wheat is estimated at about 23,600,000 tons.

India is not generally associated with the production of hides and skins, yet in 1909 she exported 7,512,454 cow hides, 1,010,917 buffalo hides, 15,171,717 goat skins, and 229,841 sheep skins. The United States took a large share of the buffalo hides, goat skins and sheep skins, but very few of the cow hides, most of these going to Germany, Austria, and Italy. It seems that fear of the spread of anthrax kept down the importation of the cow hides during 1909.

The Spanish vintage has been exceedingly short this year in some districts, owing largely to late frosts.

The new Egyptian cotton crop approximates 700,000,000 pounds, which is an increase of about 8 per cent over the last previous average. The yield last year amounted to 500,000,000 pounds.

The cotton crop of Laguna District, in Mexico, which was estimated last spring at 300,000 bales, will not amount to more than 80,000 bales on account of the lack of moisture.

Consul Byington, of Bristol, England, reports that fewer hogs are being raised in England.

Exports of American manufactures show a material gain over 1909. For the first time such exports will exceed $800,000,000 in value for the calendar year.

Commercial Agent John M. Turner, in a report on Rio de Janeiro's influence on Brazilian trade, says that he is very much impressed with the small trade the United States has with Brazil in the way of selling goods. He says he went looking for American houses and found only a very few. All the large foreign houses were either English, German, or French. He found one small dealer selling $4 American shoes for $9 a pair. He comments on the lack of news from this country in the Brazilian papers, although there is an abundance of cable news from Europe. He thinks that Americans are neglecting great opportunities in Brazil.

The total traffic of the German Rhine harbors in 1909 amounted to 45,781,485 tons.

Projects are on foot in New South Wales for the material increase and advance of the iron manufacturing industry.

The death of Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Machado in Salem the latter part of the week recalls to the minds of many of Manchester's oldest citizens the days when Deacon Price's private school made Manchester famous as a school center for hundreds of young men and women from all parts of the country. Among those coming from afar was one John F. Machado of Cuba, the son of a Cuban planter. Forty years or more ago this Machado married Elizabeth Frances Jones. The head of the house died many years ago and Mrs. Machado has since lived quietly in the retirement of her home in Salem. She is survived by several children including a son, Jose A. Machado, who in Ottawa, is manager of the American Bank Note Company's interests there; also Miss Grace Machado of Grace Hopkinson Eliot House, at Radcliffe college; Mrs. Theodore Osborn (Alice Machado) of Cambridge; Mrs. Minturn Warren (Salome Machado), widow of Professor Warren of the Latin department at Harvard; Mrs. Alfred Whitman (Carmen Machado) of New York, and Miss Juanita Machado, who lives at the family home in Salem. The following were registered at the Manchester House the past week: B. J. Fay, J. Ogibis, G. W. Hansen, Boston; John McDermitt, Nahant; V. B. Deyber, Albany, N. Y.; L. G. Noonan and Charles Ross, Providence; James Marsh and H. L. Corthrell, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Bowles, Washington; Robert Newman, Springfield; James T. Sheehan and Harry Lewis, Boston.

The names of the following pupils of the sub-freshman class at the High school appeared in the "honor list" for this week ending Friday, Nov. 18: Gordon Crafts, Josephine Brooks, Elizabeth Merson and Grace Merrill. This means that these pupils have had perfect attendance, have not failed in their recitations to Mr. Hayward, and that their conduct has been entirely satisfactory. A mark will be added to each name each time it appears in the honor list. Both pupils and parents should take marked interest in this contest as it shows what can be done if sufficient effort is put forth.

The Men's Club will open for the winter as soon as sufficient money has been pledged to cover the winter's expenses. The sum required in subscriptions will be $200. Rev. F. J. Libby is receiving pledges.

The board of directors of the Women's Clubhouse assn., of Magnolia met last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. F. F. Story. Geo. A. Upton was elected president. The treasurer, Ethel P. May reported a small balance in the treasury at the close of the season. The matron, Mrs. H. C. Foster reported one of the most successful seasons the club has seen. It was voted that the matron's salary be raised from $160 to $200 beginning this year. The salary of the assistant matron was also slightly advanced. It was voted that the treasurer be authorized to borrow money to paint the trimmings of the clubhouse this fall. The meeting then adjourned. Those present were: Geo. A. Upton, president; Ethel P. May, treasurer; Frederick J. Libby, clerk; Mrs. F. F. Story. The other directors are Miss Elizabeth G. Houghton, Mrs. Geo. Wheelock and Otis Weld Richardson, esq.

They have been reading the play in the circle. The members of the class who will go are: Azubah Mullen, Ruth Scott, Ralph Story, Albert West, Axel and Dewey Nelson, Jennie Brown, Dorothy and Beatrice Story. They will be accompanied by Rev. F. J. Libby.

The declaration of principles adopted by the National Council of Congregational churches in Boston a few weeks ago will be the subject of the sermon at the Village church next Sunday morning. The principles are as follows: "We deem it the duty of all Christian people to concern themselves directly with certain practical industrial problems. To us it seems that the churches must stand for equal rights and complete justice for all men in all stations of life; for the right of all men to the opportunity for self-maintenance, a right ever to be strongly guarded against encroachments of every kind; for the right of workers to some protection against the hardships often resulting from the swift crises of industry; for the principle of conciliation and arbitration in industrial dissension; for the protection of workers from dangerous machinery, occupational diseases, injuries and mortality; for the abolition of child-labor; for such regulation of the condition of toil for women as shall safeguard the physical and moral health of the community; for the suppression of the 'sweating system'; for the gradual and reasonable reduction of the hours of labor to the lowest practicable point and for that degree of leisure for all which is a condition of the highest human life; for the release from employment one day in seven; for a living wage as a minimum in every industry, and for the highest wage that each industry can afford; for the most equitable division of the production of industry that can ultimately be devised; for the suitable provision for the old age of the workers and for those incapacitated by injuries; for the abatement of poverty to the toilers of America and to those who by organized effort are seeking to lift the crushing burdens of the poor, and to reduce the hardships and uphold the dignity of labor. The council sends the greeting of human brotherhood and the pledge of sympathy and of help in a cause which belongs to all who follow Christ".

"Are we treating prisoners fairly?", will be the subject next Sunday evening at the Village church. All are invited to participate in the discussion at the close of the address.

Their 25th Wedding Anniversary.

Rev. and Mrs. Frank Parker, of the Wenham Neck Baptist church, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary at the parsonage Thursday evening. They were surprised by neighbors and friends who presented also 39 silver dollars. Guests assisted with a beautiful chest of silver; ssembled from Beverly, Salem, Lynn, Boston, Hamilton, Wenham and Plastow, N. H., there being about 100 present. The presentation was made by Benjamin Edwards, who gave a short address, after which followed readings by Mrs. Goran and speaking by Mr. Currier. Ice cream and cake were served after which a social evening was spent in viewing the gifts and singing. Mr. and Mrs. Parker were highly delighted and expressed their thanks to all.

The ward 6 voter at the present time is of course interested in the city election which comes on Tuesday, Dec. 13, and as the candidates get into the field for the various positions the voters are taking them under consideration. Yesterday it was announced that ex-alderman Jeremiah F. Desmond had taken out nomination papers for Mayor, making four candidates for this office. The others are, Frederick A. Dodge, former alderman-at-large; General William Stopford and Sumner Glines. For the berth of alderman-at-large Ward 6 at the present time has no candidate. There are, however, a number who seek this job. Among whom are the following: Charles H. Creesy, John B. Goldsmith, president of the common council; Alderman Henry E. Woodberry, Councilman George H. Hurd, and Israel O. Edwards. For the Ward 6 representative Alderman Augustus P. Loring, Jr., so far has no opposition. James B. Dow is a candidate for the school board and so far has no one in the ward in opposition. As candidates for city offices have until Nov. 30 to take out papers, there may be more for the Ward 6 voter to consider.

Charles Martin, the popular proprietor of the Central square garage, was united in marriage to Miss Kerr of Annisquam on Wednesday, the affair being a pretty home wedding. They are to reside in Gloucester. Mr. Martin has a host of Farms friends who join with the Breeze in extending their hearty congratulations.

William O'Brien, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. O'Brien of Pride's Crossing, has accepted and commenced his duties as coachman for W. D. Denegre, which position until recently was held by Samuel Pierce. Mr. O'Brien for twelve years past was a valued employee of Thomas W. Lawson at his South Shore estate.

B. F. Kieth's Theatre.

It was expected that such a mammoth production as that of Gus Edwards would hold over for a second week at B. F. Keith's theatre, where it has proved to be one of the strongest attractions seen at that house in many years. The supporting bill will be even stronger than that of last week, and will include a number of novel features seen here for the first time. There have been many companies of trained seals in recent years, but none that have been able to perform the wonderful feats of Treat's Seals, that are announced as one of the leading features of the bill. Carson and Willard, the German comedians, also return with something entirely new and a newcomer will be Harry L. Webb, who is one of the greatest favorites the West has ever had in blackface minstrelsy. Another "scream" will be Grant Simpson and Lulu McConnell, in a comedy sketch called "A Stormy Hour", which is a succession of laughs from start to finish. Verona Vordi and her talented brother will also appear, and another important feature will be Le Dent, the King's Jester from the Folies Bergere in Paris with his remarkable feats of juggling.

A good government association was organized in Beverly on last Tuesday evening, the purpose of which is to awaken interest in city affairs and to secure the election of capable officials. Anybody is eligible to membership. Charles E. Ober, a former Farms young man, has been elected president and Thomas D. Connolly is one of the executive committee.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dean (nee Miss May D. Connolly), returned yesterday from their wedding trip. They are to live in Manchester.

The splendid new three-family house of Mr. and Mrs. James Fanning, corner High and Haskell sts., will be ready for occupancy on or about December 20. The apartments have all modern improvements and are up-to-date in every way.

The members of the G. A. R. and Associates are now meeting regularly in G. A. R. hall on Thursday evening of each week.

There is a story in circulation, and it comes from a reliable source, that there is a party who is looking with longing eyes at a portion of the easterly end of West beach with the idea of soon bringing a suit against the Corporation for its ownership, claiming that there are deeds and records in existence to show ownership and rights prior to that of the West Beach Corp. The Corporation has within a number of months settled a long law-suit concerning the ownership and certain rights to a portion of the beach on the westerly end.

Miss Annie Hurlburt of Providence, R. I., is visiting friends at the Farms. Miss Hurlburt is a music teacher of much prominence in her home city.

In the case of Antonio Fradizio, who was charged with attempted assault on Miss Mathewson, which affair took place some seven or eight weeks ago on Hart street and which at the time created considerable excitement about the Farms, has been on trial in Salem during the past week with the result that the jury disagreed.

The foot-ball game on Thanksgiving Day between Beverly and Salem High schools will attract a large delegation from the Farms, who are of course strong supporters of the local boys.

On Tuesday evening last the steam heating plant at St. Margaret's church reached the "blowing off" point, filling the edifice with steam, giving the appearance of smoke. As a result the alarm from Box 57 was rung in. The fire department, while of no particular use in this case, made a record response to the call.

Two good size greenhouses are under construction on the estate of Mrs. Leiter. They are being built on the last piece of land purchased from the Haven estate.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen A. Smith of Nashua, N. H., have spent the past week at Beverly Farms visiting friends. They plan to remain here over the holiday next week.

Next Thursday is Thanksgiving day, and many Farms families are planning to have reunions around the festive board as has been the past custom. Also a number will go out of town to help make up the family circle elsewhere.

Two more chances for the Ward 6 man who desires to become a voter for the City election to be put on the list. The Board of Registrars meet tonight at City hall and also next Wednesday, the 23rd, from 12 noon to 10 p. m.

Thomas Norton this week removed his family from the house they have lived in on West street since early last spring, to Boston.

Two weddings of interest are to take place next week at the Farms, that of Agnes Victoria, daughter of former Councilman and Mrs. John C. McCarthy to Edward Joseph Saulnier of Boston, and Mary E., daughter of Mrs. Thomas Quirk to Thomas M. Conroy.

Frank Grove has accepted a clerical position at the Greenwood avenue farm, which position Mr. Grove has had previously.

James B. Dow, the Ward 6 representative on the school board, whose position under the new charter becomes vacant, has taken out nomination papers for a re-election.

James Callahan and family this week moved from Messrs. Connolly Bros. "green house" on Hale street to the Matthew Smith estate on Hart street. The tenement made vacant by Mr. Callahan's removal has been taken by Miss L'Etourneau and her sister, Mrs. Perkins, who will occupy the whole house.

The semi-monthly meeting of John West colony, Pilgrim Fathers, takes place in Marshall's hall this evening. The colony is looking forward to a very successful year and are pleased to receive applications for membership either for insurance or social members.

Everett J. McDonald of St. John, N. B., is a new comer to the Farms this week. He plans to spend the winter in this vicinity and perhaps live here permanently.

Mrs. Alexander Carr and children expect to leave the Farms on January 11 to join Mr. Carr at Spokane, Wash., which place is to be their permanent home. Mr. Carr in letters to friends writes of his progress there and is very much pleased with the country.

The annual election of officers of Preston W. R. Corps will take place at their next meeting which comes on Tuesday evening, December 6.

Henry Wright and Herbert Cole, members of the Beverly Farms Boys Fife and Drum corps, last Sunday helped to make up a corps from Beverly which headed the Bible class delegation from there in last Sunday's parade in Boston.

Christmas Gifts

In choosing your Christmas gifts the thing to keep in mind is Quality; your gifts should have intrinsic value and artistic merit.

The recipient instinctively feels that a shoddy gift betokens a shoddy giver. What you as a giver most desire is to be sure of its worthiness, its durability.

We have been selling jewelry for thirty years. We have built up a reputation for honesty and fair dealing that is unquestioned. Whatever you buy of us is exactly as we represent it. Our prices are very reasonable.

For the Holiday Season we have as usual a large stock of

WATCHES—DIAMONDS—JEWELRY

We shall be glad to show you these goods whether you intend to purchase or not. We will hold anything you may select, on payment of a small deposit.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Sylph, the President's yacht, which was anchored in the harbor of Beverly all summer, entertained a merry company of young people by a breakfast recently in honor of Miss Helen Taft. The cabin was decorated with flowers and flags and a band played on deck. Lieut. Charles Russell Train, U. S. N., commander of the Sylph, and Mrs. Train were host and hostess of the occasion.

E. T. Stotesbury has been made chairman of the Red Cross Endowment Fund. During the recent New York horse show, Walter Winans bought from Mr. Stotesbury his $25,000 winning team of roadsters, Lugano and Como. They were blue ribbon winners in class 43 for pairs to harness. The price asked and received beat anything in the annals of horse show trading. It established a new record for New York. Lugano and Como stand today as the most valuable team in harness in New York, if not anywhere.

Mrs. Clement S. Houghton of Chestnut Hill and Manchester and Miss Elizabeth Houghton of Boston and Magnolia are among the patronesses for the illustrated juvenile entertainment on Dec. 3, for the benefit of Denison House, the Boston College Settlement house.

Senor Don Epifanio Portela, the Argentine Ambassador, who has summered on the North Shore, is to be succeeded at Washington by Dr. Clodovee Miranda Noan, former minister of justice, so reports advices from Buenos Ayres.

A memorial house to the late Bishop W. N. McVickar of Providence and Prides Crossing is to be given the Episcopal diocese of Rhode Island, by Miss E. C. McVickar and friends. The Slater House, used for a number of years as a dormitory for the Woman's college of Brown University, has been chosen for the memorial building.

Miss Rosalind Wood of Boston and Pride's Crossing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Madison Wood, was among the Boston debutantes at the annual ball at Tuxedo Park, New York, last Friday evening.

Tuesday evening, Dec. 13, Miss Mary Shreve Ames of Dartmouth street, Boston, will give a dance for her debutante niece, Miss Elise Ames of Boston and Pride's Crossing.

Among the Boston entertainers of Mrs. Ten Eyck Wendell of Cazenovia, N. Y., and Washington have been Mrs. S. Reed Anthony of Beverly Farms and Boston and Miss Adele G. Thayer of West Manchester and Boston.

The Myopia Hunt Club was the mecca for North Shore society folk of the hunting set on Thanksgiving day. There was a meet at noon at Underhill's corner. Tomorrow (Saturday) George S. Mandell, master of hounds is tendered his annual complimentary dinner at the clubhouse.

The Misses Bartlett of Boston and Manchester, who spent the summer abroad, spent a portion of this week with their brother, Nelson S. Bartlett, who is still at his summer estate on Smith's Point, Manchester.

S. V. R. Crosby and family of Boston are at their West Manchester estate for the holiday vacation.

Henry Clay Frick of Pride's Crossing is to give Bostonians a chance to view the best pictures in his art gallery. Fifty of his best canvasses will be exhibited at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts beginning Dec. 1. One picture to be shown is his Rembrandt for which he recently paid $300,000.

Mrs. John Hays Hammond gave the first debutante tea of the Washington season last Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss May Hammond, daughter of William Hammond of California and Miss Eliza Morgan McMullin of Kentucky. The Levi P. Morton residence, which Mr. Hammond has leased for the season was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Miss Elizabeth Hammond assisted in the tea room. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond left Thursday of this week for Russia where the Czar wishes to confer with Mr. Hammond on mining methods in Siberia.

It is reported that Mr. and Mrs. John W. Cutler have purchased land at Beaver pond, which is on the Essex and Beverly street railway line, and contractors are now figuring on the plans for their new summer home to be erected there. Mr. Cutler and his bride are expected at Beverly Farms tomorrow for the winter. Contractors are also figuring on the plans of a house for A. A. Lawrence in the same locality as the Cutlers.

Many North Shore summer residents will take an active interest in Lexington's military carnival for the minute men. It will be a winter carnival on Jan. 7, to form the basis for their building fund for a new memorial armory. Among the patronesses are Mrs. Taft, wife of Pres. Taft; Mrs. Eben Draper, Mrs. Curtis Guild, Mrs. John L. Gardner, Mrs. Eben Jordan and many others. Every form of winter sport will be enjoyed at the carnival. Hot dinners will be served in a grotto to hold 1,000 people.

Lord Fisher of Kilverstone, G. C. B., Admiral of the Fleet, father of Hon. Cecil Vavasour Fisher of England, who married Miss Jane Morgan of Philadelphia, daughter of Randal Morgan, was tendered a banquet at the Bellevue-Stratford, Philadelphia, Monday evening of this week by Thomas Dolan, president of the United Gas Company. Among the guests present were E. T. Stotesbury and Charles E. Pugh, a summer resident of Bass Rocks. Mr. Morgan and his daughter are particularly well known in North Shore yachting circles, especially in Marblehead, where the costly Morgan steam yacht makes an annual trip when the Morgans are cruising along the New England coast. Miss Morgan became the bride of Hon. Mr. Fisher on Tuesday of this week in St. Paul's Episcopal church, Chestnut Hill, Phila. The bride is noted as one of the few women who hold a sailing master's license.

Writes Boys' Stories which the Girls Like

Ralph Henry Barbour of Cambridge and Manchester Has Turned Out 24 Books for Juveniles at the Rate of Two a Year---Letters He Gets from Pleased Children---His Experiences as a Newspaper Man in Boston and Denver---Why he Refused to Pen an Aeroplane Tale.

Ralph Henry Barbour of 361 Harvard street, Cambridge, having written two dozen books for juveniles, while still on the sunny side of middle age, lives on the fat of the land. He turns out two stories a year, one of which runs serially, and produces a gift book each season for grown-ups beside.

He does his writing in a cozy den on the third floor of the Colonial club, Quincy st., Cambridge, and just at this season he is working the typewriter at top speed, recounting the school exploits of manly boys, whom it took him three whole days in mid-October to get started on the road to heroship.

Mr. Barbour writes boys' stories that girls like, and youngsters of both sexes send him a good many letters wanting more of the same kind of character tales he has produced for these dozen years past.

Curiously enough the man who consistently pleases thousands of children and youths with every new book he issues, lays claim to nothing more than a professional interest in the work. If Mr. Barbour has genius he himself has never discovered it.

It was in his severely furnished den at the top of the Colonial club that the author talked with the reporter between puffs of a good cigar. The author had kept an evening appointment to the minute and while climbing stairs the weather had come in for a little criticism.

"I used to be in your business", said he to the newspaperman as he was arranging himself at his desk for the ordeal of an interview. "I was covering Cambridge and Somerville for a combination of morning and evening papers in about '90 or '91. I got out of that job rather peculiarly. My folks used to go down to Beach Bluff in the summer and I would run down in the morning and get back in the afternoon in time to get the news for my afternoon paper.

"Well, this day I did that and dropped around to the police station to exchange items with the other fellows. That particular day a house had fallen down and two or three people were hurt. I got the facts from them, wrote my story and sent it in. That afternoon I had something else on and didn't bother any more about news until it was time to look into things for my morning paper. I guess it was the next day that I was in the office and the city "That paper turned out to be a newspaper tragedy. It started with one of the finest staffs in the country, and for a while was a big success. They couldn't get an Associated Press franchise at first, and to over-editor called me over and wanted to know why I didn't get the story on that building that fell down.

"I got the story all right," I said. "It was the building fell down, not me."

"Then he broke the news to me that another building had fallen down that same afternoon in Somerville. About a week after that I sort of figured chasing news was too many for me, so I quit.

"That happened about August as I recall, and I went out to Denver, where I still stuck to the newspaper business. I was out there about seven years all together. I worked on the Republican and the Times, where I became their crime artist and used to have a jolly time traveling all over the state of Colorado covering trials and doing murder stories. In those days there was something doing in the gun line all the time, and I always had a bunch of that stuff to get through. Then the Colorado Sun was started and I went over to them to do the same kind of work.

come that deficiency contracted with correspondents in every little city and town through the state to furnish news, giving every man a money guarantee. Some of the stuff those country fellows sent in was pretty punk and a good many times about three-quarters of it went into the waste basket. But the way the Sun covered the state woke up the other papers and for a while Denver with about 30,000 population and three papers was about the liveliest newspaper town in the United States.

"We went along swimming for a while."

"It is a curious story about how we went bad. The managing editor was a man named William H. Griffiths; we called him Billy. Politics was pretty hot out there then, and I forgot exactly what the situation was, but anyhow, Billy had to decide which side to take on an important political matter one night right off the reel. And he decided wrong. In six months the Sun had gone to the newspaper graveyard."

"After that I went into the Grand Valley fruit ranching. The job came to me through a fellow I knew in Denver, who was interested in the fruit land out there at that time, which was just when the boom was getting well under way. Our proposition, of which I was assistant manager, was to sell and develop the territory, and we disposed of a lot of the finest irrigated property in the country. I was in that business a couple of years and had a good time in it."

"I was married in Denver in 1895 and the next year came eastward and began reading copy on the Chicago Inter Ocean. From there I went to the Philadelphia Times to read copy. Not long after I became night city editor."

"How did you happen to begin writing boys' books, Mr. Barbour?"

"Well, that city editor job struck me as pretty hard work and the electric lights didn't all together agree with my eyes. Besides, I was married, and about that time was getting over the idea of becoming a great editor and deciding it was about time to get out and make some money."

"When I was a kid I always had a knack of writing verses, and during most of my newspaper days used to send skits to Puck, Life and Lippincott's. Curious enough, I wrote under a pseudonym—called myself Richard Stillman Powell in print. I don't know why I did it, but I suppose I thought a writer ought to have a pen name."

"My first boys' story was a little piece of fiction called 'The Arrival of Jimpson,' and it was published in St Nicholas, about 1899. Probably I shouldn't have done much more along that line if it hadn't been for Ripley Hitchcock, who was at that time one of the Appleton editors. He 'found' me. In fact, after he had seen the 'Arrival of Jimpson' he wrote and wondered why I couldn't do a book of the same sort. That led to my writing another of the juveniles, and the list now runs to 24. Hitchcock, who set me on the work, was the man who accepted 'David Harum' after 17 publishers had turned it down—you know the story."

"The reason why I have so many of the juveniles to my credit—or discredit—is that I am turning out two a year. One is published by the Appletons in book form, and the other is run serially in St Nicholas and is put out later as a book. Besides these I am doing a novelette every year for Lippincott's, which is got up as a gift book, with photographically decorated pages. There are six of these at present."

"Here is the first, 'Kitty of the Roses,'" said Mr. Barbour, stepping to the table and picking up the beautifully printed volume. "That's the best one of the half dozen. Every year, when I get the agreement, it reads: 'A novelette similar to "Kitty of the Roses"', but I have never been able quite to equal it."

"I suppose you follow some rules for your boys' books?" queried Mr. Barbour's interviewer.

"Offhand, I wouldn't say so," he replied. "I aim to make more of the characters than the stories, and not to thrust anything down their throats that couldn't happen. My stories are school stories, dealing with boys from 12 to 20 years old, and I put them into natural school situations. They play football, hockey, baseball and try themselves out in track sports, but all of it can happen to boys of that age and doubtless does in one way or another to hundreds of youngsters in school."

"Do you make an elaborate plan, or think out an ending and then write up to it?"

"I am afraid planning is my weak point. My difficulty is to get started right. Why, I've been three days trying to get going on a story now. I couldn't do it today, so I spent the time taking my automobile to pieces up at the garage. The machine had acted just like a horse that felt it had done enough work for the amount of oats furnished, and when I got it together again it didn't act any better. And I didn't get that story started while I was messing up its insides either. Well, I usually map out my characters and suit myself as to the beginning. Then I let them take care of themselves."

"Once I know the kind of boys they are the incidents come easily, and as I lay my greatest stress on characters, I know how the kids will act when they're up against a proposition. One kind of a fellow would be sure to act one way in a situation that another would meet entirely differently. One thing I am a stickler for and that is chronological order. I decide on my scene and the time. The story I am going to begin will be laid at school last year."

"The safest rule I know for any writer is the one attributed to O. Henry, who said he wrote to please himself. You know what you yourself like, or would like if you were a boy, as you were years ago, and you can be pretty sure that your own human nature is a pretty fair example of the general run."

"The girls read my stories as well as the boys. It seems to me from the letters I get that more girls read them than boys, but that is only because three girls will write to tell you what they think of a character while one boy is thinking about penning a letter. I get a good many letters from them, and always try to answer them, although it's a good deal of a bore sometimes, especially when a girl wants to know what happens in the next book to a hero or heroine. My books run in trios or fours, and frequently I am able to make the next of the series a reply to such exhibitions of curiosity."

"Letters containing queer requests come in often. Only the other day I had one from a woman who is a librarian out in Kansas. She begged me to write a book with an aeroplane in it. She said she was swamped with requests from children who wanted to read about flying machines. But I can't touch it. It is against my policy of never making my characters do anything that would be impossible or improbable for them, and flying is still a man's game. I don't believe in this scheme of writing juveniles on the leading story in yesterday's paper."

"You aim, however, to reflect the current interest of the youngsters, don't you?"

"Boys today like clean athletics and manliness, and those things I like to furnish them. I don't know that their tastes have changed so great since I was a boy, though I did like the Oliver Optic stuff, notwithstanding that I knew his kids were doing things that grown men considered to be something in the line of feats."

"Now that you ask it, James Otis 'Toby Tyler' is to my mind the best boy's book ever written. Some librarian wrote me once putting that very question, and I remember I put

'Toby Tyler' at the head of the list I sent. Trowbridge remains popular, and I guess Optic and Alger do, too, although I never cared for Horatio's stuff. It always struck me as inane.

"If he hadn't written for grown-ups Mark Twain, in my opinion, would have been the best writer for juveniles. 'Tom Sawyer' and 'Huckleberry Finn,' I suppose, are read by every boy, and I think all enjoy their fun and kiddishness of the characters, but the books themselves are like 'Alice in Wonderland,' which has too much in it that only older ones can appreciate."

Mr. Barbour was born in Cambridge, and notwithstanding his varied and extensive experiences is still on the sunny side of middle age. He enjoys himself all the year, and for a large part of the time makes no effort to get down to work. This is his busy season. The fall and winter—unless the weather gets too strenuous—find him in Cambridge where he lives in apartments that are studiously kept as a refined home, with no indication of authorship about them.

So long as football and other sports are active at Harvard he attends the athletic events with the regularity of the undergraduate, combining both business and pleasure, for the contests on Soldiers' field give him many ideas for his stories. Walking the mile or so from his home to the field incidentally is about his only exercise.

Part of the winter Mr. and Mrs. Barbour are likely to spend in the south or west, selecting the time so as to avoid the most disagreeable period here. Summers they enjoy at Manchester, where a couple of years ago the author bought a place near the sea but 80 feet above it, offering a fine view of the ocean and having a house set among the trees.

"We have spent the summer for a good many years at East Gloucester in a bungalow we have there", said Mr. Barbour, "and swore we never would leave it. I picked up the Manchester place because it was on the market and was a dead bargain. Well, we tried it, and now won't go anywhere else. We've got 11 acres there, and I'm going to build another house on the property next summer."

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stockton left Manchester the first of the week for a short visit to Poland Springs, Me. They will return next Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Norman and party of eighteen went to the Harvard-Yale game last Saturday in a private coach attached to the first of the special trains leaving the So. Station. Breakfast, lunch and dinner were served in their car.

Tomorrow John A. Tuckerman of Boston and Ipswich will give his bachelor dinner at the Tennis and Racquet club, Boston. His wedding to Miss Katherine Atterbury, will be solemnized in St. Thomas' church, Saturday noon, Dec. 10. Among the guests at the dinner will be Charles and Francis Appleton of Boston and Ipswich. Mr. Tuckerman and his bride elect will winter in Boston. Next summer they will reside in Ipswich.

Robert Wilson Hyde, the limner, who has been making an exhibition of his books, parchments, etc., at 276 Boylston st., Boston, for the last week, has met with such success that he has decided to continue for a few days more. From Boston Mr. Hyde goes to New York and by the first of February he expects to sail for Italy to spend the balance of the winter. In Rome he will join the Roger Noble Burnhams, who were also on the North Shore the last summer. The Burnhams sailed more than a month ago. Their trip was marked by a series of incidents including above all a rough voyage most of the way. An alarm of fire on board the liner and a suicide served to give variety to and break the monotony of the trip and they were glad to get a sight of land when they reached the Azores, but,—to add one more thing to the troubles of the trip they learned on reaching the dock of the Portugal revolution. They are now settled in Rome for the winter.

Boston Opera House.

Next week, the fourth of the Boston Opera season, promises to be a glorious carnival of art as the repertoire eclipses all previous efforts, embracing the foremost works from the Italian, French and Russian schools of opera. Every demand of the New England opera goer is being supplied by this wonderful organization under the direction of Mr. Henry Russell and each week brings forth some feature that overshadows its predecessor.

On Monday evening, Nov. 28th, at 8 will be presented Il Barbiere di Siviglia in Italian by Rossini, with Lydia Lipkowska in the role of Rosina, and Florencio Constantino as the Count Almaviva. REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

One of the largest transfers of land in this vicinity for years has recently been consummated whereby several old estates belonging to Wenham and Hamilton residents become the property of E. L. Dressel. Brief mention of this was made in our last issue. The exchange involves the Ayer Farm which consists of more than 80 acres; the Frank Brown estate of over an acre, and a portion of the Isaac Knowlton farms known as the Jacob Brown estate; also some adjoining property. There is also being bargained for another large estate. All of the above real estate carries with it numerous houses, barns and other buildings. The property is situated in the vicinity of "Four Corners". Later on extensive improvements and alterations will be commenced and the place will be turned into a gentleman's estate.

Ground has been broken for a new house on the corner of Haskell and Hart streets, Beverly Farms. It is understood the property is owned by George Lee of the summer colony.

The initial cottage to form a nucleus for the English village to be conducted in connection with Hawthorne Inn has been started in the picturesque field opposite Hawthorne Inn which lies beside Grapevine Cove road and Fair View lane, East Gloucester.

Major Walter S. Hale of Winchester is to erect a fine bungalow on the lot south of his summer estate on Marmion Way, Rockport.

Walter L. Dean, the famous marine artist of Boston and East Gloucester, has recently purchased the attractive and picturesque estate of Capt. Charles O'Neal on East Main street, East Gloucester, with a water frontage on Rocky Neck Cove. Mr. Dean plans to enlarge the house considerably. He and his family spend six months of the year at East Gloucester where they have been in the habit of hiring a summer home each season. The acquiring of permanent property will doubtless make them permanent residents of Gloucester.

The following real estate transfers from this vicinity were recorded at the registry of deeds at Salem this week:

Mary A. Meldrum et al. to Nora wife of Dominick Flatley, all of Manchester, five acres woodland County road, Manchester.

Thanksgiving was not an altogether pleasant day for Mrs. Abbie (Sanborn) Smith of Elm street. Besides the pain of mind caused by the serious accident befalling her 8-year-old son a week ago, who is now at the hospital for treatment, another boy, Reginald is ill with rheumatic fever, and her brother, George Sanborn, the baggage master at the West Manchester station, is also at the hospital with typhoid fever.

Christmas handkerchiefs have arrived. E. A. Lethbridge. *

Serious Accident.

Last Friday afternoon Louis the eight-year-old son of Mrs. Abbie (Sanborn) Smith of Elm st., Manchester, became ensnarled in the wheel of a wagon owned by John W. Carter, the tin-smith, and broke one leg in two places and terribly bruised the other. Only by the closest margin did he escape death. He was one of several children "stealing" rides on wagons. As Mr. Carter's wagon was starting from in front of the shop, on lower School street, the young men on the vehicle drove the children off. The little Smith boy either did not leave or he caught hold afterward,—at any rate the wagon had not preceded more than a dozen paces when there was a shriek and those who heard it saw the form of the child whirled around by the revolving rear wheel once or twice. The wagon was stopped instantly and the little fellow was taken from his precarious position.

There appears to have been no one who saw the accident. It is supposed the child was hanging on to the rear of the wagon and when it started he became ensnarled in the spokes of the wheel.

At the Beverly hospital everything is being done for the comfort of the boy. It is hoped that his legs may not have to be amputated, though this could not be known for sure yesterday. At all events the child will probably be a cripple for life.

No fault, of course, is placed on Capt. Carter or his men for the accident. The children are continually hanging around wagons trying to "steal" a ride and it is not an uncommon thing to see drivers stop in the middle of the street to drive children away from their wagons. In this case it is said the children were driven away and warned not to get on. The law in a matter of this kind is such, however, that the owner of vehicles are held responsible for accidents of this kind no matter what care might have been taken to prevent accident. Mr. Carter is protected by the Employers Liability Insurance, having a policy in the Travellers' Insurance Co., through the office of Geo. E. Willmonton.

Hollis Street Theatre.

The long delayed engagement of the popular comedian, Francis Wilson, in Boston, is about to be consummated, for announcement is made that Mr. Wilson will begin a limited engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre, in his own successful comedy, "The Bachelor's Baby", next Monday night.

"The Bachelor's Baby", is by all odds the most successful play Mr. Wilson has had during his long career and it comes to Boston almost direct from its season's run at the Criterion theatre, New York City, where it played to the biggest houses in the history of that popular playhouse. "The Bachelor's Baby", is a most diverting and entertaining comedy farce, full of bright lines, and with clever epigram and amusing situations, tells in a clean, straight-forward and wholesome manner, an appealing as well as a very funny story.

From the time the comedian makes his first entrance, which is very early in the comedy, until the final curtain falls, there is almost incessant laughter, save that every now and again, Mr. Wilson has struck a very human note in some pathetic little scene with the child, which only serves to bring out the comedy in stronger relief.

Charles Frohman who presents Francis Wilson brings the comedian for this engagement with practically the same company which was with him during the long run of the play in New York. Mr. Wilson has written the play in three acts and the production is said to be very elaborate and artistic. But one matinee will be played each week,—on Saturdays.

Gaiety Theatre.

No better type of the modern building construction can be found among Boston's playhouses than the New Gaiety Theatre, located at Washington and Boylston streets. The building was completed in 1908 and possesses all those features that are to be found in all first-class theatres. Efficient ventilating apparatus, automatic heat control, scientific illumination and a score of other matters are quite unnoticed by the average patron, yet these things must be provided at many thousands of dollars expense, and in such the Gaiety Theatre is pre-eminent among the new theatres of Boston.

Regarding the scope and character of the modern burlesque show, it is a generally admitted fact that they easily rank well with the so-called first-class companies seen at the large theatres in all the big cities of the country.

No form of theatrical stage productions has undergone a more radical change in the past ten years than burlesque. To-day they are patronized as extensively by ladies as by men, and justly so, for the up-to-date burlesque show combines all the elements of the stage—music, drama, comedy, vaudeville and the spectacular.

Mr. and Mrs. David Cobb and Mr. Cobb's sister spent Thanksgiving in town with Mrs. Cobb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Foster.

Mrs. Edith M. Latons returned Saturday from a round of visits among friends in Clinton, Worcester, Leominster and Fitchburg.

Miss Evelyn Eldridge has returned from a visit of several weeks with friends and relatives in Maine, and is with her sister, Mrs. F. A. Rowe.

The dance held in the Town hall on Thanksgiving Eve was a charming affair and the junior class of the Story High School is to be congratulated on its success. The hall was most beautifully decorated in holiday colors. The stage was banked with laurel into which a touch of red had been twined. The chandeliers were very prettily trimmed and the whole hall spoke of Thanksgiving cheer. A short reception was held during the early evening. The grand march was lead by Prin. A. L. Sabin and Miss Florence Kauffman, who is concluding her services as teacher on December 1, followed by Miss Gertrude Ryan and Allen McKinnon.

A Manchester boy—Bryce Specht—is receiving much praise from Marblehead people for his activity last Sunday morning in sending in a fire alarm about 4 o'clock after discovering a fire in a bowling alley in the thickly settled part of Marblehead. Mr. Specht is night operator in the telephone exchange in Marblehead at present. He was awakened about 4 o'clock last Sunday morning by the night bell ringing in the office. It appears that a cigarette or cigar stub thrown in a spittoon in the bowling alley Saturday night smouldered and set fire to the place. A telephone was above the spot where the fire is supposed to have started and the heat melted the rubber insulation on the wires thus causing a circuit which rung the bell in the telephone office. When Specht was aroused by the bell he answered, thinking some subscriber was ringing. He waited and waited for an answer on the other end of the line, and receiving none his suspicions were aroused and he immediately started an investigation. The bowling alley is located just across the street from the telephone office and on going to the window he could see the glare from the flames. He immediately telephoned an alarm.

A Bank For Manchester?

Regret was expressed by one of the officers of one of the banking institutions interested in establishing a bank in Manchester that the news of the efforts being made should have been published at this time. At the solicitation of one of those actively interested in the movement no mention of the matter has been made in this paper, because those at the head of the movement were desirous of keeping the matter quiet until such a time as they were ready to announce it.

For several weeks it has been known that efforts were being made to learn the desires of the business men of the town of Manchester in regard to establishing a bank here. Many have expressed themselves in favor of such a move, others have thrown cold water on it.

Even now those at the head of the movement are not in a position to say definitely whether or not they will go ahead with their plans. The proposition is to capitalize a trust

TO HIGH FINANCE.

Revere Beach Railroad and the Public Likely to Be a Prey Unless the People Get Busy.

It would almost seem as if the "high finance" transportation monopoly interests were determined to end the existence in Massachusetts of railroads honestly built on a moderate capitalization and earning well on that basis.

The Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad carries many millions of people every year for a five-cent fare to and from Revere Beach, and it pays it well to do it. The road earns six per cent dividends on $850,000 of stock and four and one-half per-cent interest on $850,000 of bonds, and has been well kept up on a total capitalization of only $1,700,000.

But "high finance" now proposes to increase this modest capitalization ten fold and to give in return improvements to the road which will be comparatively slight in proportion. It will furnish a fine opening for inflated capitalization and stock-jobbing operations if it is to be conducted on the same principle as the New Haven road and its controlled and owned lines have been ever since the accession to the presidency of the road of Charles S. Mellen.

Perhaps "high finance" interests will discover that there are some protections for investors still remaining in our laws which have not been repealed or circumvented as yet, and there may be something doing in the next legislature.

The Boston Post of Nov. 17 comments editorially on the situation as follows:

"The importance of President Mellen's forthcoming request to the Legislature for permission to absorb the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn railroad is entirely out of proportion to the size of the property desired.

"This move is simply an early symptom of the New Haven's intent to control and monopolize every line company at $100,000, $30,000 of the capital stock to be subscribed by one of the Gloucester banks, a like sum by a Beverly bank, and $40,000 by the people of Manchester—business men, citizens and summer residents. It is proposed to do a general banking business and to have a savings department.

of transportation in New England that it can get its hands on. It is the natural and inevitable result of the big merger of two years ago and of the bill passed in the last legislative session allowing the road to get control of all the trolley lines in the Berkshires. The acquiescence of our lawmakers has emboldened the New Haven to ask anything with the feeling that anything will be granted. Like the daughter of the horse-leech, it cries "give, give", and it will continue to cry so long as its requests are granted and there is anything left for it to get.

It is time to call a halt in this species of surrender, time for the people of Massachusetts soberly to consider whether they wish a Connecticut corporation to rule their transportation systems or prefer that such healthy competition as still exists shall continue.

"The Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn is a small road, but quite an important ten miles, for all that. Spite of the reported ownership of much of its stock by the Boston & Maine, it has maintained its autonomy and is, in fact, a competing line. It is against the policy of the state and the public interest that it should be swallowed up by the greater system, no matter what promises are made as to its improvement. A vital principle is involved—and we have been surfeited with New Haven promises unfulfilled.

"Mr. Mellen ought to be satisfied for a while without reaching out for new conquests. His road acquired control of the Boston & Maine by indirect methods, polite subterfuge. He has still to show the benefits to the people of that clever operation. They are as yet not proven.

"The big merger must be made to justify itself before the little merger can even be considered.

"One of the elements that helped defeat Governor Draper was his excess of friendliness for the New Haven railroad. The republicans of the next legislature should not forget that. If they permit continued stifling of transportation competition in Massachusetts they will arouse a storm beside which the election of last week will have been a pleasant ripple on the surface of the political waters".—Medford (Mass.) Mercury.

THE NEWSPAPER YOUR REPRESENTATIVE.

One of the most important functions of the modern newspaper is to act as the representative of the community in all dealings with the outside world. The needs of the town in its relation to the state are voiced by the home newspaper. The advantages of the community as a place to live and to do business in are similarly made known to outside inquiries.

Hence, the newspaper needs to present an appearance of prosperity, just as the salesman who represents a business house among distant buyers needs to be well dressed.

When a newspaper circulating in the outside world presents a poor typographical appearance, people gain the impression that the town and the business men which it represents are too poor to support a first-class sheet.

It is the pride of this paper that it has been able to present a typographical appearance superior to others of its class. We have produced clean press work, making that clear cut contrast between black and white that is easy for the eyes. Our type for advertising was selected with an eye to symmetry. We provide a degree of display for the news that emphasizes the story but avoids the poster like excesses of the yellow journal. Wherever this newspaper circulates it must give an impression that it represents a substantial community.

At the same time, like all ambitious newspaper people, we have our visions of betterment. We wish constant improvement, and this is to be had only on the basis of liberal support from our public. Let us all remember that such support not merely gives an interesting paper to read, but it helps the publisher to keep on improving the typographical appearance of the paper, making it even more an honor to the community whose life it mirrors.

Always there's one classified ad that's worth all the rest to you. Have you found it today?

Our Weekly Letter From Washington

By F. J. DYER.

Special to the North Shore Breeze.

Washington, Nov. 23—Because many of them will not come back after the short session beginning in December and ending on March 4, fewer Members of Congress than usual will bring on their families and enter into the social activities of the winter. It has been suggested that this will make things dull in Washington, but as a partial offset there will be a more brilliant season, perhaps, in diplomatic circles than usual. There have been several additions to the diplomatic corps, all of whom will make their bow to society this winter, so that in official circles things will be quite gay despite the comparative dullness in the Congressional set.

The session itself is likely to be far from dull. President Taft has let the word go out that he will redouble his efforts to force through Congress legislation which was stalled at the last session, and which he would like to see enacted while the Republicans are still in control of the House. In consequence, he will try to keep all of his congressional adherents in Washington in order to get his various policies enacted into law.

This is not at all agreeable to the Democrats or to some of the Insurgents. Now that they stand on the threshold of achievement after "wandering sixteen years in the wilderness", as their doughty leader, Champ Clark, expresses it, they feel disposed to grumble when a Republican Congress, whose policies have been repudiated by the country at large, settles down to work with the express purpose of enacting a mass of legislation which the Democrats assert the Nation does not want. The Republicans, on the other hand, do not concede that the action of the voters in returning a majority of 59 Democrats to the House of Representatives really repudiated the Republican policies. The Administration is disposed to believe that this is merely one of those unaccountable spasms which occasionally gripe the country, and that possibly a year will be enough to make the great mass of the voters sorry that they did it. However this may be, the Democrats are already muttering and suggesting that they have it in their power—with their half-brothers, the Insurgents, to help them to be sure—to force an extra session which may last all summer and play havoc with the carefully planned program which the Republicans have been years in carrying out. Whether the Democrats will conclude that it is better to await the natural order of events and not take up their legislative program in earnest until the winter of 1911 will not be determined for some time, but it may be counted as a certainty that the coming short session will be as full of interest and action as almost any one could ask.

Massachusetts Civil Service Examination for District Police

A competitive examination of applicants for inspector of factories and public buildings will be held Dec. 7, 1910. Applicants will be examined in training and experience, letter-writing, arithmetic, handwriting, questions on construction and architectural work and ventilation, safety devices for machinery and elevators, modes of egress in case of fire, devices and appliances for extinguishing fires, simple questions in electricity, etc.

Applicants must be not less than twenty-five or over fifty years of age, except in the case of veterans, and not less than five feet, seven inches in height in bare feet, and must weigh not less than 135 pounds without clothing. Special consideration will be given to the subject of training and experience. Applicants will be given a physical examination. Only citizens of the United States, who have been residents of Massachusetts for the past year, have a right to apply.

Men who desire to take this examination may secure application blanks by applying in person, or by letter, at the office of the Civil Service Commission, 152 State House, Boston, Mass.

Applications may be filed at any time, but in order to entitle a man to appear at this examination, the application blank must be filled out and placed on file in the office of this commission on or before December 2, 1910.

IN OUR DRESS AND WASH GOODS DEPTS.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 28 to DECEMBER 10, inclusive

Miller and Miller Will Again give a Demonstration of Cutting and Fitting Suits, Waists, Skirts and One Piece Gowns Absolutely Free of Charge.

For a limited period we have once again secured the celebrated Miller & Miller to cut to your measure and fit FREE—Coats—Waists—Suits—Skirts & Dresses from goods purchased at our Silk Dress & Wash Goods departments—from the value of 50c AND UPWARDS.

So thorough are their labors that no woman who can sew a straight seam need be fearful of the perfect alignment of the garment cut and fitted by these experts.

The above mentioned departments abound with a carefully selected assortment of seasonable Merchandise and will be placed at your disposal to select therefrom—thereby profiting by the Free Service of these fashionable artisans.

CAUTION Upon their last visit we were overwhelmed with business to such an extent that we were obliged to discontinue taking orders four days previous to the expiration of their allotted time. Therefore we would suggest that you come as early in the week as possible—commencing next Monday, Nov. 28th.

Miss Ethel Scott arrived home the latter part of the week after spending several months in Washington, D. C.

A meeting of the Athletic Association was held at the Story High school Monday, when a basket-ball team was organized, Walter Howe as manager and Gordon Cool, assistant manager. For the foot ball team of 1911, Walter Howe was voted captain. The letter "M" was awarded to fifteen players in the recent games. The letters were given by the association for those who played two whole games or parts of three.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Bell drove over the road from Kingston, N. H., Monday to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with their family in Manchester. On Thanksgiving Day, as usual, they were members of a big family reunion in Beverly, Mr. Bell's mother being surrounded on that day by her children, grandchildren and great grandchildren to the number of over 20.

The Y. M. C. A. boys held their first meeting of the season in the chapel on Friday evening, the 18th. The meeting was well attended, and the usual interest was shown by the boys. The meetings will be held regularly every week. The following officers for the ensuing year were elected: Archibald Cool, president; Arthur Lodge, vice-president; Fred Jackson, secy., Richard L. Cheever, treasurer; Allen McKinnon, collector. The entertainment committee consists of Arthur Lodge (chairman), Elmer Smith, Gordon Northrup, Frank Floyd and Walter Howe.

We are sure that every resident of Manchester will be interested in reading in this issue the article on Ralph Henry Barbour. Mr. Barbour is one of Manchester's newest summer residents. He is today one of the best known and most popular writers of boys' stories in this country. In an interview Mr. Barbour expressed his keen delight with Manchester as a summer home and said that he intended to build another house on his property next summer. He now owns what was formerly known as the Squier estate off Pine street containing eleven acres.

Asa Ashley of West Gloucester enjoyed the holiday with his daughter Mrs. Oscar P. Story.

Mrs. Willis Malonson is confined to her home with a bad attack of rheumatism.

Daniel Chane, who recently removed to Manchester, has accepted a position as driver with B. S. Bullock for the winter.

Chas. Hoyle and family have closed their cottage on Lexington ave., and returned to their home in Boston.

Mrs. Augustus Macone of Newton was the guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. James Wolff over the holiday.

The first dance of the season was held at the Woman's Clubhouse under the auspices of Chane's Orchestra. A large number were present and a very pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Foster of Winchester were the guests of Mrs. Amelia Foster over the holiday.

We are sorry to report the serious illness of Mrs. John C. Lycett, who is suffering from a nervous illness at her home on Magnolia ave.

The Boy Scouts are proposing to build a log hut in the woods on a lot overlooking the sea owned by Henry W. Brown. Ten of the boys have passed the examinations of a Tenderfoot and are now classified as second class scouts.

Misses Amy and Mary Lycett, who were visiting relatives in Bridgewater returned home on Tuesday.

The subject of the sermon at the Village church on Sunday morning will be the first two words of the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Judith C. Wilkins.

Mrs. Judith C. Wilkins, widow of John Wilkins, passed away at the home of her son William L. Wilkins on Wednesday morning after a short illness, aged 86 years, 3 months and 6 days. She was a native of Essex, Mass., being the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phineas Story. She was a member of the Union Congregational church having served as Deaconess for several years and was of a quiet retiring disposition and greatly beloved by everybody being one of the oldest and most respected residents of this town.

She leaves three sons John H., George and William L., five grandchildren and one great grand child to mourn her loss.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning at ten o'clock from the Village church. Interment will be in the family lot at Swampscott, Mass.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the members of the family in their bereavement.

A Piano Floating in Mid Air.

An unsolved mystery will be the feature at B. F. Keith's theatre next week in Onaip, the Hindo Mystic, who sits a man at a piano and both rise from the ground, float in the air, and revolve, while the man plays the piano. Of all the mysteries that have been presented on the stage in recent years, this is without question the greatest, and there is no doubt that Onaip will be the talk of all Boston next week. On top of this strong feature there will be Fannie Ward, the famous English actress, who is making her first appearances in vaudeville in a comedy called "An Unlucky Star", which is said to be one of the most amusing and at the same time artistic short plays seen in recent years. Miss Ward is the widow of a London millionaire, Joe Lewis, and was for years the sensation of London and Paris. Other features will be Williams and Schwartz, the song writers; the Camillo Trio of clowns; Gus Edwards' "Kountry Kids;" Jolly Wild and company in a musical act; Tom Mahoney, the Irish story teller; the Musical Johnstones; and Harry Tsuda, the Japanese equilibrist.

MANCHESTER

State Treasurer, Elmer A. Stevens has completed his task of settling up the state's account with most of the cities and towns of the commonwealth. In settlement of its account with Manchester the town has received a check for $34,615.49. The amount was derived at as follows:

| Due the Town. | |
|--------------------------------------|-----------|
| Business corporation tax | $92.86 |
| National bank tax | 5,991.45 |
| Military aid | 72.00 |
| State aid | 1,078.00 |
| Burial of Soldiers | 37.00 |
| Public service corporation tax | 48,959.18 |

| Total due the town | $56,230.49 |
|--------------------------|-------------|
| Due the Commonwealth. | |
| State tax | $21,615.00 |

Balance due Town

$34,615.49
In the case of our neighbors. Gloucester paid the state $800.02; Essex received $2,769.81; Rockport received $920.15. It will be seen, therefore, that Manchester is very fortunate in deriving such a large sum from this source.

Some large, luscious red apples have come to some of Alexander Carr's friends at Beverly Farms this week, sent by him from Spokane, Wash., as a sample of the kind of apples that grow in that section. Mr. Carr writes that in Spokane an apple exhibition has just been held, and from there it is to be transferred to Chicago. There were two millions of apples shown. Oregon and Washington claim to raise the finest apples in the world. The selling price averages $1. per box, five boxes making a barrel.

The boys fife and drum corps attracted much attention Wednesday evening as they marched through the Farms streets to and from the residence of former councilman, John C. McCarthy. They had accepted an invitation from friends of the newly married couple, Mr. and Mrs. Saulnier to give the young couple a serenade.

You "pay" for neglecting to read classified advertisements—and sometimes you pay a big price. Maybe it's in the guise of too much rent—or of too small wages. Inevitably, you "pay".

Conroy-Quirk.

The marriage of Miss Mary Ellen, eldest daughter of Mrs. Thomas Quirk of High street, Beverly Farms, to Thomas Weston Conroy took place at the parochial residence, Beverly Farms, Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, the Rev. Nicholas R. Walsh officiating. After the ceremony the happy couple went to the home of the bride's family on High street where they received the congratulations of their immediate friends and relatives, who had gathered for the occasion. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Conroy will live at Beverly Farms. Both young people are well known here and have a host of friends, with whom the Breeze joins in extending happy congratulations.

Saulnier-McCarthy.

At the parochial residence, Beverly Farms, Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock Agnes Victoria, daughter of former Councilman and Mrs. John C. McCarthy of Greenwood ave., was united in marriage to Edward Joseph Saulnier of Boston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Nicholas R. Walsh. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the reception being attended by the family connections and near friends of the contracting parties. Mr. and Mrs. Saulnier left on an evening train for a wedding trip. They will reside for the winter in Boston. The bride is a popular Farms young lady who has a host of friends. The groom has made his home at the Farms during the summer season for several years.

Have your Legal and Probate Notices appear in The Breeze.

The political situation in Ward 6 for the city election under the new charter which takes place on Tuesday, Dec. 13, remains about the same as last week. For mayor there are four candidates. For alderman-at-large, of which three are to be elected, there are six or seven, all of which come from other sections of the city. Alderman Augustus P. Loring, Jr., for the aldermanic board and James B. Dow for the school committee are so far the only candidates for those particular positions. All candidates have until next Wednesday at 5 o'clock to file nomination papers.

"BACK TO FARM" MOVEMENT.State Agricultural Board to issue List of Places for Sale.

A list of the farms in Massachusetts which are for sale is soon to be issued by the state board of agriculture. This is the first step by the state toward initiating a "back to the farm" movement.

The publication will contain a detailed description of 474 farms, ranging from a few of five acres in area to several of more than 600 acres. Practically every county in the state is represented in the list. Worcester leading with 105 farms that are for sale. Berkshire has 87. Franklin 79, Hampden 16, Middlesex 60, Essex 22, Norfolk 39, Plymouth 28, Barnstable 21, Dukes 12, and the island of Nantucket has three.

While an effort was made to secure the names of parties owning or controlling strictly abandoned farms, the attempt was ineffectual. The board says, though, that reports confirm the opinion that there is an enormous amount of land lying idle or partly deserted, and that many farms are not worked to anywhere near their limit.

Brief descriptions are given in the publication of the geography, climate and soil, and also the character of crops possible in the various sections. It also points out that in the last year a census was taken, and that the dairy industry, possible anywhere, represented a value of 22,500,000, or more than 30 per cent. of the total products for that year.

Specific products, highly localized, are: Apples in central and northeastern parts; celery in central Hampden and in Middlesex and Suffolk counties; cranberries in Plymouth and Barnstable counties; onions in northern Hampshire and southern Franklin counties; dressed poultry in Bristol, eastern Norfolk and northern Plymouth; strawberries in Bristol and Middlesex; tobacco in southern Franklin and in Hampshire and Hampden counties; wool in Franklin, Berkshire and Dukes.

The report shows that there are six natural markets in Massachusetts for the products of the farm, so that no farm is remote from a ready market. These are: Pittsfield and North Adams, Northampton, Chicopee and Springfield, Worcester, Fitchburg and Marlboro, Lowell, Lawrence, Haverhill and Newburyport, Brockton, Fall River and New Bedford in Massachusetts and Woonsocket, Pawtucket, Central Falls and Providence in Rhode Island, and the Boston market.

As the result of its investigation, the board says that farm land is cheaper in Massachusetts than in the West and that there is available a greater percentage of cheap land suitable for cultivation. Massachusetts farm land is better constituted, the board says, richer in mineral plant food, more adapted to artificial enrichment and more durable than that of unglaciated soils of the middle and extreme West.—Boston Herald.

The eighth annual motor boat and engine show will open in Mechanics Building, Saturday, January 28, continuing through the following week. While each year has seen a greater number of boats and exhibitors, this coming show will be better than ever before, and the man who is trying to decide on a new craft, new engine or what he will need in the way of equipment for 1911, will find a visit to this show a good investment, as the boat you need, the engine you have been dreaming about and a

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The Andrew Carnegie, 2ds., who have been spending the autumn at their Manchester Cove estate, are planning to leave Sunday for their winter home at Fernandina, Fla.

—x—

George Lee and family closed their estate at Beverly Farms this week and they sailed from New York on the out-going Mauretania Wednesday to spend several months in southern Europe.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Agassiz spent the last week-end at Hamilton.

—x—

Dr. and Mrs. John C. Phillips are still at "Knobbfield", their Wenham estate.

—x—

The exhibition of Henry C. Frick's collection of paintings at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts will be free to the public except on Mondays, when the usual fee will be charged to all but annual subscribers and the holders of special entrance tickets.

—x—

The Army and Navy football game in Philadelphia last Saturday was a notable society event, which brought much fashion and distinction to the Quaker City from the capital and the leading cities of the country. Society entertained extensively with dinner and luncheon parties at the Bellevue-Stratford before and after the game, also the other leading hotels. Among those dining at the Bellevue-Stratford were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney E. Hutchinson, whose guests included Miss Cintra Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. John Kearsley Mitchell, 3d., Mr. and Mrs. Edward Browning and Mr. and Mrs. George D. Widener. Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson occupied Box 29 at the game and their guests included Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bell, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Samuel K. Reeves and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Browning. H. D. Winslow of Boston was a member of the box party of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Mitchell, 3d., Mrs. Hutchinson's brother-in-law and sister. The Mitchells had Box 60. In Box 70 was Secretary G. Von. L. Meyer, his aide, commander Phillip Andrews, Whitney Warren of New York and a party of friends. Box 93 was occupied by Rear Admiral John E. Pillsbury and Mrs. Pillsbury, Rear Admiral John F. Merry U. S. N. and friends. Mrs. C. Howard Clark and Miss Amy Clark had reservations on one of the grand stands.

—x—

An engagement of much interest to Philadelphia and Pittsburg society is that of Miss Ada M. McCrea, daughter of James McCrea, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, residing at "Ballyheather", Gray's lane, Ardmore, Pa., and Richard Hays Hawkins of Pittsburg, son of Judge W. G. Hawkins.

—x—

The Russian Ambassador and Baroness De Rosen, with their daughter, the Baroness Elizabeth De Rosen, will sail for Europe, December 13. Prince Nicholas Koudacheff, counselor of the Embassy, will act as Charge d'Affaires.

SOCIETY NOTES

Dr. Reginald H. Fitz and family, after a long season on the North Shore, closed their house at West Manchester Thursday and returned to their Boston house, 18 Arlington st., for the winter.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. McKee, who have been spending the autumn at their Beverly Farms estate, as usual, left this week for New York, where they will spend most of the winter.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. George Wigglesworth and daughter, Mrs. Chase, came to Manchester Wednesday for a few hours, looking over their estate at Old Neck.

—x—

Miss Helen Taft had a Thanksgiving house party over the last week-end. She entertained four college friends, the Misses Rice, Vincent, Crane and Hamilton. Miss Nagel, daughter of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, was their hostess for luncheon at the Chevy Chase club.

—x—

Mrs. John Bohlen, a prominent society woman of Philadelphia and mother of Charles Bohlen of Philadelphia and Hamilton, passed away at her home in Chestnut Hill, Philadelphia, last Wednesday. Mrs. Bohlen was a member of the exclusive social set of the Quaker City. Her three surviving sons, D. Murray Bohlen, Charles Bohlen and Robert Bohlen are prominent members of Philadelphia society, sportsmen and expert cricket players.

—x—

The wedding of Miss Gladys Durant Rice and John L. Saltonstall of Boston and Beverly will be solemnized in Bedford village church, New York, Dec. 10. Robert Saltonstall of Hyde Park, a brother, will serve as best man. The bride-elect will have no attendants. Some 30 guests will witness the ceremony.

—x—

Quincy A. Shaw and Rudolphe Agassiz represented Boston and the North Shore at John B. Ryan's Thanksgiving eve dinner at Sherry's, New York. Mr. Ryan is president of the Amalgamated copper company.

—x—

One of the most prominent charity affairs of the present week was Tuesday's sale at the Somerset, Boston, given under the auspices of the Vincent club which has a large North Shore society membership and following. Tea, luncheon and bridge were other attractions. Assisting at the bag and cushion table was Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Jr., and at the toy table was Mrs. Henry S. Grew, 2nd, as one of the helpers. Mrs. Frank Bemis had charge of the bridge tournament.

—x—

Tuesday evening at the White House President and Mrs. Taft gave a dinner in honor of the members of the interstate commerce commission and the railroad securities commission. Other guests present were the Attorney General and Mrs. Wickersham, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Mrs. Nagel, Miss Taft and others.

SOCIETY NOTES

Dec. 8 in Pittsburg, the annual tea and sale for the Women's Industrial exchange will be held in the residences of Mrs. Herbert Du Puy and Mrs. Wallace H. Rowe, adjoining homes in Morewood avenue. A new feature is bridge and 60 tables have been secured. Afternoon tea and music will be the features at Mrs. Herbert Du Puy's residence. Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter will have charge of the musicale and bridge with Mrs. Du Puy.

Mr. and Mrs. Tristram Colket of Bryn Mawr, Pa., have issued invitations for a dinner and theatre party in honor of their nephew, Master Jack Caner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison K. Caner of Philadelphia and Manchester, on December 8.

This evening (Dec. 2.) Philadelphia society will be found in large numbers at the "Author's Festival" ball at the Bellevue-Stratford in aid of the Philadelphia Museum and School of Industrial Art. Miss Cintra Hutchinson will be among the debutantes who will sell programmes, flowers and collect votes for the most favored costumes. The boxholders include C. Howard Clark and E. T. Stotesbury. Howell Hansell of the Philadelphia Stock Company, formerly of the Castle Square Theatre, Boston, will appear as Ali Baba and with him will be the Forty Thieves.

Captain Eliot Frost, Yale's Varsity rowing captain, who has the big task before him of winning back for Yale her former supremacy on the waters of the New London Thames, is a resident of Waltham and a summer resident of long standing of the North Shore. The Frost family have summered for more than 25 years at Land's End, Rockport, where Capt. Frost spends much time rowing around Flat Point and Loblolly Cove, a solitary figure in a dory far out among the islands or sailing his yacht.

The secretary to the President has given out the program of receptions and dinners to be given at the White House this season of 1910-1911. As announced some weeks ago the series of state dinners will begin Thursday, December 15, the first guests to be entertained in this official season to be the members of the Cabinet. Four instead of three dinners will be given this season. The first of January coming on Sunday, the annual New Year reception will take place Monday from 11 a. m. to 1.30, with the evening receptions and dinners all arranged for Tuesday. The dates and events are as follows: January 10, Tuesday, diplomatic reception, 9.30 p. m.; January 17, Tuesday, diplomatic dinner; January 24, Tuesday, Judicial reception; January 31, Tuesday, Supreme Court dinner; February 7, Tuesday, Congressional reception; February 14, Tuesday, Speaker's dinner; February 21, Tuesday, Army and Navy reception.

The January and February assemblies, leading social events of the season, are scheduled for January 6 and February 17 in the ballroom of the Hotel Somerset, Boston. On the patroness list are Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Mrs. Bryce J. Allen, Mrs. Oliver Ames, 2nd. Mrs. Philip Sears is a member of the committee and Barrett Wendell, Jr., is a member of the board of managers.

Mrs. George Patten (Beatrice Ayer) of Fort Sheridan, Ill., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ayer of Boston and Pride's. Mrs. Patten came on for the presentation tea of her sister, Miss Katherine Ayer. Mrs. Ayer gives a ball for her debutante daughter at Hotel Somerset on Jan. 13.

Robert Stowe Bradley and Miss Leslie Bradley were among the European home comers who arrived late last week from abroad. They were passengers on the Mauretania.

Many prominent debutante functions are on Boston's social calendar for December. Tonight (Dec. 2) Mrs. John Silsbee Curtis will give a dinner at the Somerset club for her niece, Miss Rose Saltonstall. Dec. 8 Mrs. Oliver Ames will give a large dinner at the Algonquin club, Boston, for her niece, Miss Helen Hooper. Following the dinner is the debutante ball for Miss Lily Sears given by her father, Herbert Sears at the Somerset. Miss Sears was the guest of honor on Wednesday evening of this week at Mrs. Edward Brandegee's dinner dance at her beautiful residence in Brookline.

Mrs. Robert S. Bradley and Miss Rosamond Bradley have been to New York on a short trip. They went over to meet Mr. Bradley and Miss Leslie Bradley, who were enroute from Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Curtis will present Miss Evelyn Curtis by a dance in the ballroom of the Hotel Somerset in January. Dec. 14, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis are giving a dinner for Miss Curtis at the Somerset club.

Claude Grahame White gave a farewell luncheon to a few friends at the Touraine, last Sunday evening Miss Eleanora Sears being among those present. The "world's champion aviator" sailed Wednesday of this week on the Mauretania from New York for a six weeks sojourn in England. Mr. White is having several biplanes constructed at the Burgess-Curtiss shops at Marblehead. He is also having the new science of the standardization of parts operated there, which will place the North Shore in an important relation to the progress in aviation.

Among the charter members of the new Boston Skating Club are Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Munn Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pratt McKean and Q. A. S. McKean.

The Army and Navy football crowds left $150,000 in Philadelphia by patronage of hotels, motor car shops and stores. Among the Bostonians who went over for the game last Saturday and stopped over the week-end was Mrs. Eben D. Jordon. She was registered at the Bellevue-Stratford.

At the funeral Tuesday afternoon in Cambridge of George Riddle the noted Shakesperian reader and Harvard professor, the honorary pall bearers included Ex. Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., and Gardiner M. Lane.

J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., of Boston and Manchester was one of the speakers in Boston Tuesday afternoon at the annual meeting of the Massachusetts civic league. Mr. Coolidge discussed the overcrowded condition of Boston's North and West Ends.

Children and young women of the North Shore colonies participated in the bazaar and tableaux in aid of the Lincoln House, Boston, Thursday, at Copley Hall. Children taking part in the illustrated pictures were Hilda Rice, Tom Mandell and Jack Proctor of the Beverly Cove colony; Elizabeth Caswell, Isabel and Peggy Porter of Beverly Farms and their brother, Burnham Porter. Miss Eleanora Sears appeared in the tableaux vivants. Among the patronesses were Mrs. S. Parkman Blake, Mrs. Robert C. Winthrop, Mrs. John L. Thorndike and Mrs. Samuel Carr.

The Baroness Hengelmuller, wife of the Ambassador from Austria-Hungary, who has been a member of the North Shore's diplomatic contingent, is recovering from a serious illness in New York.

KISSING

The Above Unique Theme for a Sermon Drew More than the Average Number of People to the Manchester Congregational Church last Sunday Evening.

Rev. Louis H. Ruge began his subject by saying:

The cover design of a leading magazine suggested this subject to me. The picture is that of a young man holding a spray of mistletoe over the head of a young woman, who coy, but expectant, is awaiting the kiss under the charming Christmas spray.

Not a very profound inspiration for a sermon, someone may say. True, but a pleasant memory and meditation perhaps for many.

Just an inconspicuous sprig of European evergreen with little white flowers, but the subject of volumes of mythology and the mystic rites of the Druids that held it in peculiar reverence.

The Spirit of the old English Christmas custom is invoked wherever this sacred sprig of the ancient Celts is seen. And Irving in his sketch of "Christmas Eve" charmingly refers to the old custom of the kiss under the mistletoe.

The ghosts of forgotten whisperings and vows arise and stand before us in the flush and fervor of immortal youth. The dim forms of crumbling antiquity and forgotten historic scenes resurrect themselves, the figures of the classic amorists, to re-enact the passionate and tragic tale of age-old, immortal love. Archeologists when they can read nothing else in the mystic signs of fragments of ancient times can read the sign of the kiss.

Just a cheap picture on the cover of a popular magazine and the old, old story of youths' amors are revived.

Even the wisest man of the Bible uses the kiss in Canticles 1:2 to express spiritual ecstasy in the language of human endearments when he says, "Let him kiss me with the kisses of his mouth, for his love is better than wine".

Without any very serious motive in bringing this thought before you there are yet moral meditations within the range of the subject, from the puckering mouth of the babe with its lips of innocence pressed against the wrinkles of age to the amorous indulgences of the prodigal revelling in a far country.

The kiss is the symbol of love especially, the outward demonstration of the warm pulse beats of the heart.

The memory of one kiss comes back to us all the sweet benediction of a mother's good-night prayer. It was the first token of a mother's love to our awakening sense and dawning intelligence.

The memory of the first pure kiss of our amorous youth comes to our jaded emotions as a sweet-scented breeze over fields of June flowers and cool mountain lakes to revive a sluggish pulse.

And if the theme tonight shall arouse some slumbering affections for the dead or the living it will not have been in vain.

Jacob and Rachel, in the sweet old Bible love story that makes the sacred page more real, may teach us the moral of an undying affection. Adonis and Venus are after all living flesh and blood and soul in every age. The tale of Antony and Cleopatra, shorn of its bolder amors, tell us of the glory of the deep and passionate emotions that none other than the great Creator has imparted unto man. The bodies of these historic lovers have disappeared in the ashes of corruption but the spirit of their amors is deathless and incorruptible.

Every sin in the catalogue of hell may have been born in a kiss to torture the soul and blacken the page of man's career, but every sin in the catalogue of hell has also been subdued and sacrificed on the altar of pure affection and passionate devotion.

There are all kinds of kisses, true and false, clean and unclean, holy and unholy, clothed in virtue and clothed in vice. It makes a vast difference how a kiss is given and construed and who gives it. Its language and meaning is infinite.

There is the kiss of idolatry. The ancients kissed their household gods. The Greeks were such idolatrous worshipers of art that they kissed the edges off, until ivory and marble and bronze could not resist the ardent osculatory process.

It was an act of reverence for the ancient Jews to kiss the hand and throw the kiss toward the object of worship. They kissed the sacred scrolls and edicts as a sign of reverential submission.

The kiss was a sign of submission and subjection as when Mary kissed the Master's feet, a common form of humble subjection to a superior. For a monarch to allow this salutation of a subject was a mark of honor.

It is told of a Yankee trader who was permitted to kiss the foot of an oriental potentate. In pressing an ardent kiss there he bit off and carried away one of the costly gems with which the monarch's sandals were embroidered, which would not have occurred to every one and illustrates the proverbial Yankee thrift.

The kiss was ever a sign of reconciliation between enemies at times and treaties of peace have been sealed with this sign.

It is so palpably a sign of friendship that treachery often commits its cowardly deeds under the cover of a kiss as when Joab met Amasa under the sign of friendship and slew him. Let there be no false and hypocritical kisses for Judas has forever made this one of the foulest things on earth.

There were holy kisses in the ear-

"THE LITTLE STORE WITH THE GOODS"

THE CLOTHES WE SELL

ARE GUARANTEED

There are plenty of men's and young men's clothes sold that look good at the start, but the appearance doesn't always last.

The inside of a garment is something like the works of a watch: you can't tell from the looks of a case how long it will run or what kind of time it will keep, but if it is guaranteed to you by a good responsible concern that has been in business for years you can feel sure you are getting one dollar's worth for every one hundred cents.

Last March we were obliged to vacate our old location as the Naumkeag Trust Company had bought the entire building for their own occupancy as a banking house. Everything had to be sold,—Stock, Fixtures, Etc.—and here we are at 204 ESSEX ST., with a Brand New Store, New Goods, New Fixtures—but the old same congenial clerks.

Our Clothing is carried in dust proof cabinets, all mahogany and the latest on the market. Every garment is hung up, the coat, vest and trousers being all together, correctly pressed and ready for immediate wear.

Our stock of Furnishings is carried on neat shelving and plate glass show cases. In our Hat department every hat is cared for separately. We invite your careful inspection of our entire lines.

Our Suits

are all brand new and fresh from the leading wholesalers of New York, Chicago and Boston. In neat mixtures, nobby and exclusive styles.

Our range of prices

$12, $15, $18, $20, $25 and $30.

Our Overcoats

Exclusive patterns predominate and every overcoat made up after our own ideas. Careful tailoring has brought out all the little kinks known to high grade custom tailoring.

SOCIETY NOTES

R. T. Crane, Jr., and family have concluded their sojourn at their Ipswich estate and have returned to their Chicago residence on Lake Shore Drive.

At some convenient future date, Pres. Taft will entertain the Yale class of 1878 of which he was a member, at the White House, owing to his inability to attend the annual class dinner at New York. He offers his hospitality in place of that function.

Prof. A. P. Andrew, Asst. U. S. Treasurer, spent the holiday season at his East Gloucester cottage and is returning this month to vote in the municipal election, being now a resident of Gloucester.

The debut of Miss Helen Taft on Thursday of this week was an elaborate social function and of widespread society interest both in Washington and the leading cities of the country.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The repertoire of the fifth week of the second season of the Boston Opera House will be made up of the most popular operas presented by the Boston Opera Company. The triple bill will be the opening production on Monday December 5th. L'Enfant Prodigue by Debussy with Alice Nielsen in the role of Lia, Robert Lassalle as Azael, and Ramon Blanchart as Simeon. Andre-Caplet will conduct. This will be followed by the second tableau from the opera Der Geizige Ritter (The Miser Knight) by Rachmaninoff. George Raklanoff will take the part of the Baron and Arnaldo Conti will conduct. Cavalleria Rusticana by Mascagni will end the evening's program with Carmen Melis in the role of Santuzza, Janka Czaplinska as Lola, Anne Roberts as Mamma Lucia, John McCormack as Turiddu and Rodolfo Fornari as Alfio. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

The performance on Wednesday evening, December 7th will be Mefistofele in Italian by Boito, with Leon Sibiriakoff as Mefistofele, and Florencio Constantino as Faust. Alice Nielsen will sing the part of Margherita and Carmen Melis that of Elena. Maria Claessens will sing Pantalís and Marta. Ernesto Giaccone and C. Stroesco will also appear in the cast. Arnaldo Conti will conduct the Opera.

On Friday evening December 9th will be presented Il Barbiere di Siviglia by Rossini. Lydia Lipkowska will sing the role of Rosina, Anne Roberts that of Berta. Constantino will take the part of Count Almaviva, Leon Sibiriakoff will take the part of Basilio. Others in the cast will be Rodolfo Fornari, Luigi Tavecchia, Attilio Pulcini, Ernesto Giaccone. Arnaldo Conti will conduct.

The opera to be presented at the Saturday matinee, December 10th will be La Boheme by Puccini. Mimi will be sung by Lydia Lipkowska, Musetta by Fely Dereyne, Rodolfo by Florencio Constantino, Marcello by Rodolfo Fornari and Collino by Jose Mardones; Scheunard by Attilio Pulcini. Others in the cast will be John Morgan, Luigi Tavecchia, F. Huddy, and C. Stroesco. Wallace Goodrich will conduct.

On Saturday evening at popular prices will be presented Il Trovatore in Italian by Verdi. Leonora will be sung by Luisa Villani. Azucena by Maria Claessens, and Ines by Grace Fisher, Enrico Areson will sing the part of Manrico, Count de Luna that of Carlo Galeffi, Fernando will be sung by Giuseppe Perini and Ruiz by Ernesto Giaccone. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

"A Representative American Institution"

Independent, Enterprising and Always Interesting

A friendly contemporary commenting on The Republican's fine new home completed during the past year said: "The Republican would be great if it was printed in a wooden building on a side street. This is so because it has traditions; it is an institution, serving its far-flung constituency with ever-increasing skill and judgment."

This tersely describes the position of this old New England journal in the newspaper field today. Published Daily, Sunday and Weekly from its modern, well-appointed building in the center of growing Springfield's business district. The Republican serves not only its own city, but an ever-widening circle of readers, who appreciate its sane, intelligent handling of the world's news, and impartial comment on men and affairs. It is the best newspaper for you and your family.

The Weekly Republican, of 16 pages, published Thursdays, is a rare bargain at $1 a year, prized everywhere for its excellence.

MORE CHAUFFEURS THAN SOLDIERS.

More Young Men Making Their Living by Driving Automobiles Than in Army.

There are more professional chauffeurs in the United States than soldiers in the army. Ten years ago there were about 3500 motor machines in this country, and now there are more than 400,000 and the rate of increase is so rapid that the number will probably be doubled inside of a year. The investment in plants for the manufacture of automobiles has increased from $6,200,000, 10 years ago, to more than $450,000,000 at this time. The number of men employed a decade ago was said to be about 2000, and now it is nearly 300,000. From 14 different makes of cars, the choice has now broadened out to 84, not mentioning the different styles of each factory. The prices of the highest cost cars have increased even beyond the former extreme, but the average price has decreased from $2137 in 1907 to $1545, and there are more good cars at the lower prices. It is claimed by men who have followed the development carefully that it has not been accomplished by extensive capitalistic interests in the industry, but rather by men of determination with limited capital, who have fought against adverse conditions and succeeded by their own work and the employment of men of brains and determination who have also worked in the good, old American way. Millionaires have been developed in that way, and they have taken their places among the successful business men of this country. They started with nothing, or next to it, and with borrowed capital and investments made on their ability, have worked out the problem of independent wealth. Yet it is more than 10 years ago that the harpers began to tell the young men of the United States that they had no possible chance to build up an independent business and become rich on their own account. The fact having been demonstrated that men have done in years what was declared to be impossible, because of the trusts and the hold of capital on the business of this country, it is now claimed by men who have observed the rise of the automobile business, that there are still greater chances for the hard-working and practical fellow to build up fortunes on the secondary advancement of the auto business as it is developing. Only the cream has been taken off the public demand for the motor wagons, and the great majority of the progressive people are yet to be supplied with the faster means of travel, that which the majority is bound to have in the next decade and a half. No business has ever been built up so rapidly, and none has ever pushed aside the established order of things so completely and left the field open for so much cultivation. The statistics of probable demand exceed any others ever made. Even the eye-wash of Col. Sellers looks like a tame proposition in comparison. That stage enthusiast counted his consumers by the millions, but he had to assume that they had sore eyes or would have them. The auto enthusiasts simply claim that men in occupations will follow their kind into the automobile field year after year, as a natural consequence of efficiency in the doing of business, without having sore eyes. The power machines have ceased to be mere pleasure wagons or exhibits of wealth, and are now vehicles of utility for the man or woman who has business to attend to, and it is in the general knowledge that the world has ceased to wait for the slow movers and is depending on the swift to do the business, in medicine, in carrying the parcels, in moving the heavy freights and in handling the mails. The pace is faster for the seller and the buyer, wholesale and retail, and he who would keep up must forget the horse and turn the crank that fires up the gasoline or switches on the electric current.

Any worth-a-cent editor has a pride in "printing the news"—in telling his readers about the events of the world that have in them human interest and significance. It is the perpetual anxiety of the alert editor that his news columns should reflect the world for the period "between issues".

For "news value" is a mighty thing—the inexorable scale on which is weighed the importance of the newspaper. When an issue of a newspaper "weighs light" in news-value, that issue is a sorry misfortune for the publishers of the paper.

There should never be a dull issue of a newspaper—for there has never been a dull day in the world; never a day without its plethora of events that "mean things" to men and women who think and feel. So the editor must be an interpreter, and he must see and value the human appeal in all news events.

In the Classified Advertising columns there is a never-failing "news interest" that takes care of itself. These little ads are, almost all of them, slightly veiled news items. They are clues to phases of the intimate life of the people. To those accustomed to reading and answering them they mean much that is not fully obvious in the usual, simple phrases of the "want ad".

You may always find "news value" in these little ads—and, often, surprising compensation for your work in looking for it!

REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

The city engineer of Gloucester has been directed to prepare plans and specifications of Little Good Harbor Beach, Bass Rocks, to determine the city's rights to the beach as a public reservation. Little Good Harbor Beach is one of the finest stretches of sand on the North Shore situated between Brier Neck and Bass Rocks, three fourths of a mile long and 600 feet wide. It has a combination of still water and surf bathing. It is claimed that certain land syndicates who have acquired property on the Bass Rocks and upland side, are encroaching on the property and that people have been ordered away from the river end of the beach which they had always utilized.

Extensive improvements are in operation at the Myopia Hunt Club which will include a new caddie house to cost in the vicinity of $2,000. Some $13,000 will be expended on new roads and lawns, the latter improvements the gift of Henry Clay Frick and Judge W. H. Moore, it is stated. The contractor for the new caddie house is Hathaway of Boston. Walter Cressy, contractor of Gloucester, has secured the road work.

Charles Storrow of Brookline conveys to Mary S., wife of John S. Curtis of Newton, land Valley street, Beverly Farms, two rods by. 240 feet.

Hollis Street Theatre.

The Boston reviewers and the theatre going public are agreed that Francis Wilson and his comedy, "The Bachelor's Baby", which was given its first Boston production at the Hollis Street Theatre, last Monday night, are remarkable successes and that if one wishes forty laughs in thrice forty minutes, the Hollis Street Theatre, where Mr. Wilson is presenting "The Bachelor's Baby", is the real place to go. "The Bachelor's Baby", with its comedy and pathos is a sure cure for the blues. It is guaranteed to produce laughter; to make the wrinkles go and if any one has troubles it will cause them to forget.

Francis Wilson has never been seen to better advantage, than in the role of the children hating bachelor and his supporting company is an extremely well balanced organization. Mr. Wilson will only play matinees on Saturdays during his engagement at the Hollis Street Theatre.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Last Friday evening, Nov. 25th, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman W. Floyd celebrated the 25th anniversary of their wedding at their home on Central street, Manchester. The rooms were very prettily decorated, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd receiving under a handsome floral arch. During the evening many friends called to congratulate the couple. Among the out-of-town friends were Mr. and Mrs. John Kenny of Charlestown, Miss Effie Dunston of New York, Mrs. Gilbert West of Amesbury, Frank E. Smith of Salem, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd received many beautiful presents of silver and cut glass.

The William Jeffrey colony of Pilgrim Fathers, of which both Mr. and Mrs. Floyd are valued members, called in a body and presented the couple with silver spoons, the presentation being made by Gov. W. H. Tyler.

Refreshments were served during the evening by the Misses Beth Jewett, Mary Rust, Edna West, Abbie Floyd, Mildred Peart and Lillian Nunn, while Bertram P. and Frank L. Floyd and Fred Smith were the ushers.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd were married by the Rev. George L. Gleason, a pastor of the Congregational church. During the first few years of their married life they made their home in Byfield, Mass., the birthplace of Mr. Floyd, Mrs. Floyd being a native of Manchester. At Byfield Mr. Floyd conducted a grocery store. After a short time they came to Manchester, where Mr. Floyd accepted a position with J. F. Rabardy, then proprietor of the periodical store, which Mr. Floyd now conducts, having bought the business some 14 years ago.

Mr. Floyd was for 14 years purchasing agent of the School Committee having the honor of signing diplomas for his four children who have graduated from the Story High school. He is a past commander of Col. H. P. Woodbury camp, S. of V., and has been a delegate at many national conventions. He is also a member of North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., Conomo tribe, I. O. R. M., the Manchester club, the North Shore Business Men's association, the Suburban Newsdealers association, Wm. Jeffrey colony of Pilgrim Fathers, and also connected for many years with the fire department of the town.

Mrs. Floyd is a faithful worker in the interests of the Pilgrim Fathers and the local W. R. C. which

M. E. GORMAN, MANCHESTER'S NEW CHIEF.Unanimous Choice of Selectmen at Meeting Last Night.*To Assume Duties at Once.

At their meeting last night the Manchester Board of Selectmen voted unanimously to appoint Michael E. Gorman Chief of Police to succeed W. H. Sullivan, whose resignation they received last Saturday. Mr. Gorman will enter upon his duties at once.

The board will instruct Chief Gorman to make an impartial enforcement of the laws, especially the liquor laws, and they will give him to understand that they will stand behind him to a man in this regard.

Mr. Gorman is one of two Manchester men whose application the board had received for the position; there were an even dozen applications from out-of-town men. The situation was gone over carefully last night and the board was unanimous in its choice of Mr. Gorman.

Chief Gorman is about 45 years old. For the last ten years he has been dealing extensively in real estate. His appointment as chief does not come under the civil service regulations. He has been appointed for the balance of the town year at a salary of $3.00 a day, which is at the rate of $1100 a year.

The news of Chief Sullivan's resignation last Saturday spread like wild fire and was one of the sensations of the year in town affairs. The selectmen met in special session last Friday afternoon and took formal action to remove the chief on a charge of "conduct unbecoming an officer". Being under the civil service Mr. Sullivan had the right either to resign or to demand a hearing. He sent his resignation to the board, and at the regular monthly meeting Saturday afternoon it was accepted.

Mr. Sullivan's record had been so clean since his appointment a year ago last spring that this sudden action came as a great surprise. He had been looked upon as a model chief and as a most efficient officer. On every hand regret has been expressed for the circumstances which culminated in his resignation as the head of the police department and the consequent appointment of a new head.

Sergt. Leonard Andrews has been acting as chief the last week.

organization presented Mr. and Mrs. Floyd with a beautiful remembrance in silver.

Of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd's five children all were present but one, Joseph E., who is studying forestry in Colorado College, Colorado Springs. The other children are Harry R., recent graduate from Dartmouth; Bertram P., a Cornell graduate, Abbie P., a student at Simmons College, Boston; and Frank L., who is in the senior class at the Story High school.

As work progresses on the new road at Manchester, connecting Beach and Sea streets, the question naturally arises as to what name is to be given to the new street. This matter will probably come before the next March meeting for the decision of the voters.

Might we suggest that Manchester already has enough short streets and names to remember, and if we could get along at this time without adding more to the directory, it would be well.

Those who are familiar with the location of the new street know that its easterly end joins with Sea street, at the point where Masconomo street starts. The new street very naturally merges into Sea street and leads on to the Brownland cottages, etc. The extension of Masconomo street very naturally merges into the other section of the present Sea street.

As a means of avoiding a new name, this has been suggested:

Let the new street, beginning at its junction with Beach st., be the beginning of Sea street.

Let the section of the present Sea street starting at the junction of Masconomo street, and extending to Washington street, be known as the continuation of Masconomo street.

If this could be done it would do away with the necessity of naming the new street. Masconomo street would then start at Washington and Summer streets and extend to Smith's Point, and Sea street would start on Beach street, opposite the easterly end of Masconomo Park and extend to Brownland cottages and the McMillan estate,—the two streets crossing at the present junction of Masconomo and Sea streets.

New England, both as a summer and winter resort, is to be boomed by the publicity department of the three merged railroads,—New York, New Haven & Hartford, the Boston & Maine and Maine Central.

The resort business of New England attracts a multitude of tourists, travelers and vacationists from every part of the United States. These combined railroads in their new publicity department will examine into the needs and possibilities of the public and help build up the possibilities of this great vacation land.

All inconveniences of travel are to be eliminated through the endeavor to improve the train service.

Sixty million dollars was reported as the proceeds from the New England resort business last season and the railroad companies believe that the possibilities of greater revenue can easily be reached by concentrated effort.

There is a vast and beautiful field also for New England as a winter resort.

Along the North Shore we see more and more of the so-called "summer residents" living among us in winter. Where there were five or six families keeping their estates open all winter ten years ago, there are today, at Manchester, Magnolia, along the Beverly shore, and at Hamilton and Wenham, in the vicinity of thirty estates kept open all winter. If this same increase is met in the next ten years it will mean much for this locality.

And what is true of the North Shore will be true of other New England resorts. Good railroad service will be one of the chief means of developing this business, and we hope to see the railroads under the presidency of Mr. Mellen carry this to a successful completion.

There is not a worthy cause today of any kind that is not dependent in a large degree on the newspapers for its very existence. Shut off the printing press and the publicity and assistance it gives to the church, the school, the reform movements, the industrial enterprises, the social organizations, the fraternal societies and every other agency of progress and development and we should have a nation of people groping in darkness, feeling feebly for each other's hand and trying to reach a common understanding by slow and painful effort, with snail-like progress and infinitesimal results.

By means of the newspaper there are influences brought to bear that could not be reached in any other manner that would never have even been known to be in existence but for the publicity given the idea by the newspaper. If a powerful factor and a most useful one in building up worthy enterprises it is no less a factor and benefit in the destruction of unworthy and dishonest enterprises and agencies that would exploit the people for corruptly gotten gain. Here the newspaper shows itself to be of inestimable value in protecting the good and, by contrast, destroying the evil.

Not an Eleventh-hour Scheme.

Speaking of the proposition advanced by Pres. Mellen of the B. & M. to electrify the "narrow gauge" and extend it to the Gloucester branch, Sylvester Baxter, secretary of the recent Metropolitan commission, says:

"A glance backward is sufficient to show that the newly broached project is far from being an Eleventh-hour scheme concocted for the sake of cloaking an essentially impracticable proposition. When the merger was first proposed the studies of possible advantages therefrom, made public at the time, included not only a cross-town tunnel between South and North stations, but a second tunnel under the harbor between East Boston and South Boston. It has not yet been brought out that the route to bring the Revere Beach line into the South station is not across to the city proper; as indicated by the studies of three years ago, the tunnel runs directly to South Boston and thence under Fort Point channel to the South station, there connecting with the existing but almost forgotten subway loop, thus utilizing at last that costly feature.

"This route makes almost an air line from the South station through to Beverly. The capitalization of the distance thus saved in operation in itself contributes materially toward meeting the cost of the improvement. But there are various enormous advantages. Let us look at some of these:

"1. As to the Revere Beach line's present service. It makes Revere Beach itself, Greater Boston's most popular recreation ground, practically as central as Boston Common, shortening the trip thither to less than half the present time. Correspondingly, it brings Winthrop and a large part of Revere as near to Boston centre as Dudley street is by the Boston Elevated. It makes Lynn nearer in time than Forest hills. These places acquire direct connections, not only with every point, near and far, reached from the South station, but also at the same point with the Boston Elevated's surface and rapid transit systems including the contemplated Summer street extension of the Cambridge subway to South Boston and Dorchester.

"2 It does the same thing for Swampscott, Salem, Beverly and other points in that populous group, and practically extends Greater Boston to Cape Ann. It implies the electrification of the Marblehead branch as well as the Gloucester branch. It means a fairly marvelous acceleration in population and industry for this great region.

"3 It enormously changes the accessibility of the entire North Shore pleasure region, both from Boston and the country at large. With opportunities for through trains, special and regular, and for private cars from New York and beyond, the national popularity of the Cape Ann region will immensely increase.

"Think of what the swift daily journeys between Boston and Rockport means in the change from discomfort to pleasure under the smokeless, cinderless and dustless conditions of electrified transit! How much oftener will people want to come to Boston!"

The Boston Journal has been having a great deal to say of late about the "shortest" and "longest" names. Now some one comes forward and asks me if I know the meaning of the following word:

"Superuncontradistinguishableness". This is said to be the longest word in the English language.

The speed at which the automobile combination of the Revere fire department travelled over the rough roads in answering the call for assistance for the hotel fire in Winthrop the other morning greatly pleased Chief Kimball of Revere, and proved his contention that the horseless machines are the only things for the long cross country runs. The prospects are very bright for the police department of that town to follow the fire department's example and install an automobile combination patrol and ambulance.

Andrews-Crombie.

On Thursday evening, Dec. 1, Fred Kinsman Andrews of Beverly and Miss Eva Madison Crombie of Manchester were united in marriage the ceremony being performed by the Rev. T. L. Frost at the Baptist parsonage. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Crombie of Summer street. She wore a handsome silk dress, the one worn by her mother at her wedding nearly 30 years ago. Miss Annie S. Crombie attended her sister as bridesmaid.

After the ceremony the young couple went to their future home in Beverly. A number of friends were at the Manchester depot to shower them with confetti as they took their departure.

Killed by Bridge.

Roy E. Taylor, a well known Manchester Cove young man, met death Wednesday afternoon shortly after two o'clock by being struck in the head by an over-head bridge, near the railroad station at Middleton. Mr. Taylor was a fireman on the special freight train running between Salem and Lawrence. He was engaged in service on top of the tender and as the train passed under an over-head bridge, his head was brought in contact with the structure and his skull was fractured. He was not missed by the engineer until the train was stalled at the station. Later his body was found by the side of the track near the bridge.

Mr. Taylor was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Taylor of Manchester Cove. He was 25 years old and was married. He had been in the employ of the road about a year.

Miss Nellie Jackson is clerking at Daniel Low's, Salem, over the holidays.

Mrs. Grace Bean of Rochester, N. H., spent a few days with friends in town this week.

On Friday, Nov. 25, a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Mitchell, School street.

North Shore Lodge, A. O. U. W., will nominate officers at their next meeting, on Dec. 6th.

Mrs. Wade, whose husband was coachman for the T. H. Lewises this summer, was removed to the Beverly Hospital for treatment Wednesday.

Richard O'Neil, Jr., of Gloucester, who has been employed as one of the printers at the Breeze office for the last four years has accepted a more responsible position at the large plant of the Beverly Printing Co., to take up his work the coming week.

The William Jeffrey colony, Pilgrim Fathers, held a very interesting meeting in their rooms Monday evening. One new member was admitted. Refreshments were served and a splendid program was carried out. The auction sale proved a novel feature of the entertainment. There were also several readings and music.

The Manchester Woman's club will meet in the Chapel Tuesday afternoon, December 6th., at 3.30 o'clock. Mrs. Elizabeth Denison will speak on "What Our Children Should Know". Mrs. Alice Perkins Hooper will preside as hostess. The Federation Christmas seals will be for sale at the meeting for one cent each. Every member is requested to bring a pocketbook. The proceeds from the sale of the seals will be devoted to the District Nurse Fund.

Fred Perkins of Lawrence made a short visit to Manchester this week. Mr. Perkins has just returned from Kentucky where he delivered an auto truck similar to the one Manchester purchased recently for its fire department. The Knox people have an order for a truck from California, and Mr. Perkins will in all probability go there with it later.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Derosier returned Wednesday from their hunting trip in the Maine woods, being preceded by the arrival by express of a handsome young deer, weighing less than 200 pounds.

The No-License Rally at the village church next Sunday evening is to have as speakers, Pres. L. S. Nauss, Col. Charles Fred Wonson, N. Carleton Phillips and Weston Friend. Rev. F. J. Libby will preside. It will be a business man's rally and probably the best ever held in Magnolia. All are invited to come.

All indications point to an unprecedented majority for no license in Gloucester next Tuesday. The disgusting conditions of the past year have made hundreds of votes for No-License.

The subject of the sermon at the Village church next Sunday morning will be "No Chastening is Joyous".

The Ladies Aid Society held a sale of fancy articles at the home of Mrs. Henry W. Brown on Thursday afternoon, the proceeds of which will be announced next week in the North Shore Breeze.

Ex-Senator Harry C. Foster of this town is making a strong fight for the office of Mayor of Gloucester. He has many staunch supporters in Magnolia.

A reception was held at the home of Mrs. Jonathan May on Wednesday evening, in honor of Mrs. Frank F. Story who has been president of the Ladies Aid Society since its organization. A beautiful lamp was presented to Mrs. Story by Mrs. Jos. R. Crispin in behalf of the society as a token of esteem. A dainty collation of ice-cream, cake and fruit was served and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Miss Alice Story is confined to her home on Western ave., with an attack of tonsillitis.

We are pleased to report a slight improvement in the condition of Mrs. John C. Lycett who is very ill at her home on Magnolia ave.

Edward, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy French, met with a very painful accident, the first of the week. While at play in the stable owned by his grandfather, Edw. Symonds, he fell breaking his arm. Dr. E. A. Dakin rendered the necessary surgical treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dunbar of Dorchester were in town over Sunday.

Our Weekly Letter From
:: :: :: Washington

BY F. J. DYER.

(Special to the North Shore Breeze).

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1—Information has reached Washington that the people of Alaska will be represented here in force during the winter and will strongly urge Congress to grant legislation which will tend to encourage the settlement and development of that Territory. They believe that they are entitled to liberal laws under which the immense natural resources of the country may be developed.

The Alaska delegation will, it is understood, be headed this winter as it was last, by Governor Walter E. Clarke, who, through personal acquaintance with conditions in that Territory, has become an ardent advocate of the reforms which the people there have been demanding, and who will use all of his influence to see that Congress gives substantial recognition to their claims. It is understood that in his annual report to President Taft, he has made strong recommendations which include the opening of the coal lands under some system to be determined upon to protect the interests of the Government and yet enable the people of Alaska to proceed with the work of development.

Legislative Programme in Doubt.

No one seems to have any definite idea regarding the legislative program in the coming session of Congress. Almost everyone agrees that the one thing of prime importance is the enactment of appropriation bills which are to provide means for running the governmental machinery until Congress can meet again. Some of the legislators express the opinion that if the President should insist upon loading up Congress with a great many measures and insist that they be enacted before adjournment the result is likely to be that the appropriation bills will get stalled in committee and that the Congress will expire by legal limitation without some very necessary, and, in fact, indispensable appropriation legislation being enacted.

Of course, this has all been said before, but it may not be amiss to renew the suggestion in view of the very short working session ahead of us. It must also be conceded by even the casual observer that the President's policies look somewhat less important than they did before the recent election. Not that they are really less important, perhaps, but it is impossible to get away from the implication carried by the election returns that the country is by no means a unit on what Congress ought to do. It will not be known until the President's message is read to Congress just what the President will prescribe as fit to allay the ills of the nation.

Make Better Citizens.

Practical education is what the country needs more than it needs the "higher education". Too few men and women are taught to be practical, which after all means to be self-helpful. The Bureau of Plant Industry of the Department of Agriculture is doing a work of which more ought to be known in helping the people of the South to realize a larger benefit from their efforts, and showing them how best to enjoy their surroundings. Dr. S. A. Knapp, a practical scientist and a humanitarian, has charge of the Farmer's Cooperative Demonstration Work and in his Macon address, which should be placed in the hands of every citizen of the South, he makes these very sensible and pertinent remarks:

"In attempting to raise the condition of the colored man we frequently start too high up and in talking of the higher progress talk right over his head. When I talk to a negro citizen I never talk about the better civilization but about a better chicken, a better pig, a white-washed house. Out of the 150 negro schools, seminaries, colleges, etc., in the South three years ago very few were carrying out fully, to my mind, their proper mission. Many of them were trying to teach Latin and Greek, which would be of very little use to most of them. I know of a colored section where there were 6,000 colored people settled during the war and a school was started in 1864. They have been carrying on that school and it is costing $26,000 a year. The managers of the school came to me year before last and said: 'The condition of those people is worse than it was when we took hold of it. Go down there and see what the matter is'. I found they were teaching every child that knew anything at all to get away from that country. They were not influencing the people on the farm or helping them at all. They were

WHISPERINGS.

A popular Beverly Farms young man, who is daily employed on a Pride's Crossing estate, has not had much to say lately about his ability as a hunter of sea birds. It seems that without his knowledge some friends anchored off the Moore pier a couple of decoy ducks which "Mac" spied in due season. Taking a double-barrel shot gun he cautiously crawled along the beach to the pier, and then over the stringers of the structure, made difficulty because of their being no planking on which to walk. Just as he was about to draw a bead on his victims he accidentally struck the gun against a timber, exploding one barrel, and bruising his thumb. Much to his surprise and joy the ducks did not take alarm so he quickly drew a bead and pulled the trigger of the other barrel, or at least he tried to, but much to his disgust he could not move it. By this time he began to get wise to the fact that he had all this time been chasing wooden ducks. His companions, who had been in the background watching the performance all this time, knowing that "Mac" was not in the best of humor over the joke, made off in different directions until he had cooled off somewhat.

cultivating their lands with little steers that weighed about 500 pounds. Their sole income was from cotton, and I have it from the cotton ginner that the average income of each family in that section was only $30 a year. I went to the gentleman that held the purse strings and told him what the difficulty was. I said: 'You are doing a great wrong. Why don't you get at the people themselves and teach them something practical?' In fact, we were all wrong about it. Until we took hold of the demonstration work the idea was prevalent that a man on the farm did not need any teaching. Now we realize that the problems which we are up today and need solution should be presented to him; and it is just as much the part of our obligation in our great system of education to establish lines of study for the man on the farm as for the boy that is developing to be the future doctor, the future lawyer, or the future preacher. It is also realized that the great force that readjusts the world originates in the home. Home conditions will ultimately mold the man's life".

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Sullivan of North Adams are at the Farms for a visit with friends.

Plans are being made for the annual Christmas Tree at the Beverly Farms Baptist church this year, which will be held on Saturday evening, Dec. 24th. On Sunday evening—Christmas Day—there will be an excellent Christmas concert.

Beverly Farms people are always deeply interested in Beverly Hospital and are always manifesting their interest in some way or other. They will be no less active than usual in the campaign to be started soon in an effort to raise ten thousand dollars for the hospital. The Farms committee is composed of Howard A. Doane, William R. Brooks, Thos. D. Connolly, Elmer Standley, Lawrence J. Watson, 2nd, and James B. Dow.

Fred Hull is the latest Farms young man to secure a position at the United Shoe plant in Beverly.

On Friday evening a social will be held in the Chapel of the Baptist church under the auspices of the Sunday School.

Farms people who desire may take advantage of the free evening school which is being conducted by the School Committee in the Beverly High school on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7.15 to 9.15 beginning next Monday. This is an excellent opportunity for the Farms young people who have, perhaps, been obliged to cut short their education, to again take up their studies for the winter months.

Thomas Jack and family, who have been occupying the lower floor of the Ahern house, Greenwood av. and Webster st., have moved into the cottage on the Allen Curtis estate for the winter, of which estate Mr. Jack is caretaker.

Take Your Pick.

Time for filing nomination papers for the Dec. 13th city election closed Wednesday afternoon and the Ward 6 voter may now take under consideration the various candidates for the offices to be filled. As far as this ward is concerned the voters appear to be satisfied with the present incumbents, for A. P. Loring, Jr., and James B. Dow are the only names on the ticket from this ward. These two are running for re-election, the former for Alderman, the latter for school committee. The entire ticket is made up as follows:

Mayor—William Stopford, Sumner E. Glines, Jeremiah F. Desmond, Frederick A. Dodge.

Alderman-at-large (three to be elected)—George H. Hurd, Israel O. Edwards, Henry E. Woodberry, John B. Goldsmith, Jeremiah F. Brown, James A. Torrey, Charles H. Cressy, Jonathan D. M. Bradstreet.

Ward Aldermen—Ward 1, James McPherson, Michael P. Kerby, Irving L. Raymond; Ward 2, Arthur E. Johnson, Jr., William H. Ropes, Robert Robertson; Ward 3, Thomas A. Eastman, Martin R. Lane; Ward 4, Frank W. Hammond, Augustus L. Churchill, Roland B. Lindsay; Ward five, Willis H. Bell, William C. Blaisdell; Ward six, Augustus P. Loring, Jr.

School committee—at large, Miss Mary B. Smith; Ward one, Charles A. Baker; Ward two, Paul H. Drake, Melvin E. Davenport; Ward three, Fred A. Roundy, George F. Goldwaite; Ward four, Arthur L. Collier, Benjamin Huntoon; Ward five, Leonard B. Moulton; Ward six, James B. Dow.

Rev. Fr. Nicholas R. Walsh announced at the last meeting held by Oliver Wendell Holmes Council, K. of C., that during the winter months he would deliver six lectures, an announcement of much interest to the members.

For the city election to be held Tuesday, Dec. 13, Ward 6 has 353 voters on the list against 348 for the past State election. The total city registration of Beverly is 3938.

Mrs. Louis Larson and Mrs. Alexander Carr, who are at the Beverly Hospital, are receiving calls from their Beverly Farms friends, who report their continued progress toward recovery.

An alarm of fire Tuesday morning called the department to the cottage house on Malt Hill occupied by Frank Clews and family. The fire was confined to the partition and very little damage resulted through the prompt response to the alarm. During the run of the apparatus to the scene of the fire the wet surface of the road, owing to the rain, caused the horses attached to the Hook and Ladder truck to slip and fall. The State highway is in a very slippery condition and something ought to be done to guard against accidents of this nature.

On Thanksgiving Day a special collection was taken at the Farms Baptist church which was applied to the endowment fund, which will be continued in the future. The present fund is too small to draw interest, but the plan carries with it hope of material aid in the future.

Miss Edith Eliott entertained Monday evening a party of friends at her home by a whist party. Refreshments were also part of the evening's pleasure.

The Farms young people are anxious to learn if any provision is to be made for them in regard to a skating pond, a recreation if not enjoyed here means much disappointment. In previous years the Mill Pond, so called, which embraces part of the city property secured for a playground has been utilized to some extent but has always brought forth objections from some of the adjoining property owners, who did not want their land flooded. Last year Councilman Woodberry was the leading spirit in trying to make a skating park in the field in the rear of the engine house and as the banking to hold the water was made of snow only, the scheme did not prove successful.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Ferguson of Wareham have been among the visitors to the Farms this week.

The various stores at the Farms are now closing earlier evenings except Saturdays. The Standley shoe store commenced the winter custom this week by closing at 8 o'clock, except on Saturdays.

On Wednesday evening at the services at the Farms Baptist church, the pastor's subject was "The Good Samaritan in Modern Life". He referred to the giving of such assistance as possible in aid of the present work of securing funds for the Beverly hospital. Next Sunday morning the text will be, "I Have Heard of Thee With the Hearing of the Ear, Now I Know Thee". The subject for the evening will be "Our Best For Him".

Alex. Sutherland has gone to New York for the winter, but will spend an occasional week-end in Beverly Farms.

Preston W. R. Corps will hold an interesting meeting next Tuesday evening in G. A. R. Hall. It will also be the annual election of officers.

Somebody, probably boys, have on two different occasions dropped lighted cigarette ends in the letter box at the Post Office which has an opening on the outside and letters have been slightly scorched. This is taking rather a great liberty with national property which carries with it a heavy penalty, and provisions will be made to make such party or parties suffer the consequences of such acts.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jackson (Laura Bennett), who returned from a visit to England a short time ago, are to be the caretakers of the C. H. Tweed house this winter. The house is to be kept open for week-end visits as usual.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer F. Lewis of Providence have been among the visitors to the Farms this week.

KISSING.

ly church, pledges of fellowship and devotion and with these holy pledges of their spiritual compatriots upon their lips they went forth to the inhuman jests and slaughter of the arena. Those were kisses beside which the merely amorous and maudlin kisses are as sickly, jaundiced ghosts.

There are the kisses of carnality of which Solomon has given graphic touches with the pen. It was these that nauseated the subjects of Manuel when they refused to suffer further the infliction of the youthful amors of their king.

A kiss should never be lightly given. It should ever remain as the choice expression of the purest love and deepest devotion. The sign of love should be too sacred for promiscuous indulgence.

This sign of love should not wane with the years. Often a tender mark of affection like this, as people grow older, will revive the deep and slumbering emotions, call the girlhood roses to wrinkled faces and the sparkle to the eye as no wine of the grapes can do.

Some of you wait too long to work the magic of this sign, and the bitterest sting must ever be to wait until you bend over some still, cold form and realize it is forever too late to be more loving and kind.

The kisses given to the aged are the reverend and holy kisses. In some hour of meditation and silent communion the sense of a mother's love and sacrifice comes over a son or daughter and they go and tenderly press a kiss upon her brow.

There are kisses that are pure, holy, thrilling, that stir to the very depth of life, but none that so profoundly stir the soul as this kiss of filial devotion and gratitude.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

A diver entirely different from any other that has appeared in vaudeville, will be one of the leading attractions at B. F. Keith's theatre next week. Her name is Odiva, and she is a Samoan pearl diver who recently came to this country, and everywhere has created a sensation, not only by her diving from great heights but from the feats she performs under water. Odiva carries an entire troupe with her, and her performances are in a mammoth glass tank set on top of the stage. It is so constructed that everything she does under water is plainly visible. Some of her most interesting feats are waltzing under water, disrobing under water, and doing all sorts of stunts, including sewing and acrobatics. Another big feature will be the distinguished actress, Elita Proctor Otis, who will make her first appearance. In fact, there will be many headline features including Stuart Barnes, the monologist; Ed Reynard, the ventriloquist; Fay, Two Coleys and Fay, who will be seen in Boston for the first time in their musical comedy; James and Sadie Leonard and Richard Anderson, in their great travesty on "Caesar and Cleopatra; Carl Randall, the boy dancer; the Musical Phields; and Clara Ballerini.

SOCIETY NOTES

Guy Norman of Beverly and Newport has placed an order with Arthur Binney, the naval architect, for a ninety-foot schooner yacht of the Gloucester fisherman type and one which will furnish the best of accommodations for long cruises as well as speed. Mr. Norman is a prominent member of the Eastern and New York Yacht Clubs and has offered a number of valuable trophies for the big boats of the Eastern Club next season. With the New York Schooner Queen coming over into these waters for a greater part of the summer, next season ought to see some great schooner racing. It is believed that the boat will cost upwards of $30,000.

Miss Helen Taft was guest of honor at a beautifully appointed breakfast last Saturday at the Chevy Chase club with Capt. Graham L. Johnson as host. Mrs. Wickersham, Mrs. Leonard Wood and Mrs. W. W. Witherspoon received. Fifty-five guests greeted Miss Taft. The favors for the ladies were corsage bouquets of violets and small gold pins. The breakfast was served in the large ball-room with floral decorations of white and yellow chrysanthemums.

Season subscribers to the series of concerts of the Pittsburg Orchestra association which opened Monday evening of this week, were Grant Curry, Mrs. Herbert Du Puy, and Mrs. Herbert Hostetter of the North Shore colony.

Miss Helen Taft unveiled the statue of Maj. Gen. Frederick William Von Steuben in Lafayette square, Washington, at its dedication Wednesday of this week. President Taft and Count Von Bernstorff gave addresses. Boston sent a delegation of German-American men and women of prominence to the dedication. The statue was designed to commemorate the services of the distinguished German-American patriot Baron Von Steuben.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond, who are enroute to St. Petersburg, were recently in Berlin. The Czar's object in receiving Mr. Hammond is to interest foreign and American capital in Russian mining enterprises.

Last Friday evening, Dec. 2, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Oliver gave a theatre party complimentary to Miss Taft, who saw the performance of "Alias Jimmy Valentine". Mrs. Taft occupied a box at the opening performance of "Judy Forgot". Miss Marie Cahill in the leading role, on Monday evening of this week.

A. Piatt Andrew, Asst. Secretary of the U. S. Treasury, who was in Gloucester to vote Tuesday, was the speaker in the evening at the banquet of the Massachusetts Bank Officers Association in Boston. Hon. Mr. Andrew is a brother-in-law of mayor-elect Isaac Patch, Esq., of Gloucester.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Lucius J. Knowles of Worcester and Manchester, is in Pittsburg, the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. McGinley. On Dec. 14 she will attend the wedding of Miss Ruth Lindley Miller and Wm. McKinnan Reed, a social event of prominence which has precipitated much social entertaining in Pittsburg for the bride-elect. Miss Ada Montgomery McCrea, daughter of James McCrea, president of the Pennsylvania R. R., is in Pittsburg for the same function. Miss McCrea is a bride-elect also and will wed at Ardmore, Pa., at some future date, Richard Hays Hawkins of Pittsburg, son of Judge W. G. Hawkins.

The first of the formal dinners to be given in honor of Pres. and Mrs. Taft will take place Monday evening, Dec. 19, with Vice-President and Mrs. Sherman as host and hostess. Pres. and Mrs. Taft's hosts will be members of the Cabinet, who will entertain in their order as officially ranked in their departments.

At the debutante ball, at the hotel Somerset, Boston, Monday evening, given by Mrs. Fiske Warren in honor of Miss Rachel Warren and Miss Margaret Pearmain, a young relative, the ushers included from North Shore society circles, Thomas P. Beal, Jr., Cameron Bradley, Roger Amory, J. Templeman Coolidge, 3d, and Beverly Rantoul.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Beekman Winthrop gave a dinner party in honor of Miss Helen Taft Monday evening of this week at Washington.

Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter gave a small luncheon Monday, complementary to Miss Marjorie Colton, who left this week to pass the winter in Porto Rico with her brother, who is the Governor of the Island.

Pallbearers at the funeral of Capt. Francis Burr, of the Harvard football team of 1908 and prominent in the class of 1909 included S. Daere Bush, 2nd, of the Hamilton colony; John W. Cutler and Nathaniel Simpkins, Jr., of Beverly Farms. The services were held Tuesday afternoon of this week at Appleton Chapel, Harvard College. The pallbearers were intimate friends of the deceased in college. There was a profusion of floral tributes. Bishop Lawrence officiated.

Last Friday, President and Mrs. Taft were among the guests at the exhibition drill given at Fort Myer in aid of the Army Relief Society in which both cavalry and artillery troops participated. Tea was served in the Post Exchange. Pres. and Mrs. Taft occupied a box with several officers of the Post.

Miss Nancy L. Flagg closed her cottage studio, "The Barnacle" at Annisquam Tuesday and was a passenger Wednesday on the outgoing Canopic from Boston to Genoa for her annual winter sojourn abroad.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Adele Lingard and Miss Olga Lingard removed to their winter home 267 Beacon street, Boston, early this week, bringing their North Shore season at Annisquam, "The Pines" to a close.

Charles W. Small and family have concluded their long sojourn at their Land's End, Rockport, estate, "Shore Acres". They left late last week for their winter home in Malden.

Rev. Charles G. Ames, D. D., the venerable and noted Unitarian minister of Boston and East Gloucester, is back in Boston again after a long absence from that city. Dr. Ames returns greatly improved in health.

D. Appleton & Co., have issued two boys' books by Ralph Henry Barbour of Cambridge and Manchester, "Winning His Y" and "The New Boy at Hill Top".

W. Harry Brown of Pittsburg and Burgess Point, Beverly, a member of the New York Yacht club, in his yacht Visitor II, which graced North Shore waters the past season, went up the Panama canal on Nov. 23. Mr. Brown had the honor of being the first to go up the canal. With him were a party of prominent business men, Colonel Goethals, Ex-Mayor Diehl, Capt. Scott of the U. S. Steel Company, Congressman Barchfeld and his son Elmer and daughters, Helen and Bessie. Mr. Brown is a member of the Merchant Marine Company. He was enthusiastic over the trip.

The formal debut of Miss Helen Taft was one of the most brilliant receptions ever held at the White House. President and Mrs. Taft formally received with their daughter and greeted 1200 guests who were presented by Capt. Archibald Butt. The Marine Band played in the outer corridor for two hours. The White House was decorated with the choicest roses and chrysanthemums from the White House conservatory while Miss Taft received hundreds of bouquets and baskets of flowers. Miss Taft's presentation gown was of pink chiffon over white satin, while Mrs. Taft was attired in blue chiffon cloth over satin adorned with bands of black fur. Refreshments were served in the State dining room where thousands of pink roses were used for decorations. Mrs. Beekman Winthrop, Miss Mabel Boardman, Miss Colton and Miss Mary Southerland served tea and chocolate.

Mrs. Larz Anderson will give a Christmas tree party at her home in Brookline, Saturday, the 24th. Her guests will be largely blind children in whose welfare she is so actively interested.

The latest at the Ipswich aviation field is a mile and a half at a height of 100 feet recently made by Wm. M. Hilliard with the big Burgess-Curtiss biplane.

The critical illness in Washington of former Justice William H. Moody, who spent last summer at Magnolia, is learned with regret.

Master Charlie Taft, the President's youngest son was recently confirmed to the Episcopal faith by Rt. Rev. Benjamin Breckinridge in Christ Episcopal church, Watertown, Conn. Master Taft's mother and sister are Episcopalians also.

North Shore society matrons and young women in evidence at last Friday's Symphony rehearsal to greet Madame Melba were Mrs. Gordon Abbott, Mrs. J. M. Longyear, Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Jr., Mrs. Neal Rantoul, Mrs. Wm. Hooper, Mrs. John C. Phillips and Miss Mary Curtis.

The Peabody Academy of Science has received for its collection many new additions. Among the contributors have been Dr. John C. Phillips, who gave to the bird collection a chewink. A song sparrow was the gift of John L. Saltonstall.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold D. Mason (nee Junia K. Russell) of Cambridge have returned from their bridal tour and are established in their new home on Commonwealth avenue.

At the debutante tea of Mrs. Thomas C. Thatcher for her daughter, Miss Dorothy Thatcher, at the family residence, Beacon street, Boston, late last week, among those presiding at the tea table were the Misses Helen Hooper and Elise Ames.

A notable wedding in Washington or recent society and diplomatic interest was that of Miss Eleanor Terry, daughter of Rear Admiral Silas W. Terry, retired, and Lieut. Filippo Camperio of the Italian Royal Navy formerly naval attache of the Italian embassy. Among the ushers at the wedding which was held in St. Thomas's Episcopal church were Capt. Butt, the various attaches of the Italian Embassy and Brigadier General Clarence Edwards. The wedding breakfast was served at Rauscher's. They will sail for Venice Dec. 10, after a honeymoon trip outside of Washington.

Washington, Dec. 8

An agricultural explorer of the Department of Agriculture has spent the year exploring the plant resources of southwestern Asia. Among the large number of interesting things he has secured is a variety of alfalfa from Erivan, which is said to be longer lived than the Turkistan; a species of Medicago from an altitude of over 4,000 feet, which is already being utilized in the work of creating new hybrid alfalfa for the Northwest; a wild almond from the Zarafshan Valley, found growing on the dry mountain sides at an altitude of 6,000 feet; a drought-resistant cherry for home gardens in the Northwest; and a collection of apricots with sweet kernels from Samarkand; the Afghanian apple and special varieties of pears for trial in the Gulf States; some remarkable olives, which have withstood zero temperatures and still borne good crops of fruit; late and early varieties of Caucasian peaches for trial in the Southwest; seeds collected in the Caucasus from wild plants of the true Paradise apple, which is used as a dwarf stock for the purpose of obtaining seedlings not infected with crown gall; scions of a newly produced crab apple, reported to be a better keeper than American crab apples; the Slew Abrikos, a variety of apricot with a skin as smooth as that of a nectarine; a remarkable drought-resistant popular for the Middle West; and a wild strawberry, fruiting at the end of February on the dry calcareous cliffs of the Caucasus.

Irrigation Investigations.

The Office of Experiment Stations has endeavored to enlarge its plans to meet the demands for information. In the past, water for irrigation purposes was plentiful, and in the old-school method of use great quantities were wasted. In many parts of the West this old method still prevails, but the improved principle of irrigation advocated by the Department is rapidly displacing those of former days and good results are noticeable. When the irrigators of the San Joaquin Valley first began irrigation they used over

REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

Work has been started on the improvements to the summer executive mansion, "Parramatta", at Montserrat. Among the improvements will be a new room on the east side to be used in connection with the President's office and will provide a spacious and attractive official waiting room. This addition will have a separate entrance and porte cochere which will make the official apartments separate from the house. The exterior of the house is being painted white and it will be a veritable summer "White House". Interior decorations will also be made and completed in the spring. The presidential family will arrive early in June and remain late in Oct.

The famous old "King" Hooper mansion on Hooper street, Marblehead, which has been occupied by the Y. M. C. A. of that town, pending the erection of their new building, has been sold by the association to Wm. E. Spaulding of Nashua, N. H., who will restore the house to its original condition and occupy it as a summer home. The mansion was built in 1745 by Robert Hooper, known all over Essex County as "King" Hooper. The handsome stairway and the attractive wall paper, which have been left undisturbed since the house was built, have been the admiration of hundreds of visitors. The dining room on the upper floor was the largest in that section in those early days.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. Russell Tyson of the Manchester summer colony gave a talk on "Picturesque Japan" on Tuesday evening of this week at Fullerton Hall Art Institute, Chicago, for the benefit of the Children's Memorial Hospital, Chicago, with which Mr. and Mrs. Tyson are so prominently identified. The talk was illustrated by a beautiful collection of stereopticon slides.

Thursday night's ball at the Somerset, Boston, given by Herbert M. Sears for his daughter Lilian, was one of the most brilliant affairs witnessed there in many seasons. It was preceded by several smart dinners, the guests arriving in merry groups up to nearly midnight. The big ballroom was hung with blue and white brocade draperies and further decorated with palms and cut flowers. There were two orchestras, one brought over from New York, the members in Hungarian attire, so that music was continuous. Back of the receiving line were the favors selected by S. Hooper-Hooper while in Paris, and they added greatly to the scene during the cotillon led by Miss Sears and her uncle, Philip S. Sears, a twin brother of her father. There was a well set up staff of twenty ushers, Arthur Adams in charge. Their duties were arduous and not over until just before the supper, so late were the arrivals. Assisting Miss Sears was Mrs. Bryce Allan and Mr. Sears. Previous to the ball a dinner was given at the Algonquin Club by Mrs. "Ollie" Ames for her daughter Elise, her niece, Helen Hooper, and Miss Sears. To this about 100 were bidden.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

Following is the repertoire for the sixth week at the Boston Opera House. It will be noted that the regular subscription performance of Friday evening has been changed to Thursday evening Dec. 15th.

DECEMBER MEETING MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB.

Parent-Teacher Association Guests of the Afternoon. Miss Laura Frances Carney, new District Nurse Present.

The inclement weather of Tuesday afternoon was no drawback for the Manchester Woman's club to carry on their progressive club work, which they are so advantageously doing under the able leadership of their president, Mrs. Emma G. Tenney.

The chapel was quite taxed to its capacity and the afternoon's program was one of great interest.

During the regular routine business, reports were read by Mrs. Charlotte E. Brown of the music committee who represented the club as delegate at the Fortnightly club, Dorchester; by Mrs. Carrie L. Knight, club delegate at the art conference at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, and Mrs. Marianna Cheever, who heads the district nurse committee of the club.

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Knight brought interesting notes for club consideration from both conferences, Mrs. Brown urging more musical interest in Manchester.

Mrs. Cheever's report carried with it great interest and realization of the preconceived plans of the club to place a visiting nurse in Manchester for and at the call of the whole town. This is not a charity, but a legitimate work, but those who absolutely are not in a position financially to pay for her services can have them as freely as if they had the means.

The club's rules as to the use of their district nurse's services are as follows:—

"Visiting nurse aims to provide nursing service for patients in Manchester, who need the short call of a trained nurse.

"These calls are made to patients who do not need, or who cannot afford a nurse's whole time, or who cannot pay at all.

"To those who can afford to pay the charges are: Surgical cases where either is given, 75 cents or $1.00; for medical or surgical calls not exceeding one hour, 25 cents a call,—for longer calls the rate is 25 cents an hour; for obstetrical calls, $1.00, or $2.00 for the first call, for after calls, 25 cents an hour: for calls from these charges will if necessary,

will be made out in the name

Nurse Committee of

Woman's Club. As

e. the nurse shall each visit.

"The service of the visiting nurse may be secured through the physician in charge of the case, or one of the Visiting Nurse Committee. The preference will be given to the patient in greatest need.

"The nurse shall not attend contagious cases. The nurse will not only care for the patient, but also endeavor to instruct some member of the family in such service.

"The nurse's working hours are from 8 a. m., until 5 p. m. on week days; but she may be called at any time in case of emergency. No new cases will be taken on Sunday or on holidays, except in cases of necessity. When calling the nurse give minute direction as to the address of the patient, and the nature of the illness. The nurse shall not go to calls unaccompanied after 8. p. m. and in cases of long distances a conveyance must be provided. In lending articles to the sick, dated receipts must be taken for all articles loaned; and the return of each article properly cleansed, must be required."

Miss Laura Frances Carney, the new district nurse, was present and held an informal reception. She made a very favorable impression on all who met her and seems both physically and professionally adapted to her work having given 25 years to private nursing.

Another important announcement was the arrival and sale of the Xmas seals. These seals are to be placed on sale at the drug and other stores of the town and these seals are to be a medium for enlarging the club's district nurse fund and it is hoped every Xmas package or card will bear one of the seals, which cost only a penny each.

Other announcements of interest was the speaker for the Dec. 13 meeting, Mrs. Isabel Heustis of the Massachusetts Federation of clubs, who comes under the auspices of the Home Economics committee and who will bring thoughts for general discussion in an informal address. On Dec. 20, a large attendance is urged as this is the afternoon for the cooking demonstration by Miss Alice Bradley. Mrs. I. Sylvia Peart will be the hostess of the afternoon.

Following the business session, Mrs. Elizabeth Denison of South Framingham was introduced. Mrs. Denison is a member of the Home Economics committee of the State Federation of Woman's clubs.

Her subject for the afternoon was "What Our Children Should Know", and she discussed a pertinent topic for the consideration of both parents and teachers. It dealt with the facts of sex and a child's general and proper knowledge of the law of nature, its function of reproductive power in human being as well as in plant and animal life.

She believed that every child should be led gradually into the serious question of natural science and of sex, told honestly about life and its source and not be left too long in the dark with the result that an immodest, impure, unchaste and vulgar impression is formed, for the facts of sex are a very reverent subject from which the dearest ties and joys of homes result.

The ages 8 to 10 and from 13 to 18 years are most important ones when teachings along this line can be taught purely or impurely.

'Tis then physical changes should be taught, the meaning of new powers for future happiness and health, the development of powers for future fatherhood and motherhood.

It is this time explicit knowledge should be given on sexology which Mrs. Denison believed should be taught in the schools, or mothers should early embrace the opportunity to give knowledge to their children on this exceedingly important matter to impress on the youth of our country the sanctity of parenthood as all posterity slumbers in our bodies. The old time prudery and modesty on the subject is giving away to practical hygiene, which is leading to greater knowledge and power of clean and healthful living. This can be broadened by a more sensible attitude toward sexual hygiene by parents and teachers; in laying before their children and pupils a practical and modest story of this reproductive system of our great universe.

Mrs. Denison was tendered a rising vote of thanks.

The musical program included two short vocal solos, "Absent" by Metcalf and "Summer Wind" by Bischoff, which were artistically rendered by Mrs. Carolyn E. Allen, Mrs. Edith Williams serving as accompanist. They were generously applauded. Miss Dora Marshall, piano soloist of the afternoon likewise shared in the plaudits tendered this part of the program.

During the social period, tea was served at a very beautifully appointed table by Mrs. William Hooper of the West Manchester summer colony, assisted by her friend, Mrs. Chapin. The table was decorated with numerous bouquets of pinks interspersed with white sprigs of flowers and a stately candelabra with its many small candles sent a soft glow over the china and silver.

Mrs. Mabel Johnson hostess of the afternoon, also had the assistance of Mrs. Phillip Stockton and her sister, Mrs. Russell, of the summer colony, to serve, also several members of the club.

Mrs. Hooper near the close of the club session spoke informally in behalf of the Beverly Hospital urging the club to have a "Hospital Day" for that institution.

Former Manchester Man Had Thrilling Experience with Burglar.

Stanley A. Lutz, a former well known citizen of Manchester, but who moved away two or three years ago to Oklahoma City recently had an opportunity to show the kind of stuff he is made of. Mr. Lutz was formerly one of the blacksmiths at Standley's shop and it is evident he had retained some of his strength and muscle obtained while there. From the Oklahoma Free Press we copy the following account of Mr. Lutz's experience:—

Confronted by a huge Mexican burglar in the wee sma' hours of the morning:

That was the thrilling experience today of S. A. Lutz, who conducts a family grocery store, at 816 Indiana street.

Mr. Lutz did not become excited in the least, according to his own version of the affair, and pounced upon the Mexican with the agility of a trained prize fighter or expert wrestler. After he had secured a full Nelson or some other hold equally as secure, Mr. Lutz marched his man to the telephone and sent in a hurry call to Chief Hubatka, who was getting his morning "snooze" at his home. When the word reached him, Chief Hubatka was out of bed like a fireman, and in less time than it takes to tell it he was at the Lutz store. He took charge of the Mexican and marched him to police headquarters.

The Mexican could speak but little English, and it will probably require an interpreter to tell the court just what he was doing in the store at 6 o'clock this morning. Investigation revealed the fact that he entered through a window, smashing the glass. Nothing of much value was reported missing.

"I did not dream of a burglar until I could not unlock the front door", said Mr. Lutz. "Then I went to the back door and could not get in. Finding the window broken, I crawled through and found the Mexican crouching behind the counter. I jumped on top of him before he had time to do me any harm".

MANCHESTER

In connection with the lecture delivered before the Manchester Woman's club Tuesday afternoon attention has been called to a number of books which can be used to advantage to carrying out the instructions advocated by the speaker. This list is furnished by a member of the Manchester Woman's club, who is at present abroad and the books have been used by her most successfully among the young people of her acquaintance. She advocates placing the little story books in the school and public libraries of Manchester. The list includes "The Renewal of Life, Margaret W. Morley: "The Bee people", "The Honey Makers", McClurg & Co., Pubs.; "A Song of Life", "Life and Love", Educational pamphlet No 6, Health and the Hygiene of Sex, Mrs. Rose W. Chapman, 863 East 18th St., Brooklyn, N. Y. There is also a pamphlet which is given to young men just entering advance schools—Institute of Technology, West Point etc. They can be obtained at a very small cost at 9 East 42nd St., N. Y. The Health Education League, 113 Devonshire street, Boston, sends out booklets on "The Hygiene of Sex" among them one "The Successful Woman", "The Boy and the Cigarette", The Care of Little Children", "Tonics and Stimulants", "Sexual Hygiene", "Habits of Health", etc.

The Manchester Womans' club will meet in the Chapel Tuesday December 13, at 3.30 p. m. to listen to a paper on "Home Economics" by Mrs. Isabel Heustis of the Massachusetts Federation's Home Economic's Department. Tea will be served.

Past Commander Charles B. Corliss of J. Franklin Dyer Camp, Sons of Veterans of Gloucester paid an official visit of inspection to Col. H. P. Woodbury Camp, Sons of Veterans, of Manchester Tuesday evening, and found the camp in a very prosperous condition.

The honor pupils of the Sub Freshman class at the High school this week are: Harry Baker, Ethel Edgecomb, Ruth Ericson, Frances Norie, Esther Carroll, Grace Merrill.

It is significant of the strong under current of popular sentiment in favor of Character Training in the public schools that the representatives of all classes of religious beliefs and ethical bodies are getting together to bring about the introduction of a suitable and acceptable form of moral lessons on the regular school curriculum.

The Character Development League, made up of men of various shades of belief, initiates the first national movement in this direction. It is under the supervision of experienced educators who have expert knowledge of the child mind and school methods, requirements and opportunities. Through the generosity of a number of public spirited individuals there has been prepared for free distribution to the public schools of this country a series of Character Lessons easily adapted to the public school methods which is believed to be the most efficient and practical method of Character Training yet devised, for it teaches by Example rather than by precept. It embodies the principle of Imitation, which is the most potent of all influences that can be brought to bear upon the child mind.

This instruction is no less needed in the home. It is the problem of hundreds upon hundreds—What is to take the place of the old fashioned religious teaching? The Systematic Method of teaching, that right should be done because it is right and which turns morality into the concrete form of habits, provides parents, possibly untrained in religious thinking and teaching, with the easy means of laying the solid foundation of morality, which will supplement the efforts of the public school teacher. Moral training is necessary for every one for the proper development of character.

This is a great movement. It initiates a means for elevating and purifying the whole country, fully as imperative as colleges and universities. It is so important and vital to the nation that the Character Development League feels justified in asking the co-operation of all thoughtful men and women—the wellwishers of the race—to assist in its propaganda.

The Breeze is willing and glad to lend its columns to assist the movement and will publish these Character Lessons once a week serially during the school year. It certainly seems the part of wisdom that an apparently practical system of Character Training with such credentials, and obtainable without cost, should be introduced in the schools of our North Shore towns.

CHRISTMAS is now only two weeks off! Do your shopping next week—don't wait until the last week. It will be easier for you and for the shop-keepers. Christmas is celebrated this year on Monday, Dec. 26; the last shopping day is Saturday, Dec. 24.

The days are shortest in December, and so are a good many men—say, along about the twenty-fifth.

A general rehabilitation of the Boston and Maine system has been decided upon as the outcome of the tour of inspection of the lines by the officers of the New York, New Hartford and Boston and Maine companies last week. Improvements will include strengthening of bridges, heavier equipment, especially in locomotives, improvement of road bed, lowering of grades and to some extent strengthening of curves, besides changes of a more general nature.

In view of the magnitude of the prospective changes, these will be made slowly but systematically. Meanwhile improvements will be centered at points of the greatest need, including new tracking at Lynn, electrification of the Hoosac tunnel, betterment of rolling stock and heavier rails. Particular attention will also be paid to the future improvement of running time between New York city and southern New England at the one extreme and the White Mountain resorts on the other.

The changes will be under the personal direction of President Mellen.

The inspection trip, it is stated showed the Boston and Maine lines between Boston and Portland and Boston and Concord, N. H., to be in first-class condition. The rest of the system inspected, while proving to be well up to the old-fashioned standard, was considerably below the carrying power of the up to date standard lines.

President Mellen will devote his time to the B. & M.

Coaster Ashore.

The out-going tide Monday left high and dry on the rocks of South Shoal, near Mystery Isle, the two-masted schooner, Mary Brewer, bound from Bangor for Salem. Late in the afternoon the schooner at high tide was pulled off the shoal by two tugs, and was towed into Salem harbor. She was badly strained and was leaking considerably. Rockland, Me., is the Brewer's home port. She was heavily loaded with lumber.

Red Cross Stamps Misused.

The dead letter office of the post-office department is being overwhelmed with letters bearing Red Cross stamps and other Christmas or charity stamps. Some of the letters even bear stamps advertising local institutions and business houses, some of which are directed to foreign countries. These are not transmissible in the mails. The placing of such stamps on the face of envelopes intended for delivery in European countries renders the matter unmailable.

For domestic transmission it is necessary that the envelope should bear domestic postage stamps in addition to the Christmas stamps. For transmission to European countries the envelope must bear the regular postage, and the Christmas or charity stamp, if used at all, must be affixed to the reverse side of the envelope. In order to prevent delay in the handling of matter bearing such stamps, particularly during the holiday season, the covers or envelopes should bear the full name and address of the sender.

At last it has arrived—the first snow storm of the winter. Tuesday a miniature blizzard struck us, but not of any alarming violence. After considerable blustering throughout Tuesday, continuing over until Wednesday morning there was enough snow to make sleighing fairly good.

Merger Is Desired By Boston & Northern.

Following the merger of the steam railroads comes the first decisive step toward merging the street railway lines by the Boston and Northern and Old Colony street railway systems in three states,—Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire, was taken Monday of this week, when President P. F. Sullivan of the Boston and Northern filed such a petition with the legislature of Massachusetts.

Special legislation is wanted to allow the purchase of the franchise and property of the Old Colony Street Railway Company upon terms agreed by both companies.

The consolidation will mean the union of 900 miles and more of street railway tracks in three states from Nashua, N. H., to Newport R. I.

Lynn To Have Four Track Railroad.

The Boston and Maine R. R., is to four track its line from West Lynn through to where the Gloucester branch leaves the main line just east of Beverly.

Options have been secured on practically all the property necessary to four track the system, which will mean an expenditure of over a million dollars. In passing Salem, the four tracks are to be depressed and the old tunnel will be done away with.

Hollis Street Theatre

"The Bachelor's Baby", at the Hollis Street Theatre, which presents Francis Wilson both as author and star, is said on all sides to be the longest, loudest, cleanest, healthiest, heartiest and merriest laugh in Boston. This merry comedy-farce with Mr. Wilson in his original role of Thomas Beach, the child hating bachelor, goes into the third and last week of its engagement at the Hollis next Monday night. Bostonians and those who attend the theatre from the nearby towns, have taken a great fancy to Mr. Wilson's play and he, himself, has long been recognized as the foremost of America's laugh-makers. Next week will be the last of Mr. Wilson's engagement and the only matinee of the week will be given on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Ericson are spending a few weeks in New Hampshire.

The December meeting of the Haphazard club will be held on Monday, the 12th, at 7.45 at Miss Goldsmith's, Lincoln street.

Miss Lena Jones is greatly improved we are pleased to report, and it is expected she will be able to leave the Beverly Hospital very shortly.

Miss Bertha Nead is the substitute teacher at the High school for the balance of this term, taking Miss Kauffman's place. A new teacher will be appointed before the winter term.

Engineer Desmond Fitzgerald of Brookline is in town frequently preparing his plans and report relative to a sewerage system for Manchester. The report will be ready for the March meeting, it is expected.

Axel Magnuson, the florist, Bridge St., has on hand an assortment of laurel and holly wreaths for Christmas, and also suggests flowering plants as suitable Xmas gifts. Give him a call!

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Mack and son of Lynn are guests of Mrs. Mack's mother, Mrs. John C. Elliott, Vine street.

Did you buy one of those cute little watch tickets that the children are selling at 10c each? If not, don't fail to secure one, and attend the Eleventh Hour Sale of Harmony Guild at the Chapel, Thursday evening, Dec. 15. There will be a unique entertainment during the evening. Perhaps you will find something suitable for that last Christmas gift that is puzzling you.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The Manchester Y. M. C. A. is growing rapidly. The meetings every Friday evening are well attended and are eagerly looked forward to by the young men. At almost every meeting new members are voted in. At Friday evening's meeting the session was devoted to a mock trial when William Hodgdon (our popular letter-carrier) was tried for "stealing" valuable mail matter belonging to a respected lady in town. Fred Jackson was the judge. The lawyer for the defendant was Cheever Hersey, and Allen McKinnon was attorney for the prosecution. The witnesses for the defendant were Winthrop Younger and Archibald Cool; for the prosecution R. L. Cheever and Elmer Smith. Rufus Long was clerk of courts and the sheriffs were Gordon Northrup and Wm. McDiarmid.

The Jury consisted of Norman Crafts (foreman), Frank Floyd, Arthur Jackson, Albert Cunningham, John Carter and Arthur Lodge. A verdict of "Not Guilty" was rendered.

On the same evening an orchestra was formed with Arthur Lodge, pianist; Ralph Hayward, cornetist; Allen McKinnon, violinist; and Cheever Hersey, drummer. More will be added to the orchestra soon. The orchestra will lead the music at the County Y. M. C. A. convention to be held in Wenham Saturday and Sunday.

Elmer Smith and Gordon Northrup will attend the convention as delegates from Manchester. Some of the others who will attend are Rufus Long, Frank Floyd, Winthrop Younger, Albert Cunningham and R. L. Cheever.

Miss Laura Frances Carney, the new District nurse, is stopping with Mrs. E. S. Knight, 40 School street. Telephone No. 10.

SILK HOSIERY

The Ideal Christmas Gift for Women

WERE NEVER AND MAY NEVER BE AGAIN, AS CHEAP AS THEY ARE TODAY. RAW SILK AT THE PRESENT WRITING HAS ALREADY ADVANCED 40c A POUND.

Not many years ago Silk Stockings were considered a luxury and were rarely worn except on dress occasions. Nowadays many women wear Silk Stockings all the time. 27 years ago nearly all the Silk Stockings came from abroad; today THE McCALLUM SILK HOSIERY MILL at Northampton, Mass., are recognized by the manufacturers of America and Europe as the largest producers of Silk Stockings in the world. So, a luxury of the past generations has truly become a necessity of the present, for McCALLUM PRICES are so modest that all can afford them.

Carpenters Union will elect officers at their meeting this evening.

Walter Bennett went to New Hampshire this morning to attend the funeral of an uncle.

Mrs. Hattie B. Kitfield is spending the week in Mystic, Conn., where her daughter Marion is teaching.

Lagory Wade is entering upon an engagement at the new Lynn Theatre, in Central square, on Dec. 19th, as a member of the orchestra.

James Salter, gardener at the Philip Dexter farm, Forest street, is enjoying a well-earned vacation, which he is spending in various parts of New Hampshire.

North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., nominated officers at its meeting Tuesday evening and will elect at its meeting Tuesday evening, Dec. 20. One application for membership was received.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dean (nee Connolly) have changed their plans relative to taking the Mears cottage on Tappan st., this winter and are soon to start house-keeping in one of the tenements in the Killam house on Desmond avenue.

Deputy Stone of Marblehead, the new deputy of Magnolia lodge of Odd Fellows, paid his first official visit to Manchester last evening, having with him Deputy Marshall Stevens. Both gave interesting talks.

An illustrated lecture on an ocean trip from New York to Fishguard on a Cunarder will be an entertaining feature of Magnolia lodge of Odd Fellows on Thursday evening, Dec. 22. Tickets may be secured free of cost from the Noble Grand or from members of the entertainment committee, F. J. Merrill chairman. The lecture will be given in the Town hall.

Allen Post 67, G. A. R., reelected the old board of officers at their meeting last Friday night which includes Enoch Crombie, commander; Nathaniel Morgan, senior vice; Alfred S. Jewett, junior vice; John G. Haskell, treasurer. It is expected the installation of the officers of the G. A. R., S. of V., and W. R. C. will take place on Jan. 4 in the Town hall, in the form of a joint installation as in the past few years.

On Monday evening, Dec. 19, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob H. Kitfield will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary at their home at Manchester Cove. Invitations have been sent out for the affair. There will be a reception in the evening from 7.30 to 9.30 o'clock.

Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell lost a horse recently which had been a family pet for the last 38 years. It had been owned by Mrs. Mitchell's mother and for a great many years was used as the latter's pet driving horse. Mrs. Mitchell brought it on to the North Shore a number of years ago and has given it the fondest attention. For years it had been the pet of the Mitchell stable and it seemed to appreciate the kindness shown it. Advanced years, however, brought about its death last week.

Services were held at the Dane street Congregational church, Beverly, last Sunday afternoon for the late Roy E. Taylor, who was killed last week by being knocked from the tender of the engine on which he was fireman. The Rev. Judson V. Clancy, pastor of the church officiated and there was a large delegation of railroad men, and many relatives and friends were in attendance. There were many floral offerings. Interment was in the Hale street cemetery, Beverly. Mr. Taylor was a former Manchester young man.

Magnolia boys, and older ones as well, who are interested in the Boy Scout movement, will be especially interested in reading from week to week in the Breeze the article on Character Training, which is prepared each week under the supervision of experienced educators. We are starting the series of articles this week with Article 5. These same lessons are taken up each week by thousands of schools throughout the land.

A Long Island farmer heard a noise one night, and thinking that the wagon spoke he went out to investigate. He discovered that the wagon was tongue-tied, and that he had merely heard Long Island Sound. Hearing at another time a commotion near a piece of timber not far from the beach, and fearing that it was smugglers or pirates, he went out to frighten them away by having the hickory bark. The hickory failed, but he found that the dog-wood succeed. However, it turned out to be simply an ocean squall.

Entertainment in Town Hall.

The entertainment given in the Town hall, Manchester, Wednesday evening by the Ever Ready Circle of King's Daughters, proved a success in every way. Ice cream was on sale during the intermission; also home-made candy. A substantial sum of money was realized from the affair and this will be presented to the French Mission church in Salem, as a help toward their building fund.

During the evening the following program was presented: Piano solo, Mrs. Chester Cook; vocal solo, A. L. Sabin, Allen Brown accompanist; reading, Music by the Choir, Mrs. Charlotte E. Brown; cornet solo, Ralph Hayward; vocal solo, Miss Alice Alderman of Gloucester; reading, "When it all Started", Mrs. Brown. The final number on the program was a farce entitled "The Wooing of Jane" in which Miss Olive Cook carried off the part of "Jane" most delightfully. Allyn Brown took the part of her friend, Mr. Thurston; Winthrop Younger was Bob, her brother; Mrs. Isabella Stidstone was Aunt Jane and Miss Effie Stidstone was the maid.

Church Meeting.

The annual business meeting of the Orthodox Congregational church of Manchester was held last evening in the Chapel. O. T. Roberts was elected moderator and Albert Cunningham was clerk. The following officers and committees were elected:

Clerk, Albert Cunningham; treasurer, George W. Jewett; deacon (five years), Frank P. Knight; supt. of Sunday School; Alfred L. Saben; sec'y and treasurer Sunday School, Howard M. Standley; assistant supt. Sunday School, Albert Cunningham; supt. of junior Sunday School, Miss Annie L. Lane; missionary committee, Mrs. Susan B. Knight, Mrs. Eliza E. Leach, Mrs. Anna A. Phillips; deaconesses, Mrs. Emily P. Jewett, Mrs. Hattie B. Kitfield, Mrs. Irene S. Peart, Mrs. Eliza A. Rabardy, Miss Abby S. Larcom; standing committee members, Miss Abby Larcom, Mrs. J. F. Rabardy, Miss Grace M. Prest.

The reports of the various officers and auxiliary societies showed the various branches of the church work in good order. Especially successful has been the work of the Junior S. S., under the superintendency of Miss Annie L. Lane. The reward system for those having perfect attendance has inspired the children to have more interest in their work and it was pleasing to note that out of a total membership of 161 twenty children had received the prize medal offered for perfect attendance for six months.

The report of the music committee also provoked some discussion. It was suggested that the large organ be used in the evening service.

Jeremiah F. Desmond, candidate for mayor, held a well-attended rally in Marshall's hall last evening. He spoke interestingly upon the issues of the campaign.

Councilman Woodberry last evening succeeded in overcoming most of the obstacles and also secured an appropriation sufficient to do the necessary work toward flooding the mill-pond, so-called, for a skating park. He has given orders that the work be done at once. This will be good news to the young people of the Farms.

Last Saturday Mrs. Louis Larson returned to her home from the Beverly hospital, practically recovered from her recent injury.

The Bible School of the Baptist church will hold a social in the Chapel this evening.

W. B. Publicover is chairman and Frank I. Lamasney is secretary of the Ward 6 Stopford committee. The other candidates for mayor also have friends in the ward who are working zealously in their behalf. Candidates for alderman-at-large have been seen daily mingling among the voters of the Farms.

Beverly Farms boys, and older ones as well, who are interested in the Boy Scout movement, will be especially interested in reading from week to week in the Breeze the article on Character Training, which is prepared each week under the supervision of experienced educators. Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Fields of Palmer have been visiting friends at the Farms the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ober of Haskell street this week sold their place to Nazzaro Risoldi, an Italian, who has lived off Haskell street for the past few years. The property is 45 by 155 feet, and has a dwelling on the street front and a camp-cottage in the rear. The new owner will occupy the house within a few days.

Arthur Smith of High street has accepted a position with Dr. Torrey of Beverly.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dean (May D. Connolly) have leased a tenement in the Killam house on Desmond ave., Manchester, and will shortly move into same.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Robertson of Rockland, Me., have been among this week's visitors to the Farms.

Portions of the state highway from Chapmans corner to the Manchester line, have been given a sprinkling of coarse screened sand, which over-comes to a degree the slippery condition of the oiled road.

Addison Davis and family are occupying the house at East Wenham formerly owned and occupied by Mrs. Charles Wyatt and family. Mr. Davis is having a new house built on the corner of Pole Swamp lane and Chebacco Road.

Winslow Day has secured one of the buildings on the estate formerly owned by John L. Pierce and now owned by Quincy A. Shaw, 2d, and he will shortly move it to his own estate. A foundation is now being prepared. The building will be changed over into a tenement and will be occupied by Mr. Day.

Neighbors hall was the scene of a pretty dancing party last Friday night given by Mr. and Mrs. Gregory P. Connolly in honor of the Beverly High school football team of which their son, Thomas, was a member. It was an invitation party and there was a large number of guests, comprising besides the members of the football squad, many young people from out of town. Everyone had a most glorious time. Coach Squires was the guest of honor. Long's orchestra of Manchester furnished good music and a buffet lunch was served during the evening. During intermission the High school boys gathered and cheered for their host and hostess, the team individually and collectively, the coach, the High school faculty, Dr. Stanley and others prominent in the athletic life of the school, and all sang several of the football songs. This part of the program was greatly enjoyed by all present and aroused much enthusiasm. The party broke up at midnight.

Tonight (Friday), Gen. Wm. Stopford, candidate for Mayor, will speak in Marshall's hall. Hon. Samuel Cole, Lawrence A. Ford and others will also give addresses. All are cordially invited to be present.

Ira E. Davis, who since last March has been time-keeper and bookkeeper for Connolly Bros, on jobs in New York and New Jersey, arrived home on Wednesday.

Louis Coraelli, a Beverly Farms Italian, who payed a visit to Boston this week, was a victim of the anti-spitting crusade. He was greatly troubled over the matter, besides being obliged to pay the $2.00 fine.

The advent of a fine baby boy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Culbert on Greenwood avenue Tuesday is calling forth many congratulations.

Councilman Woodberry has been endeavoring this week to turn the "Mill Pond", so-called, at the playground property into a skating park for the young people. He has been unsuccessful we hear owing to objections raised by property owners near by who fear the flooding of their land. He is to be praised for his efforts, however.

Assessor Theodore A. Holmes and Mrs. Charles Clark, two well known Farms residents, are reported ill.

Already receiving stations have been established in scores of cities and towns, while the Adams and the American Express Companies will carry packages of toys free on that day from many places. The complete list may be found in the columns of The Journal.

9 feet. About one-third of this is found to be ample. The water users of Greeley and neighboring districts in Colorado thought their crops would burn up unless they had a miner's inch of water to the acre. Now they are raising crops on the same ground that are worth about four times as much with one-fourth the water formerly used. So important is the need of furthering the investigation of irrigation that several Western States are now cooperating with the Department in the prosecution of the studies. Irrigation is being taken up in humid regions also, in order to insure against droughts.

Candidates For the Exposition.

One of the most interesting contests before the Present Congress is that between San Francisco and New Orleans for indorsement as the place where the Exposition to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal shall be held. Both cities have established headquarters in Washington and both cities have sent strong delegations of the leading men, not only of those cities, but of their States, to urge their claims upon Congress. At the present time it is impossible to know just which one has the better chance, but both cities have gone into the fight with determination, and each would prefer to see no action taken at all rather than to have preference shown to its rival. Both camps are now well organized and they have settled down for a long and sturdy pull with the consciousness that they may find the session all too short to fight out the campaign in which they are engaged.

Consular Notes.

American manufacturers of dairy machinery are reminded that the butter industry of Australia has assumed vast proportions in recent years, being the fourth greatest source of prosperity in that colony.

In the Netherlands dairying is more profitable than raising cattle for beef, which is only incidental to the dairy. The average cost of keeping and feeding a cow for dairying is $60 a year, and the average amount realized from each cow during that period is $88. The average value of the land for dairying purposes is $400 an acre. Holsteins are preferred to other breeds of cattle, with Jerseys second in esteem.

Dairy farming in Sweden has made more progress in the last forty years than at any time during the past seven centuries. There are about 2,000 dairies in Sweden. The average cost of keeping a cow is $75 a year, while the gross amount realized varies from $80 to $110 per animal.

American interests have taken over several nitrate works in Chile during the last year, and are negotiating for several more. The exports of nitrates to the United States in 1909 amounted to 458,081 tons, nearly four times as much as in 1907.

Two consignments of Chinese pork consisting of nearly 10,000 carcasses were recently refused a landing at Liverpool because they did not comply with certain local technical regulations.

The number of foreign-owned farms in Morocco is increasing. Many of them are supplied with up-to-date agricultural machinery and implements.

A California flour company is the only American concern of the kind which maintains its own house in Hong-Kong, and this is to be closed and the business turned over to commission men. The reason for this seems to be that Manila is becoming the distributing point for American flour in the Orient. Another reason is the decrease in the demand for American flour in that part of the world, owing to the development of wheat growing in Northern China.

A stock company has recently completed a block of houses in a suburb of Frankfort, each house containing two rooms, a kitchen and appurtenances with cellar and ground space for each tenant. The average rental will be $7.14 a month.

Slow progress is being made in the rehabilitation of Messina, the Sicilian city which was destroyed by an earthquake. Official returns show that 27,523 bodies have been recovered from the ruins, and that 32,477 still remain to be exhumed. The rebuilding in permanent form has barely commenced, but there is a great deal of activity and the wages have about doubled on account of the demand for labor. Thousands of women who received 16 to 18 cents a day now receive 60 cents on the extensive drainage works which have been undertaken to combat the prevalent malaria on the Calabrian Coast.

Consul White reports that the cultivation of the seedless oranges in Bahia, Brazil, is extensive and that land suitable to the cultivation of this fruit can be had at from $5 to $10 an acre.

Expert wheat cultivators who have been employed by the Minister of Agriculture to instruct Brazilian farmers are expected to arrive very shortly.

Ten new high power locomotives and 12 additional first class Pullmans have been ordered for a Brazilian railroad.

TURN OF THE YEAR

When Summer blessed the Earth,
A thousand joys had birth;
Long days and short, sweet nights,
Blossom and fruit delights;
And walks amid the maze
Of vine-grown woodland ways;—
And then we prayed: "Dear Summer, stay,
Nor leave us grieving by the way".

Winter now rules the Earth,
And Nature's sounds of mirth
Are hushed, and stark and dead
Her treasures 'round are spread;
Short days and wind-blown nights,
Chill fields and barren heights;—
But, kindly housed and warmly clad,
Winter has charms to make us glad.

Character Lessons to Train Youth

By JAMES TERRY WHITE.

[Copyright, 1909, by the Character Development League.]

V.—Sympathy.

JAMES T. WHITE.

A LITTLE boy was riding in a street car and, observing a kindly looking woman, he snuggled closely up to her and unconsciously rubbed his dusty feet against her dress, when she leaned over to a woman on the other side of the little boy and said shortly, "Madam, will you kindly make your little boy take his feet off my dress?"

The other woman said: "My boy? He isn't my boy." The little fellow squirmed uneasily, seemed to be greatly distressed and looked disappointedly into the face of the woman who had disowned relationship to him. The woman whose attention had thus been called to the little boy presently observed that the child's eyes were fastened upon her with a peculiarly wistful expression, and she said to him, "Are you going about alone?"

"Yes, ma'am," he replied, "I always go alone. Father and mother are dead, and I live with Aunt Clara, and when she gets tired of me she sends me to Aunt Sarah to stay as long as she will keep me, but they both tire of me so soon I keep changing from one to the other. They don't either of them care for little boys like me."

The woman's heart was drawn to the motherless boy, and she said, "You are a very little boy to be traveling alone like this." "Oh, I don't mind," said he, "only I get lonesome sometimes on these long trips, and when I see some one that I think I would like to belong to I snuggle up close to her so that I can make believe I really do belong to her. This morning I was playing that I belonged to that other lady and I forgot about my dirty shoes. But she would not let me belong to her. Do you like little boys?"

The pitifulness of that appeal overcame all restraint of the woman's feelings and, regardless of a carful of spectators, she put her arms around the tiny chap, hugged him close and, kissing him, said, "Yes, and I only wish you wanted to belong to me." The boy looked at her with rapturous content and replied, "I do." And she said, "You shall," and she adopted him.

Disobedience is a lack of sympathy. Sympathy rather implies a certain thoughtfulness at its root. A sympathetic person thinks of others and puts himself in their places and considers what will please and what will not.

Jacob A. Riis is Colonel Roosevelt's ideal of an American citizen. His sympathies went out to the poor and oppressed. His fight, single handed, for tenement reform against the politicians and landlords, backed by all the power of graft and greed, was from the start hopelessly desperate, but he stuck to it until he won. He took upon himself the needs of the poverty stricken residents of New York and almost alone worked reforms which have placed him in the front rank of civic benefactors. The story of his life contains one of the greatest moral lessons of recent years.

JACOB A. RIIS.

We cannot live without the companionship of others. It is affection and interest that give the charm of living; it "fills all the stops of life with tuneless breath." One of the greatest blessings we can bestow upon our friends is thoughtful sympathy and attention. These take the hardness out of duty and obedience, for we wish to please those we love. Happiness is love in action. Somebody has said, "Happiness is a perfume you cannot pour on others without getting a few drops yourself."

Practice.—Each day compel yourself to think of some kind word to say to those about you.

Literature.

So many gods, so many creeds,
So many paths that wind and wind,
While just the art of being kind
Is all the sad world needs.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

The little bread I have
I give away and gladly pray
Tomorrow may leave more
To give away.

—Josephine P. Peabody.

Somebody did a golden deed;
Somebody proved a friend in need;
Somebody sang a beautiful song;
Somebody served the whole day long.
Was that "somebody" you?
—Unidentified.

Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me.—Jesus.

It may not be of the least consequence how you feel, but it is of very great consequence how you make others feel.—Unidentified.

Kindness—a language the dumb can speak and the deaf can understand.—Japanese Saying.

Is thy cruse of comfort falling?
Scanty fare for one will often make a royal feast for two.—Eliza Charles.

THE GREATER YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Since its enlargement by the addition of an amount of reading in the year equal to four hundred ordinary magazine pages, The Youth's Companion can offer even a wider range of wholesome entertainment than ever before; but the character of the paper's contents remains the same, and the subscription price, $1.75, is unchanged.

Every boy will eagerly look for the articles on skill in sports and pastimes and how to develop it.

The girls will find many novel and practical suggestions which will be helpful in their daily life.

For the family in general, hints for the profitable occupation of winter evenings, for increasing the happiness and comfort of the household.

This reading is all in addition to the ordinary treasury of stories, articles by celebrated men and women, the unequalled miscellany, the invaluable doctor's article, the terse notes on what is going on in all fields of human activity.

It will cost you nothing to send for the beautiful Announcement of The Companion for 1911, and we will send with it sample copies of the paper.

Do not forget that the early subscriber for 1911 receives free all the remaining issues of 1910, including those containing the opening chapters of Grace Richmond's serial story, "Five Miles Out".

The new subscribers receive also The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, lithographed in twelve colors and gold.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

One of the most imposing shows announced this season for B. F. Keith's theatre, will be presented next week, a leading feature being a very pretentious musical comedy entitled "Tom Walker on Mars", in which John B. Hymer and company will appear. This is a production big enough for a legitimate stage, and the light and scenic effects surpass anything previously presented in vaudeville. Another big feature will be Mason-Keeler and company, in a comedy called "In and Out", which is one of the greatest novelties offered this season. In fact, the entire bill will be made up of acts that have never been seen before this theatre. One particularly interesting feature will be the vaudeville appearance of St. White, late star of the Bank & Co. shows, who will sing and some of his eccentric dances. Ellis-Howlin troupe will appear an acrobatic sketch called "Fu a Fire House". This is a 1 company and is one of the greatest laughing vehicles on the stage. Others will be Barnes and Robi in a musical and sing act, D. and Sales, comedians; Skremka; ters in an aerial act, and other

Educated Fleas at B. F. Keith

One of the greatest novelties shown in years has been secured for B. F. Keith's theatre during the holiday season, in Professor Braham's Educated Fleas, from the Crystal Palace, London. This is not a joke, for Professor Braham's Fleas, which are of the very kind, do all sorts of stunts including riding bicycles, driving carriages, juggling, etc. The exhibition will take place in the room at B. F. Keith's, which is ready one of the show places of the city, but in this case it will be transformed into a veritable fairy

Well, let us assure you now that when we say we are ready, we'll present such a sight this year as you've never seen before. What goes to make up this show are remarkably pretty goods, and the trouble we experienced when gathering them up was not that we had difficulty in finding things pretty, but rather in knowing just when and where to stop.

It's a season lots different than have been the past two or three —there's novelty a-plenty and beauty galore.

There'll be

Gas Portables and Electroliers that savour of the fairy. New patterns in Cut Glass that will keep you spell-bound.

Russian Hand Hammered Brass Things we'll promise you never have seen. With the regular items in this popular line much lower priced now than ever.

A Room Full of Tables, some of them appearing as though a century old, another room of Mission Pieces, made especially for now, and then for the little tots so many new things—you just wait and you'll say that it beats anything before.

SOCIETY NOTES

Many North Shore so-journers and their guests are availing themselves of the privilege of using the Essex County club again this winter. The club is being kept open all winter for the use of members and season subscribers. Additional heaters have been put in and there are eleven bed-rooms for men and accommodations for five ladies in their end of the clubhouse. It is advisable to arrange for rooms in advance, but food can be served at any time without notice. One of the important changes being made at the club at present is the changing over of the office. This has always been on the second floor. A room on the first floor, formerly used as a men's writing room is being changed over into a room to serve as an office. Entrance may be made from the outside, as well as from the inside. The telephone will also be located here. The room formerly used as an office is being converted into a bed-room.

Miss Marion Wigglesworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wigglesworth, of Boston, Milton and Manchester, will be one of the January brides in Boston. Her fiance is Dr. Lloyd Thornton Brown of Worcester, but who is at present making his home in Boston. The engagement was announced early last month just after the return of the Wigglesworths from Europe.

—X—

Frederick R. Sears, Jr., of Boston and Beverly Farms, sailed from New York last Saturday on the Kaiserin Auguste Victoria.

—X—

Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Bradbury and the latter's brother, George R. White are now settled at their town house, 285 Commonwealth ave., for the winter after a short trip to New York where they went after closing their Manchester house just before Thanksgiving.

—X—

Mr. and Mrs. Conover Fitch are receiving congratulations on the birth of their first child a daughter, at their home on Regent circle, Brookline, recently.

—X—

An engagement of great diplomatic and society interest is that of Countess Alexandra Von Bernstorff, the only daughter of the German ambassador to the United States, to Count Riamond Pourtales, attache of the German embassy, which was announced last Saturday. The marriage ceremony will probably be performed in Washington in March or April. There is special American interest in the engagement as the young Countess' mother was Miss Jeanne Luckemeyer of New York and the step mother of Count Pourtales was Miss Helen Barbey of New York, both Americans.

—X—

The annual automobile show in Madison Square Garden has been arranged for Jan. 7-14 and the estimated value of the exhibits will be $2,500,000. Every inch of the 100,000 square feet has been allotted. The cars on exhibition will comprise the most representative display of the motor car industry ever shown under one roof.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mrs. C. A. Munn and daughter, Miss Carrie Munn left Manchester for their winter home in Washington on Tuesday, Dec. 13. The wedding of Miss Carrie Louise Munn and Reginald Boardman of Boston and West Manchester will doubtless be solemnized in Washington in the near future, to be followed by a wedding trip abroad. Mrs. Munn will transfer her household to Manchester early in the spring of 1911 and the bungalow on the Dodge estate, Old Neck, will be kept open this winter for the use of her sons, who are at Harvard. Mrs. Munn also plans to spend several weeks abroad during the winter months.

—X—

A wedding in Bedford, New York, last Saturday of much North Shore interest was that of Miss Gladys Durant Rice, eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Rice of Bedford, N. Y., and John Lee Saltonstall of Boston and Beverly. The ceremony took place at the little Episcopal church in Bedford, Rev. Sherrard Billings of the Groton School, Groton, Mass., officiating, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Lee Luquer, rector of the church. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a bridal gown of white satin crepe de chine trimmed with point applique. This lace was used for the veil which was worn like a scarf, not being fastened. The bride's only ornament was a string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried orange blossoms. The best man was Robert Saltonstall, the groom's brother. The bride had no attendants. Of the bridegroom's family who attended were his brother-in-law and sister and niece, Neal Rantoul and family of Boston and Beverly Farms, and his brother-in-law and sister from New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Auclincloss. Mr. and Mrs. Saltonstall will make their home this winter at Miss Adele G. Thayer's house, 181 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston.

—X—

Another New York wedding last Saturday which will bring a New York bride to Boston and the North Shore for the future was that of John A. Tuckerman, son of Mrs. Charles Sanders Tuckerman of Boston and Ipswich and Miss Katherine S. Atterbury, daughter of John Turner Atterbury at St. Thomas church, Fifth Avenue and Fifty-third street. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. E. M. Stires and Rev. Dr. John McGaw Foster of Boston and Bass Rocks. The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Dudley Rogers Howe of Brookline, and among the bridesmaids were Miss Edith Deacon. Benjamin Joy was best man. Among the ushers were Charles and Francis Appleton.

—X—

Among the numerous social functions in honor of Miss Helen Taft was a dinner given late last week by F. Oden Horstmann, at the Alibi, long famous as America's most exclusive supper club. The guests numbered 20 of the young married set and the menu was discussed in the Dutch kitchen. Jan. 16, the Secretary to the President and Mrs. Norton will give a dinner complimentary to Miss Taft.

SOCIETY NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison K. Caner of Philadelphia and Manchester have sent out invitations for a dance for the younger set of the Quaker City on Dec. 22, in honor of their sons, Harrison Caner, Jr., and G. Colket Caner.

Mr. and Mrs. George Westinghouse of Pittsburg and Lenox who have been entertained frequently on the North Shore by Henry Clay Frick, gave a reception late last week at the St. Regis, New York, in honor of the American Society of Mechanical engineers. More than 400 guests were present. The entire second floor of the hotel including the marble ballroom and the Louis Quinze suite were used for the reception.

The portrait of Mrs. Taft, painted at Beverly last summer by K. B. Kronstrand, the Norwegian artist has arrived at the White House. Later it will be hung with the pictures of wives of other Presidents in one of the White House corridors.

Among the recent hostesses of Miss Helen Taft was Mrs. Wm. F. Dennis who gave a tea in her honor to which a large number of the Southern set of the capital were bidden.

While in Philadelphia for the Henry-Biddle nuptials, Miss Mary Josephine Amory was entertained by Dr. and Miss Alexander W. Biddle and on her return to Boston spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Munn, Jr., of Beacon street.

Mrs. W. Harry Brown of Pittsburg and Beverly was among the assistants at the debutante tea given in Pittsburg last Friday by Mrs. Thomas Chalmers Darsie of Fifth avenue and Woodland road for her niece, Miss Adelaide Shinkle.

Patronesses for the Yale University presentation of "Il Ventaglio" (The Fan) by Carlo Goldoni in the Nixon theatre, Pittsburg, Dec. 29, includes Mrs. Charles H. Curry, Mrs. Henry M. Curry, Jr., Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, Mrs. D. Herbert Hostetter, Mrs. John R. McGinley and many other prominent Pittsburg matrons who summer on the North Shore.

Auto shows of magnitude will engage the attention in a few weeks of New York and Philadelphia society for the management of the Grand Central Palace Automobile Show in New York, Dec. 31 to Jan. 7., will have, they claim, the finest collection of motor cars ever exhibited in New York and the most costly decorations. The music for the occasion will be furnished by 35 selected musicians with W. E. Baufuss, the famous Chicago Conductor as leader. The soloists will be stars from Victor Herbert's orchestra and Brooks and Sousa bands. Twenty complete planes will be shown in the aeroplane exhibit. The show will be an international one.

Among the social affairs recently given in Philadelphia was Sidney E. Hutchinson's large theatre party for his daughter, Miss Cintra Hutchinson.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Crowninshield of Boston and Marblehead Neck have been visiting the latter's father, Senator Henry A. Du Pont of Wilmington, Delaware.

Boston, Philadelphia and New York society will be largely represented at the wedding of Miss Joan Tuckerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman of New York and Ipswich, and Evans R. Dick, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Evans R. Dick now of New York, formerly of Philadelphia, which has been set for Tuesday in Easter week. It will be a church wedding with a reception following.

While in Berlin en route to Russia, Mr. and Mrs. John Hays Hammond were entertained at a private dinner party at the Hotel Adlon by the Ambassador from the U. S. and Mrs. Hill.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Lawson, third daughter of Thomas W. Lawson, and Henry McCall, son of Congressman Samuel W. McCall of Winchester, was solemnized on the South Shore yesterday. The Lawson country seat, Dreamwold, at Scituate was the scene of the wedding. It was an elaborate and picturesque affair in keeping with the Christmas season. There was much North Shore society interest in and attendance at the nuptials. Among the ushers were S. Dacre Bush, 2nd, of the Hamilton colony.

One of the smartest debutante functions of the week was the large dinner given on Monday night at the Algonquin club, Boston, for Miss Mary Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Wilson Lee of Chestnut hill. The dinner was given by Mrs. Harry Pratt McKean of Philadelphia, who is still at her summer residence at Phide's Crossing. Most of last week Mrs. McKean was in Boston, the guest of her aunt, Mrs. H. L. Higginson at her apartments at the Agassiz. The McKean boys are in Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Rice are keeping their estate at Ipswich open most of the winter. They have apartments at the Somerset, Boston, but go down to their Shore estate for week-ends very frequently. They were down over the last week-end, their daughter Miss Hil-da Rice being with them.

The American Academy of Arts and Letters—the American "Immortals", opened their two days' session in the New Theatre, New York, recently. To be an "Immortal" one must have gained distinction in the world of art, literature and music. Prof. Basil L. Gildersleeve, father of Mrs. Gardiner M. Lane of Boston and Manchester, is a member of the society.

Philadelphia's auto show will be held Jan. 14 to 28 at the First and Third Regiment Armories and there will be unique decorations.

Dr. and Mrs. Franklin Dexter of Boston and Pride's gave a dinner at the Somerset club Boston last Friday evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry F. Sears of Boston and Beverly Cove have sailed for England. They were accompanied by Mrs. Sears' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Struthers of Philadelphia. Dr. Sears is having a new house built on the corner of Beacon and Brimmer streets, Boston, for a winter residence.

Hon. A. Shuman of Boston and Beverly and his daughter, Mrs. Carl Dreyfus, have been in New York, Philadelphia and Washington for a short visit. While at the capital they enjoyed luncheon with President Taft and Hon. Mr. Shuman was a guest at the semi-annual dinner of the Gridiron Club.

Tuesday evening, Miss Mary Shreve Ames gave a dance at her house on Dartmouth street, Boston, in honor of her niece, Miss Elise Ames of Boston and Prides.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Curtis of Beverly Farms and Boston gave a dinner Wednesday evening at the Somerset club, Boston, in honor of Miss Elizabeth Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Mitchell of Manchester are to enlarge the North Shore contingent at Washington having secured the house, 333 Eighteenth street.

The Value of Fine Paintings

Manchester Pastor Spoke in High Praise of the Frick Collection of Paintings in the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, and of the Spirit that Prompted the Free Exhibition.

At the Congregational church, Manchester, last Sunday evening the pastor Rev L. H. Ruge spoke on the "Value of Fine Pictures". Among many other things Mr. Ruge said:

A great picture gallery is a place of elevating influences, a place of subdued mystery. We instinctively feel that we are in the presence of the great master spirits that gave concrete expression to their hopes and ideals.

It is a place of courtesy and culture where few intrude upon the contemplation of others by rude crowding or conversation. With catalog in hand and a keen desire for discovery and pleasure the crowd moves reverently about as in a sanctuary, and the mere atmosphere is elevating.

The unpracticed and inexperienced observer finds it difficult to comprehend the high aims of the artists at first and they are like awed children in a kindergarten in which the pictures are still beyond their conception. The untutored taste can never appreciate the glories of art any more than an untutored child can appreciate the wonders of knowledge. They may influence and affect the mind in a subtle and unaccountable way, but they cannot be interpreted until after years of study has had its effect.

Many, however, have gone to view the Frick collection that have a fine knowledge of paintings, artists and art critics, and they are drawn from all classes of society both native and foreign, poor and rich alike, as could readily be seen, and all with a hunger for the beautiful.

The American public is being educated by the increase of public art institutions and free exhibits of masterpieces. Even public education is along this line. Many otherwise hard, practical men of affairs today have capacities for the highest art.

There is apt to be too much criticism and contempt on the part of Europeans for American interpretation and creation in art, for American capacity in artistic conceptions and spirit is as old as it is in Europe.

Besides Americans are not bound by traditional names or dogmatic conceptions. And some day there will be an original American art recognized throughout the world superior to any. Already the American artist and art are becoming famous. The American landscape paintings, unmatched for grandeur in the world, are arousing highest praise abroad. From the aboriginal life of America to its magnificent unfolding, it furnishes subjects that need a masterly interpretation all their own.

It has long ago dawned upon America how important it is to develop and create a genuine interest and conception of art among the people. Wealthy men are even anxious to make the public, in a measure, sharers in their art treasures by such exhibitions as the Boston people have the pleasure of seeing this week.

Many cities are today doing a fine work along this line and under the inspiration of the great need of education in art every city will soon have its great art center.

The mind will hang pictures on walls of memory anyway. If I could swing open the galleries of your mind I would see on the walls of memory pictures that have been there since childhood and that will be there until death and perhaps beyond. I would also see artists at work there today. How imperative then to see that the right kind of pictures and frescos are there.

Everyone who has seen the fifty great paintings of the Frick collection is laid under deep obligation to the man who has brought them from abroad and assembled them not only for his own pleasure but the pleasure and profit of the public.

The first painting that held my attention was that of "St. Jerome" by El Greco. To see this is to be held by the patriarchal expression of the ascetic with the fires of faith and fanaticism undimmed to the end.

The next picture that attracted my attention was the portrait of the "Hon. Elizabeth Hamilton", by Nattier. The artist has here certainly wrought a great spell in the combination of beauty and sweet, lovable expression hardly duplicated in the fine collection of portraits here displayed.

"— — — the sweet, half-solemn look Where some past thought was clinging.

"— — — a face
Filled with a fine, old-fashioned grace".

A portrait of Miss Byng, by Hopper attracted attention by its vivid coloring, beauty and filmy lace.

The "Woman sewing by a lamp" by Millet, considered by many the greatest work of this artist, is a simple subject of a peasant woman sewing on a coarse garment by the light of a primitive lamp that throws into relief the woman's face and the outlines of a child sleeping near.

A Titian portrait of Pietro Aretino attracted considerable attention. Someone has said that he could do without all others but Titians.

The subject of the "Music Lesson", "Henrietta, Countess of Warwick" by Romney, and Hals "Burgermeister" all earned merited comment.

The three Rembrants of which "The Polish Rider" was literally and figuratively the center of attraction were continually surrounded by the crowd.

But of all the portraits Van Dyke's masterpieces were easily in my individual estimation the greatest of them all. In "Franz Snyder" the artist portrays a simple refinement of expression that reveals the inward character. In "Canevari" the skill of refinement blends with personal attraction. But in the portrait of "Marchesa Giovanna Cattaneo" the climax of the Van Dyke group is reached.

Turner's marine subjects are simply superb. In the "Mortlake Terrace" sunlight and shadow, shrouded in mere suggestions of mists, are effects that are marvelous. In "Calais Harbor" the keynote to me was the light in a topsail as the ship rides before the wind and wave of the gale. But the "Van Goyan Looking for a Subject" beggars description. The spectral shore and cathedral in the spectral light, the harbor boats, the gathering rain and clouds must be seen.

Several pastoral scenes in minor tones and lovely silver grey lights have a charm not easily expressed.

REAL ESTATE AND IMPROVEMENTS.

An important purchase of North Shore property has been made by William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company of Boston, who has acquired from Francis L. Higginson the property at Pride's Crossing, which he has had under lease from Mr. Higginson for several summer seasons. The estate embraces four acres. On the estate is a good sized colonial summer home painted white, directly on the water front. It adjoins the beautiful and costly new brick and marble mansion of Mrs. Lucius M. Sargent, daughter of T. Jefferson Coolidge of Boston and Manchester, which she will occupy next season.

At a meeting last Friday night at Marblehead the Park Commission heard plans for the improvement of Marblehead harbor at a cost of $1,000,000 all of which will be provided by promoters of a new hotel for that town, who hail from New York, the West and from the North Shore resorts. A sea wall is to be built from Proctor Park across to the Marblehead Neck end of the causeway. The harbor is to be dredged and the material taken from it will be dumped between the park and the sea wall making considerable new land. On this land it is proposed to build a hotel costing a half million of dollars its equipment to excell anything of its kind in this part of the country. They will also layout and give to the town a park larger than Proctor Park now is and also construct a public landing.

Henry L. Higginson, et ux, Ida A. of Boston, to Louise C. wife of William B. Walker of Manchester, land on Forsters pasture, Manchester.

Mary E., wife of Joseph R. Wilkinson of Manchester, to Clara E. Phasey of Lowell, land on Summer street, Manchester, 87 by 144 feet, 8 inches.

George Sanborn came home Thursday from the Beverly hospital greatly improved.

Harry Wills, chauffeur for Mrs. Wm. Hooper, who has been ill for some time at his room at the Manchester house, was taken to the Beverly hospital this week and operated on for appendicitis. Mr. Wills has made many friends during his stay in Manchester. At last reports he was doing as well as could be expected. Mrs. Wills came on from New York the first of the week.

The Eleventh Hour Sale.

The Chapel at Manchester was crowded last evening, despite the severe snow storm, and well it might have been for the "Eleventh Hour Sale", and the accompanying entertainment, under the direction of the Harmony Guild, was well worth attending.

The interior of the building was transformed into a veritable fairyland of greenery and the various booths were decorated in keeping with the season.

A large curtain had been strung across the front of the room, and as the main curtain was drawn another curtain was brought into view. It was white, with large Christmas bells painted upon it. Through these bells protruded the faces of a double quartet of Manchester's fairest belles, and at intervals throughout the evening they sang a series of Christmas bells, College bells, popular bells and National bells. In the chorus were Mrs. R. C. Allen, Misses Ethel McDiarmid, Mabel Morgan, Alice Blaisdell, Mildred Peart, Beth Jewett and Annie L. Lane, and Mrs. L. N. Cook.

The various booths were artistically decorated with wreaths and streamers of evergreen and laurel encircled most of the room. The candy booth, with poinsettia decorations, was in charge of a committee of young ladies with Miss Grace Allen as chairman. The table of fern dishes was in charge of Mrs. W. W. Hoare. The parlor was transformed in an ice grotto, with plenty of snow and icicles, and ices and sherbets were served here. Miss Annabel Haraden was chairman. On the opposite side of the room was the fancy table, filled with beautiful ar-

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB.

Informal Meeting Tuesday Afternoon. Paper On Home Economics by Mrs. Isabel Heustis of Boston.

Home Economics in its broad sense, in relation to the home and the home makers, was interestingly treated from all its varied standpoints by Mrs. Isabel Heustis of Boston at a meeting of the Manchester Woman's club, Tuesday. Mrs. Heustis laid particular stress on the work of the ordinary house wife and its elevation to pleasure from drudgery through her willingness to persistently seek after wisdom and knowledge to make a better, happier and more sanitary home, and particularly more study in relation to the up-bringing of children.

She believed that Home Economics should be taught in the lower and upper grades of the schools to better health, duty and business and the fourth "R",—right living. She thought more attention ought to be given to unhealthful food and diet, a legitimate work for club women to do to aid in the progress of home making, for all issues of life center in the home.

The speaker gave a statistical review of woman's modern rights and liberties, her progress in the professions and her business intellectuality and sagacity, her exalted place in the home,—“mother, home, heaven”.

In direct contrast, comes her profession as a housekeeper and the essential knowledge and training for its successful operation through the study of all its branches, to develop beauty, order, hospitality and like attributes so that it will become an inspiring profession of fascinating interest through the discovery by education in domestic science of easier and simpler methods to decrease the laborous side of housekeeping and develop more moral and physical qualities in children, intelligent management and the spirit of helpfulness in each member of the family.

The study of the relative value of foods as to nutritive powers, the conservation of the household question, kitchen necessities, domestic service and its problem, production and consumption, acquisition and use of money all aid materially in the economic struggle.

Since women are the main directors of household expenditures they should aim for better choice, better production, better consumption and buy intelligently.

When housekeeping under normal conditions becomes drudgery we then know we are unqualified for the task and we need more knowledge, more experience and more specialized labor, more brains in the selection of foods more scientific and ethical training.

The father's fine example should predominate versus the mother's good precepts in the up-building of the ideal moral and healthy home and patience, tact and parental care.

Light refreshments were served at the close of the lecture.

ticles, offering most appropriate gifts for Christmas. This was in charge of a committee of which Miss Eleanor Morgan was chairman. Punch was poured in the next booth, which was constructed to represent a snow canopy. Miss Grace McGregor was chairman of this committee, and Miss Shea and Miss Brackett were her helpers.

The members of the guild serving on committees wore arm badges with the monogram "H. G.".

The whole undertaking was very skillfully gotten up, and to Miss Annie L. Lane, chairman of the general committee, is due much of the credit for the success of the affair. The decorations were under the direction of Mrs. W. W. Hoare.

Magnolia Summer Visitor Hopes "No-License" Will Now Be Properly Enforced.

Editor North Shore Breeze.

Dear Sir: Every well-wisher of Magnolia who spends his or her summer there cannot but feel thankful at the recent victory of No-License and grateful to those who have worked so hard to bring this much-desired result about. As an experiment the sale of liquors was unrestricted last year and the unfortunate result was a condition of disquiet and rodyism which made the streets of the "business section" not only objectionable, but often positively unsafe for unattended ladies.
Those of us who have been coming to Magnolia for a good many years had cause to regret most sincerely the lack of quietness and feeling of absolute security which was until recently its greatest charm. If "No-License" is now properly enforced by the officers of the law, whose duty it is to do so, all will again be well and Magnolia's name will be once more as fair and sweet as the white flower among its woods.

Skeleton Found in Ground at Pride's Crossing.

The skeleton of what was supposed to be an Indian was dug out of the earth at Pride's Crossing last Saturday. One of the Italian laborers at work at the new mansion being built for Mrs. Lucius Manlius Sargent was digging a trench for the foundation of a terrace wall and as he had dug about two feet underground his pick crushed through a white object that later turned out to be a skull. Some of the other workmen were called and the entire skeleton of a body, from the knees up, was unearthed. The arms were crossed upon the breast, and the ribs and all the other bones were in position, though all fell apart as soon as disturbed. The teeth were there, and the entire skull, though the latter was considerably broken by the blow from the workman's pick.

It is thought the rest of the skeleton was destroyed last winter when the main foundations for the house were put in. The rest of the bones were found just at the edge of the trench for the main foundations.

The bones were put in a box and shipped to Boston, to the office of Architect Wales, who has charge of the house. Roberts & Hoare of Manchester are building the house and W. W. Hoare had the skeleton shipped to the architect.

It is thought that the skeleton might have been that of an Indian, buried there two hundred years or more ago. Several arrow heads were found near the skeleton. Two hundred and fifty years ago this whole section was thickly settled with Indians. The spot where the bones were found was only a rod or to from the water.

THRIFT IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Mr. Kimball of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League addresses the High School, Talks On "Thrift". Describes Savings Bank Life Insurance, Which Furnishes Insurance at Cost.

Harry W. Kimball, Field Secretary of the Massachusetts Savings Insurance League, spoke to the Story High School, Manchester, Thursday, upon the subject of "Thrift, as Illustrated by Savings Bank Life Insurance".

By an act of the Legislature last year, Thrift is one of the subjects permitted to be taught in the schools of the Commonwealth, and these addresses given by Mr. Kimball on Thrift are therefore welcomed by the High School principals of the State. Mr. Kimball said in part:

"Thrift is an old-fashioned virtue which our forefathers had, but which is too often neglected in this age, where there are so many temptations to spend money. Recently a magazine made an investigation of 50,000 well-to-do American families, and found that when the heads of the families died less than 2,000 were possessed of sufficient means to settle, without debt, the estate. There are more temptations now for the boys and girls to spend money than there used to be. Moving picture shows, amusement parks, trolley lines and foot-ball—all demand money. Even so, a large number of our boys and girls have deposits in the Savings Bank, but I am afraid they do not add very much to these deposits as the months go by. Life Insurance is one form of capital invested in the life of the person insured. A boy in the High School is worth something. Time, money and thought have been put into making him what he is. He may prove a poor investment. Nevertheless he is worth something and the insurance on his life simply protects the value that is invested in him. Therefore, one of the best things that any father or mother can do is to take out a life insurance policy upon the life of their boys and girls, that if by any chance these children die they may have some protection for expense and old age. If the boy lives and keeps up this insurance policy, it means that he gets the protection for his own family when that day comes, at very low cost.

"It was somewhat surprising, however, to find that a large proportion of the scholars in these high schools also carried life insurance policies; the number ranged from one-half to two-thirds of the entire school; but, strangely enough, in every instance more of the girls were insured than boys. In most cases these policies were carried in industrial companies, and therefore at the excessively high cost of such insurance.

"These facts show the large field of usefulness that there is for Savings Bank Life Insurance in the high schools of the State, and when agencies for this form of insurance shall have been established in these schools, not only will an opportunity be afforded for the scholars to obtain insurance more cheaply than at present, but the agency itself will afford an excellent medium through which the pupils may be taught the essential principles of insurance.

"In Savings Bank Life Insurance, Massachusetts has provided the best form of insurance in the world. Since insurance is a real necessity of life, it should be furnished to the people at actual cost and at the least possible expense. This is what Savings Bank Life Insurance does. The general expenses are paid by the State; the insuring Banks are not allowed to spend any money for soliciting business and all the profits go back to the policyholders. Therefore, Savings Bank Life Insurance is the cheapest, safest and soundest insurance any one can have. It is expected that in the near future there will be agencies for Savings Bank Life Insurance in our High Schools, so that an easy opportunity will be afforded for all pupils to take out policies.

"Throughout this Commonwealth, about three years ago, much interest was aroused by a proposed law under which Savings Banks might open insurance departments. Those who were interested in the endeavor to have such a law passed felt that the industrial insurance companies doing business in this State had made life insurance too costly for the working people and that an opportunity ought to be afforded to obtain this protection as nearly as possible at actual cost. After the passage of the law, which was simply permissive, two Savings Banks opened insurance departments,—the Whitman Savings Bank of Whitman and the People's Savings Bank of Brockton. While many thought that nothing would result from the passage of the law, the actual fact is that these Banks have, in two years, written over a million and a half of insurance and more than $1,400,000 is in force at the present time. A dividend of 8 1-3 per cent was declared at the end of the first year, and through the establishment of agencies among large employers of labor, steady progress month by month is being made."

An exchange observes that: "More furniture is made in Chicago than in any other city of the country, according to statistics prepared by Chicago newspapers. Most of us think that Grand Rapids is the leading furniture manufacturing city of the country. It is the most advertised. The industry of making furniture by hand was once commonly carried on in some Essex county towns, notably Manchester. It is said that there are still a few furniture makers in Manchester, and that they do a comfortable business by making furniture on custom orders, chiefly hand made colonial style furniture." The Dodge Furniture Co. has among its many orders at the present time the making of the new furniture and fixtures for the new home of the Naumkeag Trust Co., of Salem.

NYE—JOHNSON.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Johnson, 25 Bridge street, Manchester, was most hospitably opened Wednesday evening for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Emeline Hill Johnson, and Wm. Mudge Nye of Lynn.

Rev. A. E. Harriman of Lynn, a former Manchester pastor, was the officiating clergyman.

The ceremony with the single ring service, was performed at 7 o'clock, followed by a reception at 7.30 o'clock.

The bride looked very handsome in her bridal attire. Her gown was of white messaline appliqued with lace and adorned with pearl trimming. She wore the conventional tulle veil. Her bouquet was of lillies of the valley.

The only attendants to the bridal couple were Mrs. Fred M. Johnson, matron of honor, and Fred M. Johnson, best man, the sister-in-law and brother, respectively, of the bride. Mrs. Johnson was becomingly gowned in lavender messaline and carried white roses.

The decorations in the reception room, where the ceremony was performed, were of palms, rubber plants and cut flowers. The dining-room was decorated with artistic effect. The refreshment table had a large centerpiece of white carnations and the white ribbon streamers attached to the chandelier from the table were entwined with smilax.

As three hundred invitations were issued the attendance at the reception was very large. For this portion of the evening's festivities, a Ladies Orchestra from Peabody played and Schlehber of Lynn catered. The ushers were G. Albert Sinnicks and Frank Sinnicks of Manchester, Philip Bessom of Lynn and Mr. Shaw of Peabody.

The honors of the refreshments room were shared by Misses Nellie Hobbs and Mabel Morgan, who served punch; Misses Majorie Burt and Rebecca Burt of Stowe, Vermont, cousins of the bride, and Miss Eleanor Morgan of Manchester, who served the ices.

The gift room was presided over by Miss Nye of Lynn. There was a beautiful and costly display of cut glass, silver, bric-a-brac, pictures and useful gifts in furniture and linen. A gift of special interest was a chair made by the bride's grandfather, aged 93 years, and upholstered by her great uncle, aged 90 years. There was a generous check from the Manufacturer's National Bank of Lynn where Mr. Nye is teller.

Guests were present from Lynn, Boston, Medford, New Hampshire, Vermont, Salem, Peabody, Swampscott and other places.

The future home of Mr. and Mrs. Nye will be in Lynn. They will reside on 21 Basset street.

Mrs. Nye, previous to her marriage, held a responsible position in Lynn for a number of years.

The following pupils in the Sub-Freshman class at the High School were on the honor list for the week ending Dec. 16: William Slade, Henning Ericson, Harry Baker, George Flemming, Elizabeth Merson, Antoinette Vidal, Ethel Edgecomb, Anna White, Ruth Ericson, Esther Carroll, Margaret McNeary, Ruth O'Brien, Esther Northrup, George Salter.

"The lid is on" in Manchester, it appears. The edict sent forth a fortnight ago has resulted in everything being closed "tight as a drum".

It is understood that Harry Slade and his father Henry Slade are to open a pool room in the vacant store in the Slade building, Central st., and that a lunch room will be added as the summer season approaches.

E. W. Baker and a small delegation of S. of V. went to Gloucester, Wednesday evening, when Mr. Baker inspected the camp there. Tonight Fred K. Swett plans to inspect the camp at Beverly and a delegation will accompany him on the 6.42 train.

The stores about town are in full holiday dress, and everything bespeaks the good cheer of the season. From the large variety of beautiful articles to be found it would seem almost unnecessary for one to go without obtaining anything desired in the line of gifts, at prices to suit all.

The Manchester Woman's club will meet in the chapel Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 20th, at 3.30 o'clock. The demonstration of cooking methods by Miss Alice Bradley of Hyde Park should make the afternoon most interesting. Members are reminded that the Federation Christmas seals will be for sale at the meeting and that the proceeds go toward the Visiting Nurse Fund.

Andrew Johnson, one of Manchester's oldest and highly respected citizens, celebrated his 90th birthday last Saturday informally. Mr. Johnson was one of the many from this section who took the long trip across the plains to California in '49, during the height of the California gold fever. His brother, William, who lives next door to him on Bridge street is still hale and hearty at 92 last June.

The Men's club will open tomorrow evening and will be open every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening during the winter until the end of April. The hours will be from 6.30 to 10 o'clock. Charles Wilkinson will be manager. Since the subscriptions will not cover the expenses, a charge of five cents per string is to be made for bowling and two cents per cue for pool, and a reasonable rental when the building is hired.

A Christmas celebration will be held at the Village church Sunday evening December 25. The younger children will speak pieces. The familiar carols will be sung, a Christmas story read and the presents on the tree distributed. All are invited.

A series of three sermons will be given at the Village church during the holidays, beginning next Sunday. The subjects will be as follows: "The Son of Man"; "The Saviour"; "Christ, Our Lord".

At a meeting of the church last Sunday evening, Mrs. Frank T. Mrs. Charles M. Cabot, a Farms summer resident, is much interested in the debate between representatives of the Republican, Democrat and Socialist parties, which takes place next Thursday evening, Dec. 22. The assembly hall of the Farms school has been selected in which to hold the meeting. As Mrs. Cabot is interested in Socialistic principles to some extent, she has secured Councilman Wentworth of Salem to represent that party. Mr. Wentworth at one time was campaign manager of former Gov. John Atgeld of Illinois. The Republican party will be defended by Louis A. Flye of Boston, who was in joint debate a short time ago with Representative Carey of Haverhill, a prominent Socialist. The Democratic party will be represented by Wm. J. O'Donnell, esq., a prominent Boston attorney. All the speakers are able debaters and well versed in the principles of their respective parties. All are invited to attend, which invitation includes the ladies. A large attendance from out of town is expected.

Well Known Beverly Farms Man Dies as Result of Fall From Roof.

Beverly Farms has lost one of her best known and most highly esteemed citizens this week,—James D. Hooper, the well known contractor passing away Tuesday evening at the Beverly Hospital as the result of injuries received from a fall from the roof of a building the same day.

Three men figured in the accident, and two of them, Mr. Hooper and James Tebbetts of Beverly, were injured, while the third man, Austin Brigham, clung to the ridgepole of the Mrs. Samuel J. Foster cottage, where they were working, and was rescued by others who heard his call.

Contractor Hooper, Tebbetts and Brigham went to the Foster house to look up a reported leak in the roof. They had one ladder from the piazza roof to that of the main house and Mr. Hooper had gone up to make suggestions as to repairing the damage to Brigham. Tebbetts was on the piazza roof steadying the ladder but when Mr. Hooper started to come down, the ladder on the sloping and slippery roof lost its footing and despite what Tebbetts could do toppled over, throwing Mr. Hooper to the piazza roof and from there to the ground and carrying Tebbetts from the roof to the ground. Brigham, who was on the roof, called for help and a number who were passing at the time including Dunn's expressman, Joseph Stanwood, Greenlaw, the electrician, Mr. Hooper's driver, Harry Pickett and others rushed to their assistance and the injured men were taken to Mr. Hooper's house where Dr.

W. J. Dougherty was called.

It was seen that both men were severely injured and the ambulance was called and Mr. Hooper and Tebbetts were taken to the hospital. Mr. Hooper was seriously injured and was placed on the dangerous list, death coming just before midnight. He received a number of fractures and internal injuries which together with a shock caused death. Tebbetts has apparently escaped with a severe shaking up and this morning it was said that he had no bones broken.

Mr. Hooper was one of the best known builders at the Farms and conducted a successful business. He was 56 years of age and before going in business for himself twelve years or so ago, he was foreman for the firm of I. and E. H. Ober. He built up a fine business and had many important contracts. He was a former member of the Farms fire department. He was a member of the Business Men's association and of other organizations. He leaves a widow and a large circle of friends to mourn his loss.

Mr. Hooper was born in Rockport where he received his early education and later graduated from French's business college of Boston. He came to Beverly in his early life and entered the employ of the Obers and on the dissolution of that firm started in business for himself and had worked on a great many of the houses on the North Shore.

Although reserved by nature his disposition was one that endeared him to his many friends, and his loss will be a distinct one to the community.

Henry B. Harris will present Ruth St. Denis in a series of dances depicting the religion and customs of ancient Egypt in conjunction with the Imperial Russian Court Bala-laika Orchestra, in selections from the folk songs and famous composers of their native land.

Ruth St. Denis, who appeared last season in her Hindu dances, has selected for presentation this season four dances, founded on the religion and customs of ancient Egypt. The first is a dance entitled "Prayer to the Nile Gods". The second dance is called "The Tambours". The third dance is called "The Mystery of Isis" and is divided into two parts. The fourth dance "The Festival of Ra" is divided into three parts.

Miss St. Denis has in her company some fifty people. The stage settings are elaborate in the extreme and comprise seven large settings. A special orchestra is required to play the incidental music composed specially for the dances by Walter Meyrowitz.

The Imperial Russian Court Bala-laika Orchestra will introduce as its portion of the program the famous folk songs of Russia, in addition to classical selection by famous composers.

H. J. Burke, the Beverly piano man, is making an unique offer. To every purchaser of a piano during the holiday season, he will give absolutely free a high grade, five drawer, drop-head sewing machine of golden oak finish. He has a large line of high grade pianos and for those who desire "terms", the cost is $10 down and $8 a month. His ware-room is at 130 Cabot st., over Rogers & Chase's store.

A political debate is being arranged that will not only be of interest to the Farms voter but to many outsiders. It is hoped to have the debate take place on the evening of Dec. 22, at the Farms School Assembly Hall, the largest heated hall here. There will be three speakers. The Socialist will be represented by Mr. Wentworth of Salem, the Republican and Democrat parties by able speakers to exploit their respective views.

In accordance with his annual custom, John Cannon left the Farms on Monday for Jersey City Heights, N. J., where he owns an estate. He will locate his family there for the winter. They will return here in the spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Willey took occupancy this week of one of the apartments in the J. Albert Mayberry house on Haskell street. Mr. Willey is the prescription clerk at Varney's drug store.

John West colony Pilgrim Fathers, will hold their semi-monthly meeting this evening in Marshall's hall. A special committee has arranged an entertainment and other features. The meeting will be an interesting one. All members are requested to be present. At the first meeting of the colony in January, a Christmas tree and entertainment will be the attraction.

All lovers of dancing should patronize the initial dance and social to be given by the Girls' Orchestra in Marshall's Hall next Monday evening.

The Election.

This ward fell two short of the 300 mark in its vote Tuesday—the first city election under the new charter. Though F. A. Dodge was elected mayor by a substantial majority, Beverly Farms went strong for Mr. Stopford, giving him 124 of the 298 votes cast, and giving Desmond 86 and Mr. Dodge 85. The entire vote for this ward follows:

Election day in ward 6 was a very busy one. Teams and automobiles were impressed into service all day to convey the voters to the polls. Never in the history of the ward has such a large vote been cast, 303 votes. Five women voted.

The various cases of contagious disease here has caused a feeling toward an increase of officials on the Beverly Board of Health so that the Farms can have a representative. Dr. Dougherty is the popular candidate for such a position should the Farms have this request granted.

James T. O'Dea has been spending several days with relatives in Bucksport and Prospect, Maine.

Mrs. Daniel P. Sullivan of Newport, R. I., has been visiting at the Farms this week.

Robert Smith has secured a position at the U. S. Shoe Machinery plant in Beverly.

Oliver Wendell Holmes Council, K. of C., held an interesting meeting Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance of members. Rev. Nicholas R. Walsh, chaplain of the council, gave the first in his series of addresses. He had the close attention of his audience in his dissertation on "Religion, the impelling spirit of Catholic Societies". New officers for the coming year were nominated during the business session. The election of officers takes place Wednesday evening, Dec. 28.

VALUE OF GREAT PAINTINGS.

The shadows on water, hilltops, enshrouded in mists, relieved by the one clear note of a white birch, was one for which Carot has laid me under deep obligation.

One by Dupre, "La Riviere" in cloud effect and pastoral beauty is very fine. Another by Diaz of a dense forest, gemmed by a dark, still pool, with the far prospectus of the opening beyond was the magnet that drew many and merited all the praise it received.

Constable's splendid painting of the "Cathedral of Salisbury" is masterly in detail of execution; in delicate architectural lines, in foliage, and especially in the sky and cloud effects crowning the masterpiece,—a great painting.

The money value of this collection is very great, but what a poor collection it would be if there was no greater value attached to it. A mere half hour's view of such pictures has a value for the physical man. In the morning it would refresh and inspire and in the evening it would recuperate enervated and exhausted forces. In mental values it is beyond calculation in lifting the mind as if on wings to higher realms of thought.

In moral value who can estimate the worth of the work of masters such as Hunt, Angelo, Reubens, Da Vinci, Dore, Tissot, Hogarth, Cole, and others?

Life is full of beautiful, inspiring pictures. God creates natural scenes, God moulds portraits in living souls all around us for our uplift and education and edification. He fills the eye of everyone with glories day and night, but no glory and no good is transferred and transfixed to the soul if the soul eye is blind.

Robbed North Shore House?

"Kid" Howard, the noted dress suit burglar, who is dying at Passaic, N. J., from wounds received in his last job, and his pal, Jean Mitchell, in all probability were the pair who worked at the North Shore summer houses for the last two seasons.

The manner in which this pair worked was identical with that adopted by Howard and his woman friend, and in her confession she acknowledged robbing houses on the North Shore.

The North Shore houses were robbed in the day time, while the families were at lunch or in the early evening when they were at dinner.

Character Lessons to Train Youth

By JAMES TERRY WHITE.

[Copyright, 1909, by the Character Development League.]

VI.—Consecration to Duty.

JAMES T. WHITE.

TO the picnic spoken of in a former lesson there was another little boy invited. He had looked forward to the outing all the week, but when the morning came his mother told him that a neighbor's child was very ill and the mother had asked to have him come over for that afternoon and give him his medicine, as she was obliged to make arrangements to have her boy taken to the hospital. But this was the afternoon of the picnic! Must he give up that? He had been looking forward to the picnic for weeks. It was a struggle. But the little sick boy must have an operation performed at once if his life was to be saved. Somebody must stay with him. There was nobody else to take care of the child. He must do it, and he did it.

Definition.—Consecration to duty is a willingness to do good whenever opportunity offers.

When sympathy is awakened and fostered it quickly realizes that the great world is full of helplessness, ignorance, suffering and crime, and to the heart comes a call to do something toward its amelioration.

The awakened sense of duty may develop in many directions. But the inspiration takes root in the very fiber of the soul, and if that soul has had woven into it the threads of true living it perceives that this service is necessary for its own growth and perfection. Emerson says, "Serving others is serving ourselves."

This duty begins at home in devotion to one's parents and to one's brothers and sisters. The keynote of filial duty should be reverence, for out of the fullness of the parents' love and ministry comes the child's possibilities and opportunities for development. The keynote of fraternal duty should be mutual service and impartial love.

No obstacle, however insurmountable it may seem to the timid or faint hearted, can bar the way of any youth possessed with enthusiasm for high ideals. Phillips Brooks says: "The whole sum of life is service—service to others and not to self. No man has come to his greatness who has not felt in some degree that life belongs to his race." Mary Lyon, founder of Mount Holyoke seminary, used to say: "Go where duty calls. Take hold where no one else will."

There is no condition of life that does not offer opportunities for the practice of this virtue. Let every one, each little boy and girl, resolve to devote some time at least once a week for a visit to some poor cripple or sick person and take a loaf or a flower or simply a smile and say, "I have come to ask if there is anything that I can do for you." Don't leave this until tomorrow. Do it today!

President Woodrow Wilson says: "Duty is a very handsome word, a very handsome thing, but let every man look at it that he comprehend what it really means. It conveys an obligation from within, not merely from without. We have not done our duty, we have not even earned our wages, when we have done merely that which we were obliged to do. We have done our duty only when we have done that which we know completes the service, when we have put the best that was in us into the task, our hearts into the bargain."

The nation owes all homage and will never cease to delight to honor those high bred souls, "dynamos of divine energy," who sacrifice self to duty, and it lays the injunction upon all strong souls, "Go thou and do likewise."

Practice.—Let every boy and girl make it the necessary duty of each day to do some kindly deed or say a kind word to some one in affliction.

Literature.

When love hath satisfied thy heart,
O wakened soul, what is thy part?
Is't for thyself alone to keep?
The Master saith, "Feed thou my sheep."
—J. T. W.

In the strength of the endeavor,
In the temper of the giver,
In the loving of the lover,
Lies the hidden recompense.
—Emerson.

I slept and dreamed that life was beauty;
I woke and found that life was duty.
—E. S. Hooper.

In common things the law of sacrifice takes the form of positive duty.—Froude.

He works with God who works for men.—Heber Newton.

There is only one stimulant that never fails and yet never intoxicates—duty. Duty puts a blue sky over every man—up in his heart it may be—into which the skylark happiness always goes singing.—G. D. Prentice.

"Golden New England".

We have received a copy of an illustrated booklet entitled "Golden New England" by Sylvester Baxter reprinted from and by the courtesy of the outlook magazine and republished by N. W. Harris & Company, bankers, of 35 Federal street, Boston.

It deals with the wonderful expansion of New England cities and their growth through careful study of their industrial development, which means more population, more crops, more transportation, more manufacturing.

"Various potent factors are now at work, each along its own lines, to realize this renaissance of New England.

"New Educational methods are promoting industrial efficiency and the Massachusetts State College of Agriculture at Amherst is taking a leading place in developing the possibilities of the soil.

"The railroads are beginning to appreciate the importance of systematically promoting New England.

Throughout New England luxurious country seats are becoming as typical of the landscape as are the homes of the gentry in the mother country".

These excerpts from the booklet are indicative of the optimistic treatment of the subject.

The complete booklet of which an edition of 40,000 has been published, and 25,000 asked for, can be secured free by addressing the Harris Banking Company at the address mentioned above. All loyal New Englanders either permanent or summer residents should read the article.

A CHRISTMAS PRESENT THAT MEANS SOMETHING.

There is one especially good thing about a Christmas present of The Youth's Companion. It shows that the giver thought enough of you to give you something worth while.

It is easy to choose something costing a great deal more which is absolutely useless, but to choose a present costing only $1.75 that will provide a long year's entertainment, and the uplifting companionship of the wise and great, is another matter. There is one present, however, which does just that—The Youth's Companion.

If you want to know whether it is appropriate or welcome, just visit the home of some Companion subscriber on Companion day.

Do not choose any Christmas present until you have examined The Companion. We will send you free sample copies and the beautiful Prospectus for 1911, telling something of how The Companion has recently been enlarged and improved.

The one to whom you give the subscription will receive free all the numbers of 1910 issued after the money is received; also The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, lithographed in twelve colors and gold. These will be sent to reach the subscriber Christmas morning, if desired.

You, too, as giver of the subscription, will receive a copy of the Calendar.

NORTH SHORE BREEZE

MANCHESTER, MASS., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1910.

SOCIETY NOTES

One of the most brilliant indoor functions of the Boston season in which North Shore society from that city largely participated was Miss Sarah H. Crocker's skating carnival at the Arena, Monday evening of this week for her two nieces, Eleanor and Clara Crocker. The arena was transformed into a forest scene with Christmas trees, holly, laurel, bright blossoms and myriads of lights. Music was furnished by the First Corps of Cadets Band. There were 1500 guests. Supper was served at round tables in buffet fashion.

—x—

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Norman of Boston and Beverly will occupy their Washington residence this winter. It is located on Massachusetts avenue. Last winter Senator and Mrs. Aldrich were its occupants.

—x—

Mrs. Wm. Hooper is registered at the Somerset, Boston, for an indefinite period. She has come into Boston from West Manchester to take an active interest in the debutante functions of her niece, Miss Helen Hooper of Boston and West Manchester.

—x—

Through the courtesy of Eben D. Jordan the Boston Art club will be privileged on New Year's day to enjoy a concert by members of the Boston Opera company.

—x—

George R. White of Boston and Manchester is again the largest individual taxpayer of Boston. Mrs. Larz Anderson is the second, A. Shuman third and Eben D. Jordan fourth. Other North Shore summer residents on the list are Frederick Ayer and George N. Black. C. E. Cotting is the heaviest trustee paying taxes. He is paying on upwards of $60,000,000. Gov.-Elect Foss is ninth on the list.

—x—

The ninety fourth annual meeting of the Widow's Society of Boston was held recently with Mrs. W. Caleb Loring of Boston and Pride's. One hundred and thirty five women passed 60 years of age have been aided through an expenditure of $12,722.50. Mrs. Loring was elected secretary.

—x—

A landscape by William Morris Hunt, the famous painter, who had a studio in Magnolia in its early days as a summer resort, has been presented the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. The donors are pupils and friends of the late artist. The idea originated with Miss Helen M. Knowlton, his favorite pupil and biographer. Miss Knowlton has spent many summers at East Gloucester. The picture cost $8,000. $500 was presented by the museum. The balance was donated by the other subscribers. Among them were Alexander Cochrane, Mrs. James T. Field, Mrs. Robert D. Evans, Mrs. George D. Howe, Mrs. W. Scott Fitz, Mrs. Wm. C. Endicott, Mrs. Charles M. Cabot and others. The recent gift is called "Pine Woods". It is a characteristic example of Hunt's work and possesses perfect unity. The museum is congratulating itself on its possession.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Hon. A. P. Gardner will give a Christmas entertainment and treat to all the school children of Hamilton in Hamilton Town Hall, Monday evening, Dec. 26. Capt. Gardner renews in this respect, a custom of many years standing.

—x—

By the will of the late Bishop Wm. M. N. McVickar of Providence and Pride's Crossing the sum of $10,000 was left in trust for the benefit of Rev. James P. Franks of Salem. On his death the principal will be divided among his three daughters. Eight thousand dollars each were bequeathed to the Misses Franks also. Miss E. C. McVickar is executrix.

—x—

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has designated Baroness Hengelmuller, wife of the Ambassador from Austria-Hungary to the United States, to be "Imperial Royal Lady of the Palace" This gives the Baroness the highest possible rank and privilege at the court. The announcement is one of great interest to North Shore society as the Baroness has been a member of its diplomatic coterie in past seasons.

—x—

Mrs. W. H. Taft has sent out cards for Friday evening, Dec. 30, at 10 o'clock, when she will give a small dance at the White House.

—x—

Patronesses for the Charity Ball to be given at Hotel Schenley, Pittsburg, January 2, include Mrs. H. M. Curry, Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, Mrs. Henry C. Frick, Mrs. Herbert Hostetter, Mrs. John R. McGinley and many other Pittsburg matrons of social prominence who summer on the North Shore.

—x—

Miss Marion McGinley of Pittsburg and Manchester attended the dinner dance of Mrs. William Bacon Schiller at the Pittsburg Golf club last Friday evening given in honor of Miss Edith Anne Rea. Miss McGinley also assisted Mrs. Herbert DuPuy, chairman of the board of the Pittsburg Hospital for children, at the recent tea given at the opening of the new hospital annex.

—x—

The Middlesex Hunt Club members are enjoying the hunt with great zest these winter days particularly Mr. and Mrs. Alexander H. Higginson of Lincoln and Manchester who are adding more trophies to their hunt room at Lincoln.

—x—

At the Scott and Fowles Art gallery, Philadelphia, is on exhibition a portrait of Pres. Taft, which was a commission received by Sorolla y Bastida, the famous Spanish painter, from Mrs. Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati.

—x—

Gardiner M. Lane and family of Boston and Manchester are planning to spend Christmas in Baltimore with Mrs. Lane's parents, Prof. and Mrs. Basil Gildersleeve.

SOCIETY NOTES

Miss Evelyn Curtis of Boston, went over to New York yesterday to pass the holidays with relatives.

The Pomeranian Club of America will hold its bench show in New York City, Jan. 10.

George Gray Barnard, the noted sculptor, late of Paris, is in Boston the guest of his brother-in-law, Eric Pape, of Boston and Manchester. Mr. Pape gave a luncheon in his honor recently.

Clarence Moore, M. F. H. of the Cheevy Chase club, Washington and of Pride's is to lead the cotillon at the hunt ball to be given at the club house Friday, Jan. 6.

The Boston Museum of Fine Arts will open a memorial exhibition of oil paintings, water-colors, drawings and stained glass by the late John LaFarge, next Tuesday, Dec. 27. The public opening will be on Wednesday, Dec. 28. The largest group of works loaned by any owner is that from the private collection of Major Henry Lee Higginson of Boston and West Manchester. Mrs. Samuel D. Warren of Beverly Farms will lend two water-colors. Other lenders are Mrs. S. Park-

Rep. and Mrs. Andrew J. Peters of Boston and Wenham have leased a residence on Hillyer Place, Washington, for the winter.

The South Boston Yacht Club is making a great endeavor to have Pres. Taft as their guest on Feb. 8, when they will hold their reunion. The committee comprises one hundred. The attendance will number more than a thousand.

The last flights of the season by the new type D. Burgess aeroplane were made at the Hammond field, Ipswich, last Sunday. Wm. Hilliard operated the machine. He made two trips of six miles each maintaining an elevation of from 150 to 200 feet, passing over part of the town of Ipswich.

BOSTON OPERA HOUSE

Following is the repertoire for the eighth week of grand opera at the Boston Opera House, and which includes a third appearance of the celebrated Russian Dancers, Anna Pavlova and Mikael Mordkin, supported by their Complete Imperial Russian Ballet of twenty-six.

On Monday evening Dec. 26, the third performance of the season of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" in Italian will be given, with Jelne Korolewicz in the role of Leonora. This will be Mme. Korolewicz's first appearance in Boston; she is a member of the Chicago Grand Opera Co. Giovanni Zenatello, who made such a sensational success on his first appearance as Otello, will sing the role of Manrico. Carlo Galeffi will be Count de Luna, and Maria Gay, will be heard in the role of Azucena. Others in the cast are Grace Fisher, Giuseppe Perini and Ernesto Giaccione. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

Aida by Verdi in Italian will be presented on Wednesday evening Dec. 28th at 7.45 with Carmen Melis as Aida, Maria Gay as Amneris, Zenatello as Radames, Antonio Scotti as Amonasro, and Jose Mardones as Ramfis, others in the cast will be Ruby Savage, Howard White and Ernesto Giaccione. Arnaldo Conti will conduct the performance.

The ever popular opera "Carmen" will be repeated on Friday evening Dec. 30th at 8, with Maria Gay in the title role. Alice Nielsen as Micaela, Florencio Constanino as Don Jose, Dingh Gilly of the Chicago Opera as Escamillo. Others in the cast will be Leo Devaux as El Dancario, Ernesto Giaccione, Carl Gantvoort, Pierre Letol, Bernice Fisher and Anne Roberts. Andre-Caplet will conduct.

At the Saturday matinee, Dec. 31st, at 2, I Pagliacci in Italian will be presented with Fely Dereyne in the role of Nedda, Zenatello as Canio, Galeffi as Tonio, Fornari as Silvio. Others appearing are Ernesto Giaccione, C. Stroesco and Frederick Huddy. Followed by Anna Pavlova and Mikael Mordkin and the Complete Imperial Russian Ballet in various dances.

The popular priced performance at prices from 50c to $2.50 on Saturday evening at 8 will be La Traviata in Italian by Verdi. Alice Nielsen will sing the role of Violetta, Elvira Leveroni the role of Anina, and Anne Roberts will be Flora. Florencio Constantino will sing Alfredo and Ramon Blanchart will be Giorgio. Others in the cast will be Ernesto Giaccione, F. Huddy, Giuseppe Perini, C. Stroesco and Attilio Pulcini. Roberto Moranzoni will conduct.

Poultry Show at Wenham.

For the first time in the history of the Association the fourteenth annual exhibition of the Essex County Poultry Association will be held at Town Hall, Wenham, Dec. 28, 29 and 30.

Attempts were made to secure the Beverly City Hall, where the show has been held for years, but the public property committee refused to rent the hall for the show.

Entries will close on Dec. 27 and the judges will be Charles S. Flanders of Concord, N. H., E. F. Benson of Whitman and A. J. Edwards of Winchester. L. N. Benway of Salem is to be the superintendent of the show this year with L. Perkins of Beverly as assistant.

There will be the usual classes for poultry, water fowl and pigeons and this year there will be a special department for the exhibition of eggs. The association will award usual premiums and a large number of cups and special prizes are offered to the winners in the various classes this year.

Many persons living on the North Shore will feel a deep sense of loss in the death of James D. Hooper of Beverly Farms, who died last week as the result of a fall from a building. All who came much in contact with him, early saw that he was a man who liked his work as a carpenter and builder and took pride in it. He was himself an unusually skilled craftsman, and many were the exquisite pieces of work which came from his hand. His generosity and kind heart, his genial temperament, and his keen sense of humor won him many friends, and he was warmly loved for these traits; but it will be for his manly, upright character that he is remembered and mourned.

DOWN IN THE SOUTHWEST.

First of a Series of Letters from the Odd Places of New Mexico.

(By M. J. BROWN, EDITOR LITTLE VALLEY, N. Y., HUB)

I hadn't been in Las Vegas an hour before a reporter had his semaphore against me and wanted to know what I thought of the city.

I suppose he knew I was a stranger because I wore a black hat and smoked white cigarettes. I told him it was the best town I had seen since Trinidad. He didn't seem pleased, and I asked where I left the trail. But I had said it too soon and there was no use trying to square it. The hotel clerk told me what the bad break was. He said between Trinidad and Las Vegas was a few sand towns, Wagon Mound, Shoemaker and Arriba, and the comparison was not flattering. One must have an open season mind readers' license to please these rival town patriots.

I took a street car as far as it went, then jumped into a Mexican cart and rode several miles into the country. And when I had climbed a sand butte overlooking Las Vegas, I found another traveler had beat me to it. He was an old German from Iowa. We watched a gang of Mexicans and a dredge cutting irrigation ditch down from the mountains, and the old fellow remarked:

"Up in Iowa we pay big money for ditches to carry the water away; down here they spend millions for ditches to bring it in".

The people are land crazy and water crazy. There are irrigating companies, land companies, development companies, co-operative companies—all kinds of companies; some on the square to develop and reclaim the land, others to separate a man from his money.

It seems to me that nature was more wise than man where years ago this part of the country was heaved up to cool off, and wait for land agents and Missourians. From Pueblo south for hundreds of miles there lay millions of acres, as level as a floor and fair to the eye—waiting for a time when crowding men shall devise a means to make them produce. And there these acres lay, wanting but water to make the deep, rich soil produce anything and everything. And when our elbows begin to touch and necessity demands more room and more produce, then will the means be forthcoming.

"All this country needs is water", is the observation you will hear everywhere, and coming from the east end of this dump of a country, where the rain falls on just and unjust every ten days, I can't help but come back at them with the old retort that that is all hell needs.

Men come here in hundreds from the east and middle west attracted by the cheap lands and the Santa Fe's pictorial folders. They come here with a little money to try "dry farming" and they go back with a prairie schooner and sad experience. For over three hundred days in the year the sun beats down, with never a cloud, with never a drop of rain-fall.

But I didn't come here to write you of land values and rainfall statistics.

I left the train here to get the cramps out of a pair of eastern legs and get away from Harvey eating houses for twenty-four hours—a day off to get my appreciation to working for the wonders and ruins of the wierd old places that I will soon visit.

But odd spots and strange people may be found anywhere in New Mexico and Arizona.

Last winter, from the mountain Mexican hamlets south of Toas, I wrote an article of the Penitenties, strange band of self-scourging Flagellants of whom we Americans know so little. For days I was snow bound in the canyons, and I saw them at their pagan rites—and I drank the poison that was intended to stop my investigations.

I had supposed and learned that only in the remote mountain hamlets were these Mexicans allowed to practice their wonderful fanaticism—the most wonderful and awful in the civilized world—but I find that right here in Las Vegas, almost in sight of the brick blocks of American capitalists, this relic of barbarism of the Middle Ages is still practiced, and men who are American citizens, men who serve as jurors and try white men, men who will soon be recognized under a new

The annual Christmas sale for the Boston Infants' hospital was held at the Vendome, Boston, yesterday. Among those in charge were Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Jr., of Manchester and Miss Eleanor Sohler of Burgess Point, Beverly.

George Lee Peabody, fiance of Miss Edith Deacon of Boston and Newport, lies critically ill at his mother's home on the Fenway, Boston. Mr. Peabody and his fiance are well known and popular on the North Shore. The sad news is learned with deep regret by both his friends and those of Miss Deacon.

The New York exhibition of the Westminster Kennel Club will be held at Madison Square Garden, New York, in February. Judges have been chosen from all over this country, Canada and England, where famous dog fanciers reside. Every breed of dog will be exhibited. Entries close Jan. 26. James Mortimer, 801 Townsend Building, 1123 Broadway, New York, is superintendent of the exhibit.

Professor and Mrs. Barrett Wendell and daughter, Edith Wendell, sailed yesterday for an extended visit abroad. During their absence their son, Barrett Wendell, Jr., and wife, (nee Barbara Higginson) are to occupy the Marlboro street residence in Boston.

Plans have been prepared for the construction of a new avenue to the summer cottages at Coolidge's Point and it is probable that a new road will be built there before next season. The entrance to the large colony of summer cottages is now through the avenue on the extreme southern side of the point. It is proposed to build a new road from Summer street, about midway between the present avenue and the junction of Summer and Raymond streets. The road would be nearly half a mile long, and would go across the marsh land, over a picturesque concrete bridge. The present avenue would be used as an entrance to the Coolidge estates.

Maria A. Evans, executrix of will of Robert D. Evans conveys to Charles E. Dow of Boston, and he to Maria A. Evans, 1 1-2 acres land Burgess Point, Beverly; also land in Beverly 55.94 by 129.5 feet; also land adjoining; also 2 acres land Burgess Point, Beverly; also 1-4 acre land Burgess estate.

BANK FOR MANCHESTER NOW AN ASSURED THING.

Sufficient Capital Stock has been subscribed and Preliminary Papers For Charter Filed Today at State House.

We are pleased to inform our readers this week that the efforts being made to establish a bank in Manchester have been successfully met and the bank is now practically an assured thing. All of the $125,000 necessary to start the bank has been subscribed for, and a big share of this amount has been subscribed by Manchester people.

A young man from Torrington, Ct., R. H. Mann, has been working on the project the last fortnight. During the last week more than a dozen Manchester business men subscribed $2500 each and many smaller amounts will be subscribed for before the incorporation goes through.

From information which we have obtained from Mr. Mann this is to be a Manchester institution through and through. It is probable there will be a board of nine or eleven directors. The majority of the board will be Manchester men, and the balance men who are indirectly interested in Manchester, either as summer residents here or otherwise.

The bank will have three departments,—a regular commercial department, such as a national bank; a savings department, and a trust department. It will be known as the Manchester Trust Co.

We will be able to give more definite information as to the future plans of the movers in this project the next week. It is hoped that the bank may be ready to do business within three months. It is not yet decided whether a new building will be erected at once, or whether rooms will be obtained for the present. The former plan seems the more probable, however.

Workmen Elect.

North Shore lodge, A. O. U. W., of Manchester elected officers Tuesday night as follows: Thos. B. Stone, master workman; Senter Stanley, foreman; W. J. Lethbridge, O.; E. W. Stanley, R.; E. S. Manchester Man Receives Offer of Fortune if he Ransoms Russian Banker in Spain.

Charles C. Dodge of the Dodge Furniture Co., Manchester, has received a very generous offer this week from a Russian banker, now imprisoned in Spain. It is the old story that has caught so many in the past. The letter, which is to be handed over to the postal authorities, is as follows:

Madrid, Nov. 20, 1910

Dear Sir:

Although I know you only from good reference of your honesty, my sad situation compels me to reveal you an important affair in which you can procure a modest fortune, saving at the same time that of my darling daughter.

Before being imprisoned here I was established as a Banker in Russia as you will see by the inclosed article about me of many English newspapers which have published my arrest in London.

I beseech you to help me to obtain a sum of $480,000 I have in America and to come here to raise the seizure of my baggage, paying to the Registrar of the Court the expenses of my trial and recover my portmanteau containing a secret pocket where I have hidden the document indispensable to recover the said sum.

As a reward I will give up to you the third part, viz: $160,000. I cannot receive your answer in the prison, but you must send a cablegram to a person of my confidence who will deliver it to me.

Awaiting your cable to intrust you in all my secret, I am, sir,

Yours truly,
Demidoff.

P. S. First of all answer by cable, not by letter.

ARREST OF A ST. PETERSBOURG BANKER.

Charged with Fraud in Russia and Manslaughter in Spain.

Interview of the two Ambassadors.

Some months ago, as our readers may remember we referred in these columns to the great scandal caused, in St. Petersburg, and in Russia generally, by a noted Banker who absconded, leaving a deficit of over five millions of rubles.

The Russian Police sought for him for a long time in vain for it seemed he had not left the least trace of his flight and the continued search over Europe and America proved unveiling.

Yesterday, however a Spanish Inspector accompanied by two officers from Scotland Yard and acting under instructions of the Spanish Ambassador, who had previously interviewed the Home Secretary arrested him on his way from the Hotel where he was staying, to the Steamship office. It seems that it was his evident intention to take passage for New York. From information received by the Ambassador, he had been in hiding in Spain, where he lived with a woman and with his daughter. A few days before arriving in London he had quarreled with another Russian, who was mortally wounded by a revolver shot during the scuffle, and who only lived long enough to denounce his assailant.

In an interview with the Russian Ambassador, it seems that the name he had been using in Spain, and which he gave on being arrested was not his real one, Manasseina being simply an alibi, but after comparing the prisoner with photographs in his possession, the Russian Ambassador recognized him as Alexander Demidoff, the criminal banker who eloped with 5 millions of rubles; he is a native of St. Petersburg, a widower 49 years old, with an only daughter that he left in Spain on escaping from that country.

On being arrested, two of Manasseina's or Alexander Demidoff portmanteaus were seized but although strictly searched nothing but personal effects were found in them, in spite of which, the Russian Ambassador declares that prisoner ought to have several million rubles somewhere.

The Russian and Spanish Ambassadors conferred yesterday evening as to whether the prisoner should be conveyed to Spain or to Russia, and after an interview with the Home Secretary, and in accordance with the extradition treaty of England, Russia and Spain, it was agreed that the prisoner should be conveyed to Spain, to stand his trial for manslaughter, and that only after his trial can the Russian Government ask Spain, through diplomatic channels, for his extradition.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

Supt. of schools John C. Mackin gave an interesting talk before the Manchester Y. M. C. A. boys at their meeting last Friday evening on "Problems of Education", after which the orchestra furnished several selections, and singing was enjoyed. F. Leonard Floyd was appointed reporter. The delegates to the recent convention read very interesting reports. The boys will not meet this evening on account of the holiday season. It is expected that a Harvard student will address the boys at their meeting next Friday evening. A committee of charter members has been formed to consider the matter of initiation. The committee consists of John Carter (chairman), Winthrop Younger, Bernard Tyler, F. Leonard Floyd, and Allen McKinnon.

A Business Course.

Many young men and women at Manchester and along the North Shore who are undecided as to their future course, would do well to consider the great benefits accruing from a term at a Commercial School this winter. A course of ten or 12 weeks in a business college may be obtained at a very small cost and think of the permanent future value to the one taking it. One of the finest business colleges in New England is the Salem Commercial School. We understand that visitors will be welcome at the school all next week. The winter term begins Jan. 2. Think it over!

A GOOD editorial, combining an interesting statement of facts, with a sane conclusion based upon facts, is that published in the last issue of the Saturday Evening Post. Read it:

Within ten years a thousand million tons of coal have been added to the fuel supply of the United States. Of course, the coal was there all along and its existence was long known; but its steam-producing power was so low that it was considered practically worthless.

It was added to our fuel supply by a number of scientific persons who kept on experimenting until they discovered that, if burned in a gas producer, this low-grade coal would yield more power, ton for ton, than the best steam coal when burned under a boiler. Of first-rate coal, four pounds and a half were burned to get a horse-power in steam; of lignite, practically worthless for steam, three pounds and a half to get a horsepower in gas. This fuel supply was created, so to speak, by the hard thinking of comparatively few men in a back room.

Opportunity is what every man who isn't a loafer wants—a store to run, a coal mine to operate. This is merely a Christmas suggestion that the coal mine is in his head if he will look diligently for it.

Through the good work of Chairman Swett of the Board of Assessors nearly a quarter of million dollars have been added to the valuation of the Town of Manchester this week. To be exact $218,400 of valuation has been added to taxable personal property. This means an additional tax this year of $1834.56. According to law any taxable property found by the assessors after their regular assessing work in April may be added to the valuation for assessment between the 15th and 20th of December, and a tax levied upon it.

Harry P. Wills.

The death of Harry P. Wills at the Beverly Hospital last Wednesday morning, was a very sad affair. Mr. Wills came to Manchester about six months ago in charge of an auto owned by Mrs. Perkins, mother of Mrs. William Hooper. He was taken sick with appendicitis a fortnight ago and was carried to the Beverly Hospital, where he passed through a successful operation. He was making splendid progress toward recovery, and on Tuesday evening was able to sit up. He was planning to leave the hospital within a few days. He was taken suddenly that night, however, and died next morning. Death is thought to have been caused by a clot of blood on the lungs.

Mr. Wills was 25 years old. His home was in W. Alexandria, Pa., where his body was taken Thursday for burial. For the last few years, however, he lived in California. It was there he was married not long ago. Mrs. Wills lived with her husband at the Manchester House the last six months.

He was very popular among the young people of the town who knew him, and many are the regrets that are heard of his untimely end.

Parent-Teacher Meeting.

A largely attended meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of Manchester was held Wednesday evening in the Price Primary school assembly hall. After the meeting was called to order by President Mrs. D. T. Beaton and the records were read by Secretary Miss Anne Clark, the meeting was turned over to Supt. Mackin of the program committee.

The Y. M. C. A. orchestra rendered a selection from "Il Trovatore".

Several phases of children's welfare was discussed, the first being by Dr. R. T. Glendenning on what the state does to educate the child. He read the state labor laws bearing on children. He told how the state takes control of the child from the time it is 7 years old until it is 14, and aside from this compulsory school attendance, the state provides the best possible conditions for his welfare in other details, such as compelling vaccination, medical inspection, etc. He said of medical inspection that parents should look at this in the right way, and not be sensitive when their attention is called to any conditions along this line. There is no question but what medical inspection is a great benefit to the child. As soon as the parents learn that the state is doing its best for the benefit of the child they will be less sensitive. He spoke of the need of greater care of the teeth.

Miss Mable Trefry sang very sweetly "Dreaming, I Love You Yet".

Local conditions were very ably set forth by Dr. Blaisdell, who spoke first of Manchester's natural surroundings and regretted the fact that the spoiler has now come in and is cutting down acres and acres of Manchester's woods for personal gain, instead of preserving this natural attraction. The sore spot of the whole town was our lack of sewerage disposal, he said.

He spoke of the necessity of cleanliness, if we are to have the best conditions; next, good food; next, plenty of water; fourthly, plenty of good fresh air, and lastly "moral sewerage". In connection with this last subject he advised a more intimate knowledge of sex relations taught by the parent to the growing child in order to bring about the best result in the upbuilding of society.

The orchestra played a selection from the "American Heiress".

Dr. Tyler then took up the subject of Nutritive Values of Food in which he was assisted in explaining his subject by a chart loaned by the Harvard Medical School professor. He pointed out the respective nutritive values of cereals, fruits, vegetables, eggs, milk, etc., showing the quantity of sugars, fats, water, etc., etc., in each.

Miss Trefry sang "My Silver Bell". A social hour in the Kindergarten room, followed.

In the Kindergarten room was a very interesting display of Christmas work by the pupils of the school, arranged according to grade. This included drawings, cut work, colored work, etc. There is also a silk exhibit in this room, very kindly presented to the school by the Cheeney Bros., manufacturers, of Conn., the exhibit being sent upon the solicitation of Mrs. R. C. Allen. This shows the silk from its web state through the various phases to the finished article.

Joint Installation.

A joint installation of the newly elected and appointive officers of Allen Post 67, G. A. R., and Allen Relief Corps, of Manchester, will be held in the Town Hall, Wednesday evening, Jan. 4, at 7 o'clock. The Post Associates and Camp 149, S. of V., are to be guests on that occasion. Supper will be served in G. A. R. hall from 5.30 to 6.30 o'clock by the W. R. C., to the Post and invited guests. Col. J. F. Dalton of Post 34 will install the officers of the Post, and Mrs. Nettie F. Libby, Dept. Sen. Vice President, will install the officers of the Corps.

Red Men Elect.

Conomo tribe, 113, I. O. R. M., of Manchester, elected officers at their meeting Wednesday evening as follows: John D. Morrison, prophet; Alfred John Cool, sachem; Byron A. Bullock, senior sagamore; Archie Macdonald, junior sag.; Leonard Andrews, keeper of wampum; Edward S. Bradley, collector of wampum; E. F. Preston, chief of records; Henry A. Moulton, trustee. The elective and appointive officers will be raised to their respective stumps on the 4th of January by Deputy Ellison and suite of Lynn.

Tuesday evening a team of Manchester boys bowled against the Salem Y. M. C. A. team in Salem. They made a good showing but were defeated. The Manchester team was composed of Cheever Hersey, George Rust, Sumner Mason, Daniel Reardon and Willard Rust.

Miss Abbie Floyd of Simmons college is home for the Christmas holidays.

Misses Alice and Ruth Herrick are in Everett to spend the holidays with their father.

The Walter Denegres have opened their summer home "Villa Crest" West Manchester, for the holidays.

Mrs. James Cooney has been confined to the house for a number of weeks suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Allen of Boston will spend Christmas with Mrs. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Olsen, Norwood ave.

Town hall was well filled last night when a free illustrated lecture was given under the auspices of Magnolia lodge of Odd Fellows, by James A. Burns, travelling passenger agent of the Cunard Line. His talk was about the development and growth of the Cunard Line, the views thrown on the screen aiding in explaining the points brought out.

G. A. R. hall was the scene of a merry Christmas Tree party last evening, when Allen Relief corps entertained the members of the Post S. of V., and Post associates. All the members of the corps were asked to bring a present for the tree, and the fun can be imagined, when the gifts were passed out to those present. J. S. Reed acted the part of Santa to perfection. A pleasing entertainment program was also carried out and everybody present had a glorious time.

Golden Wedding at Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Kitfield, well-known residents of Manchester Cove, celebrated the 25th anniversary of their marriage last Monday evening, a large number of their friends from in and out of town calling to extend congratulations. They were the recipients of many beautiful presents. Mr. Kitfield, who is a carpenter by trade, is a native of the Cove, where he has resided all his life and has the care of many of the estates in that section belonging to members of the summer colony, by whom he was pleasantly remembered. Mrs. Kitfield is a native of Lowell, which city was also represented. They have four children, Edward, Vera, Roland and Alfred.

To our readers one and all we extend the greetings of the season!

All Christian nations celebrate Christmas, but no two celebrate it precisely alike. The legend varies greatly as to its structure; its patron saint, usually a man, is sometimes a woman. In Russia it is old Dame Babonca who distributes the gifts on her way to Bethlehem in search for the Wise Men and the Christ Child, while in sunny Italy it is Mother Goose who does Santa Claus's bidding. But whether the patron saint be the legendary character seeking the Babe in the manger or the jolly individual who goes about scattering gladness and good cheer, the custom of remembering others with gifts is an essential feature of the observance everywhere, and the varying legends, when traced far enough, always come back to the Christ Child. We observe the day best when in our giving we reproduce the same spirit that promoted the patron saints of the different legends.

The Spirit of Christmas

* * *

I am thinking of you today, because it is Christmas, and I wish you happiness. And tomorrow, because it will be the day after Christmas, I shall still wish you happiness; and so on, clear through the year. I may not be able to tell you about it every day, because I may be far away; or because both of us may be very busy; or perhaps because I cannot even afford to pay the postage on so many letters, or find time to write them. But that makes no difference. The thought and the wish will be there just the same. In my work and the business of life, I mean to try not to be unfair to you or injure you in any way. In my pleasure, if we can be together, I would like to share the fun with you. Whatever joy or success comes to you will make me glad. Without pretense, and in plain words, good will to you is what I mean—the spirit of Christmas.

—Henry Van Dyke.

Christmas Every Day

* * *

Once, long ago, the story runs, the heavens were opened and angels sang, "Peace on earth; good will to men".

Listen! Messengers of God, true-hearted men and women, are singing the same song now in many a quiet place all over the earth.

One child of God, they say, on that first Christmas night looked up into his mother's face and brought a message of eternal love.

A greater thing is true! The same light of the eternal goodness shines in a myriad homes today. It shines not on one day alone; it rises for loving hearts afresh every morning.

One good man, they say, just faithful and friendly, gave his life once for all, centuries ago, for his brothers.

We believe more than this! In every land the brave, honorable, high-minded, modest, and free,—lovers of truth, lovers of men, fearless of death, are living with glad hearts the good life: "Each for all and all for each". There are more of them every day.

Once, they say, God walked on the earth. Men talked with God.

The truth is greater than this! Wherever love is, there God is. When love or duty or truth speaks to any man, there the living spirit of the universe is with him and speaks to him.

One day in the year, they tell us, the world may enter into joy. Let men put away care and fear and be children again. Let them all cease from strife for a day and be brothers.

A new law rises out of the old! Cease from war and strife altogether: Live in peace with all men: Have no enemies: Act at all times as children of God: Treat men each day as we gladly treat men on Christmas; trust the beautiful laws of the universe; turn on the power of the Good Will and see what will happen!

MANCHESTER WOMAN'S CLUB

Miss Alice Bradley of Boston Gives Cooking Demonstration — Serves Very Delectable Chafing Dish Menu.

The Manchester Woman's Club members in generous numbers set aside holiday preparations Tuesday afternoon to be present at this meeting.

The business session was limited to regular routine work. The announcements were in relation to the sale of Christmas seals for the district nurse fund.

The new district nurse, Miss Laura F. Carney, has patients already. She is a graduate of St. Elizabeth's hospital, Boston, and has been actively engaged in nursing for the past 10 years not 25 as previously stated. Therefore she is of the younger school of nurses and versed in all the modern and most approved methods.

Dr. Leon H. Vincent will be the speaker on Jan. 3. His subject will be "Franklin as a Man of Letters". Mrs. Grace K. Beaton will serve as hostess.

Following the business session, Miss Alice Bradley of Boston gave a cooking demonstration. The menu was arranged for the use of the chafing dish. Miss Bradley proved a skilled artisan with ingredients, egg beaters, spoons, etc. When all the delicious salads, puddings and other delicacies were prepared and cooked by the aid of assistants at the table and in the kitchen, the ladies were privileged to sample the following:

Chiffonade Salad, Rochester Salad, French Dressing, Ginger Ale and Fruit Salad, Cream Mayonnaise, Pimiento cheese on Crackers, Custard Souffle, Coffee Sauce, Keswick Pudding and Orange Ice Cream.

In the use of Chiffonade Salad, Miss Bradley suggested that it be used on potatoes, lettuce or cold fish.

In her practical hints and suggestions on the preparation or use of the menu, she called attention to the use of cheese cloth bags in which to put lettuce, parsley or celery in the refrigerator to keep them fresh and crisp.

She also dressed some of the dishes with representations of holly cleverly cut from citron and angelica.

The French Dressing she made in five minutes, a cooking feat.

In the Chiffonade Salad onions instead of shallot can be used.

Miss Bradley also spoke of the helpful use of olive oil to moisten jelly moulds to make them come out in good shape when they leave the refrigerator.

The printed receipts for the salads, desserts and ices demonstrated were on sale. They were generously purchased by the club members, who will doubtless try to duplicate these delicious viands.

Jan. 17, the club will observe "Home Day". The feature will be theatricals. Mrs. Charlotte E. Brown will be manager and Mrs. Catherine Campbell, hostess.

According to the figures filed by assessors with the state tax commissioners there are 17,671 horses in Essex County against 20,000 in 1905, and the "buzz" wagon is held responsible for this big dropping off. Manchester, for instance, had 476 horses in 1905, against 352 this year, a falling off of 124.

"A Representative American Institution"Independent, Enterprising and Always Interesting

A friendly contemporary commenting on The Republican's fine new home completed during the past year said: "The Republican would be great if it was printed in a wooden building on a side street. This is so because it has traditions; it is an institution, serving its far-flung constituency with ever-increasing skill and judgment."

This tersely describes the position of this old New England journal in the newspaper field today. Published Daily, Sunday and Weekly from its modern, well appointed building in the center of growing Springfield's business district. The Republican serves not only its own city, but an ever-widening circle of readers, who appreciate its sane, intelligent handling of the world's news, and impartial comment on men and affairs. It is the best newspaper for you and your family.

All are invited to the Christmas concert Sunday evening at the Village church at 7.30 o'clock.

The celebration of Christmas at Fresh Water Cove will take place Monday evening at seven o'clock. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Samuel Wolff and Mrs. Charles Currier.

The subject of the Christmas sermon Sunday morning at the Village church will be "Christ, The Saviour".

Miss Helen Stanley of Boston was the guest of her mother Mrs. Rufus Stanley the first of the week.

All the members of the Village church should attend the last Preparatory service of 1910 next Friday evening.

Miss Alice Story, Frances Libby and Mrs. Fred Lycett attended the meeting of the Manchester women's club on Tuesday.

Charles Wilkinson resigned his position as manager of the Men's club house for the winter before entering on his duties and the position has been occupied by William McLean. The club house is open to all adults in Magnolia. All under eighteen years of age, however, must bring written permission to attend from their parents, this being the State law.

Arthur M. Lycett left the first of the week for Nova Scotia, where he will spend the Christmas holidays with relatives.

Charles Chane has accepted a position as clerk for E. L. Valentine of Manchester.

Mrs. Annie White of Gloucester was renewing acquaintances in town on Tuesday.

A surprise party was given Marion Scott at the home of Mrs. Teresa Knowles on Thursday of last week, it being the ninth anniversary of her birth. Twenty-four of her young friends were present and a very pleasant time was enjoyed. Refreshments consisting of ice-cream, cake and candy were served.

Henry W. Butler, Jr., has been confined to the house this week with a bad attack of tonsilitis.

An exceedingly interesting and novel affair to Beverly Farms residents was the debate in the school Assembly Hall Thursday evening. It was a three corner debate between excellent orators who were well versed in this respective subjects. They had the closest attention of their hearers. Twenty to twenty-five minutes were allowed for the debate and ten minutes for rebuttal. The addresses were heartily applauded. Mrs. Charles M. Cabot and Miss Elizabeth Perkins, summer residents of the Farms, were the prime movers in arranging the debate. They are especially interested in the Socialistic principles. Councilman Franklin Wentworth of Salem presented the Socialists' argument laying stress on the harm done by the grasping capitalist and the accumulation of individual wealth. The Republican Party was exploited by Louis A. Frye of Boston who ably presented his side of the debate. Wm. J. O'Connell of Boston made a plea for the Democrats. He clearly illustrated their platform, progress, policy and results.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Varney and son, Harold departed today for South Wyndham, Maine. Mr. Varney's former home. They will spend the holidays there.

Mrs. Alexander Carr has recovered from her recent operation sufficiently to receive her discharge from the Beverly Hospital.

Wednesday of this week President Taft sent to the Senate the nomination of Charles D. Brown as postmaster of Gloucester. Mr. Brown has been postmaster at Gloucester for 12 years.

The funeral services over the remains of the late James D. Hooper last Friday afternoon were largely attended. Many neighbors and friends were at his late residence on Hale St., to pay their last tribute to the deceased. The pastor of the Beverly Farms Baptist church officiated. Henry Lefavour sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" and "Face to Face". Interment was at the Central Cemetery in Beverly.

Last Friday evening's meeting of John West Colony, Pilgrim Fathers, had an interesting feature. Under the head of "good of the order", Alexander Campbell spoke upon the duties of a Pilgrim. He introduced into his talk an illusion to the good work of Capt. Reuben E. Grush, who for the past 20 years has served as secretary of the local colony. At the conclusion of his remarks, he presented Capt. Grush with a valuable gold watch and charm. On one side was the insignia of the order. The following was inscribed upon the watch. "Presented to R. E. Grush by John West Colony, P. F. in recognition of his faithful services, as secretary 1890-1910". Mr. Grush was completely surprised. His appreciation of the gift, however, was expressed by sincere thanks. Following the presentation an entertainment was given. Mrs. Lawrence J. Watson, 2nd., contributed several numbers to the program.

Arthur Little, who has sold his estate at Swampscott, will later take up his residence at Beverly Farms. He will occupy his estate known as the "School House". He contemplates making alterations and additions before taking occupancy of it.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Murray of Fall River are at present visiting friends at the Farms.

The Thissel Provision Company had the misfortune to lose a horse on Wednesday.

The feeling that there was still a possibility of contagion from the prevailing diseases here caused the attendance at the local school this week to decrease to just half the regular percentage.

A handsome collection of pipes, all prices, suitable for Xmas gifts, may be found at Peter Gaudreau's shop, in Central square.

At the Farms Baptist church tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock, will take place the annual Christmas tree and entertainment. On Sunday evening the Christmas concert will be given.

The Breeze extends to all its readers a Merry Christmas. It hopes that all will be able to partake of the good cheer that Christmas brings.

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen held Tuesday evening, a recommendation was made by the Finance Committee after a debate of some length. The board passed an order that a total of $2503.12 be paid in full as a settlement of all claims for damage resulting from the Beverly Farms playground. It is that portion formerly owned by the Haskell Heirs, now owned by Mr. Linehan. For some time there has been a contention over the price of this additional land. The city wishes to secure this in addition to the first property purchased.

state as a part of our Union—these men still scourge themselves, flog their naked backs with quirts until the blood drips from their heels; carry loads of cactus and crosses, lie on cactus beds and perform these self-tortures that are incredible and almost unbelievable.

And less than a dozen miles outside of Las Vegas these Mexicans practice their self-scourging today. Out here in the foothills are communities of this strange religious sect, which during the forty days of Lent, perform their barbarities, scourging themselves, running half-crazy through the mountain paths, calling on people to repent, until overcome with pain and exhaustion.

The authorities have long since stopped the crucifixions that were once a part of the rites of these fanatics, but they do not interfere with their little annual tortures, so long as they keep them out where the newspapers can't feature them, and there they exist today.

All of these mountain towns, big enough to have decent hotels, are filled with men and women who come here for what money can't buy at home—health. They come in the first stages of tisis and the third degree of tuberculosis; for cigarette throats and asthma; for hard colds and dissipation. Some come because a fashionable physician has sent them here to sober up and get to eating; some because a specialist has heard this country was a good nerve factory; and some because the white plague has forced them to the ropes and is about ready to count. Of the last class eight out of ten have waited too long. They come here for the last chance, and the chance is gone. The towns force them out into the mountain camps, and there they die.

But enough of this.

Tomorrow I leave for the mountain regions and the Cliff Dwellers ruins up the Rio Grande and Santa Clara, where a people and a civilization lived and perished without ever having seen a white man, leaving behind monuments more wonderful, mysterious and interesting than anywhere else in our country. I will spend days and days hunting out these remote ruins far back from the railroads, and I hope and expect to make the following articles of much interest to we second Ameri-try's wonderful museums hidden down here in the dry lands.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE YOUTH'S COMPANION.

We have had to make The Youth's Companion larger to get in all the good things that Companion readers ought to have. The added amount would make four hundred pages of standard magazine size and print; but we have kept the price just the same—$1.75 for the fifty-two weeks of 1911, and all the issues for the rest of this year free from the time you send in your subscription.

We would like to tell you what in in store for Companion readers next year. We cannot do it here, though; there is not room. But send us your address on a postal card, and we will send you the beautiful Prospectus of The Companion for 1911, announcing many new features, together with sample copies of the paper.

We think you will agree, when you have read them, that there is no other paper that gives quite so much of such a high quality as The Companion.

The new subscriber receives a gift of The Companion's Art Calendar for 1911, reproducing in twelve colors and gold a beautiful water-color garden scene.

Character Lessons to Train Youth

By JAMES TERRY WHITE.

[Copyright, 1909, by the Character Development League.]

VII.—Usefulness.

JAMES T. WHITE.

EVERY one in the world is bound to the world of men and women, outwardly by obedience and inwardly by love and sympathy, and growing out of this is another obligation fully as important, which is usefulness.

The first demand of usefulness is to do one's work in the world, whatever it is, in the best manner possible; otherwise the great work of society and of the world cannot go on. Every one has his part. Each is as necessary as a cogwheel in machinery.

The great interrogation point of this country is, "What can you do?" Knowledge must be converted into faculty. A college course is not an education; it is only the beginning of an education. The college is primarily a discipline, a mental gymnasium; but, other things being equal, a college man as a business man will outmatch one who has not received that mental training. President Charles F. Thwing says a college education stands for investment of power. The ability to think clearly, largely, truly, and the power to will promptly, firmly and with a large intelligence represent an enormous return from a college education.

A confidential man became jealous of a new clerk to whom his employer had just given a raise in salary, exceeding his own. He went to his employer and said, "Are you not satisfied with my work and my faithfulness?"

"Oh, yes," was the reply.

"Why, then, do you give this new man more salary than to me?"

Instead of replying to the question the grain dealer said: "Do you see that load of grain going by? Run out and see to whom it is going."

The confidential man returned and said it was going to Wilson's place. "Run out and find out what they got for the grain." He returned and said 85 cents per bushel. "Run out and find out if Wilson wants any more." He returned and said, "Yes, he wants another carload."

At this moment the new clerk came in and the grain merchant repeated to him his first instruction: "Run out and see where that load of grain is going." In a few minutes the new clerk returned and said, "The grain is going to Wilson's; they are paying 85 cents per bushel and want another carload." The merchant, turning to the confidential man, said: "You have your answer. It took you three trips to find out what this man learned in one." The new clerk had wit enough to know that the merchant did not care about where the grain was going, but if there was a probability of supplying some of the demand and upon what terms.

For children, the preparation for usefulness in the world is to be ready to help in household duties, to lift the burden from the tired mother, to give attention to what is needed to be done in the daily round of life and volunteer to help before being asked. Be alive to every need and quick to help! Get into the habit of doing things for others. Make it a rule with yourself to have "nimble fingers, heart and hand that work together, feet that run on willing errands."

CHARLES F. THWING.

Marshall Field's instructions to his employees is an admirable summary of usefulness:

"Do the right thing at the right time and in the right way; do some things better than they have ever been done before; work from reason rather than from rule; know both sides of a question; be enthusiastic; work for the love of work; 'do it now;' anticipate requirements; master circumstances; eliminate errors—in short, strive toward all those ideals which, if they really were carried out, would make this world a place where competition would be useless."

Practice.—Let each child go home with the determination to do something today—to help mother.

Literature.

If time be heavy on your hands,
Are there no beggars at your gates
Nor any poor about your lands?
Oh, teach the orphan boy to read
Or teach the orphan girl to sew.

—Tennyson.

Be ashamed to die until you have won some victory for humanity.—Horace Mann.

When a man dies they who survive him ask what property he has left behind. The angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him.—Koran.

Whatever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might.—Ecclesiastes.

The world desires to know what a man can do, not what he knows.—Booker T. Washington.

Heaven will never arraign him for what he thinks, but for what he does.—Goldsmith.

A REVIVAL OF COLONIAL JEWELRY
Illustrations actual size. Stones all genuine.
These two pages carry us back to colonial times when seed pearl sets were so much used and many of our great grandmothers prized these as their bridal gifts. The solid front of pearls without any gold showing gives an elegance possible only to this type of jewelry. Our pearl ropes are of unusual value, as our facilities for purchasing pearls make it possible for us to give you fine quality pearls at a very low price. We repair and remodel seed pearl jewelry and will cheerfully furnish designs and estimates on request.
In colonial times every lady possessed a cameo brooch and many of these have descended to the present generation. These we make a specialty of resetting. We also show some finely carved cameos already mounted at unprecedented low prices.

SOCIETY NOTES

More than 400 school children in Hamilton were given a double demonstration of good will and thoughtfulness by summer residents. Congressman A. P. Gardner entertained them Christmas afternoon (Monday) and in the evening Mrs. Hugo R. Johnstone played the role of "My Lady Bountiful". Both entertainments were given in the Town hall. Professional entertainers gave excellent programs. Every guest received gifts of candy, fruit, toys and other remembrances of the season. The children were delighted by the favor shown them.

Wolcott Tuckerman of Boston and Ipswich served as best man at the wedding in Washington Dec. 28, of Walter R. Tuckerman of Washington and Edith Abercrombie Miller. The ceremony was performed at Grace Church at noon.

—x—

A marble bust of Giuseppe Verdi, the great Italian composer, was presented the Boston Opera house Wednesday by the Boston branch of the Dante society. Cavaleri Rocco Brindisi, president of the Dante society of Boston made the presentation speech in English. He was followed by Gaetano Emilio Bocardi, Italian consul at Boston, who spoke in his native tongue. Eben D. Jordan, president of the Boston Opera Company, accepted the bust. Henry Russell in Italian eulogized Verdi. The bust, which stands about six feet high, will be placed between the two doors of the palm garden opposite the entrance to the boxes.

Miss Helen Taft and Robert Taft were guests of honor at a large dinner party Monday evening at the home of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Mrs. Nagel.

—x—

Previous to his departure last Sunday from St. Petersburg, Emperor Nicholas, Czar of Russia, gave an audience of fifty minutes to John Hays Hammond. Mr. Hammond outlined his plans, which he and his associates have for the investment of American capital in Russia. The Emperor and ministry were favorably impressed. Mr. Hammond interviewed Premier Stolypin also. Last Friday evening he was the guest of honor at a dinner given by American Ambassador Rockhill. Last Saturday night, Financial minister Kokovsoff gave a dinner in his honor.

—x—

The Vice President and Mrs. Sherman were dinner guests of Mrs. Levi Z. Leiter of Washington and Beverly Farms recently. The guests included Ambassador for Austria-Hungary and Baroness Hengelmuller, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. MacVeagh, the Attorney General and Mrs. Wickersham, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor and Mrs. Nagel, the minister from the Netherlands and Mme Loudon, Senator and Mrs. Wetmore, Senator Kean, Secretary to the President and Mrs. Norton, Dr. and Mrs. Randolph, Mrs. Hope Slater, Miss Kean and Mr. Low and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter.

Miss Helen Taft was the recent guest of honor at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McClintock of 19th St., Washington.

SOCIETY NOTES

The engagement of Richard H. Dana, Jr., of Cambridge, New York and Manchester, whose mother was Edith Longfellow, daughter of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, the poet, is announced. His fiancée is Miss Ethel Nathalie Smith, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Cornelius Bishop Smith, D. D., of New York. Mr. Dana is a Harvard man, class of 1901. He studied architecture at Columbia for 3 years. Later he took a course at the School of Fine Arts, Paris. He is a member of an architectural firm in New York also a lecturer on architecture at Yale. Miss Smith lives at 101 West 68th St., New York. She summers at Northeast Harbor, Me. She is an accomplished pianist and active in charity work.

Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Bigelow and daughter, Elizabeth of Boston and Manchester are planning to spend a portion of the late winter in Europe.

Tuesday evening the Benedicts' Ball took place in Horticultural hall, Philadelphia. Henry Pratt McKean of Philadelphia and Pride's was a member of the committee of arrangements.

Mrs. S. Parkman Blake of West Manchester and Washington B. Thomas of Pride's have loaned pictures and works of art by the late John LaFarge now being exhibited at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts.

Bryce Allen of Boston and Beverly Cove was among the members of the Canadian club who witnessed the hockey contest at the Boston Arena last evening (Thurs. Dec. 29.) The contest was between the hockey teams of St. Michael's University and the Boston Hockey Club. Governor Foss was also present.

Miss Alice Fisher, the actress, who spends a portion of each season at Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester, is due in Boston the week of Jan. 2, as leading lady in Percy Mackaye's, "The Scarecrow".

She Takes Great Interest In Her Work.

In connection with a picture of Miss Mabel Boardman of Washington and Manchester, sitting at her desk, at the Red Cross Association headquarters, last Sunday's Globe said the following:

"Few women engaged in the broad charitable works of contemporary life are better known or more highly esteemed than Miss Mabel T. Boardman. She is back again at her desk at the headquarters of the National Red Cross association in the war department building, Washington.

"It is here daily that she carries on her self-imposed task of aiding in the direction of the affairs of this humanitarian organization, one which has the world for its field. The position pays no salary. Miss Boardman took the place primarily not for pay but because she saw the possibilities it offered for good, substantial work. A sister-in-law of Senator Crane and enjoying a warm friendship with the Tafts, she is rich in her own right.

"Miss Boardman, it will be remembered, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Taft on that now famous oriental trip. The party arrived in Japan just after the campaign of Manchuria and her experiences at the Red Boardman that she at once confided to Mr. Taft her desire to get in active touch with this utilitarian body.

"Mr. Taft was successful in securing her a place on their return and she has since been honored by King Victor Emmanuel of Italy because of her loyal and active work at the time of the Messina calamity.

"Miss Boardman is a frequent visitor during the summer to Beverly. Last season she had entire charge of Mrs. Taft's visiting lists at the capital. At Washington she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Boardman, in Dupont circle.

"The National Red Cross will doubtless swing into line with the plans of the Carnegie peace fund commission and lend every possible aid toward the furtherance of its noble ends".

Cards to Summer Visitors.

The Gloucester Board of Trade is keeping up its publicity campaign, following along at intervals new lines which will be of benefit to the whole community. The latest is in the form of a New Year's greeting. It is a three fold card, on the center panel of which appears the words, "Gloucester, Massachusetts, the place you come back to".

On the top fold a fine picture of the Gloucester Yacht Club landing, with a fleet of yachts in the distance, and on the lower panel a view of the westerly end of Crescent Beach, Magnolia, with Kettle Island in the distance.

On the outside folder appears this announcement, "New Year's greeting from Board of Trade, Gloucester, Massachusetts, 1911".

The card is issued by the publicity committee of the Board of Trade, and 1,000 of them have been sent out to summer visitors in various parts of the country.

Classified Advertising rents rentable property quickly—and makes all good property "rentable."

Why Its Circulation and Influence Increases.

The persistent aim of the makers of the Boston Transcript is to conduct a newspaper fair to all, assuming that every story has two sides, each having rights to be respected. Nowadays a daily paper that is clean and wholesome in its news columns, and at the same time instructive from a literary point of view is not to be found in every city. Such a paper wherever found should be preferred to all others. In Boston, the Evening Transcript has the circulation of character. It is universally understood to be the best family daily in that city. It has been published with the same policy—in fact, by the same family—for eighty years. This paper is the only one in Boston that a man may take into his home with absolute certainty that it contains nothing that he would not have his wife and children see. If you want a clean, able, fair minded paper send for sample copy.

Literary Society.

At the Story High school, Manchester, last Friday the following Christmas program was presented by the Literary society:

Oral composition, Christmas Customs, Hester Rust; recit., Christmas of 1888, William Walsh; recit., The Christmas Spirit, James Gillis; comp., Mollie's Christmas, Marion Spinney; violin solo, Melody in F, Allen McKinnon; recit., English Customs, Charles Marsh; comp., the Christmas Tree, Katherine Shea; Christmas Hymn, Ruth O'Brien; recit., The Yule Customs, Louise Walsh; Christmas Carmen, Gordon Crafts; oral comp., Rhetorical Exercises, Winthrop Younger; piano solo, La Fleurette, Beatrice Long. Margaret Gillis, critic.

THE CLIFF DWELLERS OF THE PUYE.

Wonderful Homes of a People and Civilization in Our Country Before Our History Commenced.

(By M. J. BROWN, EDITOR LITTLE VALLEY, N. Y., HUB)

In the evening of this golden November day I sit at the foot of the cliffs and watch the sun bid good night to a deserted city—sit here and see its last rays fall athwart the city of the dead, the Home of Great Silence, and in speechless awe I wonder what I can write that will convey to you what I feel.

Here is where time forgets and nods, and where the milk bottles are not put out. Here in the unknown centuries before the landing of Columbus a great city thrived; here thousands of people lived and wore out antiquity before a white man's foot ever touched America.

And I sit here and look up at the crumbling walls, look up at the deserted bee hives, and ask, "Whence came you, and whither went you?" But no answer comes back from this city unpeopled and still.

And like a pygmy I look up, wonder, and try to catch the time of what I see. I try to get back to days when civilization wore swaddling clothes in these cliff cities of the Santa Clara, and I try to see these men as they were before they turned back to dust—to see these men who lived here countless generations ago and then disappeared from the face of the earth, without having seen a white man's face.

And while I look and wonder, the sunset changes from red and gold to darkness, and this mysterious old country is hid for the night, and I think and think, of the steps of these far dim days of the past to the present time—think of the stone, the spear, the bow, the sword and the gun.

And there comes into memory these lines—

"A fire mist and a planet,
A crystal and a cell;
A jelly fish and a saurain
And caves where the cave men dwell;
Then a sense of law and duty,
And a face turned from the clod
Some call it Evolution
And others call it—God.

I met a maginze man in Santa Fe who was just back from the grand canyon. He went there to describe it, but he told me there was no such thing. And I feel as this man did—that these Cliff Dwellers of the Santa Clara are not of this world—not for an Eagle lead pencil No. 2.

But to get back to it all. I will try to start you at the beginning, lead you to it—and then you guess.

I went to Espanola Monday—a little mountain town up the Rio Grande from Santa Fe—a town which now has two stores and two near-hotels, and which lives in the reputation of former greatness, of once having had thirteen saloons, a company of forest rangers and a lot of historic trouble.

The town was full of people and excitement and I couldn't make it out. As a part of the treatment I had cut out the morning newspapers since leaving Las Vegas, and the last I knew of current events was that the house was Democratic and Roosevelt a Jim Jefferies.

I went to the livery barn and told them I wanted a team, a guide and a camp outfit for the Cliff Dwellers. But there was nothing doing along these lines, and no outfits to be had. There was an Indian uprising—a genuine old rebellion against the white man's way of justice.

You who read the press dispatches on and after November 15 saw the meagre details of the troubles here; you who did not may call this another of Brown's bromides and forget it.

Just what the issues are it is difficult to get the straight of, but as I grasp it the government at Washington leases range to the Mexicans, and the few white men who have reasons of their own for living here. But water is as scarce as society and cattle must drink. So the cattle were driven onto the reservation for water and the Pueblos had it figured out that they wouldn't longer make a Coney Island of the Santa Clara river, and as fast as the cattle were driven on, they rounded them up. The consequence was the cowboy and the gun. The Indians were armed with Winchesters and civilization and this with possession made a bad game to go up against. Well, there was a few days of nervousness and dispatches to Washington and then the driver and I thought we would take a chance.

Wednesday morning we started. One of the men in the mercantile company in Espanola, who I had struck up a talk friendship with, stopped our rig, and warned us not to tote a gun or carry booze. There were three of us in the rig—myself, the driver, and an old man, who claimed to be manager of a grant, which Pennsylvania politicians had claim to. We assured him there was nothing in our outfit but what a mothers' meeting would sanction, and we "dragged it".

A half dozen miles out we were held up—held up by a lone mountain Indian police—but he had a Winchester, and he looked game.

He went through our baggage and searched our clothes. I don't know where he got his authority to do custom duty, but I didn't question, and I have been unable to learn since. I had a suit case. He took it out of the rig, opened it, shook out the trousers and the underwear and went through the corners of the grip. Then he turned up the buggy seats and shook our robes. After which he evidently thought we were elibible to visit an Indian reservation that has 30,000 acres and about thirty people.

But Lo lost out in the discard—as he always loses when he goes up against the white man's game.

When we stopped for lunch at noon, the ranchman untied the bag of oats and brought out a quart bottle of "Cedar Brook bourbon, brewed in Kentucky, by gosh"—at least I took his word for it.

I learned afterward that the smuggle was dangerous, and that had a bottle or gun been found we would have been waiters until a next federal court—and they come about once a year.

There's as much tape connected with getting through to the Puye Cliff Ruins as there is seeing your home congressman at Washington during the session. Next came the station of the Indian farmer, the man who passes something that sounds like a civil service, and who lives out in this disolation and a tent. He gets $60 per, a horse and a tent and is supposed to teach the untutored red man to make bricks without straw—teach him to farm a messa where frijole beans wither up and die like geraniums would in the Sahara desert.

And there are no Indians to teach. Hundreds of years ago the Indians learned what the powers at Washington have not yet learned, that crops can't be raised without moisture, and these thousands of acres of reservation are no more to them

SOCIETY NOTES

Sir John and Lady Harrington (Grace McMillan) have sailed from England for this country, to pass the rest of the winter with Lady Harrington's mother, Mrs. James McMillan, in Washington. They are expected to arrive in New York Saturday.

The W. L. Putnams have been spending part of the holiday season at their estate on Smith's Point. A large squash court is being built at the estate this winter.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Abbott came to West Manchester Wednesday and were joined yesterday by Mrs. Abbott, and the whole family will be at the Borland cottage for the week-end.

The S. V. R. Crosbys came to West Manchester several days ago to spend the balance of the week, and the Pierpont Morgan, Jr., children, who are on from New York for the holidays, are also here with the Crosby children, their cousins.

Miss Clara Winthrop has been keeping open house at her attractive bungalow on the Winthrop estate at West Manchester, during the holiday season. Last Saturday afternoon she gave a Christmas tree party for the boys and girls of the neighborhood and some of the choir boys from St. Mark's, Boston, were down for the occasion. Monday afternoon she gave another party to which some of the older folk were invited, and some of Miss Winthrop's friends from Boston were also on hand. Santa Claus in the personage of Miss Alice Thorndike arrived at the bungalow in latest style, landing on the roof of the cottage from his aeroplane, presumably, for as Miss Winthrop and her guests emerged from the large barn at the foot of the hill, Santa Claus with his conventional pack was seen on the eaves of the house preparing to enter either through the chimney or by a dormer window. There were gifts for everybody and a very appetizing collation was served. A most enjoyable feature was the singing of Christmas carols by a half dozen choir boys from St. Mark's. Miss Fitz, Miss Lyman, Miss Curtis and Miss Thorndike have been among those entertained at Miss Winthrop's bungalow this week.

Elect that man to office who has the courage to be decent and honest when nobody is looking.

The Christmas season was most fittingly observed at the Manchester churches again this year, special Christmas tree exercises being held for the entertainment of the children of the Sunday School on Saturday evening, and on Sunday the pastors of the Baptist and Congregational churches preached appropriate sermons.

At the church Sunday morning there was special music by the choir. The pulpit and rostrum was simply but prettily decorated. The pastor, Rev. L. H. Ruge preached a very helpful sermon on "The Heavenly Host", an abstract of which will be found on another page.

church Saturday evening there was a large gathering of the members of the Bible School for the annual Christmas tree and entertainment. The room was very prettily decorated in Christmas colors. A large tree occupied a position in the front of the room, but there was no Santa Claus to distribute the gifts to the children, so Mrs. C. E. Brown told the children a story of the Vacant Christmas, and a group of little girls, dressed to represent various countries, distributed the presents. There was also recitations and chorus singing on the program.

At the Sunday morning service Rev. Theodore Lyman Frost, the pastor, preached on "Christmas Tributes", his text being: "We saw His star in the east, and are come to worship Him". He said in part:

“Christmas is a time of hustle and hurry. The children are looking forward to it and the expressman comes with mysterious parcels. At last the day comes and we find out what the presents are. But at this time if we fail to give to the Son of God, who gave himself to us, we are missing the very best in Christmas.

“I will speak this morning on Ancient Tributes, Modern Tributes and Our Tributes to the King in Heaven.

“Nature offered tribute to the Son of God when he came into the world. In heaven above shone a brilliant star. Some claim the star of the east to be a conjunction of the planets; in vain we seek for a natural interpretation for the star of the east. It was a special message from God himself, in nature, to herald the birth of his only begotten Son. The star of the east was in fact a tribute to Christ.

The pastor, Rev. T. L. Frost preached an able sermon on "Christmas Tributes". An abstract from his sermon will be found in another column.

At the Sacred Heart church Sunday appropriate observance was made of Christmas. At the Low Mass at 8.30 the children's choir sang for the first time and was such a delightful feature of the service that the hope was expressed that the choir be made a regular feature. At the High Mass at 10.30 Rev. Fr. Sullivan preached an eloquent Christmas sermon. There was special music by a large choir. In the afternoon at 2.30 the children of the parish gathered at the church for the Christmas festivities, at which time gifts of various kinds were distributed to all.

serve a Roman government; a man cruel, crafty and cunning. When report came the king was startled. He pretended to be interested. In reality he was murderous. How is this a tribute to Jesus Christ, the King of Heaven? Wherever there is a counterfeit, there is something genuine behind it.

“There is the tribute of indifference. The Chief Priests came to Herod and said Christ was to be born in Bethlehem. They were very accurate in their knowledge of his birthplace, but were too indifferent to verify these facts and see if Jesus really was born. Yet their indifference was a great tribute to Jesus.

“Then there was the tribute of the angels. The angels came when Jesus was born. They knew Jesus before his birth; they were his angels and no wonder they were interested and sang praises to God. One came saying ‘I bring you tidings of great joy’. Then a multitude came. How wonderful! How many lives are blessed as they listen to the angels’ song of Bethlehem.

“The tribute of the toilers! The toilers in this world have always been among the first to pay tribute to our King. These shepherds had their flocks to look after, yet they

"The Heavenly Host"

Subject of Christmas Sermon by Rev. L. H. Ruge at the Congregational Church, Manchester

It is the dusk of an average day of earth's busy scene. The humdrum activities have quieted down in the camp of the shepherds. The sheep are huddled down together in the fold for the air is chill, the cold nights have come down over the Judean hills. The gentle slopes are asleep in these memorable, historic places where David kept his father's flocks.

It is an ordinary night to all appearances, just like countless other nights that have thus come and gone, but this night becomes the turning joint of the ages. It splits the centuries into the old and the new.

Afar off a radiance appears in the skies and a strange sound of celestial choirs floats faintly in the air.

An old man among this group of reclining shepherds, muttering a prayer or crooning over a new litany from the synagogue service, sits up and looks and listens and wonders. He shakes a sleeping comrade by the shoulder to look. Soon the whole company of shepherds are on their feet watching in awed amazement this wondrous phenomena in the skies.

The sombre and silent night has now become a blaze of glory and vocal with the chanting of celestial choirs. And never did the world need this message of hope more, of peace and good will, in any period of its history, than when the angels chanted the "Gloria in Excelsis" that night in the skies.

It is about here however that we dismiss the whole subject of the angels from our mind. In all the sermons preached upon the Christmas theme the angels figure only in flights of oratorical fancy.

Plato and Philo wrote about angels, but our philosophers have given it up. Clement and Augustine thought much about angels, but we think very little about them.

The Bible refers to the angels between two and three hundred times. It even gives us some positive pictures of them and matter-of-fact accounts of them, and yet they are in a realm of the unknown to us. Many paintings, some famous, have beautifully depicted this wondrous scene in the sky, but almost wholly allegorically.

The story of the heavenly host is told in fanciful tales and in poetical figures. The whole idea of angels seems to be modernly relegated to the realm of fairyland. So shadowy has become this celestial choir that its reality never comes to us. It is a fanciful setting for the children and in the class with Santa Claus.

If angels were real to the ancient seers and recorded in sacred history in a matter-of-fact way, why are they no longer real and matter-of-fact to us?

Because, says the supereilious scientist and egotistical scholar, we are wiser today.

Are we? Who among our profound modern seers has searched the universe to its remotest bounds and found it uninhabited? Who among the greatest scholars even has had a view beyond the vale and found it lifeless and silent? Perhaps, most likely, we are only more insensible to heavenly realities and boast ourselves of a folly which we mistake for wisdom. We do this daily in temporal affairs, then why not even more so in spiritual affairs. Isaiah speaks of wise men being turned backward and of their knowledge made foolish. And Paul was an expert in analyzing the vanity of the world's wisdom when he said the "foolishness of God is wiser than men" and "the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God". That indicates just about how wise we are today.

There is a vast difference between mythology and angelology. Every conception of the celestials outside of the Bible is grotesque and hideous, with multiplicity of heads and eyes and hands and feet, that remind us of the dreams described as floating in the stifling atmosphere of an opium joint or of those things the alcohol sot sees in his fearful visions. Every nation but the Jews, and they were tainted with it at times, had a fearful folklore such as still exist in Asia and elsewhere. A mythical zoology inhabited earth and water and sky, and almost all of these were represented as malignant creatures, comprising a Polytheism before which humanity cringed in abject fear, and these peasant shepherds, tainted with heathen mythology and superstition, feared when they saw the angels, for all the world feared the celestials.

How absolutely different is the Biblical story and conception. The moment you step from the pages of mythology to the Bible you step into an entirely different universe. In what striking contrast are these benignant servants of God and man. From Genesis to Revelations the angelic idea is neither derived nor derivable from either Arabia or Assyria. Angels are creatures that excite our reverence, admiration and love.

It is both manifestly unjust and unscientific to put angelology in the class with mythology.

Even the wings depicted upon the angels are a mediaeval imagination. Not a word in the Bible can be scientifically interpreted to mean winged creatures.

For five centuries after Christ, and even longer, we still find no wings ascribed to the angels.

It is told that an Egyptian poet originated the idea of the feminine creatures with wings and so mediaeval and modern art portrays them and the pretty, oriental fancy clings to us.

The Bible speaks of the Angels as "like unto men". Michael and Gabriel are like great broad-shouldered men. The servants of the Almighty are great and mighty beings, created for the mighty universal work of creation.

Fleetness and power of movement and action are ascribed to them. They travel swifter than a ray of light, swifter than the electric current that quivers simultaneously at the ends of a wire that circles the globe. They out-speed a thought. The astronomers thought vaults from the earth to the frontiers of infinitude in the fraction of a moment; then how much faster does an angel speed his thought?

Wings are no symbols of celerity for these celestial creatures that ride upon the thoughts of the Almighty. They would never get anywhere if they had nothing better than wings to take them there.

They are countless in number. John saw one hundred million in one multitude alone.

They are deathless. Stars and Solar systems burn out but their radiance never wanes. They are the heirs of planetary splendor. Who owns the garden you plant and hedge about, the butterfly that flits from flower to flower? Who owns this earth, the principalities and powers that are deathless, or the human butterflies of a day?

They are the servants of the Almighty. They were created for his universal work and the electric flash that purifies the stagnant atmosphere may be the mere touch of one of these mighty ministers of the Lord. Let us unite then our human powers with the powers of the angels in the universal and eternal work of God.

They are the servants of humanity. They hovered over the forlorn Jacob in his lonely mountainside slumbers. They showed poor, persecuted Hager where she could fill her water-bottle in the desert. They shut the mouths of lions for Daniel. They fed Elijah the prophet. They inspired a great hope in Mary's heart. They sang at the Savior's birth, succored him after the fast in the wilderness, and legions were at his call on Calvary. They stirred the pool at Siloam for the suffering sick. They struck off chains and opened prison doors for the apostles. They helped and inspired Paul. And how often their sympathies and strength are stirred in our behalf who can tell?

Therefore they sang at the Savior's birth. They rejoiced in man's redemption. Someone has said that music is the language of the celestial world. Then all human song and attempts at singing is the struggle of the infant soul to learn the language of heaven.

The songs of the celestial realm are the climax of music. We have the glorious words of that song but not the score. Earth's greatest musicians have tried to catch within their soul that music and write that score. They have thus been inspired to compose some divine strains, but that score is still sung only in the celestial realm.

If there is a spiritual life beyond what more logical than that the spirits of the just made perfect shall unite their music with the celestial choir? They sang of a Redeemer then, they now sing of a Redeemer and a redeemed race.

"Oh Christmas, merry Christmas! 'tis not so very long Since other voices blended with the Carol and the song.
If we could but hear them singing as they are singing now,
If we could but see the radiance of the crown on each dear brow,
There would be no sigh to smother, no hidden tear to flow,
As we listen in the starlight to the 'bells across the snow?'"

CHRISTMAS TRIBUTES.

left all. No business so important we cannot afford to leave all to find Jesus! No haste too rapid to be used in finding Jesus!

"The tribute of faith is seen in the tribute of the Wise. The earth's wise men came and knelt at his feet; they came and laid their learning at Jesus feet. A beautiful tribute—a two-fold tribute,—themselves in worship, and then they spread before Him the most costly of gifts.

"All of these were ancient tributes. Now let us look at the modern tributes.

"Does the 20th Century lack in tribute to the new-born king. No longer special stars, but our age is rich in wonders, rich in tributes to our king. There is the tribute of unbelief. Civilization is full of the Christmas spirit. Men and women who do not believe in our Lord, and do not confess him, must believe because they celebrate Christmas. Men who are indifferent to religious service of God seek to gladden the hearts of child and friend. The fact is they pay tribute to the King of Kings and Lord of Lords. Let us thank God for the good will they display toward their fellow men. There is something even in unbelief.

"The churches of God from various pulpits are proclaiming today that Jesus came into this world. The rich and poor alike are hearing the same message of God. The missionaries are offering a tribute to the king by leaving their homes for foreign shores. Jesus came for every man, that every man who will may come. There are many benevolences at Christmas. The secret of all this is that God came and laid his gift upon the straw in the manger.

"The most important question is: What tribute are we bringing? First, the tribute of ourselves. The wise men gave themselves first. What the world needed was not God's gifts, but the giver. So Jesus became God's unspeakable gift to the world. So we can give ourselves as living sacrifices and they will be accepted in his sight. God does not want our money first, he wants ourselves. Then God wants our gifts as our second tribute. Give ourselves first, then what we have and what we are is given to him: Ourselves in loving obedience, and then our gifts for the advancement of his kingdom.

"As ye do it unto one of the least of these my brethren ye do it unto me'. These were Jesus' words to us. Good fellowship, kind feeling one toward another, so may we give the best of our lives and love and service to Jesus—the Christmas King".

Business Men's Annual.

The annual banquet of the Business Men's association of Beverly, Beverly Farms, Wenham, Hamilton and Manchester will be held on Jan. 16. The annual meeting of the association will be held on Jan 9, when reports will be read and officers elected.

Poultry Show at Wenham.

The 14th annual exhibition of the Essex County Poultry association opened at Wenham Town hall Wednesday and continued through today, closing tonight. In former years the show has been held at the Beverly City hall, but owing to the hall having been remodeled, it was impossible for the association to use it for its exhibition this year.

The attendance on the opening day was much larger than in Beverly last year.

There are exhibits of all kinds of birds sent in from every section of Essex county, and from the present outlook the fair will be the most successful ever held by the association. In all there are about 50 exhibitors. The judges: Charles S. Flanders of Concord, N. H., E. F. Benson of Whitman and A. J. Edwards of Winchester.

As one entered the doors at the right of the hall was noticed a fine display of pheasants, geese and ducks from the farm of Dr. John C. Phillips of North Beverly.

Among the other exhibitors are: John Caswell, Jr., of Round Plain farm, Prides Crossing; Charles H. Leach, Wenham; A. B. Dunn, Manchester; John D. King of Newburyport, H. J. Sears, Danvers; I. E. Averell, Lynnfield; Gravelly Brook farm, Topsfield; Daniel P. Foster, Beverly; Robert F. Sims, Frank Woodberry, Beverly; David Hall, Beverly; S. P. Mandell, Beverly; George Preston, West Wenham; G. P. Mandell, Fairfield farm; Lake View farm, Wenham; Mrs. M. B. Keith, Goodell farm, Wenham; J. D. Barnes, Wenham; L. N. Benway, Salem.

On the very first of Jan.
A new diary he began.
But before the first of Feb.
His well-meant zeal began to ebb.

SPLENDID PROGRESS BEING MADE TOWARD INSTITUTING A BANK IN MANCHESTER

Splendid progress is being made toward the institution of the Manchester Trust Company, under which name Manchester's first banking institution is to be known. It was thought that the application for a charter could be made this week, but inasmuch as the laws require that a charter cannot be granted until the shares are definitely assigned, a temporary halt has been made in order to comply with this regulation.

So much success has Mr. Mann met in getting subscribers to the stock of $100,000 in town that he is going ahead until he raises at least $51,000 or more here, so that the controlling power in the institution will be held by Manchester people.

The bank is to be a Manchester institution through and through, and the inference that has gained ground in some quarters that it is to be controlled by outside interests is wrong.
If Manchester people want to subscribe the entire $100,000 there is nothing to prevent them from so doing. In fact the situation is this in brief: Outside interests are ready to subscribe whatever amount is necessary to complete the required capitalization after Manchester people have subscribed what they want. At first it was thought $20,000 was nearer the amount the Manchester people would put into the scheme, but this has already been practically doubled, and Mr. Mann is now working for the $51,000 mark, as stated above, so as to give Manchester people the controlling interest.

Nothing definite can yet be said as to where or when the bank will locate. The First Meeting has not yet been held, so that nothing of a definite nature can be said. One thing is assured—Manchester will have a bank before next summer, that will have three departments,—
Commercial, Savings, and Trust.

Mr. Mann would be pleased to call on anyone desiring to subscribe to any number of shares of stock. He may be reached almost every day by telephoning the Manchester House between 12 and 1.

A Weekly Visitor from Other Side of the Continent.

We are pleased to add to our Exchange list this week the "Cheney Post", of Cheney, Wash. We have been receiving the Post for several weeks, and have been attracted by its clean cut make-up, its bright, snappy news, and its general up-to-date appearance, bespeaking the prosperity and growth of the town and locality in which it is published.
Little did we surmise it was being published by a former Manchester boy. The weekly appearance of this welcome visitor from the other side of the continent prompted us to write a letter to the editor to see if the paper was being sent by some enterprising Board of Trade with the object of advertising our new state, or perchance by someone whom we knew. A reply was promptly forthcoming stating that the Post had been started a few weeks previous by the writer of the letter—Joseph E. Griffin, best known to everyone in Manchester and along the North Shore as "Joe" Griffin, and that he wished we would wake up and get the Breeze on the Exchange list so that he could find out what is going on in his old home. The Post is one of the brightest weeklies arriving at our desk at the present time. We judge from various references which we have seen in it that there are two other papers in the town, but we venture to say that if "Joe" keeps up the gait which he has started and gives the people of Cheney the same standard of paper he has during the last month, he will come out on top.

Cheney is one of the fast growing towns of that northwestern state and we note by the motto on the "Post" that it is "The Home Town", "The School Town", "The Town You Like to Live in." Here's our best wishes for success and prosperity in your new field of labor, Brother Griffin!

"A Representative American Institution"

Independent, Enterprising and Always Interesting

A friendly contemporary commenting on The Republican's fine new home completed during the past year said: "The Republican would be great if it was printed in a wooden building on a side street. This is so because it has traditions; it is an institution, serving its far-flung constituency with ever-increasing skill and judgment."

This tersely describes the position of this old New England journal in the newspaper field today. Published Daily, Sunday and Weekly from its modern, well-appointed building in the center of growing Springfield's business district The Republican serves not only its own city, but an ever-widening circle of readers, who appreciate its sane, intelligent handling of the world's news, and impartial comment on men and affairs. It is the best newspaper for you and your family.

The Weekly Republican, of 16 pages, published Thursdays, is a rare bargain at $1 a year, prized everywhere for its excellence.

The social evening arranged for the Manchester club members last Friday evening attracted nearly two-thirds of the membership of the club to the rooms. A pianist and violinist was engaged for the evening and a good sing was enjoyed by all, with one of Bullock's appetizing cock stews, with side dishes, as an additional attraction. The annual meeting and election of officers will be held next Friday evening, Jan. 6.

Engineer Raymond C. Allen, who had charge of the installation of Manchester's additional water supply last year, is to be the speaker on Jan. 11, before the New Eng. Water Works Assoc., Boston. Manchester's water system is regarded as the model and most up-to-date plant in this part of New England, especially as regards its mechanical equipment, and Mr. Allen's address will necessarily have to do for the most part with our system here.

Someone did a most inhumane act yesterday morning in shooting "John", a handsome Pointer dog owned by C. T. Loomis of Pleasant street. Mr. Loomis let the dog out yesterday morning between six and seven o'clock as usual. About seven o'clock it was noticed in the vicinity of the Catholic church with blood streaming from his head, and crying and whining piteously. The animal seemed to be trying to find its way to its master's shop in the center of the town, but on reaching the Carter residence on School street, opposite Desmond avenue, it fell exhausted on the sidewalk, where it attracted much attention. Mr. Loomis had been notified and some time after eight o'clock Officer Sheehan shot the dog to end its misery, displaying the very poor judgement of shooting it on the sidewalk instead of leading it or dragging it off the street. The dog was very much of a pet, and was not in the least of a bothersome nature, it always being with its master. It was considered a very fine specimen. More than once during the past summer has it attracted the attention of people by carrying its master's mail from the postoffice to his shop, and on one occasion Mr. Loomis was offered $200 for it by one of the summer cottagers. Its loss as a pet will be distinctly felt by Mr. Loomis. It is somewhat mystifying to know who or for what purpose anyone would shoot it. This is not the first dog that has been shot in the northern part of the town the last year, we understand.

The Men's club has already begun on its winter season. The patronage is steadily increasing and after the holidays it will receive a big boom. The Club House is open to all adults on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings from 6.30 to 10 o'clock. Bowling, five cents a string and pool, two cents a cue. William McLean is manager.

John Chane, Jr., of Brookline, was in town over the holidays.

Delightful Christmas Concerts were given by the Sunday Schools at Magnolia and Fresh Water Cove last Sunday and Monday evenings. Both church and chapel were crowded and the little ones were quite as cunning as usual. Songs and recitations went off smoothly and reflect great credit on those who trained them as well on the participants. The Magnolia tree was prettily decorated by Miss Alice Story's Sunday School class assisted by Mrs. Fred S. Lycett, superintendent, and some of the boys. The tree was illuminated with electric lights, this part of the decorations being done by Fred S. Lycett, and Oscar P. Story. Festoons of laurel hung from the windows. Duets and chorus in which the smaller children shared added to the interest of the concert at Fresh Water Cove.

The subject of the New Year's Sermon next Sunday morning will be "Christ, The Lord". It is the concluding sermon of the series on Jesus Christ at the Village church. The Lord's Supper will be celebrated after the morning service. All who love our Lord Jesus are invited to participate.

The Men's Bible Class will meet in Henry W. Brown's kitchen next Monday evening at seven o'clock. "The Sermon on the Mount", in the light of modern conditions is to be studied. Full and frank discussion will be allowed. All men of whatever belief are invited.

The People's Forum for the winter will begin next Sunday evening at 7.30 o'clock. The expense of last year's speakers amounted to somewhat over $200 and was borne by Mrs. Colfelt. Mrs. Colfelt offers generously to back the Forum financially again this year and it is hoped that the course will be fully as interesting and varied as last year and possibly more so. The Harvard Male Quartet will be the attraction next Sunday evening.

Mrs. Henry W. Butler was the guest of friends at Methuen, on Wednesday.

New Assistant Dist. Attorney.

John J. Burke of Magnolia and Gloucester, who has been selected by District Attorney Henry C. Attwill to be assistant district attorney, when he takes his office in January, has been a practicing attorney of Gloucester for several years. He was born in Magnolia and received his early education in the schools of Gloucester. He later entered Boston University Law school. He graduated from that institution in the class of 1897. For a period of three years, in 1900, 1901 and 1902 he held the position of city solicitor of Gloucester. He is a member of the Gloucester lodge of Elks and has held the position of exalted ruler. He is also a member of the Sons of Veterans.

Mr. Burke married Miss Estelle Severance of East Gloucester, a High School classmate.

The Farms school teachers have been spending the Christmas holidays as follows: Miss Wilhelma Patterson in Everett; Miss Elizabeth Harding at her home in South Union, Maine; Miss Anna Brooks in Peabody; Mrs. John Hawley, Pittsfield, N. H.; Miss Mary Riley in Beverly; Miss Sara Piper in Rutland, Vt.; Miss Mary F. Lowd in Greenfield, Mass., and Miss Addie E. Day at the Farms.

Preston W. R. Corps will give a farewell social in honor of Mrs. Alex Carr, a valued member, tomorrow evening in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Carr and children are leaving Monday for Spokane, Washington, to join Mr. Carr, who has been there since Sept., where he is employed in landscape work.

The Farms school will open Monday morning. The vacation has been much enjoyed by the pupils.

Miss Minnie J. Kimball of Haverhill spent the week here the guest of friends.

Master Forrester Pierce spent the holiday vacation in New York City.

The Beverly Farms firemen will hold their regular monthly meeting, Monday evening. Their annual trip to Boston for a banquet and attendance at the theatre is soon due. The selection of a date for this pleasure trip will probably be made Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Hannable of Beverly, former resident of this ward, observed the 60th anniversary of their marriage Wednesday at their residence, 28 Besson street. They were married in Manchester Dec. 29, 1850 by Rev. Mr. Aachen of Gloucester. Mr. Hannable was a native of Halifax, N. S. The union was blessed with nine children. They have an even hundred grand and great grandchildren. Harry Hannable of the Farms is one of their sons. Their local friends extend them hearty congratulations and best wishes for future wedded happiness.

THE CLIFF DWELLERS OF THE PUYE.

than hunting grounds, and when they farm they go back to their pueblo grants along the streams, and leave the reservation messas for white men to make political jobs of.

I started this letter with the cliff dwellers, but I have not written a word. But I will. Of all the wonderful and interesting spots I ever visited this dead and forgotten city of the past, these honey-combed ruins of the Puye are the most wonderful, and I can hardly wait until morning shall come, that I may climb the cliffs into these hundreds of rooms, and see the ruins of a people and a past that we know nothing of—a great city that simply has passed away and left no history of its passing.

The driver says the supper is ready, and then we will roll up and wait for morning and if I sleep at all—with these great white cliffs staring down at me in the beautiful moonlight—I will probably dream of some midget of a man who, probably thousands of years ago, stood where I am, looked up at the hanging lights on the cliffs, and then squirrel-footed it up to his own little home hole.

B. F. Keith's Theatre.

The first of the New Year at B. F. Keith's theatre will open most auspiciously with a splendid program of strong comedy and novelty features. Nearly all are new to Boston. Dainty little Ethel Green, formerly of "The Rose of Algeria" and "Dick Whittington", will appear in a new act written especially for her, introducing some original songs and dances. Jean Bedini and Roy Arthur, the world famous burlesque comedians, will make their first appearance here in several years in a screamingly funny act. These men are the best travesty artists now on the stage, and the mere announcement of their engagement is sufficient to guarantee plenty of hearty laughs. Another team of fun makers will be Hoey and Lee, the Hebrew comedians, who will present their new act in which they appear as two Hebrew patrolmen who are serving their probationary period on the police force. Another feature will be the Four Song Writers, "Monarchs of Melody", who will make their first appearance in Boston next week.

"Good will to all". We pass this way but once, and all happiness must depend on the attitude we take toward others and that they take toward us. No man can live a satisfactory life outside the pale of friendship and sympathy. Nor does any deserve to who cannot feel good will. Not the least of the lessons of this bright season is to learn anew the art of being kind.

Success is a free privilege. It will never be monopolized. Enter the contest and strive to realize the full value of your latent abilities. It may be that you must learn a new stride—you will be SURE of discouragement and opposition. There will be moments when doubt will dog your steps—when your feet will falter and your soul will be sick with fear. Every man who ever did anything important passed through the same experience. That's the test. It's the crisis in a career. That's how fortune makes her choice. Those who drop to the rear belong there, but the men who cling after they've reached their normal limit of endurance, deserve and get her favor.—Herbert Kaufman.

Character Lessons to Train Youth

By JAMES TERRY WHITE.

[Copyright, 1909, by the Character Development League.]

VIII.—Industry.

INDUSTRY is not only a duty, but it is an essential aid in accomplishing other duties. It is helpful to right living and by keeping the faculties employed permits no time for wrong living and temptation.

Idleness is the great breeder of carelessness, impurity of thought and crime. Regular occupation is necessary to life, and it is one of the greatest blessings of our lives. Industry is helpful to self command, because body and mind are disciplined by it into orderliness and life is made regular by it, as a body of trained troops is more easily controlled than an undisciplined mob.

It is one of the best helps for contentment, for it affords a regular vent for the activity of life, which would otherwise tend to wear out life itself. Idleness soon becomes a burden to one's life. Laziness is the worst sort of vice, because it sacrifices the higher self to the lower self. It is the open gateway to poverty in its most hideous and degrading forms. Where industry is wanting, poverty and wretchedness are sure to come.

Industry is essential to the highest influence, and it is very necessary that the young should be provided with interests in study and philanthropic activity to give opportunity of increasing their influence. With unceasing industry read books, for "they pay the largest dividends for the outlay of time and remain a permanent possession."

"Life's master word is Work. With this magic word in one's heart all things are possible. It is the touchstone of progress and the key to success." Generally speaking, the life of all truly great men has been a life of intense and incessant labor.

To get on in life a boy must not be content with simply doing the task set for him—he must do more than his task. He should be at his work earlier than is required and stay later. That is one way to attract attention.

The writer, when simply an errand boy in a bookstore, only six weeks on his job, saw a customer impatient at not being waited upon. He stepped up to him as though he were a salesman, learned his wants, and, though not knowing the location or price of a single book, by dint of quickness of inquiry and search he found them and sold a bill amounting to $20. His employer happened to be looking on and promoted him on the spot. That was the turning point in his career. In six months he became the head of the entire book department.

A boy in the beginning of his career should do two days' work for one day's pay. This will then attract attention, which will quadruple his pay, and if continued will probably make him a partner. "There is always room at the top" is quoted to all. Yes, but we must all climb, for, as some one has wittily said, "The elevator is not running."

But industry should be directed toward a definite object and purpose. A boy riding a rocking horse may put forth more energy than one riding a wheel, but he does not get anywhere.

It is not necessary for a man to be actively bad in order to make a failure in life; simple inaction will accomplish it. Nature has everywhere written her protest against idleness; everything which ceases to struggle, which remains inactive, rapidly deteriorates. It is the struggle toward an ideal, the constant effort to get higher and further, which develops manhood and character.

Luther Burbank is called the "wizard of horticulture" and is an amazing worker. He will raise 10,000 seedlings to secure a single flower. During years of unremitting labor he cross fertilizes flowers having desired tendencies until he conjures new and marvelous creations from common flowers, exorcises the spines from the prickly cactus and the pits out of the prunes and by the magic of his industry produces strawberries as big as apples.

Practice.—Let every child resolve for this one day not to be idle.

Literature.

The heights by great men reached and kept

Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they while their companions slept
Were toiling upward in the night.

—Longfellow.

If the power to do hard work is not talent it is the best possible substitute for it. Things do not turn up in this world until somebody turns them up. A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck.—James A. Garfield.

Nothing good is achieved without the severest discipline of heart and mind.—Bayard Taylor.

Pearls unpolished shine not. Poverty cannot overtake diligence.—Japanese Proverb.

It is not enough to be industrious. So are the ants. What are you industrious about?—Thoreau.

Printing

WITH A

"Pull"

Anybody in business should make it a point to have only the best in printing. Every piece of advertising literature sent out acts as a silent salesman, and on the appearance of this salesman depends the "Pulling Power." The Breeze Print executes the kind of printing that gets business—and keeps it.

One Thing Calls For Another

New dress means new hat—new hat, new shoes, so new things received for Christmas mean added convenience for the proper care of them.

The pretty dinner set received calls for a

China Closet

And we have them from $14.50.

New dresses, under-garments and stockings mean more drawer room in which to carefully place them away. Just see the big line of Chiffoniers—the very smallest one containing 7500 sq. inches of storage capacity, that start in price at $6.00 and go up to as much as you'll pay.

That new suit of clothes or handsome overcoat certainly should hang on a Clothes Pole, which, if you don't desire to pay more, can be bought for 75c.

And then those new books, of which you received so many, must certainly immediately be housed. And one of our

Sectional Bookcases will be just lovely for these. We've these cases in every conceivable finish, from plain oak to solid mahogany, and they cost really less than the ordinary bookcase,

Commencing as low as $7.25

We've a great store full of today's necessities, priced less than they're commonly found, and they're shown to you, too, in a manner that proves that we are anxious for your trade.

A REVIVAL OF COLONIAL JEWELRY
Illustrations actual size. Stones all genuine.
These two pages carry us back to colonial times when seed pearl sets were so much used and many of our great grandmothers prized these as their bridal gifts. The solid front of pearls without any gold showing gives an elegance possible only to this type of jewelry. Our pearl ropes are of unusual value, as our facilities for purchasing pearls make it possible for us to give you fine quality pearls at a very low price. We repair and remodel seed pearl jewelry and will cheerfully furnish designs and estimates on request.

In colonial times every lady possessed a cameo brooch and many of these have descended to the present generation. These we make a specialty of resetting. We also show some finely carved cameos already mounted at unprecedented low prices.
